FELIX M'DONALD SENTENCED, GOING BACK TO PRISON

60-Year Penalty Formally Imposed on Convicted Kelley Kidnaper Already Serving 10 Years.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL IS DENIED

Case of Bart Davit Is Docketed for Tomorrow but Attorney Lacy Is Seeking Delay.

Formal sentence of 60 years in prison was pronounced on Felix McDonald, convicted kidnaper of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, by Circuit Judge Nolte at Clayton yesterday, after the Court had overruled a motion for a new trial.

Verne R. C. Lacy, chief of counsel for McDonald, filed notice of appeal. McDonald, who is serving a [illegible]-year sentence in prison at Jefferson City for robbery in the attempted kidnaping of Oscar Johnson, wealthy president of the St. Louis Symphony Society, will be returned to the penitentiary within a few days.

Arguments on the motion for a new trial had been set for yesterday morning, but Lacy told the Court he had decided to submit the motion without discussion. Judge Nolte, who presided at McDonald's trial in January on the charge of kidnaping Dr. Kelley for ransom, then announced he would overrule the motion and ordered McDonald to court.

Entrance of McDonald.

While waiting for the defendant, who has been held in the county jail since last spring, Judge Nolte heard other counsel in a civil case. McDonald, outwardly cheerful, entered the courtroom under escort of two deputies while the civil case was still in discussion, and, sitting beside Lacy, chatted with him. He was dressed in a black suit with white pin stripe, white shirt and blue tie.

After about 15 minutes, he was called before the bench. Lacy stood on one side of him, Associate Prosecuting Attorney Wolfe on the other. The Court made formal announcement that the motion for a new trial was overruled, and Lacy noted his exception.

"I have been informed by hearsay," the Court went on, "that this man is already confined." Wolfe replied that that information was correct. Judge Nolte asked McDonald if he had anything to say, and McDonald shook his head negatively. The Court then asked Wolfe if he had any recommendations.

Prosecutor's Suggestion.

"I suggest," the Prosecutor replied, "that the sentence fixed by the jury date from today and that it be consecutive after the sentence the defendant already is serving."

"In accordance with the verdict of the jury," the Court said, looking at McDonald, "I now sentence you to 60 years in the penitentiary."

Judge Nolte did not indicate specifically that he had adopted Wolfe's recommendation, but lawyers said this was implied, since there was no order that the 60-year term be concurrent with the sentence in the Johnson case.

McDonald heard the sentence without change of expression. At a nod from Lacy he returned to his chair. He waited in court for about [illegible] minutes while his affidavit for appeal was prepared. After signing he was returned to his cell.

Delay Sought in Davit Trial.

Lacy also is chief counsel for Bart Davit, who is docketed for trial before Judge Nolte tomorrow in the Kelley case. He repeated yesterday, in a conversation with Wolfe, that he had been ill and that his physician had warned him against the strain of more than two or three consecutive days of courtroom work, for the time being. He told Wolfe, however, that if a continuance could be obtained tomorrow, he would agree to a setting of the Davit trial within the next 10 days.

Wolfe did not commit himself. He had previously said he would insist that the case go to trial as scheduled.

The State had intended to begin the trial of Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench tomorrow, but she obtained a continuance to April 15, by pleading that among her counsel was State Representative Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City; that he was in attendance at the sessions of the General Assembly, and that his presence in court was necessary to a fair and impartial trial. Judge Nolte, in granting the continuance remarked that the law under which it was sought left nothing to the discretion of the Court. Keating's formal appearance as an attorney for Mrs. Muench was entered only last Tuesday.

Southern Congressmen's Stand On Negro Labor Brings Drastic Social Security Bill Revision

Most of Federal Standards Eliminated by House Committee—Protecting States' Rights, Members Say.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The Wagner-Lewis bill for social insurance—unemployment, old-age pensions, aid to mothers and children—has undergone a process of drastic pruning by the House Ways and Means Committee in the course of which most of the standards to have been prescribed under Federal supervision have been thrown out.

Behind this revision of the bill, according to the Federal experts who drew it up in co-operation with Senator Wagner of New York, is the attitude of Southern Congressmen toward Negro labor in the South. It is this same attitude that in large part explains why virtually every Senator from the deep South opposed the prevailing wage amendment to President Roosevelt's $4,880,000,000 public works bill. The exceptions were Huey Long, who is out to obstruct the President on every issue, and Senator Black of Alabama, who is a champion of labor.

In the same way the Solid South has lined up against social insurance which provides benefits that might be higher than wages paid to Negroes in the South, the experts say. To require such benefits throughout the entire country would be, in effect, to deprive the South of the ready reserve of Negro labor, Southern representatives have argued in committee, and in all probability this will be their point of view if the rate to be paid by the States to the aged and the unemployed becomes an issue in House and Senate.

States' Rights.

The Federal experts who drew up the bill have also attempted to chaperone it through committee. They failed, however, to keep in the original federally prescribed standards. As one of them put it: "The members of the committee seem to assume that the States have a God-given right to Federal funds and that the Federal Government cannot say one thing about how those funds shall be spent."

"We are protecting the rights of the States in every degree," Representative Richard M. Duncan of Missouri, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, said in explaining to the writer what had happened to the bill thus far in committee.

Three major changes have been made in the section dealing with old age pensions. In the original bill the States were required to provide a pension "compatible with decency and health" before they would be entitled to Federal funds to match, dollar for dollar, State funds. The phrase "compatible with decency and health," has been stricken from the revised measure.

"Substantial Amount."

The bill in its present form requires the states to provide "a substantial amount" for pensions to aged persons. But the amount, according to Duncan, is to be left entirely to the states. The original bill was subject to an interpretation under which the Federal authority supervising the pension system might have refused Federal funds to states which set their pensions too low. The committee on economic security recently suggested that the states would be most likely to establish pensions in the same proportion in which they now administer relief, with New York State at the top and Oklahoma at the bottom.

The committee on economic security estimated that on this basis most southern states could pay under $10 a month and still receive Federal approval and aid. But as the bill now stands a state might establish a total old age pension as low as $2 a month, a dollar to be contributed by the state and a dollar by the Federal Government.

Perhaps the most significant change is that allowing the states to vary the old age pension rate within the boundaries of a state. Thus a state might say $5 a month in rural areas and $15 a month in cities.

"We hold," Duncan said, "to the absolute right of the State to be the judge of its own conditions."

Put Under Insurance Board.

The committee has also taken out the provision of the bill requiring that the agency administering the pension system within the State be established on a merit basis. The committee has taken Federal supervision of the State systems away from the Federal Emergency Relief Administration and placed it with the social insurance board, which the original bill established to administer unemployment insurance. Antipathy to Harry L. Hopkins, head of FERA, was the reason for this, according to the committee members.

Wind Leaves Wheat Roots Bare; Experts Emphasize Need of Soil Erosion Projects.

By the Associated Press.

DODGE CITY, Kan., Feb. 23.—A new dust storm rolled across Western Kansas and into the Oklahoma Panhandle today to cause residents more discomforture and farmers deeper concern for their wheat crops.

The strange black clouds was the second in three days. It was accompanied by a static electrical display. Residents at Ulysses, Kan., reported seeing balls of fire bounce from wire fences.

Kansans looked for some sign of rain. It was their chief hope of relief.

Today's storm, like that on Thursday, filled the air with fine, blinding silt, making breathing difficult. Agricultural authorities reported wheat damage was heavy in Southwestern Kansas. The wind whipped over fields, leaving wheat roots bare.

Heavy rains, farmers said, would stop the storms. Showers would pack the surface dirt and stop the erosion. Insufficient winter rainfall was blamed for the blowing of planted and plowed fields.

Eastern Kansas began to suffer from the storm today. Crops in this part of the state were not hurt, however, as the ground has sufficient moisture to hold the soil.

The storms were used by experts to emphasize the need of soil erosion projects.

ANOTHER OF J. P. MORGAN ESTATES ON THE MARKET

"Appletrees" for Sale; Spokesman Denies Financier Plans to Live Abroad.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—An official of J. P. Morgan & Co. disclosed today J. P. Morgan is offering for sale "Appletrees," an 18-acre estate at Locust Valley, L. I., formerly the home of Junius Spencer Morgan, his son. No price has been set, but "Appletrees" is said to be valued at $15,000 an acre.

At the same time the official denied as "irresponsible rumors" reports that J. P. Morgan planned to live abroad.

Last Friday it was disclosed that 31 acres of the Morgan holdings at Glen Cove, L. I., were for sale. Morgan's representative explained the offerings were "all a part of the same plan for putting his estate in more manageable shape."

KENNAMER GETS 25 YEARS; FILES NOTICE OF APPEAL

Federal Judge's Son Reproved by Court—Is Told 'Innocent Have Suffered More Than Guilty.'

GRANTED 10 DAYS TO POST $25,000 BOND

State Asked for 99 Years, Maximum Penalty Under Verdict in Killing of Tulsa Dental Student.

By the Associated Press.

PAWNEE, Ok., Feb. 23.—Philip Kennamer, 19-year-old son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, was sentenced today to 25 years' imprisonment for the killing of John F. Gorrell Jr. at Tulsa Thanksgiving night. A motion for a new trial was overruled and the youth's attorneys announced they would appeal.

"It appears to me that up to this time the innocent have suffered more than the guilty for your acts," Judge Thurman Hurst told the youth. "By your act you have brought heartache and misery to two families. I have observed you through this entire trial and have observed that you were not much concerned, while your honored and respected father was hurt . . . bewildered.

"I do not feel that you should be accorded any special treatment because of your father. My idea is that the son of a Federal Judge or of the President should be treated just like any other person."

"Jury Good as Any."

"This Court has tried to be fair," the Judge told the youth. "You were granted a change of venue because you believed you could not have a fair trial in Tulsa County. The jury was as good as any I ever have seen in a courtroom, men of honor and integrity. They rejected your plea of insanity and your plea of self-defense. They gave you the benefit of the doubt on the question of premeditation which would have resulted in the death sentence or life imprisonment for you.

"I believe they did so only because the evidence showed you had no pistol with you when you went to meet your victim; because you went unarmed. Otherwise, the evidence would have justified a verdict of murder."

Apparently unmoved, Kennamer leisurely sat down beside a sister after sentence was pronounced. She smiled encouragingly.

Before he was taken to court, Kennamer had offered to bet a fellow prisoner $10 to $1 that he could not guess the sentence. The youth's jail mate guessed 25 years, but Kennamer hedged. "I was afraid he'd be right," he said later.

Bond for Release Fixed.

Judge Hurst fixed bond at $25,000 and granted 10 days to make bond pending appeal. Four months were allowed for preparing the appeal.

Defense attorneys announced it would be impossible to obtain the bond on such short notice. Kennamer was returned to jail for the week-end, at least.

"I may be here for a long time," he exclaimed with a wry grin. "I doubt if we can find anybody who will gamble $25,000 that I will stay in one place four months."

The jury which returned a manslaughter verdict Thursday night left the penalty to the Court. Under the law the sentence could have run from four years to life imprisonment.

The State recommended a 99-year sentence. The defense asked for a four-year sentence.

Arguing for the minimum sentence, J. A. McCollum, defense attorney, said, "There are some clamoring for the blood of this boy, but you'll find opinions both ways. This boy is 19 years old. He is on the verge of manhood. He is the victim of an unfortunate situation. He should be taken from the unwholesome influence of his old haunts."

Gorrell, 23-year-old dental student, was fatally wounded with his own pistol. Kennamer testified he sought to prevent Gorrell from carrying out a plot to kidnap Virginia Wilcox, 19-year-old Tulsa oil heiress, and that Gorrell was the aggressor in the fatal encounter.

Several Jurors in Court.

Several of the jurors who convicted Kennamer returned to hear sentence passed. Jacob Clark, the jury foreman, occupied a front seat with one of his children on his knee.

Dr. J. F. Gorrell, father of the youth Kennamer killed, chewed a cigar while he waited in a downstairs office during the proceedings.

Kennamer exchanged joking re-

LIFE FOR MURDER BY HIRE IN PLOT TO GET INSURANCE

JURY OUT 4 HOURS; NEW TRIAL SOUGHT

Witness Told of 'Subletting' $25,000 'Contract' to Kill Man So Firm Could Collect $300,000.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23. — Irving Weitzman, head of a bakery chain, was convicted by a jury late today of the $317,000 insurance plot murder last March 3 of Eli Daiches, wealthy advertising executive. The verdict carrying the penalty of life imprisonment, was returned after the jurors had deliberated four hours and a half.

Weitzman, his wife, Marie, and their two children waited in the courtroom while the jurors deliberated.

Arguments on a motion for a new trial were set for March 1, and Weitzman, who had been free on bond, was remanded to the custody of the Sheriff.

Weitzman heard the verdict without show of emotion. His wife and children slipped from the courtroom before the jury announced its decision.

Mrs. Belle Daiches, widow of the victim, said: "I am highly gratified with the manner in which the prosection handled the case." Earlier she had said she had "no feeling of personal vengeance."

Said to Have Offered $25,000.

Weitzman, 37 years old, was accused of offering $25,000 to have Daiches, his brother's wealthy partner, killed so that the Thomas Bowers Advertising Agency, headed by Weitzman's brother Louis, of New York, could collect the insurance and extricate itself from financial difficulties.

The jury, qualified to impose the death penalty, received the case at 1 p. m. after being instructed by Judge Harry B. Miller to examine the testimony of the State's principal witness. Walter Murphy, with "grave suspicion," and to weigh his story of the alleged conspiracy with "great care and consideration."

Murphy, an underworld character, testified Tuesday the defendant hired him and Jack London, fugitive gambling house guard, to kill Daiches. He said they later "sublet the murder contract" to Jerry Pilot, alcohol jobber, now dead, for $3000 and that Pilot killed Daiches last March 3 with a shotgun as a chauffeur drove Daiches along the crowded Outer Drive.

Weitzman flatly denied Murphy's testimony from the witness stand Friday, but admitted he knew Murphy and London.

State Demands Death.

Assistant State's Attorney John Boyle termed the murder the "most cold blooded crime in the history of Cook County" and demanded the death penalty.

Prosecutor Emmett Moynihan asked that Weitzman be given the same treatment "that he gave Daiches." While Mrs. Daiches listened, he asserted:

"Even a rattlesnake gives warning, but this man, with his arm around Daiches in the name of friendship, caused him to be killed without warning."

Murphy, described as a "journeyman murderer," was pictured as a "contemptible liar" by Defense Attorney James M. Burke in his final plea. He accused Murphy of killing Daiches himself because of an unpaid $40,000 gambling debt and then saddling the blame on Pilot.

Story of the Killing.

Daiches, son of a London rabbi, was shot to death when his car stopped to await a break in loop-bound traffic. A smaller sedan pulled up behind it, and from the car stepped a man who fired charges from a shotgun into the advertising man's head. The killer dashed back to join his companion and they disappeared in the traffic.

For months the murder was a mystery. Daiches' widow hurried back from a visit in Palestine to help seek her husband's murderers. She was joined in Chicago by an intimate friend and former employe of Daiches, Mrs. Lillian O'Shea, a divorcee and former president of Cincinnati's Queen City Flying Club. The two women announced that they had dedicated their futures to bringing Daiches' mur-

PRESIDENT SEES HARVARD CLUB INITIATE HIS SON

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. Feb. 23.—President Roosevelt tonight attended the initiation of his son Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., into the exclusive Fly Club at Harvard College. The President gave himself over to an evening of festivity at the reunion with old friends and classmates at Harvard. When he was a student there he also was a member of the Fly, one of the oldest of the clubs in the university.

His path from the railroad yards, where he left his special train, was flanked by hundreds of policemen. The President went at once to the club where 200 guests awaited him.

He dined with a group of past and present members of the club and later saw his son led into his presence blindfolded for the initiation. In the Fly Club there is no hazing.

The President planned to leave Boston after midnight to visit his home at Hyde Park, N. Y. A police guard equal in size to that which greeted his arrival tonight was detailed to protect his departure.

DISTILLATION OF MAPLE SYRUP BECOMES LEGAL IN VERMONT

Farmers are Relieved When Legislature Increases Value of Third Crop of State.

By the Associated Press.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Feb. 23.—Not only rum but other liquors are expected soon to filter from the Green Mountain State as a result of a bill just signed by Gov. Charles M. Smith, providing for distillation of maple syrup into liquor. In effect, the measure creates a new industry in the state.

A group of Burlington men have already announced plans for a large maple syrup distillery. The process is somewhat similar to the method used in distilling rum from cane sugar. Sherry casks or the admixture of caramel give the color.

Farmers throughout the State hailed with joy the announcement of the new use for the syrup, Vermont's third most valuable crop. In recent years production has increased, and this, coupled with other factors, has resulted in larger annual surpluses of both syrup and maple sugar.

SIAMESE MINISTER SHOT BY ASSASSIN

Luang Bipul Songgram Wounded at Football Game; Assailant Captured.

By the Associated Press.

BANGKOK, Siam, Feb. 23.—The first attempt at political assassination in Siam in 17 years was made this evening when an assailant sprang at Minister of Defense Luang Bipul Songgram as he was leaving a football game, and fired two shots from a pistol.

The Minister, who took a leading part in suppressing the revolution of 1933, was wounded but is expected to recover. His assailant was arrested. Authorities did not disclose his identity.

The Defense Minister was entering his automobile when he was attacked. No motive for the shooting was disclosed. Authorities were inclined to believe the assassin was a disgruntled partisan of the unsuccessful 1933 revolt.

The last attempted assassination in Siam was the plot on the life of King Rama VI in 1918. The wealthy little kingdom forms a buffer state between British and French possessions in Southeastern Asia. The present ruler, King Prajadhipok, is in England.

The youthful War Minister is a power in the Siamese Cabinet, which in the last three years has become more and more inclined to stress national militarism.

WOMAN MEDICAL STUDENT INFECTED AT WORK, DIES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 23.—Lucretia Wilder died Thursday from accidental germ infection suffered while she was at work in the medical division laboratory of the University of Minnesota in which she was a student.

Miss Wilder was attempting to inject germs into a rabbit for experimental purposes. The rabbit struggled and scratched the girl's lower arm as it broke free. Miss Wilder, in attempting to put the rabbit back into position, broke the glass container of the hypodermic needle, causing the deadly germs to flow over the scratches which had just been inflicted.

Miss Wilder became ill within two hours. Specialists were called from the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. and Chicago hospitals, but were unable to save her.

Miss Wilder and others of the university medical division had been attempting to isolate the germs which have caused many cases of scarlet fever, measles and kindred diseases in this neighborhood in recent weeks.

PARAGUAY RESIGNS FROM LEAGUE OVER WAR IN CHACO

Chancellor Announces Filing of Notice on Eve of Expiration of Time for Accepting Geneva's Peace Proposal.

BOLIVIA ALREADY HAD AGREED TO IT

Fighting Reported Near Villa Montes, Last Stronghold Retained by Latter Country in Disputed Area.

By the Associated Press.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Feb. 23.—Paraguay quit the League of Nations today. A note cabled to Geneva at 5 p. m., Chancellor Luis Riart announced, notified the League of the Asuncion Government's withdrawal.

That was Paraguay's answer to the League's demand that it accept its proposals to end the two-and-one-half year war in the Chaco, or incur the League's displeasure and possibly punitive measures as an aggressor nation waging an illegal war.

The three months allowed for acceptance of the League's proposals will end tomorrow. Bolivia, Paraguay's adversary in the Chaco, has already accepted them without reservations.

Decision to quit the League came after the cabinet met to consider the matter, and after Chancellor Riart conferred with President Eusebio Ayala.

In two previous notes Paraguay stated its objections to the League proposal for a neutral zone, a neutral police force and arbitration of the Chaco dispute, asserting that the plan was unworkable and did not state what territory was subject to arbitration. The League made its first effort at peace late in 1932 after a year or more of fighting. In all 17 futile efforts to bring peace to the Chaco had been made before the League's latest proposal.

Under the League Covenant, Paraguay's resignation cannot become immediately effective. The nation remains nominally subject to the League's jurisdiction for two years.

Because Paraguayan armies have been victorious in the Chaco of late, marching through the wastes of the disputed area to the Bolivian borders and menacing Bolivia's rich oil fields, this Government's refusal to accept the League's conditions for peace had been expected.

Intense public indignation was aroused by the League's action in urging its members to lift the arms embargo imposed at the League's order against Bolivia, while maintaining it against Paraguay.

Sporadic Fighting in Chaco Announced as Paraguay Quits League.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 23.—Sporadic fighting was reported in the Chaco today as Paraguay announced its decision to withdraw from the League of Nations.

Bolivia, its armies pushed back through the Chaco to their major base at Villa Montes, reported that its artillery in the hills behind Villa Montes was hammering the Paraguayan lines.

A Paraguayan prisoner, Lieut. Luis Virona Amarilla, was quoted as saying that the Paraguayan regiment "Dos de Mayo," which had been in the front line of the Villa Montes fighting since Feb. 16, had been reduced from 700 to 78 men while the Sauces regiment had lost three-fourths of its effectives.

Problem for League Like That Caused by Japan's Retirement.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Feb. 23.—Paraguay's decision to resign from the League of Nations raised a problem for Geneva like that raise by Japan's resignation. Japan quit because the League condemned its occupation of Manchuria. But the only punishment meted out was a refusal to recognize the independence of Manchoukuo.

It is thought that Bolivia may ask the League to impose other penalties on Paraguay, for example, a financial bockade, but the prevailing view is that in this matter Geneva would be guided by the attitude of Latin-American countries, and perhaps that of the United States.

ROBINSON MAKES 'PATRIOTIC' PLEA FOR WORKS BILL

Prevailing Wage Amendment Would Require Two Billion, Cause Inflation, He Says.

LEADERS RELYING ON PUBLIC OPINION

Senate Committee Action to Be Delayed in the Hope That Protests Will Break Up Opposition.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Democratic fear over the fate of the President's $4,880,000,000 relief bill tonight brought from Majority Leader Robinson a plea to Senators to place "patriotism above politics, both partisan and personal."

The Arkansas Democrat warned against the McCarran prevailing wage amendment, which sent the bill back to committee, saying it would require an additional $2,340,000,000; endanger Federal credit; and bring on inflation. He would not forecast future action on the $4,000,000,000 works program.

Democratic leaders expect a vigorous public reaction to the Senate's adoption of the amendment against presidential opposition and in the face of a certain veto. Already protests have been received by some of the 21 Democrats who voted for the proposal.

Public Reaction Awaited.

Senator Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina, often regarded as an administration spokesman, today clung to his prediction the work relief program was "dead." This, however, was understood to be a part of the administration followers' strategy to get public sentiment back of the measure without the McCarran amendment.

Senate leaders plan to delay action by the Appropriations Committee to give the public time to record protests on the issue, believing this will break the back of the opposition. Meanwhile, Senator Robinson indicated a separate bill appropriating $880,000,000 to carry on direct relief may be acted upon.

President Roosevelt studied the problem while en route to Cambridge, Mass., and discussed the issue with Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York, who has asked for a $1,000,000,000 in public works funds.

"Most Unfortunate," Says Ickes.

Secretary Ickes, PWA Administrator, said Congressional delay in passing the measure was "most unfortunate," adding he was convinced "We need a work bill to take unemployed off the dole and give them jobs."

Public works projects which would cost more than $8,500,00,000, including 60,000 specific ones, were reported to Secretary Ickes today in a national inventory to be completed March 1.

Senator Huey P. Long (Dem.), Louisiana, initiated a movement to provide $2,500,000,000 for highway construction by asking State commissions to indorse his plan. He said it would do away with 90 per cent of the relief roll and would start dollars to rolling.

Chairman Glass (Dem.) Virginia, of the Appropriations' Committee, said he had set no definite date for further consideration of the bill. He thought it would be sometime next week.

Senator LaFollette (Prog.), Wisconsin, said today he would offer an amendment to whatever bill was brought out, to provide a much larger amount than the Administration for public works.

Senator Costigan (Dem.), Colorado, expressed belief two bills eventually would come out, and a strong public opinion formed behind the works idea.

"I am expecting to see a vigorous expression of public opinion in favor of the prosecution of public works," he said.

Seven Billion Program.

Senator Robinson, in his statement, asked: "Do those who have upset this program for the President realize the full effect of their action? Do they understand that to guarantee the 'prevailing wage' means the perpetuation of the dole and the problems of unemployment rather than their solution in a sane and practical way?"

The amendment, he said, would, if finally adopted, increase the cost of the program to $7,220,000,000.

"The drain on the Treasury to provide the $4,880,000,000 would have been great enough," he asserted. "The drain is too great to authorize $7,220,000,000 when the authorization is calculated to defeat the primary purpose which prompted the formulation of the plan.

"When the President announced that he would not sign the joint resolution with the McCarran amendment, the Senate recommitted it to the committee on Appropriations.

Holds Veto is Certain.

"What will be the final fate of the measure? This is the question in which the country is interested. There can be no assurance given at this time as to what action the committee will take or as to what will be the future action of the Senate.

"It is possible, of course, to report and pass an appropriation for $880,000,000, thus providing funds required in the immediate future for relief purpose and postponing a conclusion respecting unemployment relief.

"It is useless from the standpoint of the proponents of the McCarran amendment to pass the legislation for the reason that everyone knows the President will veto it and it cannot be enacted over his veto.

"There is cumulative evidence of returning prosperity. The work relief program was devised to tide the country over the period while business is being revived and enterprises are being resuscitated.

Delusion About Money.

"It is impossible for the Federal Government long to carry out a program for a nationwide dole or a public employment system. Those who believe that the Federal Treasury is inexhaustible think money can be printed for emergency purposes without resort to that measure of inflation which in the experience of other nations has meant the ruin of everything worth preserving.

"Those in the Senate who have been denouncing extravagance will find themselves wholly unable to justify the increase of the expense of the work relief program by more than two billion dollars.

"Those who champion the 'prevailing wage' may discover their error when it is too late to prevent the augmentation of the rolls of the unemployed and possibly the diminution of the compensation of workers who are engaged in industry because of depreciated currency.

"The time has arrived when patriotism should be placed above politics both partisan and personal."

FIERMONTE TAKES SISTER TO MILLIONAIRE SECOND WIFE

Former Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Satisfies New Relatives; First Spouse Has Settlement.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 23.—Enzo Fiermonte introduced his millionaire second wife, the former Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick, to part of his family today.

He took his tall and strikingly handsome young sister Nella from the humble home where she lives with her mother in a poor quarter of Rome to the expensive hotel where the American woman has been staying and presented her.

"She was charming to me," Nella said later. "She told me to call her Madeline, and she called me Nella. Tomorrow she is going to see our mother."

Nella said Enzo had been advised not to make any further financial provision for his first wife, Tosca, and their son.

"At the time of the divorce Tosca had $1000 settled on her," she explained, "and for the past year Enzo has been providing 500 lire (about $42) monthly for Giovanni, his son. We all feel that that is enough."

SOUTH IS BEHIND SOCIAL INSURANCE BILL REVISION

visions of the bill and the same tendency to give the states absolute control over the grants they get from the Federal Government still prevails, Duncan said. The entire bill will be rewritten from this point of view, he added. The committee, according to Duncan, expects to consider the measure for at least a week more in executive session before it is reported out.

In his message urging a co-operative Federal-State social insurance program, President Roosevelt urged that Congress act with all possible speed in order to make sure that more than 40 State Legislatures now in session would be able to pass state laws complying with Federal requirements. The Legislature of at least one state, New York, is already faced with the prospect of either adjourning and reassembling to pass necessary state laws or of waiting on Congress to act. With not only the Senate but the House as well increasingly out of administration control, it would seem a long wait was inevitable.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS ELECT OUTSTATE MAN

The Young Democratic Clubs of Missouri closed their annual convention at Hotel Statler yesterday afternoon with an address by Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, keynoter at the last Democratic national convention, and the election of Roger Taylor of Licking as president for 1935.

Senator Barkley recited the history of the Democratic party from Jackson to Roosevelt, and defied the opposition to suggest better remedies for economic stress than Roosevelt has enacted. He called on "the young, the vigorous and the enthusiastic Democrats of Missouri and the nation," to "stand by the New Dealer," and to "restore prosperity on a foundation of equality and justice."

He asked the delegates who packed the banquet hall of the hotel to see "that the radical shall not undermine and the reactionary take advantage of our distress to restore themselves to power," and to help uphold "the faith of 130,000,000 people in our President."

He traced the fall of the Federalist, the Whig and the Know-Nothing parties, and predicted that if the "power of office were taken away from our opponents for a decade," they would "fade into insignificance."

He reminded persons impatient of progress in restoring prosperity that "no machine was ever invented that would go faster uphill than downhill," and asked if the Republicans would "tear down" the Banking Act, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation Act, the Stock Exchange Act and the work relief acts.

He said that the NRA, "in spite of criticism, friction and occasional injustice" had put 3,500,000 persons to work, and "eliminated the curse of child labor." He predicted the President's new $4,800,000,000 work relief bill would put 3,500,000 more of the estimated 8,000,000 unemployed to work.

Administration measures, he declared "rid the farmer and the small home owner of dread of the auctioneer," and tripled the price of wheat. The ridiculed hog policy had more than doubled the price farmers are getting for pork, he continued.

The delegates from St. Louis and St. Louis County were resentful of the support accorded Taylor by Jim Pendergast of Kansas City, nephew of Boss Tom Pendergast. They tried to draft a candidate to oppose him, including Ray Roberts of Pierce City and H. Sam Priest, Circuit Clerk here, but both declined, and when it was found they could not muster half the votes, the opposition faded away.

Taylor is an income tax agent employed by the State Auditor's office at Jefferson City. Roberts was made secretary. Miss Augusta O'Flanagan, a city employe in Kansas City, was elected vice-president, and Dr. J. R. Popejoy, a California, Mo., dentist, treasurer. Mrs. Katherine Houx of Centerview was re-elected national committeewoman, and Harold S. Hutchinson, Vienna attorney, was elected committeeman.

A dance was given by the organization last night.

Shortly after the murder Jerry Pilot, known as an underworld character, was killed, but the two killings were not connected. Then it was disclosed that Daiches' insurance policies were payable to the advertising agency.

Months of inquiry resulted in four indictments for the murder. Those named were Irving Weitzman and three hoodlums, Arthur Emblen, Murphy and London. Emblen and Murphy were granted separate trials. London is still a fugitive.

State's Witness Balks.

The State's Attorney's office later announced that Emblen and Murphy had confessed and that their testimony would be used against Weitzman. Placed on the stand as the first State witness, however, Emblen refused to testify on the ground he might incriminate himself.

Murphy, however, testified that he, Emblen and London trailed Daiches to Florida, seeking an opportunity to kill him there, and then followed him back to Chicago. They put off the killing as long as possible, he said, to keep the easy money flowing from Irving Weitzman. After about six months, he said, they "sublet the contract" to Pilot.

Murphy asserted Emblen was guilty of an earlier attack on Daiches in which the advertising man was beaten with a pistol and left for dead. Murphy said Weitzman had paid only $9000 of the $25,000 promised.

OFFICER AND SUSPECT KILLED

Second Alleged Robber Captured In Fight on Omaha Streets.

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 23.—A running fight on Omaha streets tonight resulted in the death of a robbery suspect and a policeman, the capture of another robbery suspect and the wounding of a second policeman.

R. E. Wolfe, an officer, lived an hour after being shot through the heart. The suspect killed had also been shot through the heart. Neither suspect was immediately identified.

AUSTRO-FRENCH ACCORD REACHED, PARIS ANNOUNCES

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Complete accord between France and Austria on efforts laid out in the Rome agreements to maintain Austrian independence and consolidate the peace of Europe was reached tonight by Foreign Minister Pierre Laval and Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria, who is visiting Paris.

Their conservations closed tonight with the issuance of a communique expressing Franco-Austrian friendship and the extension of "cultural relations."

The communique stated that Laval and Schuschnigg "were in agreement in recognizing the advantages all interested countries ought to draw from the conclusion, in a spirit of complete equality, of the Central European pact, the principles of which were outlined in the Franca-Italian conversations at Rome." Both expressed their pleasure "in the agreement of the French and British governments to consider this projected pact as an element of security forming with other agreements of a regional character an indivisible whole guaranteeing peace."

Schuschnigg is going to London tomorrow.

Man Confirmed, Though Attacked as Anti-Smith Democrat, to Keep Post Till 1939.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Frank R. McNinch of Charlotte, N. C., was re-elected chairman today of the Federal Power Commission to continue as chief of the agency now charged with carrying out the Roosevelt administration's utility policy.

McNinch, whose political record was attacked in the Senate by Senator Bailey (Dem.), North Carolina, when President Roosevelt submitted his reappointment to the commission for confirmation, will hold the chairmanship until July, 1939.

Bailey told the Senate McNinch was appointed by President Hoover in 1930 because he had opposed the 1928 Democratic presidential nominee, Alfred E. Smith. The Senate, however, confirmed the appointment without a record vote.

The commission is making a national power survey for the President and will report on it in July.

KIDNAPING OF EUGENE GRACE SAID TO HAVE BEEN PLOTTED

Ransom of $250,000 Reported Fixed; One of Four Held in Bank Robberies "Talks."

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—An investigation is being made of an alleged plot to kidnap Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Co. following the arrest of four men held at Bethlehem in connection with two bank holdups. The plot is said to have been foiled by the roundup of the four, who were captured in Detroit.

The conspiracy involved holding Grace for $250,000 ransom, it is alleged. One of the prisoners is reported to have given the information and also told authorities the gang plotted to abduct Mayor Robert Pfeifle, of Bethlehem.

The men held in connection with the bank holdups are Barlow Orlando, 20 years old, of Detroit; Louis Kutzura, 38, of Hellertown; Angelo Bummarto, 21, of Detroit, and Frank Repyneck, 26, of Bethlehem.

AMERICA IS NOW SOCIALISTIC STATE SAYS J. M. BECK

Government Differs in Degree, but Not in Kind, From That of Italy or Germany, He Declares.

ATTACKS NEW DEAL

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

JAMES M. BECK.

James M. Beck of Philadelphia, former Solicitor-General of the United States, Republican critic of the New Deal, said in an address at the Y. M. H. A. last night:

"The great reality is that we are today a unitary socialistic state, and differ in degree, though not in kind, from the governments of Germany and Italy.

"It is true that on rare occasions, as recently in the oil cases, the Supreme Court will remind Congress and the American people that a given law is in violation of the Constitution. But such occasional decisions are merely the bubbles that arise to the surface when the swimmer has sunk for the last time beneath the waves."

Fears for Constitution.

Changing his figure of speech to a comparison with a sinking ship, Beck continued: "Our Constitution could still be kept afloat if the captain and the crew, by which I mean the American people, were willing to defend their Constitution at all hazards, and to make any sacrifice necessary for that purpose. Of that disposition I can see no evidence.

"The American people have been lulled into a false sense of security by the belief that the Supreme Court will automatically and effectively preserve the Constitution through judicial decision. This is the great illusion of our political life. The American people would have been more vigilant in preserving the Constitution if they had not placed undue reliance on the power and disposition of the Supreme Court to do so."

The Supreme Court could not meet this popular expectation, he said, since it could render decisions only in litigated cases; and since its authority was largely moral, without power to enforce its decrees on Congress or the President.

Federal Encroachments.

"The Supreme Court," he said, "has rendered invaluable service in preserving Federal power from the encroachments of the states, but it has been less effective in preserving the states from the encroachments of the Federal Government.

"The essential character of the Constitution sas so changed, by usage, practical construction, bald usurpation, and subtleties of judicial interpretation, that the Constitution today differs in many essential respects from the Constitution of 1787. It was then a federation of states with a central government of limited and narrowly prescribed powers. It is today, as I have said, in fact, though not in form, a unitary socialistic state. Many do not realize this because they consider only the mechanical details.

'We still have a President, Congress and Supreme Court, but the presidential office, which today, in the matter of trade and industry, is that of an accepted dictator of limited tenure, and Congress and even the Supreme Court, are not in many respects the institutions which the Constitution intended to establish. As was said by Chief Justice Fuller: 'It is with governments as with religions, the form often survives the substance of the faith.'"

Beck said that significant departures from the purposes of the Constitution began nearly 50 years ago, and that the Department of Agriculture, with its distribution of seeds to farmers, became a chief factor in the change.

Gold Clause Decision.

Discussing the Supreme Court's decision in the gold cases, Beck said the makers of the Constitution were solicitous to provide that no State should impair the obligation of a contract. "It is inconceivable," he said, "that when they gave the central government the power to coin money and regulate its value—meaning thereby the relative value of metal coins—they intended to give the immeasurable and infinitely destructive power to regulate the purchasing value of the monetary units. Had the framers contemplated the possibility of this present decision, would they have accepted that provision unanimously?

"Undoubtedly the decision in the gold cases will give great encouragement to the inflationists and the repudiators, who are intent upon a further repudiation of public and private debts by juggling with the currency. This will go on until it becomes intolerable. The time may come, but I may not live to see it, when the great industrial states of the Nation, which are now being 'bled white' by the Federal Government, will forget party divisions to unite in a restoration of the Constitution."

Human Right to Property.

Beck discussed the statement of Prof. Charles A. Beard, present-day historian, that the framers of the Constitution sought primarily to protect their own property rights.

"Even if this were so," he asked, "is it now a crime to defend property rights? No political shibboleth has had a more evil influence than the now oft repeated statement that we must put human rights above property rights. The distinction is invidious and false. Property has no rights, but human being have a right to property, and it is one of the most ancient and sacred of all rights. The cave dweller would have defended with his life the flint that he fashioned from a rock for his self-defense, and the sanctity of contract and the right to property has ever since been the very foundation of civilization. Undoubtedly the Constitution was brought into being to defend all property rights, including the rights of the framers to the property that they had secured by their own toil.

"James Madison said: 'There never was an assembly of men more pure in their motives, more exclusively or anxiously devoted to the object committed to them.' I imagine that James Madison knew more about his associates of the Constitutional Convention than Dr. Charles A. Beard of Columbia University."

"Trend Toward One-Man Power."

"The faith of our people in parliamentary government is gone," the speaker said. "They are hostile to Congress, and none too friendly to the judiciary. The President appeals to their imagination. He can command all the resources of communication at will, and there has been in the last 50 years a seemingly irresistible trend toward one-man power, which has now culminated into a virtual dictatorship over all banking, trade and commerce.

"The fate of the Constitution," he concluded, "will depend upon the political capacity and the intelligent patriotism of the average man. No presumption could be more unreasonable than to impute immortality to our form of government. It is not exempt from the conditions of mortality that have governed the birth, growth and death of human institutions.

Future of Civilization.

"To me it is a portentous fact that the average man cares less today for the polling booth than he does for the stadium. Interest in the welfare of the state is at low ebb, while interest in the competition of the athletic field is the dominating passion of men. Far from being a trivial phenomenon, this is, in my judgment, a matter of life and death for our nation. The inevitable result of a mechanical civilization is to lessen hours of labor. The problem, therefore, is the use that the average man will make of his leisure. The age of the machine, when it has reached its full development, will give to mankind either the best or the worst civilization that the world has even known.

"A great crisis now confronts America. It is possible that this generation will determine for all time the fate of the Constitution. If it is to be preserved—and without it even the Union of the States may perish—the American people must be prepared to fight for it, and if need be to die in its defense. Are we prepared to abandon the faith of Washington and Franklin of Jefferson and Hamilton, and the great principles of government upon which this Republic was founded?"

TWO MURDERERS WALK AWAY FROM MISSOURI PENITENTIARY

Escape From Hall Outside Main Prison While Other Convicts Watch Movie.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 23.—Two life term convicts—one of whom had escaped twice previously and had failed in a third attempt—walked from Missouri Penitentiary late today.

The fugitives are John Shead, sentenced from Bates County, and Fred Tracey, sentenced from St. Louis. Each had been convicted of first degree murder, Shead for killing a Constable.

Prison officials said they believed the convicts had outside help. The men walked from "L" hall, outside the main prison, while other convicts were watching a movie, and crawled under a wire fence.

CHECK NEW CLEW IN PLOT TO LOOT INSURANCE FIRM

PROSECUTOR SAYS IT REPRESENTS FEE

Man Who Pleaded Guilty Also Displays Stolen Bonds — Tells of Plot to Pad Concern's Report.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Marney B. Hill, former president of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance Co. of Springfield, Ill., indorsed a check for $900, signed by Dave Barry, it was disclosed today. Hill committed suicide after the alleged plot to steal control of the insurance company came to light.

Barry, referee famous for his "long count" in the 1927 Dempsey-Tunney boxing match, and Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul attorney, are on trial in Criminal Court charged with larceny from a Chicago bank, the proceeds of the alleged theft, the State contends, were used as a "stake" to secure control of the insurance company.

The check was discovered in a vault in the State Bank Building in downtown Chicago, to which prosecutors were led by Joseph Baiata. Baiata last Tuesday pleaded guilty to the $55,000 larceny charge.

Hill was found shot to death near Springfield last Dec. 1. Because shots had been fired into the car, officers decided that Hill had tried to make it appear that a murder had been committed.

Stolen Bonds Shown.

Baiata also showed the police the hiding place of $1250 in stolen bonds, two of them $100 Government bonds which were to be turned over to Federal authorities for investigation. Baiata said he had purchased the other securities for $300. Detectives began tracing them.

It had been the intention of the conspirators, Baiata told the officers, to "pad" the portfolio of the insurance company with reproductions of the stolen bonds and then withdraw the real securities and dispose of them.

Assistant State's Attorney Thompson said tonight that the $900 check represented a fee allegedly paid to Hill for aiding conspirators in their effort to gain control of the insurance company.

After Assets Were Tied Up.

The check, said Assistant State's Attorney Healy, was given Hill after Ernest Palmer, State director of insurance, tied up all assets of the insurance firm when he became suspicious of the sale.

Healy said two of the allegedly stolen bonds were $500 issues of the Kimberly-Clark Paper Co., of Neenah, Wis. A $50 bank note and the [illegible] in Liberty bonds completed the cache in the vault.

GIRL SCOUTS GIVE HISTORICAL TABLEAUX IN THEIR PAGEANT

Show in Municipal Auditorium Opens With Processional of 2000 Members in Uniform.

Girl Scouts, in their pageant at Municipal Auditorium last night, exemplified for an audience of 2500 the attributes of modern girlhood that have come from earlier days. A minuet, danced by girls of North District, represented courtesy, while friendliness and courage were exemplified by a scene depicting thanksgiving with the pilgrims, enacted by scouts of Webster Groves and Kirkwood.

A scene around a gypsy camp fire, presented by girls of South District, represented folk dance and song; the gift of gaiety was portrayed by girls of West and County Districts in May dances; a scene showing old and new handicraft methods indicated industry; and the last tableau, showing a knight taking his vow and a Girl Scout making her promise, represented chivalry.

The pageant opened with a processional of about 2000 girls in scout uniforms, followed by a prologue showing the difference between the girl of 1850 and the Girl Scout of today. Choral music was furnished by a choir of 270 scouts, and about 700 took part in the tableaux.

VILLAGE OF AFFTON FIGHTING FOR ITS LIFE

Disincorporation Proposed; Police Paid From Fines Collected From Motorists.

The "city fathers" of the village of Affton, on Gravois road southwest of the St. Louis city limits, are having much to contend with these days, what with multiplying complaints against operation of their three-man, fee-compensated police department, an active campaign for disincorporation of the village and—last but not least—an approaching municipal election.

Chief among the complaints of those who favor doing away with the village is that against the fee system, by which court costs of $6.20 are assessed against traffic violators. Affton is the only municipality in St. Louis County which supports its officers under this system and objectors charge it is giving the village a bad name as sponsor of a "trap" for motorists.

A petition to disincorporate, with several hundred signers, has been published in county papers and its proponents announce they will file it in County Court April 12. Members of the village Board of Trustees charge that many names on the petition are invalid and themselves have circulated a petition, which they say has been signed by 300 voters, declaring in favor of retaining incorporation.

371 Arrests Since Aug. 15.

A total of 371 drivers have been arrested, mostly on Gravois road, since the police department began operating last Aug. 15. Since Jan. 1, there have been 144 arrests, with 110 convictions. A majority of arrests have been for passing school stop signs on McKenzie road, at Gravois road at Heege avenue.

Most of the violators paid court costs of $6.20 or $5.50, the reduction being ordered as a concession to several trustees who thought the fees were exorbitant. Several weeks ago, when the trustees complained, S. D. Charpentier, who is chairman of the board and also Police Judge, agreed to cut costs to $3.50 in minor cases but he said yesterday this practice had been abandoned because "the boys can't make a living at that rate."

On the $6.20 basis, the judge gets $2.70, the arresting officer $3 and the village marshal 50 cents. Fines, of which a few have been assessed, go to the village. When Charpentier agreed to accept $3.50 costs, he was to receive $1, the arresting officer $1.50, the marshal 50 cents and the village 50 cents.

Officials of the Automobile Club of Missouri said they have received many complaints and that the club is appealing school stop cases of members to Circuit Court, on the ground the signs were erected by the marshal without specific authority from the Board of Trustees.

Incorporated in 1932.

The village has been more or less in a turmoil ever since it was incorporated by the County Court in December, 1932. The next month a new County Court took office and promptly rescinded the incorporation and it was not until the following September, after an appeal to Circuit Court, that the village was recognized.

Meantime, there were those who never wanted a village, anyhow, and last April, after a hot campaign, they elected four of the five trustees on a platform of disincorporation. Sponsors of the movement now want to know why campaign promises were not carried out and point to Charpentier's lucrative term as police judge.

Another problem facing the trustees is how to run a village without any (or with very little) money. They have stuck to their promise not to assess an ad valorem property tax, so the only income available is a half-cent tax on gasoline and a $200 saloon license, which together netted about $2400 last year. They also will receive a refund of about $1700 from the County road tax.

"We thought we would raise a little money by assessing a 50-cent automobile license fee," said Trustee Morris Delugach. "But when word of it got out we were almost mobbed. Why, they won't even let us vote a 25-cent dog license. So you see why we have to maintain the police on the fee system."

Delugach believes, however, the civic-minded residents of the community favor retaining village organization. "While we can't do much now because of dissension within and without the Board," he went on, "there is much that we hope to do in the future. We need fire plugs and street lights and can have them both at very small cost. We have already improved our streets and will continue to do so."

But with the village election of trustees set for April 2 and a possible hearing on disincorporation for April 12, the trustees agree they have their hands full now.

ARKANSAS MAN JAILED ON BARRATRY CHARGE

Ex-Preacher Sentenced to 90 Days for Inciting Dissension Among Relief Workers.

By the Associated Press.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Feb. 23.—Claude C. Williams, a former Presbysterian minister went to jail today to serve a 90-day sentence on conviction of barratry. Williams was found guilty by a jury in municipal court of inciting dissension among Sebastian County relief workers.

Cases against eight others similarly charged were indefinitely continued by Municipal Judge James A. Gallaher, who told the group from the bench: "You had better watch your step," and who raised his voice angrily to denounce what he described as "these radicals, Reds and Communists."

Conviction of Williams on the barratry charge followed conviction of an associate, Horace Bryan, young Commonwealth College graduate, on a charge of anarchy. "Justice already has been served," commented Prosecutor Harrell Harper in assenting to the continuances.

A legal digest defines a barrator as "one who exictes or maintains suits and quarrels, either in courts or elsewhere in the country; a disturber of the peace, who spreads false rumors and calumnies, whereby discord and disquiet may grow among neighbors."

All of those whose barratry trials were continued except Bryan were released on their own recognizance and "on good behavior." Bryan this week started serving six months in jail on his anarchy conviction.

"I think we have the best country in the world, and the man who doesn't like it ought to go to a country that suits him," said Judge Gallaher.

The seven booked as Rev. T. A. Reed, Mrs. Sarah Goff, Telton Sanders, Ambers E. Gilbert, George Edwards, William H. Fields and Ed Miller, a Negro, were charged with spreading discontent among relief project workers, whose pay was recently cut 10 cents an hour to a scale ranging from 20 to 25 cents an hour. Agitation for a relief strike, which brought Bryan's arrest, resulted in a week's shutdown of all relief in the county.

ASSOCIATE OF JAY GOULD DIES

Washington E. Connor, 85, Credited With Saving Field Fortune.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. — Washington Everett Connor, 85 years old, prominent Wall Street operator and formerly a close associate of Jay Gould, died today after a lingering illness.

He was credited by associates with having been instrumental, through Jay Gould, in saving Cyrus W. Field, of Atlantic Cable fame, from being wiped out financially when the latter was overloaded with Manhattan elevated stock.

WARDEN OUSTED AT OHIO PRISON; RECORD ASSAILED

Gov. Davey Orders Removal of P. E. Thomas, in Office for 20 Years—17 Specific Charges.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23.—Warden Preston E. Thomas, for more than 20 years head of Ohio Penitentiary here, today was formally removed by Mrs. Margaret Allman, Ohio's woman Welfare Director, on orders from Gov. Martin L. Davey.

The removal order alleged the veteran prison head was "guilty of incompetence, inefficiency, immoral conduct, dishonesty, neglect of duty, failure of good behavior, misfeasance, malfeasance and nonfeasance." It listed 17 specific charges.

The removal of Thomas, who weathered a dozen previous investigations, was effective at noon today. He was suspended Jan. 26 for 30 days. He is 63 years old, and was the oldest Warden in the country.

Held Responsible in Fire.

The order placed full responsibility for the loss of 322 convict lives in the penitentiary fire of April 30, 1930, charging:

"You grossly neglected your duty . . . when, after being informed that some of the cell blocks were on fire, you left the penitentiary building and remained on the outside of the building during the conflagration. You failed to give instructions to guards to release the prisoners and you failed completely to take command of the situation during the emergency."

Gov. Martin L. Davey had nothing to say about naming a successor. James C. Woodard of Kent, a boyhood chum of Davey's, has been acting warden since Thomas was suspended on Jan. 26.

Removal Follows Inquiry.

Removal of the warden has been anticipated since Davey directed a complete investigation of Thomas' work at the prison.

Thomas has said he will fight the removal charges before the State Civil Service Commission. He has 10 days within which to file a reply and demand a hearing.

Alleged favoritism to certain criminals, which furnished Davey with an excuse for ordering the investigation, received special emphasis in the removal charges.

During Gov. White's administration Thomas was called on to answer charges of immoral conduct. They were reiterated in the removal document today.

Accused of Cowardice.

Accusing the Warden of cowardice the statement said Thomas had ordered Barney Bergin to lock him in a vault in event of a disturbance or threat from the prison inmates, after the penitentiary fire.

"This fear has rendered you incompetent to carry on your duties as Warden," it was stated.

The document went on to say that "for a long time you have lacked personal knowledge of conditions existing on the inside of the Ohio Penitentiary because of the infrequency of your visits within the stockade."

HELD IN ATTEMPT TO EXTORT $5000 FROM WIDOW HERE

Quincy (Ill.) Man Arrested Following Letters Demanding Money of Mrs. A. A. Mayne, 4250 Shaw

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

QUINCY, Ill., Feb. 23.—Earl Bartlett, a Quincy radio repair man, was arrested today by police and postoffice inspectors in connection with an attempt to extort $5000 from Mrs. Adolph A. Mayne, a widow, of 4250 Shaw boulevard, St. Louis.

Mrs. Mayne had received letters from a man who told her he knew of a plot to kidnap her daughter, and offered to sell the information for $5000. Bartlett was arrested when he accepted delivery of a dummy package supposed to contain the money.

The first letter was received by Mrs. Mayne soon after Feb. 10, when St. Louis newspapers published the announcement of the engagement of Mrs. Mayne's daughter, Dorothy, and Dr. Thomas C. Campbell of St. Louis.

This letter, mailed on a train bound for St. Louis, related that the writer had overheard four men planning the kidnaping, and was in danger because of that knowledge. The men planned to hold Miss Mayne for $25,000 ransom, the letter stated, but the writer would tell what he knew for $5000.

Mrs. Mayne was asked to place a blind advertisement in a morning newspaper when she was ready to pay the $5000. The advertisement: "John, come home. Children and I need you. Mary," was published last Wednesday by Mrs. Mayne, acting on the advice of postoffice inspectors.

The next day Mrs. Mayne received another letter instructing her to mail the money to "E. L. Barnett" at the Hotel Delken in Quincy, and to mark the package "electrical supplies."

The dummy package was delivered this morning to the hotel, and when Bartlett called for it he was arrested by a policeman who had been stationed in the lobby. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Ingraham on a charge of using the mails to defraud, and pleaded not guilty. The hearing was continued to March 5 to permit him to obtain counsel.

Mrs. Mayne declined last night to discuss the attempted extortion, saying she had been told by Postoffice Inspectors to make no statement. Dr. Campbell, whom her daughter is to marry, resides at 6608 Pershing avenue.

KENNAMER GETS 25 YEARS; FILES NOTICE OF APPEAL

Inside the rail were Kennamer's sisters, Opal and Juanita and his brother, Franklin Jr., and brother-in-law, Russell Hayes. In an anteroom, Judge Kennamer paced the floor, smoking a long cigar.

A. Flint Moss, of defense counsel offered a motion for new trial, listing 15 alleged errors. He objected first, he said, to the testimony of several lay witnesses that they believed Kennamer sane. Moss said it was a futile gesture to qualify experts when laymen were permitted to testify on a similar basis.

He asserted the judge had aided the jury in convicting Kennamer by permiting Dr. Karl A. Menninger, Topeka (Kan.) psychiatrist, to answer a question of where he would confine Kennamer if he were "a composite jury." Moss also recalled that Dr. D. W. Griffin of Norman, Ok., a State psychiatrist, had been allowed to say the only place where he believed Kennamer should be confined was a Federal penal institution at El Reno.

"I have searched for 24 hours and I cannot find a single reference where any such occurrence ever was permitted in an American court," he said.

"That's what an expert's opinion is for," commented Judge Hurst.

"Please keep in mind that we pleaded self defense and if a verdict was found for us this defendant would have walked out a free man," Moss said. "And yet, your honor tolerated asking a so-called expert where he would confine this boy if he were a jury. We claim that was misconduct upon the part of the judge."

Among the points to which he raised objection was a portion of the final argument of W. F. Gilmer Jr., assistant prosecutor, that fashionably-gowned Tulsans purchased "front row seats at the trial."

"That," Moss cried, "is a most contemptible, diabolic and outrageous statement or else the frothing of one so ignorant of good taste he should not be permitted in the courtroom."

Judge Hurst ruled the trial had been "eminently fair."

"I don't believe there is a reversible error in the record," he said. "If I thought there was, I would not wait for your motion. I would grant the new trial asked on my own motion."

Prosperity Cracks Brain Of Man Who Found Bonds

New York Sign Carrier, Given Good Job for Returning Securities, Goes Mad and Frightens Another to Death.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Fame put a $50 suit of clothes on a Bowery bum two weeks ago and transformed Frank Grigoris, sanddwich man, into Frank Greges, Wall street messenger. Today fame turned the suit into a straitjacket and broke the brain of a man who thought he was God. Greges was rescued from dollar-a-day poverty when he found a wallet containing $42,000 worth of securities, and took the bonds to their owners. Death used him as an agent today, when his tired brain cracked.

For two weeks, given a pension and a job by the bond-owning company, Greges struggled with a new life—a life of honest work and simple pleasures. New clothing helped make a new man of him. His front page fame, reward of honesty, brought him a brief dollar-a-minute radio engagement. The meek had truly inherited the earth.

It was too much—the sudden change. The streamlined success career of Frank Greges gathered too much speed—and this morning, in the lobby of a Bowery hotel, he proclaimed himself God.

Greges flung a scoffer down a flight of steps and gashed his head. The doubter, James Kelley, was carried to a hospital in an ambulance as Greges raved and shouted: "I am God! I can kill with a look!"

Into the hotel lobby wandered Michael Grycwacz, a 40-year-old man with a weak heart. He stopped to talk with Greges, tried to quiet him. But Gerges screamed: "You are not sick. I am God! I can kill with a look! You are dead!"

And the man to whom he spoke fell dead at his feet.

A second ambulance carried the body away as police struggled to subdue Greges who cried: "Get away, you policemen!—Do not fight with God! I can kill you with a look! Nothing is too good for me. I wear a $15 hat, $10 shoes, $50 suits. I am God, and I will kill you all."

For two hours at a nearby police station, Greges fought with his guards, shouting: "People stared at me, all the time, ever since I found that money in Wall street. That's why I kill them. I killed three today just by looking at them, but I had a bad day. I generally kill from 10 to 15 a day!"

A third ambulance carried Greges off to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital. There his chart was marked "serious," and he was placed in solitary confinement. Specialists began their study of his twisted brain.

Dr. David Impastato, resident psychiatrist at Bellevue, said: "Greges is suffering from senile dementia. It is doubtful if he can ever recover. He is the victim of arterio-sclerosis, shock and his own good fortune."

Frank Hughes, night clerk at the Bowery rooming house, where Greges rented a tiny room at 30 cents a day, despite his new-found prosperity, said that the messenger had been acting strangely for days: "Yesterday he knocked on the door of his own room and told himself to come in. He pushed people about on the streets, but when they saw he was an old man, nobody did anything to him. Thousands of people will be sorry to hear about this. The old man has been receiving letters and checks from all over the country. They still come in, and he cashed two or three small checks here every day. It's a shame—he took so much pride in himself and life since he got that messenger job."

KINDERGARTENS JOIN STRIKE

Cuban Association Supports Teachers' and Students' Walkout.

HAVANA, Feb. 23.—The National Kindergarten Association declared its support of the nationwide strike of 300,000 teachers and students. Several more private schools were reported to have joined the strikers.

More than 2000 teachers of Havana, Pinar del Rio and Matanzas provinces met today in the Havana Normal School and in nearby hospitals. Shooting occurred when efforts were made to disperse a group carrying banners considered to be seditious. Despite rumors that several had been wounded police and hospitals denied anyone had been shot. A boy was said to have been trampled on when the crowd in the street rushed for cover.

JOHN F. BYRNE ESTATE IS VALUED AT $30,583

Conflicting Claims of Heirs Under Consideration in Probate Court.

The estate of the late Constable John F. Byrne, in which conflicting claims have been presented, was valued at $30,583 in an inventory filed in Probate Court yesterday.

The estate consists of real estate valued at $16,950; notes, $11,960; cash, $1013; chattels, $660.

Byrne, picturesque figure in North Side politics and a member of the Democratic State and City committees, died of heart disease last May 6 at his home, 2250 Howard street, without a will. It was stated that his wife, May Manley Byrne, had died the previous March 14, and the paid obituary notice named as survivors a son, George A. Byrne; a daughter, Mrs. May Harrison; a brother, a sister and grandchildren.

Application to administer the estate was filed on May 16 by Mrs. Mathilda Byrne, 4120W Penrose street, who described herself in the petition as the Constable's widow. She named as heirs, besides herself, Byrne's brother, Thomas, and sister, Mrs. Fred Beumer. A reporter who telephoned the Penrose street address, was informed that Mrs. Mathilda Byrne had married the Constable two weeks before his death.

The Probate Court has taken no action on Mrs. Byrne's petition, while George A. Byrne has so far been accepted as administrator. In his application to administer the estate, George Byrne stated that he and his sister were the Constable's only heirs. Mrs. Byrne has demanded the removal of George Byrne as administrator, denying that he is Byrne's son.

BOY, 14, HELD FOR SHOOTING FATHER, A MINISTER, TO DEATH

Lad Previously Threatened With Exposure to Parent for Showing Obscene Pictures.

CARTER, Ok., Feb. 23. — Jack Campbell, 14-year-old minister's son who had been threatened with exposure to his father for displaying obscene pictures, was arrested today after the father, the Rev. Earl Campbell, was killed with a shotgun blast.

Press Rogers, City Marshal, said he reprimanded Jack earlier in the day for showing pictures to friends on the streets and warned him he planned to inform Mr. Campbell.

K. T. Henson, a deputy sheriff, said tonight the boy sobbed out the explanation: "Somebody in Oklahoma City was sending me the pictures to sell here. I guess I wasn't doing right. When Mr. Rogers said he was going to tell, I just couldn't stand to face father; it was easier to kill him than to face him. He was very nice to me. He was my buddy."

GRAND JURY INQUIRY IN HOLDUP KILLING

East St. Louis Prosecutor to Seek Murder Indictments Against Three.

An investigation of the killing of William C. Moss, 68-year-old street car motorman, by three hoodlums in an attempted holdup early Friday morning will be conducted Tuesday by the East St. Louis grand jury.

State's Attorney Zerweck announced he would seek murder indictments against the gangsters, John Krul, Edward Balling and Van Buren Dedmon, all of whom are under arrest, and at the trial he will ask for the death penalty for all three.

Statements of Prisoners.

Dedmon, who was wounded six times by Moss when the motorman resisted robbery, has admitted he fired three shots at Moss after he had been knocked down by Moss' bullets. "Somebody beside me fired at him first," Dedmon added.

Balling and Krul, both ex-convicts, admitted participation in the attempted robbery, but insisted they did not fire at Moss, who was struck by six bullets. Dedmon had a .380 caliber automatic pistol, which was found beside him when police arrived and found him wounded. Balling was carrying a .32 caliber automatic, and Krul a .38. One of the wounds in Moss' chest was made by a large caliber bullet. However, all six bullets went through Moss' body.

Zerweck pointed out that, even if Balling and Krul could prove that they did not fire, they would be equally guilty of murder under the law for having participated in the holdup in which Moss was killed.

One Admits 14 Holdups.

Krul has confessed 14 holdups in and around East St. Louis since Dec. 29, naming Dedmon and Balling as his companions. Each has admitted helping in some of the 14 robberies.

Last Feb. 11 the East St. Louis grand jury indicted Dedmon and Krul for a series of burglaries that they had confessed. Dedmon, who admitted three burglaries, was at liberty under $3000 bond. Krul, who admitted 10, had been released on $10,000 bond.

Funeral services for Moss, who lived at 4030 Lincoln avenue, East St. Louis, were conducted at the Kurrus Chapel, 2525 State street, last night. The body was taken to Clarksville, Tenn., for burial. The widow, Mrs. Lillian Moss, and six grown children survive.

School Patrons' Dinner Dance.

The St. Louis Public School Patrons' Alliance will hold its thirty-seventh annual dinner dance at Hotel Jefferson at 6:30 p. m. Thursday. Mayor Dickmann, former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, Dr. Solon Cameron of the Board of Education and J. Harry Pohlman will speak.

ADMINISTRATION PLANS APPEAL OF DECISION ON TVA

Adverse Ruling by Alabama Judge Likely to Go First to Appellate Court in New Orleans.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The Administration's power experts hastily drew plans aiming at an eventual appeal to the Supreme Court of the adverse decision against the TVA in Alabama.

The comment from supporters of the TVA ranged from expressions of concern to consternation. All said the New Deal would use every effort at its command to remove the threatened obstruction to its plans. Among others, Henry T. Hunt, general counsel of the PWA, said he would join with attorneys for the Tennessee Valley authority in appealing the ruling by Justice W. I. Grubb.

Grubb, the same Federal Judge who recently held the NRA unconstitutional, ruled that TVA had no authority to dispose of surplus power generated at the hydro-electric plants on the Tennessee River.

Senator Norris (Rep.) Nebraska, author of the TVA act, said today the effect of the opinion was to virtually nullify the entire law. The ruling by Justice Grubb made permanent the injunction which prohibited certain Alabama towns from negotiating PWA loans to build municipal electric distribution systems.

Legal Steps Possible.

James Fly, TVA counsel, said in Birmingham that he would appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans. Some administration officials, however, expected an attempt would be made to carry the issue directly to the highest court. They pointed out that Fly could ask for a ruling by the Supreme Court without waiting for the circuit court to pass on the suit.

This procedure has been followed in the railway pension act case and in a Louisville slum clearance suit, both now pending before the Supreme Court.

Unless the TVA case is docketed before April 15, court attaches said, it probably could not be decided before fall. In the ordinary course, it takes about three months for a suit to reach the Supreme Court if it proceeds through the regular circuit court channels.

Norris and two Southern Senators, McKellar of Tennessee and Black of Alabama, whose states are directly affected by the TVA program, predicted that Justice Grubb's decision would be overruled by the highest court.

Norris' Opinion.

"If the injunction stands," the Nebraska Senator said, "it means that whenever the Government improves navigation in a stream by the construction of a dam, no electric power can be generated unless such power is all used by the Government, which in practical effect would be that in most instances the Government would not build the dams because of the enormous expense involved."

Norris, himself, has pending a proposal for a "Missouri Valley Authority" and plans for authorities for many other streams have been drawn. He has helped shape the Roosevelt administration's power policy and his statement was interpreted to mean there was little likelihood that there would be any further extensive power projects undertaken until and unless the TVA suit is settled favorably.

Hunt differed with Norris on the effect of the Alabama ruling. He termed it only a "temporary annoyance." Chairman Rayburn (Dem.), Texas, of the House Interstate Commerce Committee would not comment directly on the TVA decision, but he contended, nevertheless, that it would have no effect on pending legislation to legislate public utility holding companies out of existence.

Bankhead Disappointed.

Senator Bankhead (Dem.), Alabama, agreed with Norris that the Grubb opinion, if sustained, would have a profound effect. "I do not care to comment on the validity of the decision," Bankhead said, "but it is a great disappointment to me and others who supported the legislation."

Senator Dickinson (Rep.), Iowa, who opposed the passage of the TVA act, applauded the Grubb ruling. "I am for it 100 per cent," he said. "I think the Court has hit on a very important point: That the Government can't go into the utility business except as incidental to some government enterprise.

"At Boulder Dam the Government is selling the power at the switchboard and that appears legal, but when the Government goes out to set up utilities to use power, that is beyond anything the Constitution contemplated."

"I disagree entirely with the court's decision," Senator McKellar said. "I think the act is constitutional. I think the decision will be overruled."

"I assume the Government will carry the case on to the Supreme Court," Black said, "and in my opinion the Supreme Court will sustain the Government."

Lilienthal Says TVA Operations Will Not Be Affected.

By the Associated Press.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 23.—David E. Lilienthal, power director of the TVA, said today the decision of Judge W. I. Grubb in Birmingham will not affect the TVA's operations "including construction activities on three dams and the sale of power to various communities."

"The effect of the decision upon TVA activities," he said, "is to defer the transfer to TVA of certain transmission lines in Northwest Alabama, purchased from the Alabama Power Co. Judge Grubb, in his oral ruling, expressly disclaimed holding the TVA act unconstitutional as urged by the Alabama Power Co. stockholders.

"The trial judge's ruling is virtually confined to the meaning of the words 'surplus power' as used in the act, holding that by those words Congress did not confer upon the authority the powers TVA believes Congress granted it."

City officials of Knoxville said the decision would not prevent the city from going ahead with plans to build a municipal distribution system with a $2,600,000 PWA loan and grant. The city has entered a contract to purchase power from the TVA.

Councilman W. A. Cockrum said the city already has received and spent approximately $100,000 of PWA funds on designs for the new Municipal system. Electrical contractors have been awarded a $200,000 contract for the first unit of the system.

NEGRO KILLED BY TRAILER WHEN HE TRIES TO BOARD IT

Falls After Jumping to Running Board at Entrance to Municipal Bridge.

A man thought to be Sam Johnson, Negro, of East St. Louis, was killed yesterday when he was run over by a trailer-truck after he attempted to jump on the running board of the truck as it was turning off Municipal Bridge into Seventh street.

De Witt Casterman, Negro, 2803 Chouteau avenue, driver of the truck, which was loaded with 10 tons of coal, said the man leaped on the running board and immediately fell off, the wheels of the trailer passing over him. He was pronounced dead at City Hospital No. 2 and his body was taken to the Morgue.

MRS. ROOSEVELT ATTENDS ANOTHER TOWN HALL MEETING

Meets With Neighbors to Consider Hyde Park Unemployment Problem.

By the Associated Press.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt met with her neighbors in historic Hyde Park town hall tonight and led them in a spirited discussion of the local unemployment problem. It was the second meeting of Mrs. Roosevelt and her neighbors on unemployment.

She sat in the front row, took an active part in all phases of the discussion, and was named member of a permanent committee of 23, whose task will be to get unemployment relief projects started.

"I think," she protested, "I can be a whole lot more useful if I am not on the committee. . . . I will be more useful if you rely on me for information."

Later Mrs. James Roosevelt, the President's mother, was nominated to the committee but declined. Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger, the President's son-in-law and daughter, also attended the meeting.

A number of landowners, including the Morgans, Vanderbilts, Huntingtons and Hoyts, had been invited by Mrs. Roosevelt to attend.

Two definite proposals were considered—construction of small homes to be sold on a monthly rental basis, and construction of a canning factory.

Farmers See Prisoners Lashed.

By the Associated Press.

DOVER, Del., Feb. 23.—Farmers in town for a cattle exchange today also saw two prisoners punished at the whipping post in the yard of the New Castle County Workhouse nearby. The prisoners, David Grimes and William Gould, each received 15 lashes for the theft of chickens from farmers.

ADMITS GUILT AT EXECUTION

Arkansan Goes to Electric Chair for Killing Deputy Sheriff.

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark., Feb. 23.—Robert L. Rose, the first white man to be electrocuted in the new death house here, was executed this morning for the murder Jan. 2 of Everette W. Wheeler, Independence County Deputy Sheriff.

Before he died he answered "Yes" when S. L. Todhunter, prison superintendent, asked if he was guilty.

ST. LOUIS FEDERAL BEER TAXING DISTRICT IS SIXTH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The tax district which includes St. Louis stands sixth in the amount of Federal taxes paid on beer during 1934, according to a nation-wide compilation recently completed by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Breweries in the district, which includes Kansas City and St. Joseph, paid $1,139,310 in taxes to the Federal Treasury.

New York is the first State, with a total of $35,899,502, of which $11,351,917 came from the district that includes New York City. Pennsylvania is the second State, with a total of $23,629,805, of which $11,644,476 comes from the Philadelphia district. Wisconsin ranks third with $22,842,709, most of which is derived from the Milwaukee area.

The district that includes Chicago shows a total of $11,583,146 and for the balance of Illinois $2,977,873. Michigan ranks high on the list with a $12,177,611 total.

Do as your Dentist does—

USE POWDER

DR. LYON'S TOOTH POWDER

- 100% Cleansing Properties Twice that of tooth paste
- Contains No Grit or Pumice Cannot possibly scratch the softest enamel
- Outlasts Tooth Paste 2 to 1

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used. Dr. Lyon's cleans off all stains, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay. Powder leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. People by the thousands are changing daily.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

More Funds for Consumer Goods, Not Bigger Savings Needed Now, Says Brookings Institution Report

It Declares Excess of Investment Money Helped Inflate Security Prices and Produce Financial Maladjustments

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—At the present stage of America's economic development there should be a larger flow of funds for consumer goods rather than more abundant savings, the Brookings Institution advised today in the third installment of its report on its investigation to find out whether maldistribution of income is the primary cause of the nation's economic difficulties.

The first two installments of the report dealt with America's capacity to consume and America's capacity to produce. These installments found that the proportion of the nation's income going into the higher brackets had been increasing, particularly in post-war years, resulting in a large amount of the total income going into savings channels. The third installment, which will be available in book form in the near future, is a study of the formation of capital equipment. Its conclusion is that there is a tendency in this country toward an excessive supply of available investment money, which is productive not of new capital goods but financial maladjustments.

Effect of Excess Savings.

"The rapid growth of savings as compared with consumption in the decade of the twenties," the present report says, "resulted in a supply of investment money quite out of proportion to the volume of securities being floated for the purposes of expanding plant and equipment, while at the same time the flow of funds through consumptive channels was inadequate to absorb—at the prices at which goods were offered for sale—the potential output of our existing productive capacity.

"The excess savings which entered the investment market served to inflate the prices of securities and to produce financial instability. A larger relative flow of funds through consumptive channels would have led not only to a larger utilization of our existing productive capacity, but also to a more rapid growth of plant and equipment."

Not a Warning Against Thrift.

The report does not suggest that the individual of moderate means should, as a matter of policy, save less. The problem is one of aggregate savings in proportion to aggregate consumption, it points out, adding that better balance, in the aggregate, between spending and saving would tend to minimize the dissipation of savings in speculative bidding up of security prices for want of profitable productive employment.

Of money savings since the advent of the depression, the report says: "A large part of the savings of individuals and business corporations has gone to finance Government deficits. In addition to the funds which commercial banks have invested in Government securities, about $3,500,000,000 of other savings have gone into Government issues either by means of direct purchases or through the intermediary of savings and other investment institutions."

Bidding Up Securities.

Figures on security flotations are presented to show that, whereas the volume of net new financing increased from $3,568,000,000 in 1922 to $9,155,000,000 in 1929, the amount actually used for the production of capital goods remained fairly constant around $3,000,000,000 a year. With income going into consumptive channels insufficient to call for more productive equipment, the report says, the excess investment went into the bidding up of securities in one way or another, and vanished in the subsequent deflation of security prices and the destruction of credit attending the depression.

"The phenomenon of an excessive supply of funds in the investment markets had never been anticipated," the report says, pointing out that in the country's early history the volume available for the purposes of capitalistic enterprise was persistently inadequate. "At the present stage in the economic evolution of the United States," the report continues, "the problem of balance between consumption and saving is essentially different from what it was in earlier times."

Attacks Traditional View.

The analysis takes issue with the traditional view that consumptive expenditures must be restricted in order to permit the growth of new capital. The growth of new capital and the expansion of consumption are concurrent phenomena, the report declares, and the former appears to be primarily dependent upon the latter. The simultaneous increase in the flow of funds through consumption channels and savings channels is made possible by the expansibility of the commercial banking system, the report explains.

The report also challenges the opinion that recovery is usually initiated by improvements in the capital goods industries. Surveying past depression and recovery periods, the report finds that in most cases changes in the direction of business appear to have originated in forces affecting the output of goods destined for consumption rather than with developments in the capital goods industries.

"Those who have argued that periods of business expansion and contraction always begin with changes on the side of capital goods," it is said, "have simply failed to distinguish sharply between the forces which produce a change in business conditions and the situation which develops after a change has occurred."

Negro Candidate's Chance in Texas.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS Tex., Feb. 23.—A Negro entered the overcrowded race for the State Legislature here today and generally was conceded to have an excellent chance to establish a precedent in Texas March 16. A. S. Wells, Negro lawyer, filed for a vacated seat as State Representative. Fifty-seven white men and women already are aspirants. The white vote probably will split widely and the Negro candidate might pile up sufficient ballots to lead his nearest white opponent. Negroes holding poll taxes are eligible to vote.

3475 STREET LIGHTS TURNED OFF FOR ECONOMY RESTORED

More Than Half of Extinguished Lamps Put Back in Service Since December.

More than half of the 5800 electric street lights which were extinguished by the city gradually during the last four years, to reduce the cost of illumination, have been restored to service since the middle of December.

The number turned on again was 3475. The increase in the lighting bill for the first year will be $57,279, including cost of new bulbs for these standards, but thereafter the cost will be increased by $51,000 a year. Within the next few months, 1625 more lights are to be put back into use, leaving only 700 out of service.

CORONER ORDERS DRIVER HELD IN DEATH OF COMPANION

Criminal Carelessness Verdict Against Ralph Light, Whose Car Hit Telephone Pole.

A Coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness was returned yesterday against Ralph Light, a claim agent for the Public Service Co., who drove an automobile in which Nicholas Glennon, 33, also a claim agent, was killed in a collision with a telephone pole at Manchester and Prather avenues last Tuesday afternoon.

Motorcycle Policeman Sylvester Erickson testified he chased the machine when the driver disregarded a major stop at Knox and Manchester avenues, and that his speedometer showed 65 miles an hour. Another witness testified that Light lost control of the automobile in swerving from behind a street car, which stopped to discharge passengers. The machine jumped the curb and the side was crushed against the pole.

Glennon resided at 7230 Murdoch avenue, Shewsbury, with hi wife and four children. Light, who resides at 3248 Henrietta street, is in St. John's Hospital with a skull injury, fractured jaw and a crushed arm.

ITALY SENDING 15,000 SOLDIERS AGAINST ETHIOPIA

Seven Vessels Bearing Expedition to Scene of Border Clashes With Abyssinians.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 23.—More than 10,000 Italian soldiers aboard seven ships are on their way to the theater of the Italo-Ethiopian boundary dispute.

Aboard the Vulcania, which sailed from Messina as crowds cheered, were four Generals, including Gen. Rudolfo Graziani, who is expected to take supreme command of the Italian forces in Africa.

Five thousand soldiers are aboard the Vulcania, bound for Eritrea and Italian Somaliland. The total Italian force on the way to Africa will be increased to 15,000 soldiers tomorrow, when the Conte Biancamano sails from Naples.

Both the Vulcania and the Conte Biancamano, which are large trans-Atlantic liners, have been especially refitted for the transport of troops.

The Nazario, Sauro and Leonardo da Vinci, carrying workmen and material, and the Arabia, with soldiers and materials of war, will arrive in Naples tomorrow from ports in Northern Italy.

Tonight Gen. Frederico Baistrocchi, Under-Secretary of War, arrived at Naples to inspect the permanent military embarcation dock which Crown Prince Umberto dedicated there yesterday, and the transport arrangements aboard the Conte Biancamano. Afterward Baistrocchi will go to Sicily.

A Government order against printing news of troop movements in newspapers was lifted today. Thousands of volunteers continue to flock to Fascist headquarters in the provinces to volunteer for service in Africa.

Ethiopians and Italians have clashed frequently on the border in recent months, each charging that the other was responsible.

Assurances came from Ethiopia that it has made every effort to meet Mussolini's demands for the creation of a neutral zone between Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland. his Government, the Ethiopian Minister, Nagradas Yesus, said, had acceded to Rome's demands regarding the method of establishing the zone. He said he was more optimistic over the possibility of a peaceful settlement of the dispute, although the continued sending of Italian troops to Eastern Africa as "a precautionary measure" could not be considered helpful.

JIDDA, Arabia, Feb. 23.—A vast Italian war machine was being assembled across the Red Sea from this port tonight, ready to move against Ethiopia if the Italo-Ethiopian controversy should result in war.

Barbed wire, aerial bombs and ammunition of all sorts poured into Massowah, one of Italy's strategic centers, to be transhipped to Italian Somaliland. Thirty thousand gallons of aviation gasoline were unloaded. Traveler crossing the Red Sea from Massowah, capital of Eritrea, to Jidda reported Italian and native soldiers thronging streets and hotels. Engineers were on hand to build railroads for troop transport.

In the harbor were six gunboats.

SILVER INFLATION GROUP IN HOUSE TO HOLD CAUCUS

Congressman Dies Proposes "Compelling" Treasury to Buy White Metal at $1.29 an Ounce.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Trouble for the administration in the Democratic House was indicated today in the activity of advocates of silver inflation and in the disclosure of a movement to form a secret organization of 100 Democrats to vote as a unit on a program to be outlined at a "rump" caucus. Reports of a direct connection between the movements were denied. It was apparent, however, both seek to push through legislation not originally proposed by the administration.

Representative Dies (Dem.), Texas, insisting that he had no intention of upsetting administration plans, said he would call a meeting of silver advocates next week.

"I'm going to propose," he said, "that we compel the Treasury to accept silver from any source and pay for it with silver dollars or new currency at the rate of $1.29 an ounce instead of 53 cents.

"The result would be to increase the purchasing power of the rest of the world, stimulate our trade and increase prices. I expect there'll be 100 or more members at the silver caucus, and I'm sure we'll all go along together."

Dies said he had not heard of the proposed organization referred to in cloakroom talk as the "secret 100." Other members, however—who declined to let their names be used—said that its formation was continuing.

As to the purpose of the organization, they expressed varying views but said that the group would not include any of the regular House leaders or any committee chairmen.

It was obvious that backers of the "secret 100" hoped to repeat the maneuver toward the close of the last Congress when a similar bloc pushed through the silver purchase and railroad retirement acts, neither of which was on the administration's program.

The belief was expressed by a "secret 100" member that Southern Democrats would form the nucleus of the bloc. The members from the "Solid South," he said, "don't have to hang on to Roosevelt's coat tails to be elected. All they need is to get their names on the Democratic ticket—and they can do that."

Ancient Swindles Used Over and Over by Petty Racketeers With Success

"Fur Game" Operators, Fake Oriental Rug Salesmen, "Encyclopedia" Sponsors and "Charity" Solicitors Currently Active in St. Louis.

St. Louis and other cities are besieged periodically by petty racketeers who revive ancient types of swindles and use them successfully time and time again. At present fur swindlers, "imported Oriental rug" salesmen, free "encyclopedia" sponsors and "charity" solicitors are operating here.

A scheme that is successful in one city is soon tried throughout the country, the swindlers working on a schedule over a carefully planned route.

The "fur game," although generally known, is revived annually, especially at Christmas time. Approached by a man dressed in working clothes, the victim is told that the fur is an extra placed by mistake on a delivery truck, which he, the driver for a fur company, discovered after making all his delivtries. It is explained that the driver can either return it or pick up a little extra money. The prey is led to believe that the scarf in question, "a genuine silver fox," is worth $97.50—the price tag is still on it—and can be obtained for $25. In reality, the fur is made from sheepskin or inferior rabbit, and is worth $3 or $4.

Rug peddlers go from door to door with the story that their rugs, genuine Oriental "patterns," have been smuggled into this country and must be sold quickly. Often the vendor is willing to exchange his product for an old rug and $40 or $50. These imported "Orientals" are manufactured in a nearby northern city, of jute or cotton.

Biographical Cyclopedias.

The "biographical cyclopedia" solicitors confine their attack to widows. After a man's name appears in the obituary column, his widow receives a formal request for biographical information about her late husband to be included "in a nationally known encyclopedia of prominent men—at no cost to her." Several weeks later, after a high-pressure sales talk, she is induced to sign an order for the "absolutely essential photographic reproductions that must accompany each article." The additional charge, for a set of reprints, steel engravings, special pamphlets and retouched photographs, will be from $100 to $1000, according to the swindler's judgment of what the traffic will bear.

Other forms of post-mortem rackets are common. Often a widow receives a watch or fountain pen with her husband's name engraved on it, accompanied by a bill for several times its cost. Again, bill collectors appear shortly after the funeral, saying that her husband owed a small amount, 10 or 15 dollars, on some clothing, a pocket knife or some other personal article.

In still another application of this racket, the sharper delivers a deed for a lot the husband is supposed to have purchased. Feigning surprise on learning of the husband's death, he tells the widow about a $2000 lot on which only $500 remained to be paid. If he collects the money, he relinquishes the deed to a worthless piece of land.

Widows' Stocks and Bonds.

Widows possessing stocks or bonds have been traded out of their holdings for worthless property on the verbal promise of "resale next year at a tremendous profit." Interest is aroused by a telephone request to "sell the bonds or stocks." When the salesman appears, he makes no reference to sale of the holdings, but, by high-pressure talk, induces the widow to trade them for a piece of real estate. He explains that his client must "turn the property quickly," and promises he will resell the land for her at a $1000 profit. After the trade, the man disappears and the widow is left holding real estate of little or no value. Recently a St. Louis widow exchanged bonds valued at $4500 and a small amount of cash for three small lots worth $400.

Fake charity solicitors operate by telephone. The caller represents himself as a doctor, who is devoting a few hours of his time to the benefit of the blind. He explains the desperate situation of a neighboring institution and requests that his victim give a dollar a month for "this worthy cause." A collector will call each month. A dollar a month from 5000 or more persons pays well.

Another form of the same game is the sale of tickets to charity balls or performances. After the cause is explained on the telephone, a messenger arrives with five or 10 tickets, telling the housewife that her husband ordered them. Unfortunately, needy institutions seldom receive more than a few hundred dollars from a racket procuring thousands.

Lucrative "Heir" Game.

Perhaps the most lucrative of all is the "hier game." Approach is made through a formal letter, supposedly signed by a lawyer, which states, "After tracing your family line, I find that you are one of the heirs to a valuable piece of property." The letter indicates the particular plot of ground, always a valuable downtown site, and requests the victim to send a few dollars to complete the investigation. The newly-discovered "heir" is cautioned to keep the transaction secret and to let the lawyer handle the entire matter. A few thousand "suckers," sending from $10 to $200, provide an excellent living for the schemer.

One of the oldest confidence rackets, still in operation, is the "Spanish prisoner letter," containing a plea for funds to recover certain baggage in which the prisoner "has hidden a large amount of money in banknotes."

The "secretarial cable" is an old game which still works. Shortly after an employer has departed on a trip, his secretary receives a telegram or a cablegram, signed with the employer's name, instructing the secretary to accept a package which will be delivered by a friend and to pay for it. A day later, a man delivers a small box, labeled personal, and collects a sum of money. The box contains neatly folded waste paper.

"Puff Sheet" Promoters.

Another method of getting money is the "puff sheet." Promoters publish laudatory articles about individuals and business firms and then sell copies of their magazines at a high price to the individual or firm "puffed." The procedure is to inform the prospective victim that the magazine is about to go to press with an article concerning him or his business, which they ask him to check for accuracy. If the victim responds, he receives a long distance telephone call, at his expense, and the "editor" reads a short, complimentary article. He is then induced to purchase copies for his employes and his friends at 50 cents each. The magazine has no legitimate circulation and consists solely of these articles.

Among the smaller rackets is the "magazine game." Frequently the housewife is offered a "free" copy of a magazine and politely asked to sign a blank showing she has received her "advertising copy." Unwittingly she signs a contract for three or four magazines. Others subscribe and pay for publications which are never delivered.

"Weedless" Grass Seed.

There is still a market for "weedless" grass seed, at $3 a pound, which is guaranteed not to grow higher than one or two inches, thus eliminating the weekly mowing. After it grows and is seen to be ordinary grass, the victim discovers it can be purchased anywhere for 30 cents a pound.

Likewise, "resurrection" plant bulbs that will bloom three times a year in a water glass are sold for 50 cents or a dollar. They usually produce a stem, but never a flower. Also the woman who purchases "Egyptian water rose" bulbs, from the man in a downtown doorway, soon discovers that 25 cents each is a high price for horse chestnuts.

Certain correspondence schools, guaranteeing "jobs" after completion of the course, have issued "job" tickets. These tickets are merely inspection blanks, listing the requirements of a specific task, which the graduate may use to check his work if he should obtain employment. The inducement clause, concerning jobs, is clothed in ambiguous language.

Protective bureaus, selling "protection" rather than insurance, draw up ambiguous contracts. Their agreements read "will pay an amount NOT TO EXCEED $500." This, of course, states no specific amount and by a trick clause, written in small print at the bottom of the contract, they usually pay $50.

Last year, shortly after the close of the World's Fair in Chicago, attractive girls went about St. Louis selling "hand-made Irish linen lace." They said they had been in the Irish exhibit at the fair, were touring the United States before returning to Ireland and were selling the lace to avoid taking it home. The lace had been in Chicago—it was manufactured there by machine, out of cotton.

Information concerning new or doubtful offerings or the reputation of St. Louis business firms may be obtained at the Better Business Bureau in the Arcade Building, 812 Olive street. The bureau, a national association, was established to eliminate exaggeration and untruth in advertising. A further objective is to check unfair business practices and to eradicate confidence men.

DR. KATE L. GREGG TO SPEAK BEFORE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

To Discuss Unpublished Material on Bellefontaine, First Fort West of Mississippi.

"Bellefontaine, the First Fort West of the Mississippi," will be the subject of an address by Dr. Kate L. Gregg of Lindenwood College at a meeting of the Missouri Historical Society at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday evening at Jefferson Memorial.

She will discuss hitherto unpublished material concerning the fort which she discovered recently in letters of Col. Jacob Kingsbury, one of the builders. Slides will be shown, giving views of the old fort and vicinity and also portraits of some of the leaders connected with it.

POLICEWOMEN'S BUREAU HEAD

Detective Sergeant Bernard F. Wille Appointed.

Detective Sergeant Bernard F. Wille was appointed head of the Policewomen's Bureau yesterday to replace the late Detective Sergeant Verheyen.

He was attached to the liquor squad during prohibition and since repeal had been assigned to the Excise Commissioner's office. He will be replaced there by Detective Sergeant Charles McKenna.

COURT ORDERS RESALE OF BRIAR COURT APTS.

Judge Sustains Objections of Bondholders to Foreclosure Transfer.

A motion filed by a group of bondholders, objecting to the sale of the Briar Court Apartments, 5328-32 Delmar boulevard, was sustained yesterday by Circuit Judge O'Malley.

The property, a three-story structure containing 54 suites, was sold at foreclosure last December to Samuel M. Koplar, a paint and varnish manufacturer, for $60,000. The buyers agreed, however, to assume $10,000 in unpaid taxes. The sale was ordered by the Court in a foreclosure proceeding based on defaulted bonds, a total of $145,000 of which were outstanding.

The objectors, represented by Christy M. Farrar, contended the sale price was inadequate. They own $34,000 of bonds. According to their counsel, the property was assessed at $198,000.

Testimony introduced yesterday was to the effect that a higher sale price could be obtained. William J. Baggerman of University City said he was prepared to pay $85,000, which would yield about 54 cents on the dollar to the bondholders. It was stated that Koplar owned $100,000 of the bonds, some of which he purchased at a discount.

Jerome F. Duggan and Carl Dubinsky, representing Koplar, contended the original sale should be approved. They questioned the good faith of the objectors in the matter, but Judge O'Malley said it was the duty of the Court to obtain as much as possible for the owners. The Court informed Baggerman he would be held to his agreement to bid in case the property were offered for sale again. Baggerman said he was in the market for it and deposited a check for $7500 as a guarantee.

The date of resale will be fixed by the special commissioner, Robert A. Burns.

TO BRING OUT NOMINEES FOR BOARD OF EDUCATION

Citizens' Group Announces Advisory Committee in Movement to Obtain Qualified Candidates.

Announcement was made by the Citizens' School Board Committee yesterday of the personnel of its advisory committee in a movement to bring out and to support qualified candidates for the Board of Education. The committee said it would indorse candidates "found to be beyond the reach of partisan politics, outside influences or selfish motives."

Organization of the Citizens' Committee has been carried out through parent-teacher groups, civic organizations, women's clubs and other associations. Members of the advisory committee who have accepted appointment so far are: William Stephan and Mrs. Paul Blackwelder, co-chairmen; W. Palmer Clarkson, Samuel B. McPheeters, Jesse McDonald, Mrs. John H. Hoerr, John C. Tobin, Isaac N. Brown, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Jacob M. Lashly, Mrs. Jacob M. Lashly, Dr. Isaac Lippincott, Rhodes E. Cave, Mrs. Fred E. SAYS FIELD FORCES FOR U. S. INCOME TAX ARE EFFECTIVE

Commissioner Helvering Estimates $225,000,000 in Taxable Income Will Be Unearthed.

The work of the field forces of the Income Tax Department has resulted in a substantial increase in taxes recommended for assessment, Internal Revenue Commissioner Helvering stated in a communication received yesterday by Internal Revenue Collector Sheehan.

Helvering said the value of stricter and impartial enforcement since 1933 was reflected in the fact that field agents recommended for assessment $206,060,000 in incomes in the fiscal year 1933-34, which otherwise would not have been taxed. On the basis of agents' reports for the first part of the 1934-35 fiscal period, Helvering estimated that more than $225,000,000 in taxable income will be unearthed. A result of the careful check of incomes, the Internal Revenue Commissioner concludes, will be to make taxpayers more accurate in making future returns in order to avoid penalties. A careful check of Federal tax returns in Missouri is made by 68 agents, the majority of whom are stationed in St. Louis and Kansas City.

Many St. Louisans made their income tax returns at the Federal Building yesterday. Attaches of Sheehan's office estimated that Saturday crowds this year have been larger than formerly, apparently due to the five-day week, with Saturday holiday, in many industries.

Club to Give Ball.

The Chesterton Club of the Church of the Resurrection, 3880 Meramec street, will hold its second annual Mardi Gras ball Saturday at the Knights of Columbus Building, 3917 Lindell boulevard.

NEGRO'S PART IN CITY LIFE SHOWN IN SURVEY

Race Relations Department of Community Council Issues Social Statistics.

A pamphlet of social statistics on the St. Louis Negro population is being circulated by the race relations department of the Community Council, for the benefit of speakers on race relations. Free copies may be obtained from Miss Bertha B. Howell, secretary of the department, at the council office, 613 Locust street.

Negro population here is 98,779, or 12 per cent of the total population, according to the 1934 school census, the pamphlet relates. The average size of the Negro family is 2.51 persons, compared with 3.08 for the whole population.

The Negro death rate was 21.5 deaths per 1000 of Negro population in 1928-32, compared with 11.9 per 1000 for whites. Cincinnati is the only large city for which data are available with a higher Negro death rate. Tuberculosis and other diseases of the respiratory system and syphilis cause a much greater proportion of deaths among Negroes than among whites.

Births and Afflictions.

There were 124.1 still births to 1000 live births among Negroes in 1928-32, compared with a ratio of 58.3 to 1000 among whites. Fifteen per cent of the crippled St. Louisans are Negroes, as are 20.5 per cent of the blind and 6 per cent of the deaf and dumb. Five per cent of the Negroes are illiterate, compared with 1.8 per cent of the whites.

Homes are owned or being purchased by 9.3 per cent of the Negroes, but 29.6 per cent of the Negro families take in lodgers, compared with 11.7 per cent of the white families.

Negroes own and operate 636 business and professional enterprises, with about $1,000,000 capital invested. The Negroes have 36 lawyers, 105 physicians, 41 dentists, 144 social workers, 210 ministers, 110 graduate nurses, 487 teachers and 108 substitute teachers.

The great mass of employed Negroes are in unskilled or semiskilled work, much of which is irregular and poorly paid. Of 279,500 male workers and 103,583 female in the city, 33,110 are Negro males and 17,436 Negro females. The largest lines of Negro employment are: Manufacturing and mechanical, 12,543; domestic and personal service, 8698; transportation and communication, 6286, and trade, 3178, among males, and, among females, 13,840 in domestic and personal service and 2295 in manufacturing and mechanical lines.

In the construction and hand trades the city has 35,671 workers, including 3105 Negroes, of whom 2211 are laborers, 244 carpenters and 116 painters.

31,853 Receive Relief.

There are 17,893 Negroes employed full time, 18,216 part time and 16,708 unemployed. Out of 85,545 persons, or 10 per cent of the population, receiving relief, 31,853 are Negroes, the Negro dependency rate being about four times as high as among whites, although the unemployment rate in the two groups is nearly the same. This is explained by the larger amount of part-time work among Negroes, the lower average income of Negro families and the fact that in many cases Negroes were thrown out of work before whites.

In the public grade schools there are 50.3 Negro pupils per teacher, compared with 34.7 whites per teacher.

Recreational facilities for Negroes include: Least desirable seats at one "legitimate" theater and the Municipal Theater, six movie theaters, five of which are called inferior in the pamphlet; Municipal Auditorium, where Negroes are segregated at entertainments conducted by lessees; use of an excursion steamer on Monday nights in summer ;three "Y." centers, two institutional churches, a children's camp, two city playgrounds, of which only one is open in winter; four school playgrounds in summer; a public swimming pool, and certain officially permitted use of park sports facilities, which the pamphlet says actually is discouraged.

CONTRACT FOR CIVIL COURTS' STEPS TO BE LET BY APRIL

Their Construction and Certain Embellishment of Grounds Expected to Cost $125,000.

A contract for erecting granite steps at the two entrances of the Civil Courts Building will be awarded by April, President Brown of the Board of Public Service announced yesterday. Access to the lofty structure, which cost $4,500,000 and was opened in June, 1930, has been by makeshift wooden steps.

The city lacked funds heretofore for proper approaches to the building. A bond issue voted last year included an item for completing various details of the Courthouse, and the first bonds of this item, amounting to $125,000, were sold last month. Brown estimated cost of the steps and certain embellishment of the grounds would be $125,000.

Klipstein & Rathmann, architects, members of the Plaza Commission, were instructed to design the steps, which will be broad and massive.

Completion of certain interior features of the Courthouse will not be undertaken before next autumn.

Talk by Prof. Walter L. Upson.

Crooks Sings This Evening In "Martha"

Josephine Antoine Also in Leading Role in KSD's Opera in English—Lucille Manners to Replace Jessica Dragonette for a Month.

TWO operatic performances will be broadcast by KSD this week—one in English of Von Flotow's "Martha" at 7 o'clock tonight, and one in Italian of Bellini's "La Sonnambula," from the Metropolitan Opera at 12:55 noon next Saturday.

Josephine Antoine, who scored a success as "Gilda" in "Rigoletto" when the Sunday night opera in English series opened, will sing the leading role in "Martha." Richard Crooks will sing the part of "Lionel." Joan Peebles will be "Nancy" and Luis D'Angelo of the Metropolitan, "Plunkett." Before joining the Opera Guild cast, Miss Antoine sang in performances by the Chautauqua Opera Company and the Juillard Foundation.

Lily Pons will sing the title role in "La Sonnambula,' with Tito Schipa and Ezio Pinza in the cast. Geraldine Farrar will comment as usual between the acts. "La Sonnambula" ("The Sleep Walker") is a simple, human story of love in a Swiss village.

KSD Programs,

LUCILLE MANNERS, a young soprano, who has attracted considerable attention on the NBC networks the past year, will take Jessica Dragonette's place in KSD's Friday night concerts, beginning with the program at 7 o'clock the evening of March 1. Miss Dragonette is on her way to Florida for a vacation, but will be back on KSD's program the night of Friday, March [illegible]

Helen Oelheim, contralto, and the Serenaders male trio are billed for Mary Small's program today on KSD.

The story of Joseph will be concluded in today's Immortal Drama broadcast on KSD at 1 p. m. The play will take up the narrative at the point when Joseph is in Pharaoh's prison and interprets the dreams of his fellow captives. Music by Ravel and Schumann will be played by the orchestra. The "Faith" motif from Wagner's "Parsifal" is used as the theme melody for these broadcasts.

Mrs. Frederick Edward Case will take charge of KSD's Modern Kitchen programs tomorrow morning. These half hour broadcasts begin at 11:15 a. m. every day except Sunday.

A sketch of New Orleans in the days of Lafitte, the pirate, will be a feature of Sigmund Romberg's program on KSD at 7 o'clock Saturday night.

ADOLPH MENJOU is billed for Ben Bernie's program on KSD Tuesday night. . . . Mary Pickford's stock company will perform "Seventh Heaven" Wednesday night on KSD. . . . Friday night's First Nighter play on KSD will be "A Bride Goes Begging."

Ray Noble, whose KSD series at 9:30 Wednesday nights, began last week, has never played in a hotel, theater or night club in all his career in England, and has broadcast less than half a dozen times. His popularity is due to his phonograph records. . . .

The Clem and Martha sketches are now broadcast by KSD at 2:30 Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

KSD's Press Radio News bulletins have been shifted to 6 o'clock every afternoon except Sunday.

Caruso Memorial Broadcast Tomorrow.

ROSA PONSELLE, Pasquale Amato, Charles Hackett, Paul Althouse and other noted singers will pay tribute to the memory of Enrico Caruso in a broadcast from the Metropolitan Opera House at 5:30 tomorrow on the WEAF chain. Geraldine Farrar also will take part. The occasion will be the 62d anniversary of Caruso's birth. His former comrades will assemble in the opera house to place a wreath on the bust of the great tenor in the main lobby. (Probably on KSD).

* * *

"Cyrano de Bergerac" will be performed in the American School of the Air period on KMOX at 1:30 Tuesday.

Where to Locate Net Programs Not On Local Stations

ALL CBS chain programs are carried by WABC (860 kc), and some by WBBM (770), WHAS, (820), WCCO (810), WOWO (1160), KRLD (1040), KMBC (950).

WJZ (760) broadcasts all WJZ net programs, many of which may be found on KDKA (980), WENR (870), WJR (750), WLW (700), WSM (650), and WSB (740).

WEAF network programs are always broadcast by WEAF (660), and many of them by WMAQ (670), WHO (1000), WBAP-WOAI (800), WDAF (610) and WOW (590) and some by WLW (700), WSM (650) and WSB (740).

WLW, WSM and WSB at times shift back and forth between the WEAF and WJZ chains.

Public Discussions, Informative Talks.

H. L. MENCKEN, editor and writer, will discuss his impressions of the New Deal under the title, "Two Years of the Brain Trust," at 5:35 Tuesday on the WEAF chain. (Possibly on KSD).

Prof. Albert Einstein, world famous scientist, will speak at a meeting held in his honor Wednesday afternoon by the Women's Division of the Jewish Congress. His address will be carried by the CBS chain at 2:45. (On KMOX).

Frank N. Belgrano, national commander of the American Legion, will discuss the soldiers' bonus legislation at 11:45 Wednesday night on the CBS net.

Norman Thomas, the Socialist leader, and Henry Grady, chief of the Trade Agreements Section of the United States State Department, will discuss "International Economic Adjustments" at 9:30 Thursday night on the WJZ net.

Prof. Charles A. Beard, the historian, will discuss "The Quest for National Security," at 10 a. m. today on the CBS chain.

Senator Huey P. Long's address on his share-the-wealth plan will be carried by the WJZ chain at 10:30 Thursday night, instead of Wednesday as originally scheduled.

A review of the land development program on the Tennessee Valley is scheduled during KWK's Farm and Home Hour at 11:30 Friday morning.

How the gasoline tax acts as "A Tax to Throttle Progress" will be discussed at 6 o'clock tomorrow on the WEAF net by Col. Willard Chavalier, publisher.

Today's Round Table topic at 11:30 a. m. on WMAQ (670), will be "The Gold Clause Decision."

Senator Hugo L. Back of Alabama will speak on "The Thirty-hour Week" at 6 o'clock Wednesday on the WEAF chain.

Play by Euripides at 9:45 Tonight.

EURIPIDES' "Alcestis" will be performed by a cast of actors well known in radio and the theater in a special American School of the Air broadcast at 9:45 tonight. The program will come from a meeting of the National Education Association Department of Superintendence at Atlantic City.

One Man's Family at 9:30 Tonight.

"MIDNIGHT Prowlers at the Ranch" is the title of the episode in the One Man's Family series to be broadcast at 9:30 tonight on WEAF chain stations. Listeners might try for this on WMAQ (670), WHO (1000), WDAF (610), WBAP (800), and WEAF (660). KSD is unable to broadcast One Man's Family for a few weeks, but will carry it again at 7 o'clock Wednesday nights, beginning April, when it will replace the Mary Pickford dramatic series.

Plans are being made by the NBC networks to co-operate in the stratosphere flight which the National Geographic Society and the Army Air Corps will attempt early in June from Rapid City, S. D. Special transmitting equipment will be installed in the balloon gondola, so that bulletins from the flight observers may be broadcast.

Fans may eavesdrop on ship-to-shore and other short wave conversations and commercial messages, but unauthorized publication of any information thus received is punishable by a heavy fine.

HJ2ABC at Cucuta, Colombia, on 5.87 meg., has been providing good entertainment lately.

ORK, at Ruysselede, Belgium, announces a change in schedule. It will be heard from 12:30 to 2 p. m. instead of 1:45 to 3:15 p. m.

Tubes are much more important in short-wave reception than in regular broadcast reception. Tubes that seem to provide satisfactory results on the broadcast band can make plenty of trouble on the short waves. Poor or weak tubes cause noise, fluctuating volume and microphonic disturbances. Only one bad tube may be to blame. Tube testing is the remedy.

WLW's Night-time Power Reduced.

WLW, Cincinnati, has lost the first round in its fight to continue using 500,000 watts power at night. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington has dissolved its injunction restraining the Federal Communications Commission from reducing WLW's night time power to 50,000 watts because of complaints by the Canadian Government of serious interference with CFRB, Toronto.

The Commission ruled that WLW must reduce power to the 50,000 watts regularly authorized or build a special aerial to reduce transmission toward Toronto if it desired to use the higher power that was granted only on an experimental permit. WLW got the injunction on the ground that its $500,000 investment in the 500,000-watt transmitter would be virtually destroyed and that millions of listeners would be unable to tune in the station's programs. Its engineers said that it would be practically impossible to build the aerial suggested. However, they may make the attempt. Meanwhile WLW is using 500,000 watts power in the daytime.

High Fidelity Station On 1530 Kilocycles.

OWNERS of radio sets which tune beyond 1500 kilocycles will find one of the new high fidelity stations assigned to the special quality broadcasting band on 1530 kc. It is W9XBY, Kansas City, which broadcasts music and other programs from 5 a. m. daily until an hour after midnight. W9XBY's transmitter is designed to cover the tone range from 40 to 10,000 cycles, which means that it puts on the air virtually all the deep tones and the highest harmonics and overtones. Tuning to it should give a good test of the quality of a radio set.

SHORT-LIVED PRICE RISE RESPONSE TO GOLD RULING

Industrial Shares and Better Grade Bonds Retain Part of Gains Later in Week but Utilities Are Down to New Lows for the Depression.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The gold decision lifted an oppressive weight of uncertainty from Wall street this week and turned attention once more to the immediate problems of economic recovery.

Ending of weeks of suspense over the decision was celebrated in share and staples markets by a short-lived bullish demonstration. Industrial shares and better-grade bonds retained part of their gains, but consideration of the problems of the rails and utilities later brought renewed selling in those divisions, which depressed many electric power issues to new lows for the depression.

Many business and financial circles were hopeful that release from the spell cast by the monetary uncertainty surrounding the Supreme Court's word on the gold cases would prove a decided stimulus to industry and trade. Signs of a decisive pickup have not yet appeared, however, although some wholesale markets, notably textiles, noted some release of pent-up buying.

Steel production, as estimated by American Iron and Steel Institute, dipped to 49.1 per cent of capacity this week, compared with the peak of 52.8 per cent reached at the beginning of the month, but this was attributed largely to code regulations deferring second-quarter buying.

News of the Week.

Railroad quarters were encouraged by the remarks of Jesse Jones, chairman of the RFC, before the Traffic Club Thursday evening, when he urged uniform regulation of all transportation, to give the railroads fair competition. He issued an emphatic warning, however, that roads ith excessive capital burdens would have to scale them down. Railroad earnings and freight traffic are running under a year ago. Freight loadings as reported for the latest week were off 1.8 per cent from the preceding week, due largely to slackened movement of coal, and 3 per cent from the like week of 1934.

Dividend news of the week was encouraging. American Telephone paid another $2.25 quarterly, maintaining its $9 pre-depression annual rate, and 20 corporations ordered increased, resumed, extra or initial payments, compared with only 2 the previous week.

Bank reserves continued to mount. Very little new financing, however, emerged from the discussion stage.

Foreign gold currencies rose to substantial premiums when the gold decision was known, and it was apparent that it did not indicate any possibility of a return to the old dollar, but it was only a temporary upsurge. By the end of the week the continental gold moneys were again at discounts.

Reactionary Week-End Sentiment.

Reactionary sentiment prevailed in Wall Street at week-end.

Rails and a number of leading industrials and specialties met sizeable offerings, and some railroad liens were a decidedly soft spot in the loans market. Government and high-grade corporate issues countered the trend, however, to show gains of sizeable fractions, and the recently kicked-around utility equities were able to hold their own or gain a little ground while the usual leaders were being sold.

Wheat was about steady at declines of ⅝ to advances of ⅜ of a cent a bushel, but corn was 1 to 1¾ cents lower. Cotton got down 45 to 60 cents a bale. The pound sterling gave up more than a cent against the dollar in the exchange market but gold monies improved mildly.

Corporate news was none too encouraging. Sentiment appeared to have been adversely affected by the report of National Biscuit of 1934 net equal to $1.56 a share compared with $2.11 in the previous year, and of Dominion stores revealing a drop in profits to 6 cents a share against $1.20 in 1933.

Those who have had a constructive view toward some of the rails were discouraged, one Wall Street circle reported, by recent remarks of Chairman Jesse Jones of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. His remarks could imply it was argued a much less lenient attitude on the part of the Government agency toward loans to financially embarrassed carriers, were these road appeared to be in need of financial reorganization.

Among Lower Shares.

Some brokerage circles particularly noted the fact that both National Biscuit and Dominion Stores revealed sharp declines in net despite the fact that gross business secured during the year held fairly steady.

Many leaders were off major fractions to 1½ points or so. Santa Fe was a weak feature at 41⅛, off 2¼. Others 1 to around 2 points lower each included U. S. Steel common at 33½ and the preferred at 83¼, Woolworth at 54½, Allied Chemical at 135½, International Harvester at 36⅜, Union Pacific at 98, Southern Pacific at 14½, Sears Roebuck at 33, Chrysler at 37⅞, Bethlehem at 28¼ and Westinghouse at 38¼.

Turnover was fairly brisk for a two-hour session at 536,190 shares. The Associated Press average for 60 stocks receded .7 of a point at 38.1. Both the rail and industrial stocks used in the compilation were off nearly a point on the average, while the utilities were about even.

EASIER STOCK MARKET IS BEARISH COTTON FACTOR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Cotton was lower today under increased March liquidation and scattered selling prompted by the easier tone of the stock market. The market closed barely steady at net declines of 9 to 12 points.

The evening-up of March commitments in preparation for notices on Tuesday was the chief trading feature. This was largely in form of exchanges. At the close, March was 18 points under December, compared with 16 points at the close of Thursday. There was some selling of March by Bombay, supposedly to undo straddles.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 70,000 bales, against 129,000 last year.

New Orleans Spot Cotton.

U. S. BONDS ARE FIRM, SOME RAILS LOWER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Firmness in the U. S. Government list and other prime loans was counteracted by weakness in low priced rails on the bond market today.

Federal loans were still responsive to the recent announcement from Washington regarding the new financing plans and gains ranging to 14-32nds of a point were shown by leading Treasury issues.

On the other hand, low-priced rails seemed to be as sensitive to the speech of Chairman Jones of the RFC, interpreted in the financial section as indicating a tightening up of loans to the carriers, and losses of from 1 to more than 6 points were shown by some transportation shares.

Treasury 4s of 1944-54 at 111.19, the 3¾s of 1946-56 at 109.28 and the Home Owners' Loan 3s of '52 at 102.7 were typical of the higher prices paid for Federal obligations. This group accounted for approximately half of the total transactions of $8,480,000, par value.

American Smelting 5s at 105, American Telephone 5s of '65 at 112¼, Armour 4½s at 103, Santa Fe 4s of '95 at 111⅜ and Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s of '92 at 119⅛ reflected the improved tone of first grade loans.

Southern Railroad 4s of 1956 were off more than 6 points at 46, while sharp drops took place in New Haven 6s of 1940 at 45, New York Central 4½s of 2013 at 53½, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960 at 49 and Missouri Pacific 5s of 1977 at 26½.

The Associated Press averages for leading shares were unchanged in the industrial and foreign categories, while a small decline in the rails was balanced by a minor advance in the utility composite.

LOWER PRICE TREND ON CURB EXCHANGE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The lower price trend continued on the curb exchange today and fractional losses predominated at the close. Utilities, however, displayed some resistance.

Electric Bond & Share held unchanged, while American Gas & Electric advanced slightly. Hiram Walker lost more than a point. Small declines were registered by American Cyanamid "B," Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Gulf Oil, Pan-American Airways, Swift & Co., Montgomery Ward "A" and Pioneer Gold.

Transfers approximated 103,000 shares, compared with 84,000 a week ago.

LEAD, ZINC AND COPPER

Lead and zinc prices were nominally unchanged in St. Louis.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Tin easy; spot and nearby 49.20; future 49.10. Other metals nominally unchanged.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Lead production in the United States during January amounted to 30,674 short tons, compared with 37,217 in December and 34,809 in November, the American Bureau of Metal Statistisc reports. Lead stocks at the end of January totaled 231,993 tons, against 235,457 at the end of December and 232,934 at the end of November. Shipments in January were 34,164 tons, against 34,608 in December and 31,762 in November.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Lead futures closed easier, 2 points lower at 3.35 for March. Sales were 60,000 pounds. Zinc futures closed quiet and unchanged at 3.62 bid. Sales were 60,000 pounds at 3.65 for March.

HUTTIG SASH & DOOR REPORT

The Huttig Sash & Door Co. reports a net loss of $876 for 1934, after all charges. In 1933 the company earned a profit of $29,592.

Current assets are listed at $846,950 and current liabilities at $63,091, a ratio of 13.4 to 1. Assets include: Cash, $75,986; receivables, $281,932, and inventories, $488,932. Current liabilities are trade accounts payable.

In his letter to stockholders, Roy R. Siegel, president, comments that the company has no bank indebtedness, and that purchase money mortgages totaling $27,500 which remained on the company's properties in 1934 were paid in full. Wage increases under the NRA code for the industry, code fees and other incidental expenses added materially to the cost of doing business, the letter states.

The letter notes a substantial increase in residential building permits during January in the territory in which the company operates.

RULING AWAITED ON ELECTION OF 14 ALDERMEN

Decision Expected Soon on Whether They Are to Be Chosen by Wards, or as Heretofore, at Large.

With tomorrow the last day for filing of candidates for the Board of Aldermen, subject to the primary of March 8 and election of April 2, politicians have been looking forward to a decision by the Supreme Court of Missouri as to whether Aldermen would be elected by wards or, as heretofore, at large. Aldermen from the 14 even-numbered wards are to be chosen.

It was thought the Court might hand down a decision tomorrow, as otherwise its ruling might be meaningless for the coming election, but yesterday indications were the Court's ruling would not be ready for several days. The case was submitted on briefs last week. Ordinarily a considerable period would elapse between filing of briefs and a decision by the Court.

Rudie Goerts, 3456 Magnolia avenue, Fourteenth Ward Republican committeeman, was plaintiff in the test suit. The Election Board had refused to accept his offer to file as a candidate for Alderman of his ward, for election in the ward only. Yesterday he filed for election at large for the same place, to be sure of having his name before the board.

An amendment to the State Constitution was adopted by the voters of Missouri in November, to permit the city to choose its Andermen by wards. The question taken before the Supreme Court was whether this amendment was self-enforcing, or whether the City Charter would have to be amended, too. With election of Aldermen at large, although they represented the wards where they resided, it has sometimes happened that men were placed in the board who failed to win majorities in their own wards. The effect of election at large also was to prevent any minority party representation in the board ordinarily.

Hope of Republicans.

Some Republican politicians have feared there was no hope of electing Republicans as Aldermen at large this year, but they felt several wards might be carried individually by their party. From the time of its establishment in 1915 until 1932 the board consisted only of Republicans. In the Democratic landslide of November, 1932, two Democrats, Paul J. Hennerich, Tenth Ward, and Arthur E. Pahl, Twenty-fourth, were named to fill vacancies. They have filed for reelection. In the Democratic municipal landslide in 1933, 14 Democrats were chosen for four-year terms from the odd-numbered wards.

Since then, the Democrats have controlled the board, 16 to 13. If the Democrats should win the coming election completely, they would have the entire board membership, while if the Republicans should win it they would have a one-vote majority. With election by wards, however, the Democrats would remain in control if they won only one ward.

Only five Republicans have filed candidacies so far, partly because of the uncertainty over the manner of election and partly because of doubt as to the prospects of success. Twenty-five Democrats have filed. So far William L. Mason (Dem.) and William Maffitt Bates (Rep.) have remained unopposed for the respective party nominations for president of the Board of Aldermen, an office to be filled by election at large, regardless of the outcome of the Supreme Court case.

Political complexion of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the important fiscal body, will be determined by the result for aldermanic president. The other members are Mayor Dickmann (Dem.) and Comptroller Nolte (Rep.).

Aldermanic Race Lineup.

William F. Harte, tailor and cleaner, 2418A North Twenty-third street, filed yesterday for the Republican nomination for Eighteenth Ward Alderman, with the backing of Committeeman Fred H. Knollmann's organization. Knollmann thought that Alfred Bergmann, Alderman of the ward since 1919, would not run again. Bergmann has made no statement.

Alderman Charles A. Neumann, Twelfth Ward, and Frank L. Wetzel, Sixteenth, are the only other Republicans who have filed candidacies. Herman C. Waldman, Twenty-eighth; Peter G. Reinhardt, Eighth, and Louis A. Lange, Sixth, announced last week that they would run again. Waldman was indorsed by his ward organization. William Hayes, Second; William F. Otto, Fourth, and Ralph H. Eilers, Twenty-sixth, have not decided whether to seek re-election. Walter J. G. Neun, president; August M. Brinkman, Fourteenth Ward; Wilbur C. Schwartz, Twentieth, and Herman C. Kralemann, Twenty-second, have announced they would retire.

One Democratic candidate filed yesterday—Bernard J. Fitzsimmons, 1822A Russell boulevard, Eighth Ward. He is clerk of the Board of Aldermen now. Contrary to a previous announcement, he has decided not to resign the clerkship unless elected an Alderman.

L. Baylor Pendleton, an architect, 16 Berverly place, now employed by the Board of Public Service, announced he would run for the Democratic nomination for Twenty-sixth Ward Alderman. It was thought Mayor Dickmann would support him. He was on the advisory board in the design of the State Capitol and was architect for two Democratic national conventions here.

The Election Board office will be open until 9 p. m. tomorrow to receive aldermanic filings. Time for filing nominating petitions for the Board of Education will expire March 18.

TREE PLANTING FOR SHELTER BELT TO START IN FEW DAYS

Work Will Begin in Texas; Other Dates Are Set for Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 23.—The first trees to be planted in the Federal Government's $75,000,000 shelter belt program will be set out in Texas in a few days, it was revealed here today at the national headquarters of the project.

J. D. Jones of Wichita Falls, Tex., director of the program to conserve moisture and halt wind erosion, said he was ready to start tree planting as soon as he returns home from a two-day conference here.

Planting in Oklahoma, where a strip 22½ miles long is planned, will begin shortly after March 1, G. R. Phillips of Oklahoma City, director for Oklahoma, said. Oklahoma will plant about 200,000 trees this year.

C. A. Scott of Manhattan, director for Kansas, said the first trees of the Sunflower State's 40-mile strip would go in the ground shortly after March 15. He has contracted for 225,000 trees and plans to use more.

In Nebraska, where a 25-mile strip will be planted in three counties, Gayton W. Watkins of Lincoln, State director, said planting would begin shortly after April 1.

SIX DEATHS LAID TO STORM IN FRANCE; 20 PERSONS HURT

Five Children Perish in Burning Home; Freighter Calls for Aid.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 23. — Six deaths have been reported in South and Central France where a windstorm isolated many towns today. Twenty persons were injured.

Train service was hours behind schedule. Telegraph, telephone and electric service was interrupted when poles were blown down. The entire department of Haute Vienna was without street car service because of the destruction of wires.

Off La Pallice the French steamship Auvergne, of 2114 tons, en route from Dunkirk to La Rochelle, sent out distress signals in heavy weather. No word was received from the freighter after the SOS. Telephone lines to La Rochelle were down.

Five children were burned to death when fire destroyed their home at Saint Quentin during the storm. A line worker was electrocuted and another seriously burned near Moulins. Falling chimneys injured four persons at Angouleme.

To Honor W. R. Blumenthal.

A reception will be given in honor of William R. Blumenthal, executive director of the National Home for Jewish Children at Denver, Wednesday, at 1:30 p. m., at the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A.

AZUCAR, 12 TO 1 SHOT, WINS $108,400 RACE

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Azucar, a seven-year-old gelding, which was a steeplechaser until a year ago, won $108,400 the world's biggest race prize for his owner, Fred M. Alger of Detroit, when he finished first in the Santa Anita Handicap yesterday afternoon in a field of 20, including stars and former stars of the turf. Azucar beat Ladysman by two lengths. Time Supply, which was third, was three lengths back of the winner.

EQUIPOISE OUT OF MONEY; $239,335 BET BY 45,000; TRACK RECORD IS BROKEN

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—Azucar, a converted steeplechaser, won the Santa Anita Handicap this afternoon in a field of 20 in a great stretch drive and earned $108,400 for his owner, Fred M. Alger Jr. of Detroit.

The seven-year-old son of Milesius, out of Clarice, beat Ladysman by two lengths. Time Supply was third, three lengths back of the victor, with Top Row fourth.

Forty-five thousand persons who had wagered $239,335 on the event howled themselves hoarse as the 12-to-1 shot moved in to where Equipoise had been favored to appear.

The great C. V. Whitney thoroughbred, seeking the title of leading money winner of track history, an 8-to-5 choice, never was in a threatening position and wound up seventh, deep in the ruck.

Azucar Breaks Track Record.

Azucar, finely rated by Jockey George Woolf, made his move at the rail off the last turn, going out from fourth to take the lead in the last furlong. He tired at the end, but it was too late for Ladysman and Time Supply to make the grade.

The net earnings of the race set a new world's record, shattering the mark of $105,730 set up in 1929 when Whichone captured the Belmont Futurity. The gross stakes of $127,000 here, however, fell short of the mark of $130,260 set up in that race.

Azucar turned in the amazing time of 2 minutes 2 seconds, a new track record, for the mile and a quarter. It was two and two-fifths seconds faster than the previous mark set up earlier in the day in a field half as large, with War the victor.

Betting on the event also set a California record when the customers pushed $239,335 through the pari-mutuel windows, more than twice as much as had ever been bet on a single event here before. Of this money, more than $30,000 alone was down on Equipoise to win.

Winner Pays $26.80.

Azucar paid $26.80 to win, $9 to place and $6.60 to show on $2 tickets, while Ladysman was worth $5.20 to place and $4.60 and Time Supply $8.40.

A slow starter, Azucar, who was switched to flat racing a year ago, went away from the gate in fourteenth position, after the start had been delayed more than 10 minutes while first Head Play and then Equipoise became unruly.

He gained gradually under the expert riding of Woolf to move into eleventh at the quarter post. Picking his spots with precision, Woolf piloted the victor through the big field into fourth place through the back stretch and brought the thoroughbred to the rail as the field moved into the turn in a mad scramble.

Ladysman Also Well Ridden.

William R. Coe's Ladysman also was smartly ridden. Harry Richards booted the five-year-old son of Pompey along in great fashion, saving all ground close to the pace. He went into seventh position at the quarter post, slipped to eighth after half a mile and then piloted him into third at the three quarters, always close up.

Time Supply, winner of the Bay Meadows and Narragansett Handicaps in recent months, was among the leaders from the time the barrier went up until the end. Ridden by Tommy Luther, Mrs. F. A. Carreaud's four-year-old bay colt out of Time Maker, was first away from the gate.

He slipped back to third as Ted Clark and High Glee burned up the track through the early stages and held this position until the stirring stretch run. Up into second he moved once, but couldn't stay with the pace and dropped off to third again at the end, two lengths in front of Top Row.

Second place money was worth $8900 net; third, $3900, and fourth, $1400.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.

NORMAN ULM, Los Angeles, a spectator, suffered a wrenched back and facial abrasions today when he dashed from the infield on to the track in front of War Over in the first race of Handicap day.

War Over, last in a field of nine, was coming into the stretch when Ulm leaped from the rail in front of him. Jockey Anton Pendergrass was thrown from the horse and badly shaken up.

The horse stumbled but retained his feet and ran on through the wire. Pendergress staggered to his feet and later was carried from the track. The spectator was taken to Monrovia Hospital, unconscious, but recovered rapidly.

Equipoise, Off Twelfth, Gets Up To Seventh Position as Race Ends

Equipoise was nowhere from start to finish. The seven-year-old son of Pennant got away from an outside position twelfth and was still there as he passed the quarter mark. He ran into much trouble on the back stretch after moving up to seventh and was forced back to twelfth again around the last turn.

The king of the turf tried gamely to make up ground at the end, but was out of the money by that time. The best he could do, in his bid for the title of leading money winner, held by Sun Beau, was to wind up seventh.

The others finished as follows:

Eighth, Gusto; ninth, Frank Ormont; tenth, Twenty Grand; eleventh, Sweeping Light; twelfth, Riskulus; thirteenth, Fleam; fourteenth, Sarada; fifteenth, Mad Frump; sixteenth, Precursor; seventeenth, High Glee, stablemate of Equipoise; eighteenth, Good Goods, stable mate of Cavalcade, which was scratched from the race some time ago because of a bad hoof; nineteenth, Head Play, and last, Faireno.

Azucar cost his 27-year-old sportsman $8000. He was bought by Alger last autumn from Joseph E. Widener, with the thought that he would be an entry in the 1936 Grand National, the British steeplechase classic. The stable says he can still jump as well as run and unless something intervenes, he will be at Aintree for the 1936 Grand National. If he can continue to run a mile and a quarter in figures approaching 2:02 he can double in brass as long as he is willing.

When Jockey Woolf of Glacier Park, Mont., who was upon the jumper-runner, brought the maize and blue Alger colors home far in front, it was worth $10,000 to the Woolf bankroll.

Mutuels: Azucar $26.80, $9, $6.60. Ladysman $5.20, $4.60. Time Supply $8.40.

Azucar splendidly ridden, gained ground gradually and coming strongly after entering the stretch got to the front in the final furlongs and although bearing out a trifle near the end won easily. Ladysman also well handled ran a smashing race and saved all possible ground in the late stages. Time Supply had his speed, was close to the pace from the start and held on fairly well in the final run. Top Row ran a courageous race and was going gamely at the finish. Ted Clark opened up a long lead while making the pace but tired in the stretch. Equipoise was off rather slowly, was in close quarters on the backstretch and was never a dangerous contender. High Glee had some early speed but never threatened. Ted Clark, the pacemaker, tired. Twenty Grand was never dangerous at any stage. Faireno was close enough up in the early stages but stopped badly. Mate could not keep up. Head Play acted badly at the post and started from outside the stall gate, lacked his usual early speed. The others were outpaced.

BILLIKENS CLOSE HOME SEASON BY WINNING FROM CREIGHTON, 38-35

By James M. Gould.

In one of the most exciting and roughest games of the season, the St. Louis University Billikens last night brought their home-floor basketball season to an end with a well-earned victory over Marquette University by a score of 38 to 35. At the end of the first period the score was all even at 19-19, and in neither half were the teams very far apart.

Rubado, Marquette guard, was high scorer with 12 points on six field goals, most of them very long "unconscious" shots, while Capt. Dirksen, with 11 points, and Len Hoffman, with 10, were high for the Billikens. Coach Nyikos of St. Louis used only one extra man—Bohn—but 10 Marquette players participated in a vain effort to subdue the Billikens. The consistency of play and the equal power of the teams were shown by the statistics, which record 19 points apiece in the opening period and, in the second, 19 again for St. Louis and 16 for Marquette.

Early Lead Wiped Out.

St. Louis opened with a four-point getaway, but this was soon nullified by some fast work by the Marquette forwards. Then the Billikens surged ahead again and ran the score in their favor to 14 to 6 before the Milwaukeeans managed to stop them and start themselves. While St. Louis was gathering five additional points in the period, Marquette made 13 and when the half was over each had 19.

Opening the second half, the teams took turns at holding very short leads. Two points apart for several minutes, St. Louis assumed a 29-24 advantage and increased it to 31-25. Again Marquette rallied and with only 2 minutes of play remaining crept up to a point of a tie at the 34-33 mark. Hoffman

Babe Ruth Starts Gym Workouts; Weighs 237 Pounds

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.

BABE RUTH today took his first workout since his return from his round-the-world cruise, engaging in half an hour of floor work and a game of squash under the guidance of Artie McGovern, his trainer.

The big fellow tipped the beam at 237, considered not bad weight for this time of the year. It is a far cry from his top of 256 in 1926, from which point he rounded into playing shape. His playing weight for the past few years has been between 220 and 225.

Commenting on the Babe's condition, McGovern said:

"Babe is just a little soft, but he played a vigorous game of squash after his floor workout, and he stood it well—no pronounced puffing or decided fatigue."

After a hunting trip of a few days, the Babe will start daily workouts with McGovern.

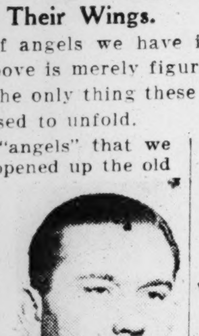
WRAY'S COLUMN

"Angels" Fold Their Wings.

THE kind of angels we have in mind really have no wings—that line above is merely figurative. We refef to baseball "angels" and the only thing these have to fold is a billfold—which they are supposed to unfold.

At least two "angels" that we know of really opened up the old fold not once but several times. But today they are fed up on being cast as angels. They are tightening upon the old billfold — and how! Double wraps and a padlock go with it.



YAWKEY

Our two baseball angels are Phil Wrigley of the Cubs and Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox. Of course, Yawkey hasn't fully seen the light. Just a glimmer has come to him. Perhaps he has merely noticed the emaciated state of his bankroll, following the passing of $125,000 for a worn-out soupbone and $250,000 for a shortstop. That's a lot of embonpoint for any bankroll to lose.

Yawkey is still optimistic. As yet he hasn't been jolted for a red ink setback of several hundreds of thousands of dollars. He still has hopes that the Red Sox will come out on top, although he admits he's through with major spending.

Wrigley Revolts.

BUT with Phil Wrigley it's different. When after three years of excessive spending, your net achievement is a $600,000 deficit, it is time to cease being angelic. At least Mr. Wrigley seems to have arrived at this view.

In fact, a little of the Old Nick seems to have entered Mr. Wrigley's system, for he lopped off famous heads first and notable salaries next. Now his position is stated as follows:

Jesse Owens Sets Two Records, Cunningham One in A. A. U. Meet

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Five world record performances, including two by Ohio State's brilliant Negro athlete, Jesse Owens, and another by the all-conquering Glenn Cunningham marked an exciting battle for the National Senior A. A. U. indoor track and field championships tonight before a near capacity crowd of 15,000 in Madison Square Garden.

Two other world indoor marks were equalled, with new championship meet records set up in seven events, all told, as the New York Athletic Club easily retained the team championship with 36 points.

Cunningham, taking the lead from Erik Ny of Sweden after two laps and setting a sizzling pace all the way, roared down the stretch to break the tape 40 yards in front of Bonthron, who snapped out of his slump to the extent of outfooting Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania in a sprinted fight for second place. Ny was fourth and last.

The former University of Kansas star clipped nearly two full seconds off his own former world indoor record of 3:52.2, set last year in the same meet in which he got an eye lash decision over Bonthron.

Earlier in the evening, slender Jesse Owens, Ohio State sophomore and Negro sensation, sprinted to a new record of 6.6 seconds for the 60-meter dash after broad-jumping to a new record of 25 feet, 9 inches in defense of a title he won last year.

Owens set the sprint record in a semifinal heat in which Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, the defending national champion, was decisively beaten and eliminated. Metcalfe, off to a poor start, trailed Owens by two yards and was beaten off for the second qualifying position by Sam Maniaci of Columbia. Metcalfe had shared the former world indoor mark of 6.7 seconds with Emmett Toppino of New Orleans. Three of the four sprint finalists were Negroes.

Owens, in capturing the broad jump title for the second straight year, was in rare form as he wiped out the former indoor record of 25 feet, 3¼ inches, which he set last year in the same meet. He cleared 25 feet, 7⅝ inches on an early leap before making his best jump.

Eulace Peacock, Temple University Negro, also bettered the former world record but had to be satisfied with second place with 25 feet, 3½ inches. The 1932 Olympic champion, Ed Gordon of Iowa City, finished fourth with 23 feet, 11⅜ inches.

Charles Hornbostel of Indiana, the defending champion and favorite, shared the fate of Equipoise when he failed even to place in the 1000-meter run. The bespectacled Hoosier, apparently a bit lame, trailed all the way and finished next to last in a race won by Glen Dawson of Tulsa, Ok. Hornbostel's failure to show anything like his previous sensational form was a stunning upset.

ELEANOR HOLM'S RECORD IS BROKEN

By the Associated Press.

BRUNSWICK, Me., Feb. 23.—Eleanor Holm Jarrett's world's record in the 400-yard backstroke swim was lowered by 10 seconds at the Bowdoin College A. A. U. meet tonight when Miss Alice Bridges of Whitinsville, Mass., navigated the distance in 5 minutes, 36 4-5 seconds.

Azucar Runs Away After Winning Race

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.

AZUCAR showed his temperament as a thoroughbred by running away after winning the Santa Anita Handicap.

Led back by an attendant to the judges' stand, where Miss Anita Baldwin, daughter of the late "Lucky" Baldwin, owner of the site of the Santa Anita track, was to place a floral wreath around his neck, Azucar bolted after Jockey George Woolf had dismounted, and ran 100 yards down the track and stopped. An attendant was dragged half the distance but was not hurt.

EAGLES LOSE TO MAROONS, 4-0, IN PEPLESS GAME

By W. J. McGoogan.

Two goals in the first four minutes of play, augmented by two more in the closing period, gave the Montreal Maroons an easy 4 to 0 victory over the St. Louis Eagles in a National Hockey League game at the Arena last night before a crowd of some 5500 persons.

And it was a weakened Maroon club which scored the triumph over the last place team in the International division of the circuit. Lionel Conacher, star defense man, who injured his hand in a fist fight with Doug Young at Detroit recently; Dave Trottier, forward, suffering from an attack of scarlet fever, and Stew Evans, defense man, with a leg injury, were the visitors who were out of the game, while the Eagles were minus the services of Ossie Asmundson, forward, who was suffering from an attack of pleurisy.

The defeat cost the Eagles a chance to win two games in succession for the first time this season, for, of the nine contests they have captured, no two of the Eagle conquests have come in order.

A Pepless Game.

An opening attack by the Maroons took all the pep out of the game and left the crowd to sit yawning through the rest of the contest, hoping against hope for the miracle to happen.

Jimmy Ward, Maroon forward, wearing a headgear to protect the skull injury which he suffered in a recent collision with Eddie Shore, Boston defense man, which kept him in a hospital for a month, was the first to dent the St. Louis net. He took a pass from Hooley Smith, to beat Beveridge with a shot at 2:32 in the first period. And only a minute and 23 seconds later Earl Robinson coasted in and took a shot at Beveridge which the St. Louis goal keeper couldn't stop.

That was the end of the scoring until the third period when, after Buck Boucher, the Eagle coach, had thrown discretion to the wind and had sent in five forwards in an effort to score, Allen Shields,

AT CHICAGO.

Wieboldts of Chicago vs. Maccabees of Chicago. (Winner to oppose Vienna of Milwaukee in Western semifinal).

By Dent McSkimming.

As a result of bad weather in Pittsburgh, necessitating a postponement of the Marre-Curry game at that place, St. Louis will have but one club engaged in a national challenge cup soccer match this afternoon. The Centrals of this city oppose Slavia of Cleveland at Sportsman's Park.

The delay in the Marre-Curry match is apt to set the play-off series back a full week, for it had been planned to match the winner of that game against the victor of the Central-Slavia game, next Sunday. The only other cup match in the western division today is that between the Wieboldts and Maccabees, both Chicago clubs, at Chicago. The Vienna club of Milwaukee has already advanced to the western semifinal with victories over Woodlawn and Sparta of Chicago. Vienna is expected to be drawn against the winner of the Wieboldt-Maccabee game.

The Old Bruell Club.

Slavia has never enjoyed a great measure of success in its tests with St. Louis clubs, neither has it ever been very easy. As Cleveland's representatives in cup competition in 1930, this organization, then known as the Bruells, defeated St. Louis' survivor, the Tablers, 3 to 1, and advanced to the national final, losing to Alec McNab, Billy Gonsalves and other stars of the Fall River club. Goaltender Ramsey and Forwards George and Ralph Caraffi are veterans of that successful 1930 team, and there are other stars of cup experience at several other positions. Center Halfback Jack Neilson was an outstanding figure in the Holley club of Detroit a half dozen years ago when that team reached the national final, and Bill McManus, inside left, has starred for Tononto Scots and other good teams. Slavia can be relied upon to play sound football and if the Centrals happen to have an off day the result might be bad.

St. Louis Forwards Have Edge.

The only doubtful starting position in the St. Louis team is at fullback where Manager Fredrick has Kramer, Nolan and Gregg to choose from. In all other departments the lineup that has proved so successful in 15 or more games this season will be strictly adhered to, which means that McNab, Gonsalves, Patenaude, Roe and McLean, forming what many believe the most prolific goal scoring forward line in the United States, will put the visitors' defense to a severe test.

Today's game will start at 2:45 p. m. and the admission charge will be $1 for men, 40 cents for women and children.

Ribby Murphy will be the referee, assisted by Linesman Oscar Mossman and Jimmy Dunn.

PURDUE UPSET BY OHIO STATE; SCORE 40 TO 39

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 23.—Ohio State took the steam out of Purdue's drive for the Big Ten basketball championship tonight, nosing out the Boilermakers, 40 to 39.

An 11-point spurt by the visitors in the last four minutes of play failed.

The defeat was the second suffered by Purdue in nine conference games and the victory was Ohio's seventh in 11 starts.

A brilliant scoring duel between Kessler, Purdue forward, and Warren Whitlinger of Zanesville, Ohio's ace point-getter, featured the affray. Whitlinger finished on top with 22 points, while Kessler was getting 21. That extra point was Ohio's margin of victory.

By Davison Obear.

The St. Louis District Tenis Association will hold its ninth annual indoor championships during the week of March 23, according to an announcement made by Russell Hadden, newly-elected president of the organization. Matches will be played on the three courts in the Washington University Field House.

In addition to the men's singles and doubles, the district association will sponsor a women's singles championship. The Executive Committee will meet March 5 to determine whether a mixed doubles event will be added. Details of entry in all of the events will also be worked out at the meeting.

The winner of the men's singles honors will obtain possession of the S. Roy Culbertson challenge trophy for one year. There are no challenge trophies for the men's doubles and women's singles, the winners receiving individual prizes. Karl Hodge, Triple A player, is expected to defend the men's singles title this year. He holds two legs on the Culbertson trophy and if he wins again he will obtain permanent possession of the prize.

Miss Alita Davis, niece of Dwight F. Davis, donor of the famous international trophy, is the present holder of the District women's singles championship. She won the first tournament in 1927 and retained her title when the championship was resumed last year.

The men's doubles championship last year was won by Karl Kammann and Charles Barnes. This veteran team came into prominence 10 years ago as representatives of Washington University. Since that time the combination has won many District and club titles.

Information regarding the tournament may be obtained from Miss Grace Morgan, phone CHestnut 2481.

CINCINNATI RACQUETS TEAM IS DEFEATED BY ST. LOUIS SQUAD, 5 TO 2

Although Jack Gordon and Ed Haverstick, top ranking players, were defeated, the squash racquets team of the St. Louis University Club last night defeated Cincinnati's representative squad, five matches to two, in their annual tournament at the University Club courts. Roland Nord, former St. Louisan, No. 1 man for Cincinnati, outscored Jack Gordon, western champion, in three straight sets.

John Sartori, Cincinnati professional, took some of the sting out of the rout by defeating Paul Goessling, of St. Louis, former western champion, and Jack Cole, University Club professional.

Results.

Percy Edwards (St. L.) defeated John Anderson (C.) 15-11, 15-10, 18-16.

Joe Field (C.) defeated Ed Haverstick (St. L.) 15-10, 8-15, 18-17, 15-13.

Ed Miller (St. L.) defeated Bob Mulhauser (C.) 15-12, 16-14, 18-16.

Thruston Pettus (St. L.) defeated Ed Kittredge (C.) 15-8, 14-15, 15-10, 15-9.

FRED PERRY RETURNS TO LOS ANGELES TO CONSIDER FILM OFFERS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—Fred Perry, noted English tennis star, arrived here today from Australia aboard the liner Monterey.

Perry declined to discuss his plans for the future and refused to make any statement as to reports he might turn pro in the near future.

He did say, however, that he planned to remain in Los Angeles for some time. This was taken to indicate he planned to give serious consideration to film offers which were made him prior to his trip to Australia.

Whether or not he planned a conference with Bill Tilden, who is in San Francisco, regarding turning "pro" was not revealed.

More Optimism in Boston

IN Boston, where the other angel resides, the situation is not quite so acid as in Chicago. Mr. Yawkey admits his days of extreme philanthropy are over; but the way is not absolutely closed to the acquisition of desirable new players—by trading!

Of course, there is a reason for the Yawkey optimism: The Red Sox made a little money last year, getting amazing support from Boston fans. No $600,000 deficit there.

Yawkey now expects to get back that $250,000-for-Joe Cronin investment because Boston is a red-hot baseball town, he told a reporter. And so, while he has definitely snapped the rubber band around the old roll and locked the safe door on it, the pessimism is not so keen in the mining and lumber corners of baseball as it is in the chewing gum sector.

But there's one big angle that causes the Wrigley interests to smile when talking about their losses. It is this: that even $600,000 could not buy the advertising which Mr. Wrigley's baseball club gives Mr. Wrigley's chicle business all free of charge.

It Works Both Ways.

NOT only horsemen, but all trainers of athletes, should be interested in the move to limit the racing of two-year-olds. Horsemen contend that too early and too frequent use of juvenile racers has resulted in frequent breakdowns and in burning up the energy of two-year-olds to the detriment of their future stamina.

Coaches and trainers in charge of immature boys and youths may profit by the lessons of the turf. If it is bad to send a colt to the races too young, it must be just as bad to send youths who have not reached maturity into contests that demand mature efforts.

The case of the juvenile racer has been so substantially made that a nation-wide movement to limit the running of two-year-olds has been begun. The popularity of winter racing has increased the hazards for two-year-olds. These, regardless of the actual number of months their age shows, are all official two-year-olds on Jan. 1. Theoretically a horse foaled on Dec. 31, 1933, became two years of age on Jan. 1, 1935. Actually he was just a few days more than a year old.

Winter racing now is carried on in four major racing centers in this country and the temptation to use juveniles too early is increased thereby. The turf world interested in the development of sound racers wants the immature racer protected.

But no one seems to be looking after the immature boy athlete who, year by year, is sent by coaches into contests fully as strenuous as those of mature men.

It may be that what's bad for a horse is even worse for a youth. The danger of "burning out" the immature athlete ought to exempt boys from frequent and strenuous competition.

For the immature, exercise is wonderful; intense competition harmful — and that applies throughout the animal kingdom, including the primates.

Who Said Boxing Is Dead?

IN Annapolis, Md., they pay $20 apiece for ringside seats at an amateur boxing show. That happened recently when the crack boxing team of the University of Virginia met the boxers from the United States Naval Academy.

Originally the tickets, 6000 of them, were priced at 75 cents each. But the demand was so great that the original price went haywire and reached the peak mentioned.

However, that's not the only peculiar feature about the University of Virginia boxing team. It has a wonderful pulling power wherever it shows. Its home bouts attract 5000 persons and one of the reasons is the squad's record, which shows victories in 23 consecutive dual meets and four straight successes in Southern Conference championships.

Navy has a crack team—Spike Webb sees to that. But it was no match for the Virginians, who gained their third consecutive victory over the Navy.

Collegiate boxing has slumped in recent years, while wrestling has appeared to gain in most districts. Washington University maintained a boxing team at one time under Albert Graf, "Kid Alberts," a professional boxer who was working his way through school. The enterprise collapsed when Alberts completed his course.

Wrestling appeals to student athletes more than boxing because there is less likelihood of suffering facial disfigurement on the mat than there is in the ring.

In the Distant Future.

JAPAN is sending a baseball team to the United States, presumably to show us what she has learned about our national game, now Japan's adopted national pastime.

The Japanese team is composed of all-star players, largely from the men who faced Babe Ruth's team with such ill fortune during the late tour of our boys abroad.

They will fare poorly against our Pacific Coast leaguers, whom they plan to oppose in most of their exhibitions. The Japanese will not be able seriously to compete with Americans. They have not realized that a good little man cannot beat a good big man especially at baseball. Power at bat wins games; power on the pitching mound balks opposing batters. The Japanese haven't the horsepower to cope with the Americans.

However, it is a fact that our college baseball teams have not been able to overwhelm the college nines of Japan. In fact, we have taken several spankings in the land of the rising sun.

Occasionally little men have turned out to be mighty atoms on our own baseball clubs. Keeler McGraw, Huggins and many others were little men. But the team make-up as a whole was husky. And Japanese never can be that.

URUGUAY WINS SOUTH AMERICAN SOCCER HONORS FOR 7TH TIME

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 23.—In South America, which claims to play the best soccer in the world—but where players and fans not infrequently make it a game of sock-o and engage in a bit of indiscriminate slugging—little Uruguay stands supreme for the seventh time in 13 years.

Uruguay's professional soccerites—or "socker-ites," if you prefer the Argentine version—won the first South American championship tournament to be held since 1929 in Lima after a series of matches demonstrating why soccer is exciting in South America.

Slugging and kicking (not the ball) characterized the final match in which Uruguay vanquished Argentina, and in a previous match, in which Argentina defeated Peru, the slugging and kicking ired the Peruvian fans to such a pitch that some of them stoned the Argentines after they left the stadium. Chile, the fourth contender (which finished in the cellar) got through its matches with comparatively few bruises.

Try to Stone Champions.

When the Uruguyan team passed through Buenos Aires en route home to Montevideo, a group of Argentine fans attempted to stone the champions, but were held in check by the police.

South American soccer jumped to the fore in 1924, when Uruguay—smallest of the continent's nations in area—produced a team which won the Olympic championship. After that the amateur game, which had predominated up to that time, was shoved into the background by the professionals, and international competition between the South American nations became keener.

Big stadiums, some seating as many as 80,000, sprang up in Montevideo, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, and only slightly smaller ones in Santiago and Lima.

Uruguay won the world championship in 1928.

No Lack of Excitement.

The South American game reached such caliber that when professional leagues kept their players at home during the 1934 world championship tournament in Italy, Argentina and Brazil sent amateur teams—distinctly second-rate in their home countries—which made good showings against the European professionals. Italy won the 1934 world title.

When Betty Balfour, British movie actress, who came here on a vacation, intimated that she found Buenos Aires a bit dull, a columnist in the Buenos Aires Herald suggested that she hadn't been to a soccer football match.

162 BASKET PLAYERS WILL COMPETE IN THE OZARK BASKET EVENT

Arrangements have been completed by the Ozark A. A. U. for a special loud speaker system by which all the details of the organization's annual basketball tournament will be announced to the spectators.

The second annual tourney opens Thursday evening at the Sherman Park Community Center and concludes with the semi-final and final games at the St. Louis University gymnasium, March 6 and 8.

It was considered particularly necessary to have a public address system because of the many players taking part whom the fans will not know. Altogether 162 players, representing 18 teams, will take part.

Seventeen games will be played in the tourney on seven nights. Three games, two preliminary round eliminations and one second-round contest, are booked for opening night; three second-round games next Friday night and four other second-round battles on Saturday night. On March 4 and 5 two quarter-finals will be played each night with the semi-finals and finals on March 6 and 8.

The winner of the tournament will be sent to Denver, Colo., for participation in the National A. A. U. cage tourney. The Sugar Creeks, title winners here last year, were not reorganized this season.

THE "pros" and "cons" of rabbit management in Missouri were set out by W. C. Nagel, wild life technician for the U. S. National Park Service under the supervision of the Missouri Game and Fish Department, in a report made last week to Commissioner Wilbur C. Buford. Nagel's report is a part of the general State-wide check-up on game conditions being made by himself and Rudolf Bennitt.

"The rabbit, most common of the hunted animals in Missouri, is probably the least understood," Nagel said. "Including the jack rabbit, there are four species of rabbits in Missouri. In North Missouri the Sylvilagus floridanus mearnsi is found while the species known as S. floridanus alacer is the common one in the southern part of the State. The northern rabbit is considered to be slightly the largest. A third variety, the swamp rabbit, is found in Southeast Missouri where he annoys hunters and dogs alike by taking to the nearest water when disturbed.

Rabbit Buffer for Other Game.

"Conservationists have pointed out the inestimable value of a good rabbit population to act as buffer species between other game and its enemies. Many a predator has satisfied his appetite on rabbit when otherwise quail or other highly esteemed game would have gone to allay his hunger. Finally, not only does this species furnish the principal meat supply of many poor families but it is also a significant item in the meat trade, especially in the larger cities.

"The rabbit is condemned as a destroyer of apple trees and vineyards as an animal devoid of all sporting qualities and a mocker of quail dog owners. He is derided as unfit table decoraiton for the discriminating palate. Most serious of all, he is denounced as a transmitter of dangerous disease to man and animals.

"While there is evidence that the rabbit does gnaw shoots and shrubs it may be pointed out that there is no game species known that is not at times criticised as a destroyer of crops, but the rabbit, because he is most common, is the most maligned.

"As an attractive sporting proposition the rabbit seems, to the uninitiated, entirely too easy and therefore unworthy. Experienced rabbit hunters, however, are always willing to challenge the scornful quail or duck hunting purist in a trial of skill with the usual result that the hitherto scornful one experiences first confusion and then respect.

"Undoubtable many cases of human tularemia are traceable to a rabbit origin but other wild life species, also infected, may have been the transmitting agent. Well cooked game, no matter how badly infected, is not a source of human tuleramia."

New Jersey Imports Missouri Cottontails.

While the Nagel report was being received by State conservation officials in this State, the Missouri cottontail was receiving considerable publicity among Eastern States, principally New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The New Jersey Fish and Game Commission was offering high praise to the Missouri cottontail. The New Jersey conservation department has just completed the importation of 30,000 wild trapped Missouri rabbits, the largest importation in its history, for re-stocking purposes.

Purchase of the Missouri rabbit, the New Jersey officials say, is considered less expensive at the present time than the cost of propagating the animals under semi-wild conditions.

Another shipment of between 30,000 and 50,000 live trapped rabbits from Missouri have been sent to Pennsylvania.

Oberholser Here March 1.

Dr. Harry C. Oberholser, research head of the United States Biological Survey at Washington, D. C., will be in Missouri early next month to confer with sportsmen and wild life enthusiasts on the subject of the waterfowl situation. He will speak before St. Louis sportsmen at the Racquet Club March 1. He will speak at the University of Missouri at Columbia March 5, following a field trip over the state.

The standing room only sign already has been hung out at Roaring River State Park near Cassville (Barry County) for the opening of the trout fishing season March 1, High Brixey, park superintendent, said. All accommodations at that place have been reserved for the first several days of the 1935 trout fishing season. Other trout fishing centers are at Bennett Spring and Montauk State Parks.

Outdoor Briefs.

More than 3000 European starlings were observed recently near Lake Taneycomo in Taney County —Leslie Kristzer of Richland, Pulaski County, reported to the State Game and Fish Department that he bought 59,000 pelts during the season just closed and that two buyers at Waynesville purchased 28,000 pelts. Floyd Foland, who pays bounties on hawks for the Vernon County Sportsman's League at the Sheriff's office at Nevada every Saturday paid toll on 810 hawks last month. Seventy-three-year-old Alexander McLachlan of Spring Fork, Pettis County, who attended the first field trial in Missouri 47 years ago at Amoret, Mo., is yet breeding dogs and attended the national field trials at Sturgeon last week. Leslie S. Bean, regional forester for Missouri and co-author of several sweeping conservation measures pending in the Missouri Legislature, has been transferred from Rolla to the Ottawa National Forest in Michigan. C. A. Doland, inspector for the National Park Service in Missouri who supervised the start of the CCC development at Meramec State Park near Sullivan, has been transferred to Indianapolis, Ind., where he has been named regional director for the submarginal lands in 10 midwestern states. State game wardens have confiscated 800 illegally possessed furs this season and these will be sold at auction.

CLEVELAND HIGH GIRLS TRIUMPH IN RIFLE MEET AT BOONVILLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOONVILLE, Mo., Feb. 23. — In the sixth annual indoor Camp Perry Rifle Tournament, sponsored by Kemper Military School, Cleveland High School of St. Louis, the Municipal University of Wichita, St. Thomas Military Academy of St. Paul, Minn., Cretin High School, St. Paul, Minn., and Missouri Military Academy shared honors in the team matches.

Fifty-one teams from 29 schools and colleges in eight Middle Western states participated in this sixth annual competition. Sam A. Montague, United States National intercollegiate team champion from Louisiana State University in 1934 fired high score in individual match competition this afternoon, representing Missouri University.

Four Municipal Soccer League clubs, champions of Carondelet, Forest Park, Sherman and Fairground, meet in the semifinals of the annual league championship competition at Grounds Two at Fairground, this afternoon. Three of the clubs were victors in first round matches last Sunday while the fourth, the Busieks, drew a bye. They oppose Irish Village of Sherman Park in today's second and feature match.

The Alpen Braus, favorites to win the title which they are defending as champions of last season, meet the Carlstroms in the opening game, starting at 1:30 p. m. Time of halves in each game will be 45 minutes and an admission charge of 25 cents will be made.

In their opening round games, the Alpen Braus gave the best display of team work although they were not quite so smooth-working a club as some champions of the past. Field conditions were bad and it is predicted that on a smoother playing surface they will show to much better advantage. The Carlstroms hope to use their star center half-back, Ollie Bohlman, who suffered a sprained ankle in last Sunday's game. His absence would require considerable shifting of players.

Irish Village is expected to come through over the Busieks who did not cut a very strong figure in the regular season at Carondelet Park but won the title when the German Sport Club used ineligible players.

Finals in the Muny competition are scheduled to open next Sunday on the same field and the champion team probably will meet Pittsburgh's amateur champions in a home-and-home series.

BOYS' CLUB TO PLAY IOWA FIVE TOMORROW

The Boys' Club basketball team will play the St. Joseph's five of Fort Madison, Ia., tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock, at the Soulard Community Center gymnasium, Eighth street and Lafayette avenue. No admission will be charged.

In the preliminary game, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, the St. Joseph's (Croatian) Juniors will meet the Boys' Club Midget five for the championship of the Eighth Ward Junior Basketball League.

Europe's Amateur Billiard Champion In U. S. Tourney

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—The strongest field in the history of amateur billiards will start play here Monday night for the 1935 amateur Class "A" 18.2 balkline championship. The tournament, a round-robin affair, will run seven days concluding March 3.

Seven of the best amateur balkline billiard experts will compete for this year's crown. They are Edmund Soussa, Egypt; Edgar T. Appleby, New York; Percy Collins, Chicago, defending champion; Arie Schaap, Chicago; Ray N. Fessenden; Madison, Wis.; Seymour King, New York, and Thomas H. Morgan, Kansas City.

Soussa, former world's amateur champion at all styles of billiards and present European champion, meets Schaap in the opening match. All games will be at 300 points.

Frisch Due Here Today to Confer With Club Chiefs

FRANKIE FRISCH, manager of the World Champion Cardinals, who will be starting his seventeenth season in the major leagues when he opens the Redbirds' spring training at Bradenton, Fla., next Saturday, left New York yesterday and will be in St. Louis this afternoon to confer with President Sam Breadon and Business Manager Branch Rickey on plans for the 1935 pennant race.

Frisch will depart with the advance squad Thursday night. Breadon plans to depart by automobile for Florida Wednesday morning and Rickey also will spend some time at the training camp, after business calls at several "chain store" towns.

NINE PLAYERS IN BROWNS' PARTY GOING SOUTH TONIGHT

HORNSBY TO JOIN SQUAD EN ROUTE; FIRST WORKOUT TO BE TUESDAY

By J. Roy Stockton.

The winter of baseball's discontent has turned the corner. Thirteen members of Rogers Hornsby's Brownie family of 1935 will depart from Union Station at 9:30 o'clock tonight for the St. Louis American League club's spring training camp at West Palm Beach, Fla., where the Rajah will hold his first workout Tuesday.

George Blaeholder, Harland Clift, Rollie Hemsley, Bob Weiland, Ollie Bejma, Heine Mueller, Pete Easley, George Mills and Armond Payton are the players who will be in the party, which also will include Secretary Willis Johnson, Coach Charley O'Leary, Scout Ray Cahill and Publicity Director Gerald Holland.

Manager Hornsby, who has been at Hot Springs, teaching the young idea at Ray Doan's baseball school, will board the Brownie train at Birmingham tomorrow, as will Outfielder Ray Pepper and Pitcher Dick Coffman.

First Game March 11.

Three of the players who will depart tonight are the property of the San Antonio club, a Brownie farm. They are Pitchers Easley and Mills and Catcher Payton. They will help give the Browns all the batting practice they want and if they should show the necessary ability, the door will be open for their advancement to the Brownie roster.

Vice-President L. C. McEvoy said he expected all but six members of the Browns to be at West Palm Beach for Tuesday's workout. Jack Burns, first baseman; Oscar Melillo, second baseman, and Sam West, outfielder, will report a week later, while Pitchers Ashley Hillin and Elon Walkup and Catcher Frank Grube have not yet signed contracts. Hillin and Walkup are the only players who might be classed as holdouts.

Aint It the Bad Luck?

Heine Mueller is the only discontented member of the party departing tonight. Heine will not get much sleep on the way South. He will dream of plumbers connecting the wrong pipes, steam-fitters arranging for ice water where heat ought to be, and begonias, violets and sweet peas frozen or boiled. Heine, you see, is moving his floral shop first past the other bend in South Kingshighway.

Heine called the Browns' office by telephone yesterday and wanted to know if he could be excused already for a couple of days so he could see that nothing untoward befell his begonias. The answer was No, no, a Thousand Times No, with Secretary Johnson singing the refrain.

Everything will be ready for the Brownies when they arrive at West Palm Beach. Johnson shipped bats, uniforms and baseballs several days ago and Dr. George White, the trainer, has been at the camp for several days, supervising the manicuring of the diamond.

The advance squad of Cardinals will gather at Bradenton, Fla., next Saturday, with the second contingent due March 7. The Browns' first game will be with the Giants at Miami Beach, March 11, while the Cardinals will see their first action March 12, meeting the Phillies at Bradenton.

University City Favorite In "A" Group of Regional Meet, Opening Tomorrow

By Harold Tuthill.

In every basketball tournament there must be one team selected beforehand which is expected to win the championship. So close is the competition this year that to name the winner of the ninth annual St. Louis regional high school tournament, which gets under way tomorrow afternoon at Maplewood, is to invite a storm of criticism.

Two "A" games in the afternoon, the first between Normandy and Ritenour at 4 o'clock and four "B" contests will be on the opening day's program.

University City should be the logical choice as pre-tournament favorites, because the Indians won the Normandy meet, thereby proving that they have the stamina to go the limit. In addition, University City won the Suburban League championship this year against a field of evenly matched clubs.

Tough Schedule for Indians.

If University City survives the first round against the improving Roosevelt team, the Indians will have a little tougher competition in the quarterfinals against McKinley, the probable winner over Wellston. With University City in the lower bracket in Christian Brothers' College, which has sailed through the Preparatory League season with six victories and no defeats. Getting past the Brothers into the final will be no easy assignment for the Indians.

Competition in the upper bracket is wide open. Beaumont, last year's runner-up, draws an opening round bye and will be fully rested in time to play the winner of the Cleveland-St. Louis University High game. McBride, the defending champion, faces one of the strongest teams in the Suburban League, Clayton, in the first round. The winner of that battle will play the victor in the Maplewood-Central game.

Since McBride has the stuff that makes tournament teams, so called, the Irish are an even bet to reach the final in the upper bracket. In the past eight tournaments, McBride has won the title three times and has been runner-up once.

Ferguson Loses Scoring Ace.

Ferguson would have been chosen as the probable "B" division winner except for the fact that the team has lost Joe Montrey, a guard, and Capt. George Tuthill, forward and one of the leading scorers in the district, because they have passed the age limit. Country Day, which likes a big floor like that at Maplewood, should be the upper bracket representative in the final, while Jennings probably will come through in the lower half.

There will be no trip to Columbia for the "B" teams. The Missouri State High School Athletic Association has divided the state into 16 regions, two of them being in St. Louis. The winner and the runner-up in the "A" division will get the two places allotted to the St. Louis district and will participate in the State tournament at Columbia, March 14-16.

The first day's pairings:

"A" Division.

Normandy vs. Ritenour, 4 p. m.
Blewett vs. Kirkwood, 5 p. m.

"B" Division.

Hancock vs. St. Charles, 6 p. m.
Burroughs vs. Brentwood, 7 p. m.
Fairview vs. Chaminade, 8 p. m.
Principia vs. Riverview, 9 p. m.

IOWA TRACK STAR TIES BIG TEN DASH MARK

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 23.—The Western Conference indoor record for the 60-yard dash was tied as the University of Iowa smothered the University of Minnesota, 54½ to 31½, in a dual track meet at the university field house, this afternoon.

James Owens, Iowa speedster, tied the Big Ten mark of .06.2 for the dash event. The mark also tied the field house record held by George Simpson of Ohio State. A number of runners are co-holders of the conference record.

JANE SHARP WINS INDOOR TENNIS TITLE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Eleanor Jane Sharp of Pasadena, Cal., today won the women's national indoor singles tennis championship, defeating Helen Pedersen of Stamford, Conn., in straight sets, 11-9, 6-1.

After a ragged start, in which she lost the first three games due to wildness, Miss Sharp, sixth ranking player in the country, settled down and matched the plucky Stamford girl in a deep driving battle from the baselines. By means of forehand placements, Miss Pederson deprived the California girl of the first set twice in the tenth game and once again in the twelfth. After that Miss Sharp changed her tactics and went to the net frequently to score with accurately angled volleys.

The weaker of the two after the 55-minute first set, Miss Pedersen was far below form in the second set, and her fatigued condition was apparent by her failure to attempt some negotiable shots in her noted retrieving style.

Miss Sharp came back to the courts with Gregory S. Mangin of Newark, N. J., to win the national mixed doubles title. In two long sets they defeated Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of France and Dr. Eugene McCauliff of Yonkers, 9-7, 10-8.

$300,000 WINNING ON BIG RACE REPORTED

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Feb. 23.—A Denver betting syndicate won $300,000 on Azucar, when he finished first in the Santa Anita $100,000 handicap race today, the News says.

The Denverites wagered $20,000 on Azucar at odds of 15 to 1, the paper says.

UNIVERSITY CITY WINS SUBURBAN BASKET TITLE

University City won its ninth game in ten starts and thereby acquired the Suburban League basketball championship by defeating Kirkwood, 23 to 15, last night on the Indian's floor. Maplewood took second place with a 20 to 15 victory over Clayton on the Maplewood floor.

Ritenour, on its home floor, won its third victory in a dozen starts by defeating Wellston, 22 to 19.

SHAW GIRLS' FIVE TO PLAY CHICAGOANS

The Shaw-Stephens American Legion girls' basketball team will meet the Chicago Montgomery five this afternoon in the Maplewood High School gymnasium. In a previous meeting the Chicago quintet defeated the Shaws, 14 to 13.

The game will be the second of a triple-header. The White Ways will meet the Hartmanns in the opening game and the Holy Family team, champions of the Greater St. Louis Catholic League, will play the Kingshighway Presbyterians in the third contest. The first game will start at 1:45.

Lamar Ottsen Turns Pro For Races Next Sunday

By Harry McKanna.

Lamar Ottsen, one of St. Louis' "big three" amateur speed skaters, has turned professional and probably will make his "pro" debut next Sunday afternoon in the speed races at the Arena.

Ottsen, who ranked No. 1 among United States amateur indoor skaters in 1934, telegraphed Earl Reflow, Arena promoter, from St. John's New Brunswick, that he would turn professional upon his return to St. Louis.

When he went East to compete in the North American indoor championships at St. John's, Ottsen informed Reflow that if he was the highest scoring American in the meet he would desert the amateur ranks. Ottsen finished third, behind Alex Hurd and Frank Stack of Toronto, Stack being the Canadian champion.

Young Ottsen, whose father is Edward J. Ottsen, secretary and treasurer of the Amateur Skating Union of the United States, ruling body for the amateur skaters, has been one of St. Louis' star blade artists. He was dethroned as Southwest champion at the Silver Skates carnival last month by Truman Connell, although he retained his title as Missouri champion.

While Ottsen competed in the United States Olympic trial at Minneapolis last month, failing to win a place on the team, the former St. Louis University student, has been more successful on indoor ice, and was the only American skater to score points in the Western indoor championships at Chicago last month. In this carnival he also finished behind Hurd and Stack. Two weeks ago Hurd defeated him in two of three races at the Arena, the other race being a dead heat. The three races were skated European style, against time.

FLYERS SEEK 11TH STRAIGHT HOME VICTORY AGAINST MILLERS TONIGHT

Joe Stark, veteran hockey goalie who has played for many years in the American Hockey Association and who had a tryout with the Chicago Black Hawks of the National League during their pre-season training period, will be in the net for the Minneapolis Millers against the Flyers at the Winter Garden tonight in a game scheduled to start at 8:30 o'clock.

It will be the final appearance here of the Millers this season. They have won from the Flyers twice at Minneapolis and lost the only previous game played here.

The Flyers now are four games in front of the rest of the league and are merely coasting in to the playoffs, which will start at the conclusion of the regular schedule about the middle of March, with the second and third place teams contesting for the right to play the leaders, very likely the Flyers, in the championship series, after which the winners are to play the leaders of the Central League for the inter-league title.

The Flyers have won their last 10 games at the Winter Garden and have captured their last three games. Their season record is 21 victories, 3 ties and 13 defeats.

All of the St. Louis players are in good condition with the exception of Coach Alex McPherson, who has an infected lip, despite which he played in Oklahoma City Friday night and probably will start tonight.

Probable lineups:

St. Louis.	Position.	Minneapolis.
Murray	G.	Stark
Carbol	L. D.	Shea
Matte	R. D.	Bretto
McPherson	C.	Cox
P Paddon	L. W.	Wasnie
Teel	R. W.	La France

HAGEN HAS 64, SIX UNDER PAR, IN TAMPA GOLF

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 23.—Walter Hagen, the forgotten man of golf, pulled out of the past the golden touch that once enabled him to rule the world's fairways, clipped six strokes from par and captured a two-stroke lead in the first 18 holes of the $3000 72-hole medal play Gasparilla open at Palma Ceia here today. His card was 31-33—64.

Less than a month ago, Hagen paid a $5 entrance fee in a California tournament, then won the sum of $6.25 as the McSpadens, the Picards, the Revoltas, etc., carried off the big prize money. Today those golfing youngsters knew what it was to look helplessly at the flying heels of the Old Master.

A little luck with his putter and he might have posted a score that would have made golf history. As it was, a record gallery gasped time and again as he dropped magnificent approaches within three feet of the pins. His mashie niblick shot on No. 18 fell less than two feet from the cup for a four and his seventh birdie of the round.

Two strokes behind trailed Gene Kunes of Hollywood, with 35-31—66. Bracketed in third place were Bob Stupple of Glencoe, Ill., with 32-36—68, and Billie Burke of Belleair, Fla., former United States open champion, with 33-35—68.

took the puck skated the length of the rink and counted. That was at the 15:58 mark and then just before the end of the game, at 19:01 to be exact, Jimmy Ward scored his second goal of the game, again on a pass from Smith to make the score 4 to 0.

Eagles' Sorties Fall.

Of course the Eagles made sortie after sortie on the Maroon goal and had numerous chances to score but Alex Connell, the veteran Maroon goal keeper, who used to be the property of the owner of the Eagles, turned back all their thrusts.

Perhaps it was the traveling which the St. Louis team had done in the past week, but they certainly did not appear to be the aggregation which trimmed Boston at the Arena last week. Their play was lacking in spirit and their attack was without definition.

The St. Louis team leaves today for Boston to play the Bruins Tuesday night, then move to Montreal for a game Thursday night before returning to St. Louis for four games in 10 days to finish their home schedule after which they go to Toronto for their final game of the season March 19.

THE papers Pat Malone has signed,
And though at times he is inclined
To run a bit to fat,
He hopes to have a banner year,
And so we'll give a rousing cheer
And string along with Pat.

Bud Tinning, not to be behind,
Came blowing in and also signed
Upon the dotted line.
And so if Bud and Percy Pat
Get rid of all their surplus fat
Upon the mound they'll shine.

But when the Cards assemble he
Is confident that they will be

The Dodgers not only gave Casey Stengel a three-year contract with a raise of $5000, but they made it retroactive. And Casey had to take it and like it.

Before signing, however, Casey extracted a pledge from the directors that they would not furnish him with any more "ordinary players." That's our idea of managing.

and Rubado then exchanged field goals and Bohn got the final basket 30 seconds before the final gun on a set-up shot.

It was the 14th game of the season and the 10th victory for the Billikens. Next Tuesday night they engage the Washington U. Bears in the second of the series for the city collegiate championship and then depart for Chicago, there to play Loyola and DePaul in return games.

In a preliminary to the varsity game, the Y. M. H. A. team defeated the Billiken freshmen by a score of 25 to 21.

Captain Dirksen of the Billikens was presented by a plaque by Coach Nyikos and his senior teammates Cochran, Flanigan and Hoffman—as a token of appreciation for his ability as a player and his high class of leadership.

One of the most unique of basketball happenings was the disqualification of the Marquette starting center, Al Ehrig, on four personal fouls in the first four minutes of the game.

Both Fash and Flanigan did some excellent back-guarding. Fash turned in his most impressive performance as a guard this season. Formerly, he was the team's center.

Many of the Marquette goals were on long shots. They were weak on free throws, making good on only three. Only one foul was called on the Billikens in the first period and there were only seven St. Louis fouls all evening to 11 for Marquette. But, it was extra rough just the same.

The progressive score:

STUMHOFER LEADS IN HANDICAP SINGLES

Yesterday's session of the annual handicap tournament of the Greater St. Louis Bowling Association, now in progress at Heidel's Recreation, was confined exclusively to the doubles and singles events.

In the doubles event Victor Wiley and R. A. Schmidt bowled into first place with a total of 1373, including 78 pins handicap, Willey scoring 668 and Schmidt 627. Second place went to H. Bobmeyer and Howard Maness who totaled 1339 with 87 pins handicap, Bobmeyer scoring 612 and Maness 640. H. Fischer and E. Wolfe placed third, hitting 1316 with 30 pins handicap, Fischer bowling 639 and Wolfe 650.

This afternoon, doubles and singles will again be carded with one squad of five-men teams bowling at 9 p. m.

WRIGHT RIDES THREE STRAIGHT WINNERS AT MIAMI

STAND PAT TAKES $2000 HANDICAP; LARRANAGA HURT; $408,622 BET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

Empty Bottle, speedy son of Jock which Mrs. E. B. Carpenter claimed out of his last race from W. Ziegler Jr. for $3500, ran like a mighty good investment to give Wright his first winner. The colt came within one-fifth of a second of Idle Victory's three-furlong track record, of 33 2-5 seconds in winning by four lengths.

Wright made it two straight by piloting Night Sprite, the $5.50 favorite, to the colt's third consecutive victory in the seven furlong second race.

Wright's third consecutive winner was Wise Prince, Felix Spatola's Florida derby hopeful, and the colt made every pole a winning one, in the third race.

Stand Pat, brilliant four-year-old owned by the Canadian sportsman and distiller, E. F. Seagram, ran a sparkling mile and a furlong to win the Joseph McLennan Memorial Handicap.

Stand Pat was a $5.10 favorite. He ran the distance in 1:49 1-5, the fastest of the meeting. The victory was worth $2420 to Owner Seagram, who also was presented with a challenge trophy, donated by J. E. Widener, which must be won three times before becoming absolute property.

Larranaga, the favorite, ridden by Jockey Wright, suffered an injury to his left leg in closing yards of the race. He appeared to have stepped into a hole. It was thought that the horse would not have to be destroyed.

1936 SQUASH RACQUETS MEET TO HARTFORD

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—Joseph De V. Keefe of the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, was elected president of the United States Squash Racquets Association today.

Edwin H. Bigelow, Heights Casino, Brooklyn, N. Y., was named vice-president; Paul E. Callahan, Hartford (Conn.) Golf Club, secretary, and Harry K. Cross of the Union Boat Club, Boston, treasurer.

Hartford was awarded the 1936 tournament, which will be held Feb. 22, 23 and 24. Detroit was given the Lapham Cup matches between the United States and Canada. They will be held in January, 1936.

Andrews Chevrolet Service, Mechanical Manager for Zone

Coincident with the separation of the parts and accessory department and the service department of Chevrolet Motor Co., C. E. O'Meara, Chevrolet zone manager, announced the appointment of R. C. Andrews as service and mechanical manager for the St. Louis territory.

"We have long sensed," says O'Meara, "the need of developing a service organization whose sole responsibility would be the education of service men in the retail field to insure utmost satisfaction for Chevrolet owners."

"We have never been satisfied in our relations with Chevrolet buyers to stop with the sale alone, as we realized, with changing driving conditions and the greater demands placed upon automobiles by buyers today, that precision methods and precision instruments are needed to give automobile owners the utmost performance in their cars.

Owners are entitled to car performance, and the training of men to handle the intricate machinery and precision instruments necessary to maintain satisfactory performance, is the responsibility that we, as manufacturers, accept.

"The division of parts and accessory merchandizing from service maintenance proper enables us to develop Chevrolet's service personnel and service stations to a still greater degree of efficiency.

Andrews has been in the service department of the Chevrolet Motor Co. for 11 years, and has devoted his entire time to the study of service problems, in Flint and in St. Louis.

The service program developed by Chevrolet for 1935 is directed entirely toward the development of highly trained, efficient service personnel.

O'Meara also announces that E. R. Watson, heretofore operating as zone parts and service manager, has been appointed merchandizing manager of the parts and accessory department.

Pontiac to Build 15,000 Cars This Month, As Sales Gain Continues

Pontiac dealers throughout the United States registered 3073 new cars in the first 10 days of February, compared with 1423 in the same period in January and 1658 in the first 10 days of February, 1934, according to A. W. L. Gilpin, vice-president and general sales manager.

Lincoln's birthday was the big day of the week, when 831 cars were shipped from the factory.

Stock Hudson Sedan Breaks Flying Start Records Up to 5 Miles

Driven by Sir Malcolm Campbell—Car Does 70 M. P. H. in Second Gear.

Seven new official stock car records were made on the Daytona Beach sands when Sir Malcolm Campbell, driving a Hudson sedan, a fully-equipped stock model, broke the previous flying start marks for one to five miles and one to 10 kilometers. Softness of the beach cut at least two miles an hour from the car's speed, Sir Malcolm said, but the attempt could not be delayed for more favorable conditions because of preparations for his world speed trials in the Bluebird. Beach conditions made the stock car runs even more tests of ruggedness than of speed.

Shortly after the famous British racer set the new speed marks, Buddy Marr of Detroit took the same Hudson sedan on the Daytona course for new stock car records for the mile from standing start, and for the kilometer and mile in second gear. These two latter tests, in which Marr sent the sedan over a measured kilometer in second gear at a speed of 70 miles per hour, was considered the most punishing of the series. It broke the previous record by more than seven miles per hour.

"Electric Hand" Used.

Sir Malcolm, at the conclusion of the run, said of the Hudson: "It is a remarkable motor, very smooth and powerful. What amazes me most is the way the car is unaffected after the way it has been slammed around in preparation for the run. I want to congratulate the Hudson company on the performance of the car."

Much of the credit for the new record for the mile from standing start was due to the quick shifting accomplished by the "electric hand," according to Buddy Marr. "Fast shifting," he said, "is certainly of the greatest importance in covering a mile from standing start in 52 seconds."

The several records established by the Hudson stock model were: Flying start mile, 88.2028 m. p. h.; flying start kilometer, 88.207 m. p. h.; flying start five kilometers, 88.105 m. p. h.; flying start five miles, [illegible] m. p. h.; standing start one mile, 68.252 m. p. h.; flying start one kilometer, in second gear, 70.319 m. p. h.; flying start mile, in second gear, 69.224 m. p. h.

Car Taken From Stock.

Excepting only the latter mark, which was seven miles an hour faster than the previous record, all of the new marks bettered the existing ones by approximately two miles an hour.

The records are official, the tests having been supervised by the A. A. A. The representatives in charge were T. E. Allen, secretary of the A. A. A. Contest Board; Warren Baker, chief steward of the Contest Board; Odis Porter, electric timing expert, and T. E. (Pop) Myers, referee of the Contest Board. They selected the car for the tests from the showroom of the Hudson and Terraplane distributor in Jacksonville.

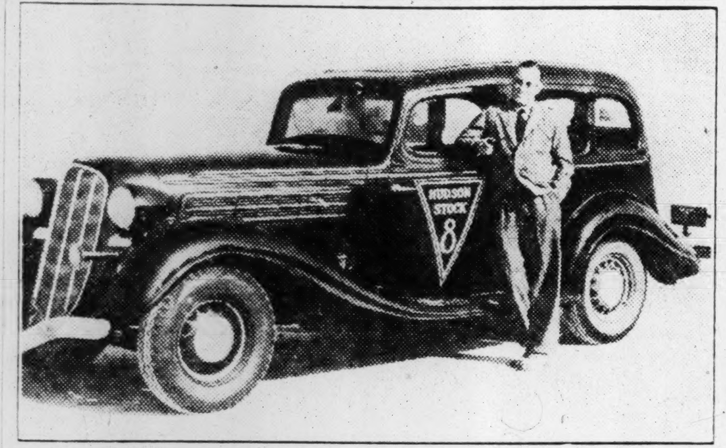
In Ford Sales Conference

A. M. Jenkins, in charge of truck and commercial car sales for the St. Louis Branch Ford Motor Co., in conference with Ford factory officials in Chicago. During a recent two-day meeting of commercial sales heads of 14 Ford mid-west branches, dealers' sales policies and service problems were discussed. D. J. Hutchins, Ford executive in charge of truck and commercial car sales at Dearborn, Mich., was in charge. In the picture are—(left to right)—M. V. Fee, supervisor and Eastern region commercial sales; Hutchins; Jenkins; Dale Roeder, chief engineer of the Ford commercial division; standing—Robert E. Burns, Hitchins' assistant.

Two Record Breakers



Sir Malcolm Campbell, the British driver of "Bluebird" fame, and the stock Hudson Eight sedan which he drove to seven new A. A. A. records on Daytona Beach, Florida. The Hudson carried full equipment in the speed runs, including horns and bumpers.

Mack Truck Branch Becomes Distributer Of Reo Cars, Trucks

Reo Division Set Up to Handle Line as Addition to Mack Trucks.

The Mack International Motor Truck Corporation, Jefferson and Chouteau avenues, has been appointed distributer in St. Louis and the surrounding territory, including Missouri and Illinois, of Reo passenger cars and trucks. This is in addition to the regular line of Mack trucks.

James J. Byrne, branch manager, has been connected with the Mack International Truck Corporation for more than 17 years. He has been in St. Louis about one year. He will have complete charge of Reo operations. He has appointed James D. Connell as sales manager for the Reo Division. Connell has been with the Reo organization for the past 10 years, having served at the Chicago branch. In 1927, he was distributer for Reo in Denver and in 1929 was stationed at New Orleans.

The Mack branch service department is under the direction of A. T. Thorell, assisted by E. R. Ackland, who has charge of parts.

A complete 1935 line of Reo passenger cars, Speed Wagons and trucks is now on display at the large Mack branch showroom at Jefferson and Chouteau. The Reo trucks range from ½-ton to five-ton capacity, and the prices are lower than ever before.

The spacious building occupied by the Mack International Truck Corporation covers 60,000 square feet and contains every modern facility for service. A complete line of Reo parts will be stocked.

Packard's New 120 Model Officially Put in Production

With a ceremony attended by civic, professional and industrial leaders of Detroit, the first motor car factory added to the automobile industry in several years was officially put into production Wednesday. It is the plant in which the Packard Motor Car Co. is building its new lower-priced car, the 120.

Merry and Krauss To Be Reo Dealer in Metropolitan Area

H. C. Merry and George A. Krauss, who were associated for 12 years in ownership and operation of the Wilson Motor Car Co., distributor of motor cars, have organized the Merry-Krauss Motor Co., which has been appointed metropolitan dealer in Reo automobiles, Speed Wagons and trucks.

Their offices and display rooms will be at 3920 Lindell boulevard, where Merry has conducted a specialized brake, shock absorber and wheel alignment service for the past eight years. Extensive alterations have been made for the purpose of displaying, selling and servicing Reo cars and trucks.

Merry states that the brake, shock absorber and wheel alignment service station will be continued with the same trained engineers in charge. Service men trained in the Reo factory will have charge of service for Reo cars and trucks. Special factory equipment is being installed for handling service work on all makes of cars.

A complete line of 1935 Reo passenger cars will be on display, with a special showing of the exclusive Reo self-shifting transmission, which greatly simplifies driving and makes it easier, particularly in traffic.

Prices of the new line of Reo cars and trucks are the lowest in Reo's history, the new two-door Flying Cloud models selling as low as $795 f. o. b. factory, and the 1½-ton Speed Wagon, $535 at factory.

Only St. Louis Entry In Arena Baby Auto Races Has Front Drive

The only front drive baby racing car in the Arena races and the only one entry from St. Louis is driven by Ray Schacht and sponsored by the Eddie C. Miller Auto Repair Co.

It has a wheelbase of 72 inches and a tread of 42 inches. It is powered with a Henderson motorcycle engine, has a Winfield down-draft carburetor and special wheels that cost $90 without the tires.

It is capable of approximately 70 miles per hour on the straightaway.

Buick Executives Address Rally of Dealers in St. Louis

The Buick Motor Car Co. held its spring rally Wednesday at the Hotel Coronado. The meeting was attended by 140 Buick dealers and salesmen in the Metropolitan St. Louis district.

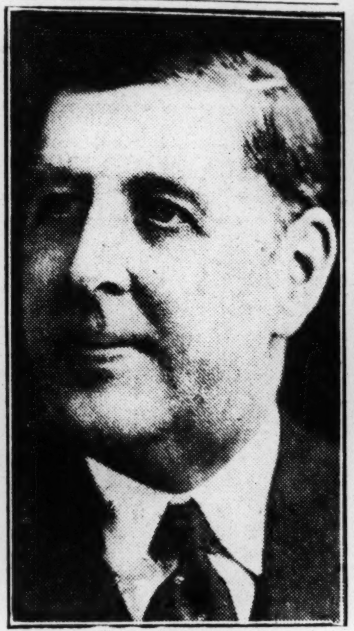
C. L. Alexander, zone manager, outlined the large advertising campaign that Buick has planned for this year.

O. V. Klemm, assistant zone manager, explained to the dealers in detail the position that Buick holds in its price class as well as the standing of the Buick car in the St. Louis territory.

D. O. McDonald, service manager for the Buick Motor Car Co., discussed improvements that have been made in the 1935 Buick car and a service policy.

At the close of the meeting, Alexander introduced D. E. Castles of the West Side Buick Co., who is on the Missouri State Code Authority Board.

ST. LOUISAN WINS SALESMAN HONOR



C. C. GRAHAM.

ST. LOUISAN, who has been admitted to Cadillac Merit Men for the fourth consecutive year. A salesman for the Oliver-Cadillac Co., he ranks thirteenth among Cadillac-La Salle salesmen of the country.

St. Louis Salesman In Cadillac Merit Men Club for Fourth Year

Guy W. Oliver, president of the Oliver Cadillac Co., said yesterday that he had received word from L. P. Fisher, president of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., that C. C. Graham of his organization has won membership in the Cadillac Merit Men, which consists of the leading Cadillac-La Salle retail salesmen in the United States. Only 95 out of 2000 salesmen were admitted to this select group as a result of their work in 1934.

Graham has been with the Cadillac organization 12 years, and this is the fourth consecutive year in which he has won membership in this exclusive star salesmen's honorary club. His ranking is thirteenth in the United States among Cadillac salesmen in net dollar volume which exceeded $100,000 in cash brought in, considerably higher than sales performance in metropolitan centers such as New York City and Chicago.

South Side Chevrolet Opens a Division for Carondelet, Luxemburg

South Side Chevrolet, Inc., has added a Carondelet-Luxemburg division for a Chevrolet new car and used car sales headquarters for Carondelet and the adjoining part of St. Louis County. The firm's new division is at 7710 Ivory avenue, at Virginia avenue.

In the new Carondelet-Luxemburg quarters, the firm will have on display at all times a complete line of used cars and trucks as well as the full line of 1935 Chevrolet cars, trucks and commercial cars.

The proprietors of South Side Chevrolet, Inc., are Joseph E. Burger and Marvin P. Yates. They have put S. P. Mothershead in charge of the new division with Louis H. Smith and A. L. Butcher as assistants.

THEY'RE SAFE—IN AN ALL-STEEL BODY

—a feature of the big, rugged New-Value Dodge

THE first Dodge car ever built had an all-steel body. It wasn't chance . . . it wasn't "climbing on a bandwagon" that led Dodge to the safety of the all-steel body. It was progressive engineering, the urge to pioneer, to lead and not follow in vital, important automobile improvements.

These Dodge bodies have been tested and proved by owners for over 20 years, everywhere, in constant daily use. Dodge not only pioneered the all-steel body but has constantly perfected it over the years.

So, too, with hydraulic brakes. First introduced by Dodge many years ago, Dodge has constantly developed them. Today, Dodge gives you hydraulic brakes that are long past the experimental stage. For in Dodge you get perfected, dual-cylinder hydraulic brakes—safer, more dependable, more economical than other types.

Now Dodge pioneers again the "Airglide Ride", in which you speed smoothly along with new comfort, skimming over bumps without a tremor or jar, taking the curves safely, without sidesway. Another new contribution to motoring ease is "Synchromatic Control", which makes driving unbelievably easy and effortless.

You'll recognize this Dodge as a prize beauty the minute you see it. But you must drive it to see how far ahead of others it is in power and speed, comfort and economy, safety and performance.

DRAMA-MUSIC-MOVIES

Movie-Making Process A Highly Organized Art

Technical Staffs Take Charge of Story From Very Beginning — Much Preparation Necessary Before Filming.

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23.

WANT to know how a picture is made from the ground up? Its evolution from its first stage, the story idea, to its finished form as seven or eight reel strip of celluloid over a mile and a half long with vocal sound track down one edge? We dare say that you, along with most everyone else, has written a scenario or expect to write one when you can get around to it. When you do, read it to your friends, if they will listen, and then throw it away. Don't sent it out to a studio. It won't even be opened.

Pictures are made from original stories all right, but the writers are caged dramatists working for the studios on a weekly salary—Paramount alone has 60 of 'em. Otherwise they are taken, with proper credit and pay, from published fiction, produced plays and musical comedies. At most studios practically all stories are prepared with a certain star or group of players in mind. The task of preparing stories and plays for filming is left to a trained corps of scenario writers. When it is decided to make something into a movie the head of the studio production department assigns the picture to an associate producer who, in turn, picks the writers to handle it.

First, it has to be adapted for the screen. That is, it has to be so changed that it tells itself through pictures, rather than the printed word. That is done by writers trained to see stories through the eyes of the camera. Situations that cannot be filmed are eliminated. Then, it must be written into continuity as a screen play.

THE director who is to make the picture is usually assigned at the time the writers are selected, that he may work hand-in-hand with the scenarists throughout the development of the story.

Research workers get busy providing data for the writers and looking up information to be used later by the various production units. Progress of the story is carefully watched by the editorial and production heads and by the time the script is finished and approved, the studio production manager knows what settings will be required, what wardrobe is needed, whether or not there will be a location trip, the number and type of principal characters and extra players needed, and what properties and set dressings are required.

The casting office fills roles, with the approval of the associate producer of the picture. The art department submits to the production manager blueprint plans of the various sets. When these are approved, actual scene construction begins.

Working for a costume plot, the wardrobe department prepares the clothing needed for the picture. Designers plan and sketch the outfits to be worn by the principal characters. When these are approved, the work of the fitters, dressmakers and tailor begins. In most cases, the male players provide their own wardrobes. All gowns worn by feminine stars or featured players are especially designed and made by the studio for each picture. The wardrobe department also has to assemble the character clothing for minor role and extra players.

WHILE all of these units are completing their preparations for the start of camera work, the assistant director and company business manager are busy selecting "properties" needed for the production. Some of these have to be built by the studio "prop shop," others have to be purchased, and in many instances they are obtained from out-of-the-way places of foreign lands. The director keeps careful check of the property selections, as he does of most of the preparatory work.

The next step is the drawing up of the "shooting," or actual working, schedule. This is carefully worked out by the associate producer, the production manager, the director and the company business manager. The schedule allots a certain number of days for the making of the picture and details what scenes are to be taken each day. When all of this preparatory work is done, the filming begins.

While the production units have been getting ready for the call of "camera," the players have been doing their own preparing. Sometimes this involves the growing of a beard by a male player. There is always the wardrobe fitting ordeal to be gone through with by the feminine players. In the talking pictures, days of rehearsal precede actual production.

With cameras finally turning, the laboratory workers have their part to play. They make positive prints of the negative film turned to them each day from the unit in production. Then the film editors and cutters shape that positive into continuity as a picture. When the last scene has been taken and the production closed, the negative is cut to correspond with the edited and approved positive print. More prints are struck off for exhibition, and the evolution from idea to film has been accomplished.

Maybe it is good.

Burton Holmes on Russia.

Clark Gable and Constance Bennett in "After Office Hours," Loew's.

Deering to Play Brahms Concerto on Symphony Program

BRAHMS' CONCERTO NO. 1 IN D MINOR will be the major work, and Henri Deering, young pianist and former St. Louisan, will be soloist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Vladimir Golschmann at the regular concerts at the Municipal Auditorium Friday at 2:30 p. m. and Saturday at 8:30 p. m.

The program opens with Albert Roussel's "Suite in F," a miniature work by one of the most distinguished of living French composers, based upon the old form of the classis suite. There follows a modern suite in Darius Milhaud's "Souvenirs of Brazil," a work which the composer based upon his study of the dance rhythms of Latin America, while he was in the French diplomatic service at Rio de Janeiro. The first half of the program concludes with a presentation of three numbers, "Evocation," "Corpus Christi at Seville" and "Triana" from the orchestral transcription by E. Fernandez Arbos of the piano suite of his friend Isaac Albeniz.

After beginning piano study in St. Louis, Deering went to Paris where he became the pupil of Isadore Phillip, and thence continued on to Berlin where he completed his work under Artur Schnabel, making his professional debut in Berlin in 1922. He has appeared several times with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and also in recital here. The complete program for the concerts is:

Suite in F, Opus 33 .... Roussel
1 Prelude
2 Sarabande
3 Gigue
"Suadades do Brazil" ("Souvenirs of Brazil") .... Mihaud
1 Overture
2 Sorocaba
3 Leme
4 Ipanema
5 Corcovado
Three Excerpts from the Piano Suite "Iberia" .... Albeniz
(Arranged for orchestra by E. Fernandez Arbos)
1 Evocation
2 Fete Dieu a Seville
3 Triana
Concerto in D minor for Piano and Orchestra, No. 1, Opus 15 .. Brahms
1 Maestoso
2 Adagio
3 Rondo: Allegro non troppo

Poldi Mildner, Young Viennese Pianist, In Recital Tuesday

Poldi Mildner, 19-year-old Viennese pianist, will appear in recital Tuesday evening at the Municipal Auditorium, in the fourth of the regular series given by the Civic Music League.

A pupil of the Rosenthals, noted teachers, Miss Mildner made her debut with the Vienna Symphony Orchestra, at the age of 11. Thereafter, she extensively toured Europe and, accompanied by her mother, came to America. Her first appearance in New York City was at the Town Hall. Twice she has been soloist with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Arturo Toscanini. The program she will play Tuesday evening:

Praeludium and Fugue, D-major ..... Bach-Busoni
Sonata, E-flat major .... Haydn
"Carnival" .... Schumann
Nocturne .... Chopin
Barcarolle .... Chopin
"Reflets dans Peau" .... Debussy
"Suggestion Diabolique" .... Prokofieff
Variations on a Theme of Paganini . Brahms

Grace Moore Film Into Production

Grace Moore's new picture, "On Wings of Song," has gone into production in Hollywood. After 10 days of voice tests and auditions in which hundreds of singers were heard, choruses for the huge musical numbers were selected and have been rehearsed for the critical ear of Victor Schertzinger who will direct the picture.

Actual recording is under way, using a "hill-and-dale" method which proved so effective in capturing the Moore voice in "One Night of Love." Further improvement in the sound recording system is offered in a device which prevents blasting or overloading when the higher notes are recorded.

Ambassador Drops Stage Show Policy

Stage shows at the Ambassador Theater, which have been running since the earlier part of December, will be discontinued after this week in favor of a straight picture policy, with single and double bills. Fanchon and Marco, managers of the Fox and Missouri, as well as the Ambassador, operated stage shows at the Missouri for a few weeks beginning with the holiday season. Pictures to be shown at the Ambassador soon are "Night Life of the Gods," directed by the late Lowell Sherman; "Let's Live Tonight," with Tullio Carminati and Lillian Harvey, and "Outcast Lady," with Constance Bennett and Herbert Marshall.

Annual Academy Prizes Become "Free-for-All"

Revolt Starts When Bette Davis Is Not Nominated—Awards to Be Made at Wednesday Night Banquet.

A HOLLYWOOD revolt has been successful and the annual merit awards affair of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, set for a banquet on Wednesday night, promises to be a "free-for-all" contest.

For fellow actresses and actors of Bette Davis, surprised and resentful because she was not listed in the final nominations, threatened to write in her name even if she couldn't win thereby. Partisans of Myrna Loy, too, were aroused and the Academy, after consulting various nominees, has permitted the writing-in of names on the ballots as a legitimate manner of voting, for anybody.

What Miss Davis thought of the nominating committee's action is not a matter of record, but she must have suffered some disappointment. A little more than three years ago she had packed her trunks and was ready to leave Hollywood when she was rescued from screen oblivion by George Arliss, to play the lead opposite him in "The Man Who Played God," just two days before her scheduled departure for New York. Some studio executive had declared that "Bette Davis has no more sex appeal than Slim Summerville." So they called the little blonde "Slim" in Hollywood and she set out to show them.

HER part in "Cabin in the Cotton" was notable and with "Of Human Bondage" she made a reputation. But she gave no sign of displeasure when the nominations were announced. She didn't have to. Columnists and critics and a whole section of actors took up their cudgels.

So much of a storm has been raised that the so-called "Nobel prizes of the movie industry" may be abandoned altogether after this year.

If precedent had been followed the year's winners of prizes for the best acting in 1934 would have been selected from this list of nominees: (men's division) Clark Gable, for his performance in "It Happened One Night," Frank Morgan for "The Affairs of Cellini," William Powell for "The Thin Man"; (women's division) Claudette Colbert for "It Happened One Night," Norma Shearer for "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" and Grace Moore for "One Night of Love."

The nominations, therefore, ignored Miss Davis' amazing performance as the disgusting little Mildred in "Of Human Bondage," which probably was the most talked-of performance of last year. Myrna Loy also has not been forgotten by the movie populace who saw "The Thin Man."

The Academy, which started out its career as an organization to settle the disputes arising in the industry and to encourage the advancement of the picture-making business generally, made its first awards in 1928 to Emil Jannings and Janet Gaynor. In 1929, Mary Pickford and Warner Baxter were winners; in 1930, Norma Shearer and George Arliss.

GOLD statuettes the next year went to Marie Dressler and Lionel Barrymore; in 1932 awards were made to Helen Hayes and Frederic March and Wallace Beery, co-winners. The last winners were Katharine Hepburn and Charles Laughton.

A variety of prizes are given for technical achievement but the real heart of the contest is found in the awards for actor and actress. Hollywood sentiment, pretty strong now for discontinuing them, is based on these convictions:

First, the nominations are made and votes taken in the Academy, which now has less than 100 players in its ranks, while more than 4000 are enrolled in the Screen Actors' Guild. The awards are regarded as no longer expressing the opinions of the players themselves. Second, there is the matter of Miss Davis, and third, sheer boredom on the part of players with the whole thing.

"Rightly or wrongly, there has always been a feeling that the academy was controlled by the producers," Kenneth Thomson, actor and high executive of the Screen Actors' Guild, declared last week. "Therefore, the annual awards were never a sincere expression on the part of the players who voted."

Thomson said he did not believe the Screen Actors' Guild would usurp the function, although its heavy membership could make the awards official.

"So far as the actors are concerned, they have been bored with it for a long time. There are always a number of outstanding performances over a period of a year. It's only a matter of opinion which is the best of them," he said.

Thomson indicated that as a result, the selection of players to receive the award frequently resolved itself into a personal popularity contest.

The academy ranks were broken and thinned some time ago when film workers and producers disagreed on a code of working conditions, salaries and contracts. Bolters formed the Screen Actors' Guild and the Screen Writers' Guild. Last year the latter organization held its own "awards" vote and made its presentation.

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS :: :: By Colvin McPherson

THE Columbia picture studio, which has been atoning for the sins of various other picture-makers who waste good material repeats its practice notably in bringing Edward G. Robinson back with a bang in "The Whole Town's Talking" at the Ambassador this week. Robinson, not so long ago, was getting the best of the breaks, but somehow drifted into such miserable ventures as "The Man With Two Faces" which, despite the fine actor that he is, were just too much for him to carry. Columbia picked him up for "The Whole Town's Talking" and there can be little doubt that Robinson is right up thar in big letters again. It will be repetition almost to boredom to recall Columbia's similar successes and its dozen good deeds to players in "It Happened One Night," "One Night of Love," "Twentieth Century" and "Broadway Bill." Here is another picture for the list, an uproarious comedy, a scalp-tightening melodrama, one of the best pictures of the first part of 1935. Robinson has two roles, one of a hard-boiled gang leader (Dillinger, unless I'm fooled) and a modest clerk who looks like Dillinger—Robinson, I mean. The peace-loving one, of course, is mistaken for the gangster. The air gets filled with fun, which clears after two or three reels when the authentic gangster, learning that Robinson has a letter of immunity, appears and demands the letter. He even takes up temporary residence in Robinson's rooms. A few moments of colossal timidity, which are hard to believe, and the show is off again, lickety-split, to a hat-smashing finish. It would be impossible to detail the myriad comic situations, the many, many examples of Robinson's sly acting. His two people, to the end, remain two people. The supporting cast which the studio. has assembled represents the best bargain-shopping in years. Direction was by John Ford, who, among more significant things, did "The Lost Patrol." A study of the crowd scenes, of action all the way through will reveal how he strikes the mark. The Ambassador, which is abandoning stage shows after this week, takes a deep bow with Paul Ash.

After Office Hours

TRACES of "The Thin Man" are everywhere through the picture at Loew's. A genuine murder, with a body and all that, are treated as casually as a theater party. Clark Gable is managing editor of a New York paper, Constance Bennett a music reviewer from the top side of life. Clark sees a society scandal in the offing and promotes a personal acquaintance with Constance in order to get in the front door with the important people. The scandal reaches the point of murder and passes it. Then it is Clark's self-assigned task to investigate the killing, still using Connie as entree. So, on and on, until they marry. The murder is solved, too, but that's just something for the papers. Gable himself settles any doubt that his place in Hollywood is that of a comedian, an amusing lover rather than a poetic one. Miss Bennett, too, has some bright lines, principally those in which she puts Clark on ice. Add to that Billie Burke in one of her giddiest portrayals, Stuart Erwin as Clark's "stooge," costly settings, a good deal of rolling around on the floor and a kind of passing interest in crime, and you have "After Office Hours." In a short subject, "Star Night at Cocoanut Grove," are advance glimpses of how most of the stars will look in Technicolor. Mary Pickford, Bing Crosby, Mae West, Carl Brisson, Lanny Ross, Gary Cooper, Richard Cromwell, Leo Carillo and many others appear in a whole spectrum of complexions through pink, bronze, copper, copper sulphate.

The Little Colonel

COLOR is one of the points of interest also in "The Little Colonel," the Shirley Temple picture at the Fox, which ends with an all-pink party for Shirley at the home of old Col. Lionel Barrymore at his big house in Kentucky. Artistically speaking, the hues are about on a level with the calendars George Bungle collects or the tinted portraits of the door-to-door salesman. Audiences respond to color immediately, but when a blush has a tendency to leave its owner's cheek and wander next door and when flowers on bushes have an aura of blue around them, it is too much of an improvement on nature even for an imaginative Burbank. Shirley gives a fine singing-dancing-acting portrayal as the grandchild who unites a family. She is especially charming when dancing with Bill Robinson, celebrated Negro hoofer. The rest is just something about a villain or two who lose (crime doesn't pay even in the 1870's). The Fox also offers "Princess Charming," a comic opera for Evelyn Laye and Henry (Marc Antony) Wilcoxon. The scene is somewhere in the European backwoods where a prima donna can keep her subjects under control simply by singing. Certain modern touches, such as a very funny dictator, raise the question: Why doesn't somebody write a musical comedy based on some of the dictators of today? Anyway, Evelyn Laye's delightful voice is at last correctly placed on celluloid and the whole picture is not half bad.

Sweet Music

MR. VALLEE has my consent to go on exhibiting his down East countenance on the screens of the country and of the Orpheum in particular, as long as he pleases. In "Sweet Music," he unbuttons his collar and aside from some of the best crooning, as crooning goes, blossoms out as a pretty fair comedian. Can he help it if the story, one of those come-to-me, go-from-me romances, is inane or the technique in chorus scenes not a micromillimeter ahead of some of the musicals of the early talkie era? No, he can't. And can he help it if seltzer bottle stuff is the top humor? Not guilty. "Sweet Music" is of value for Vallee's singing, especially of "The Good Green Acres" and "There Is a Tavern in the Town." It seems to me that some fortune teller prognosticated that Helen Morgan would simply wow them in this picture. To that worthy lady or gentleman this message: Wrong, guess again. "Dangerous Corner," the second Orpheum picture, presents a situation in which a murder, covered up and almost forgotten, is brought up for an airing in a parlor conversation. The producers coyly provide two endings to the picture. You pays your money, etc. The show is interesting, nevertheless, with some splendid performances, namely, those of Virginia Bruce, Ian Keith and Melvyn Douglas.

Baboona

WILD animal pictures are in a special class. "Baboona," at the Missouri this week, must be taken for its unique appeal or rejected for the same reason. It reviews the Martin Johnsons' most recent two-year trip to Africa. Special aerial features are flights around Mount Kenya and Kilimanjaro and shots of herds of the various beasts of the African plains. The chief episode is the exodus of a thriving baboon colony from one residence to another, hence the name of the picture, as Ed Wynn would say. In particular, the leader of the baboon colony may be a source of envy to many moviegoers, since he has the sublime ability to express in yawning what we think of dull movies. "Gridiron Flash" is about football and Eddie Quillan. A loyal alumnus plucks backfield material from Sing Sing or San Quentin or some such place.

I Sell Anything

PAT O'BRIEN, one of the better performers in the movies, has a new picture, "I Sell Anything," almost to himself. He does his work very well but there probably was no other reason for filming the picture than to have him work, unless it be to warn the public of all the tricks at fake public auctions. Pat is the auctioneer who works his way from Second avenue up to Central Park. The better forces of life triumph and punishment is light. The picture comes to the Shubert Tuesday with "Home on the Range," a Western, a not-very-good Western, I am sorry to say.

Eating a Dramatic Art.

Consumption of food is one of the principal duties of the cast in the play, "Laburnum Grove," now at the Booth Theater in New York City. Edmund Gwenn, British leading player, has to do away with a Sunday night supper of ham and salad and porter, stewed fruit, cheese and bread, with the audience watching every chew. Melville Cooper, an important member of the supporting cast, eats six bananas at each performance. On matinee days the two eat nothing at all other than what they consume during the play. The actors went through the same procedure during the play's 14-months' run in London.

EXTENSION ASKED FOR CANVASS ON MODERNIZATION

Two Weeks Required to Finish Task, Director Ring Says—Pledges Total $13,449,117 —Thursday Set for Close.

The better housing campaign in St. Louis and St. Louis County, conducted by the Federal Housing Administration and the Chambers of Commerce of city and county, since Nov. 5, will be brought to a close next Thursday, Feb. 28, so far as now known.

Expenditures totaling $4,500,980 for improvements of residential and business properties have been reported by 14,975 property owners, it was announced yesterday by John Ring Jr., managing director of the campaign.

Improvements to cost $167,797 were pledged during the week ended Thursday, bringing to $13,449,117 the total expenditures to be made, Ring stated. Pledges have been received from 46,850 property owners during the campaign.

"One of the most thorough canvasses that has ever been made in St. Louis and nearby communities of the county is nearing completion, with the campaign to end next Thursday, unless the Federal Government approves our request to continue the program with the present staff of people, who have been assigned from FERA rolls, for an additional two weeks' canvass to complete the work," Ring said. "Members of the field force have made more than 500,000 calls on property owners, and of these, 229,957 are recorded as 'completed calls'—meaning that the property owner either has signed a pledge to undertake a special amount of improvement, or has decided that it is impossible to do so, or that they are not needed."

The field workers now are engaged primarily in making a recheck to determine the amount of work completed, and to ascertain when uncompleted work is expected to start. In this phase of the campaign, members of the force have made 32,556 calls on those who previously had signed pledges.

In types of improvements pledged, painters, carpenters and paper hangers lead in benefits, the total pledged being 30,395, 18,636 and 16,552 in the order named, with [illegible] for miscellaneous.

PREMISES LEASED FOR TWO BUSINESS UNDERTAKINGS

Peter Scotti and Dominick Ame[illegible] have taken a long-term lease on the two-story building lot, 21x65 feet, at 812 Pine street, for operation of a bar and cafe, after installing modern fixtures and equipment, opening about March 16. The lease was made for the Drosten estate, all parties in the transaction being represented by Arthur S. Martin & Son.

The same agency reports having leased to Roy K. Lockhart and wife the store at 4908 Maryland avenue, in which they will conduct a specialty business in ladies', misses' and juniors' wearing apparel, starting about March 10. Improvements of the store and installation of modern fixtures are being hurried to that end. Options have been taken on additional space on the ground and second floors. The property was leased from A. M. and N. E. Banister and B. M. Sherrill, as trustees of the Bannister estate, Arthur S. Martin & Son representing both interests.

SINGLE FLAT, RESIDENCE AND TWO VACANT LOTS SOLD

The Jos. F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., which recently opened a branch office in the Dickmann Bldg., Grand boulevard and Arsenal street, reports consummation of the following sales:

[illegible] Lackland avenue, brick single flat of 5 and 5 rooms, steam heat, lot 30x125 feet, to George D. Werner, for Clementine E. Puthoff. [illegible] Caroline street, 7-room brick residence, steam heat, lot 25x125 feet, to Carrie E. Stone for Mayme A. E. Rogers, to occupy as a home; two Walsh avenue lots, 30 feet each, on north side, 484 feet west of [illegible], for Charles Oheim to [illegible] Fassel Jr.

SELLS DUPLEX DWELLING AT 7212 TULANE AVENUE

The Blumenfeld Realty Co. reports the sale last week of an attractive duplex dwelling at 7212 Tulane avenue, University City, to J. [illegible] for a client, both parties being represented by the Blumenfeld company.

The same agency reports numerous leases of dwelling houses and apartments.

DELMAR BLVD. BUSINESS SPACE TAKEN UNDER LEASE

The Fletcher R. Harris Realty Co. last week closed a lease on the building at 4710-14 Delmar boulevard to Dubman & Son, Inc., dealers in hardware, paints and chemicals. The agreement was on account of the Ricon Investment Co., the Harris agency representing both principals.

LANDMARK COUNTY HOME UNDERGOING MODERNIZATION

Historic Outbuildings on Former Hornsby Estate Included in Replanning.

The former country home of Barney Schreiber, a conspicuous landmark in the Florissant Valley, is undergoing thorough modernization, through the initative of Claude R. Fooshe, recent purchaser of the property, which until a year or so ago belonged to Rogers Hornsby, now manager of the Browns' baseball team.

The original house was erected early in the fifties, but there were various Victorian additions from time to time. Fooshe at once saw the possibilities of converting the residence into a typical colonial mansion. Advised and guided by Study & Farrar, architects, he is retaining all the lines of the old house. The Victorian one-story porch which ran around three sides of the house, destroying its outline, has been remodeled and succeeded by a massive colonial portice serving as the main entrance. The ginger bread Victorian cornices also have been eliminated, classic designs taking their place, the windows, which formerly had large sheets of glass, will be broken up into small panes.

The architects have been instructed by the owner to convert the interior of the house into a thoroughly modern residence, but to preserve carefully the colonial atmosphere. The two side parlors have been thrown into one immense living room, the Victorian mantels have been torn out and marble ones of the Greek revival period, colonial style will replace them.

The heating plant will be revamped and brought up to date, and the kitchen and pantries are to be replanned, having all the modern cabinets and gadgets that go with the modern idea. The various outbuildings, some of which were slave quarters, will be restored to their original condition. Many of these are of unsual construction, having underneath them wine and fruit cellars in the form of subbasements having brick arched ceilings.

The modernization construction is being done by George J. Weber, contractor, on plans and specifications prepared by Study & Farrar.

RENEWS BUSINESS HOME LEASE FOR LONGEST TERM

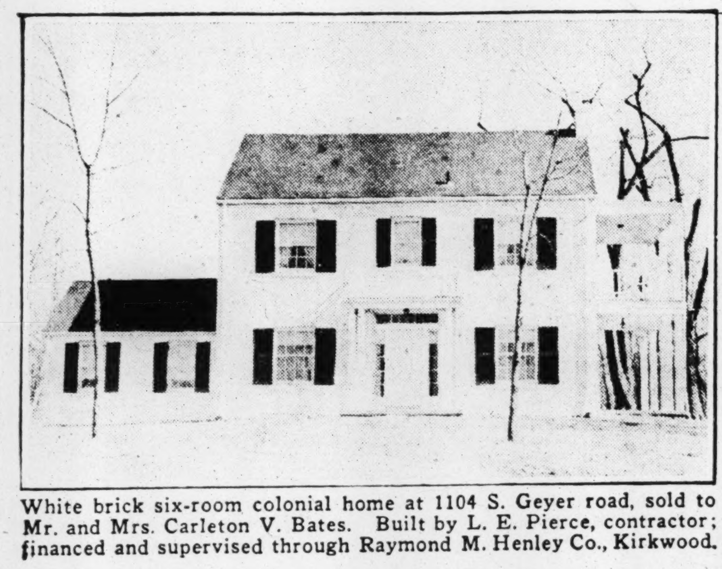
The Lindell Real Estate Co. announced yesterday that a lease had been signed by it, as lessor, and the Harris-Polk Hat Co., as lessee, covering approximately 95,000 square feet of space in the building on the northeast corner of Thirteenth street and Washington avenue. President Davis, of the Real Estate Co. stated that the Harris-Polk business has improved so much that it had decided to take the longest lease the Lindell Co. would make on the space now occupied, and an additional floor that heretofore it has sublet. Davis also stated that his company has only one or two vacancies and 85 tenants are occupying space in this and other buildings owned by this company, with rents slightly higher than last year.

FIVE LEASES OF BUSINESS PROPERTIES REPORTED CLOSED

Haas & Alt report that practically all of their flats, apartments and business properties are rented or under lease. Recent leases are as follows: 2201-3 North Broadway, for tavern and restaurant, to Albert Konetzka; 2409 North Union boulevard, store, to Holland Furnace Co. for sales room; Lindbergh boulevard, at New York street, filling station, to L. W. Cope; barbecue stand to Fuchs Brothers, and store to Dinty Moore, for a tavern and amusement parlor.

NAME AND MANAGEMENT OF MISSOURI HOTEL CHANGED

Change of name and management of the Missouri Hotel, Locust and Eleventh streets, was announced last week. It will henceforth be known as Hotel De Soto, and is to be under the supervision of Charles Schimmel of Omaha, Neb., operator of four hatels. Edwardi J. Hennessey will be the resident maanger. Modernization to the extent of approximately $75,000 is planned, work having started.



White brick six-room colonial home at 1104 S. Geyer road, sold to Mr. and Mrs. Carleton V. Bates. Built by L. E. Pierce, contractor; financed and supervised through Raymond M. Henley Co., Kirkwood.

EIGHT LEASES OF PREMISES FOR BUSINESS NEGOTIATED

Arthur H. Fuldner, manager of the commercial leasing department of Orean E. & R. G. Scott, announces having closed the following leases:

To Edward N. Curran, storeroom at 5903 Easton avenue, for use as an appliance store. He was formerly employed as General Electric distributer here, and has opened the new store. To Lungstras Dyeing & Cleaning Co., storeroom on the southeast corner of Euclid and McPherson avenues, and will move into it as soon as alterations and repairs have been completed. To W. W. Motor Sales Co., 3033 Locust street, for used cars and automobile repairing and painting, the building it is now occupying. To Sam Rosenblatt and Ben Gomberg, storeroom at 5905 Easton avenue, for use as an automobile accessory shop and hardware store, as soon as fixtures and equipment can be installed. To Allied Carpet Dyeing & Cleaning Co., storeroom at 2638 Olive street. Three stores at 2604-8 Olive to Arrow Distilling Co., for warehouse and office. Storeroom at 211-13 North Jefferson avenue, to National Distributing Co.

Fuldner also announced having closed a long-term lease on 815-17 Washington avenue to the New Yorker, Inc., as a second unit in its system of liquor stores and taverns in St. Louis. The space on the ground floor is 29x150 feet, and will be entirely modernized, including a new front, interior alterations and installation of fixtures and equipment, the cost being approximately $35,000. S. Hollander and M. J. Carl, in charge of the company's interests, plan to open on April 1. Owners of the building were represented by Thomas Stevens and the tenants by Fuldner.

REALTY BROKERS' DIVISION LUNCHEON MEETING TUESDAY

The monthly luncheon meeting of the brokers' division of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange will be held next Tuesday, 12:15 p. m., in the large dining hall on eleventh floor of the American Annex Hotel. It will be given over to consideration of the projected national expansion memorial on the river front, covering the area east of Third street, between the Municipal and Eads bridges. Luther Ely Smith, chairman of the Jefferson National Expansion Association, created by Congressional act, will be the speaker, devoting his address to discussion of that subject. Luncheon tickets are 50 cents, to be had in the exchange office, and it is announced that none will be sold after 5 p. m. Monday.

Details of the meeting are in charge of J. Melvin Levi, chairman of the division, and Ralph J. Crane, chairman of the committee on meetings and entertainment.

SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDEND AT 5 PER CENT RATE DECLARED

The Hamiltonian Building, Loan and Savings Association, at its recent meeting, voted a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent per annum. This was the association's twenty-ninth consecutive and uninterrupted semi-annual dividend.

BAG COMPANY PURCHASES NORTH ST. LOUIS BUILDING

The Breitt & Naumer Realty Co. reports having sold to I. Greenberg, president of the Republic Bag Co., the southeast corner of Blair and Mullanphy streets. The building has three stories, containing 30,000 square feet of floor space, and covers a lot 75x127.6 feet, including a driveway. The purchase was made necessary by condemnation of property now occupied by this company to make way for the Twelfth street widening. The property purchased is on the new boulevard. It was sold for the Goessling estate, Eugene L. Wehmeyer representing both the estate and the purchaser.

SALES EXCEEDING $104,000 CLOSED IN LAST QUARTER

E. W. Prange & Co. report the closing of sales of investment and residential properties during the last 90 days, aggregating more than $104,000. Sales closed last week include a modern four-family flat at 3725-27 North Newstead avenue, and a vacant lot on which a bungalow will be erected at once on Ruskin avenue.

Natural Bridge Road Widening Hastened by Normandy Activities

Improvement Association Gives Practical Support to Project From Pine Lawn to Florissant Road.

Natural Bridge road, from Pine Lawn to its junction with Florissant road, is to be widened without unnecessary delay, as a result of energetic and systematic endeavors by the Normandy Improvement Association, it was declared yesterday by George J. Wanstrath, a member of the committee that initiated and developed that project. From the time of his going upon the roster of Pasadena Hills residents, Wanstrath took up the improvement activity that has become his hobby, and the Normandy body soon became a solid support for that spirit.

To Pine Lawn, from Kingshighway, Natural Bridge road, with its 100-foot width, fits well into the county and state highway system. Westward from there, as far as hard-surfacing extends, it is narrow and bordered closely by ditches which menace autos and other vehicles moving over it. The danger is particularly acute at night, so that ditched machines have become familiar scenes.

Surveying of the road for widening purposes has recently been completed and turned over to the St. Louis County Highway Commission. A material part of the rights-of-way has been donated, Wanstrath stated, and the land not thus obtained will be bought or condemned as speedily as can be accomplished. The St. Louis County Court has allotted $38,000 to $40,000 to cover cost of the improvement, which the State Highway Commission will take over at the junction with Florissant road and continue with little delay to the airport.

The Normandy Improvement Association also proposes to devote special attention to the upbuilding of Lucas and Hunt road from Wellston to Florissant avenue, a thoroughfare distinct from Florissant road.

In this improvement undertaking the efforts of Wanstrath and his associates have been far more successful than those espoused as a member of the West End Improvement Association, especially with the widening of Laurel street from Delmar to Westminster, just two blocks. This fell down completely when it was made apparent that the Public Service Co. must receive a total of $100,000 to cover land and relaying of car tracks on its barn property.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY ACREAGE BOUGHT FOR INVESTMENT

Oswald L. Muckerman and E. C. Cavanaugh Each Buys 200-Acre Tract.

Sales of two acreage tracts, each of 200 acres, were concluded last week by the Carl G. Stifel Realty Co., at prices which are interpreted as significant of increasing favor of land in St. Louis County.

Edward L. Muckerman acquired title to one of the tracts. This begins about one mile west of Ellisville, lying along the Manchester road, on which it has a direct frontage of appromately 2500 feet. The other tract, purchased by E. C. Cavanaugh, abuts on Clayton and Strecker roads. It has long been known as the Ed Wolf farm, from whom it was bought. Both tracts were purchased as investments. (In view of the manifest interest in county lands, the Stifel Company has organized a special department in its west side office, to give attention exclusively to acreage.

TO DISTRIBUTE $18,820 IN HALF-YEAR DIVIDENDS

Next Friday, March 1, the Lafayette Mutual Building Association will distribute among its shareholders a total of $18,820 in dividends for the six months' period, and will also mature shares with a total value of $46,200. This association has just completed its sixty-second year. It is a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank.

BUSINESS TOTAL FOR TWO MONTHS PUT AT $219,750

January and February Said to Have Been the Best for Three Years.

H. A. O'Rourke, Inc., announced yesterday that January and February business in sales and exchanges had been the best for the past three years. To date the company, he said, have closed $219,750 worth of deals for properties, setting a new high for these two months. Following is a partial list of the more recent transactions closed during this period:

A five-five single flat, 4110 Virginia avenue, for Henry Schneider and wife, to a client; 5030-32 Pernod avenue, modern double flat, for O. B. Rutter, to E. L. Sindelar and wife; store with flat above, 5200 Quincy street, corner Moellenhoff avenue, including equipment and utensils for bakery, for Jacob Katzenberger and wife; four-family flat, 2630-32 Allen avenue, to a client, for William Breunig and wife; 5334 Lansdowne avenue, modern brick bungalow, to Henry Schneider and wife; brick residence, 4011 Connecticut street, for Loraine Haverkost and husband, to Fred L. Twiehaus and wife; 5575 Maple avenue, frame residence, 50-foot lot, for Robert Hartmann, to Catherine Lammert; 4427 Grace avenue, modern brick bungalow, to Charles H. Calvin and wife; 3652 Bowen street, brick single flat, for Mrs. Catherine Lammert, to Robert Hartmann.

A. T. O'Rourke, sales manager, reports a very spirited and successful Valentine sales contest, in which wives of the salesmen received the benefit of their respective husbands' efforts, adding that there is now being held a St. Patrick's sales contests.

KINLOCH BUILDING SPACE LEASED FOR LUNCH ROOM

The Central States Life Insurance Co., owner of the Kinloch Building, at the northwest corner of Tenth and Locust streets, last week closed a long-term lease on the second floor of the building which for eighteen years has been occupied by the St. Louis Lunch Room, known as one of the foremost noon-day lunch enterprises in the city. Mrs. J. M. Perry, who owns and operates Hotel Gibson in St. Louis, is the lessee. The space is being completely redecorated and modernized, and will be operated under the supervision of Mrs. Perry as the Kinloch Noon-day Lunch, to be opened March 1. Mrs. Perry's experience extends over several years in St. Louis, Illinois and Hot Springs, Ark. Negotiations for both interests were handled by Eugene W. Christy, manager of the Kinloch Building.

SELLS OLIVE ST. PROPERTY, LEASES BUSINESS SPACE

One of the sales consummated by Cornet & Zeibig last week, was that of 90 feet on the north side of Olive street, numbered 4035-39, improved with two 8-room residences.

It was purchased by the Hamedo Co., Inc., from the Episcopal Home for Children. Both interests in the transaction were represented by Cornet & Zeibig.

The same company reported a lease on the sixth floor of 615-17 N. Eighth street, to the Libson Hosiery Shops, Inc., which already has several stores in St. Louis. Cornet & Zeibig represented the Thomas O'Reilly Estate Co., and the lessee was represented by the Rudy Kohn Realty Co.

DISTINCTIVE HOME IN LAKE FOREST SOLD LAST WEEK

Wm. H. Frank Acquires 44 Sierra Drive, Price Paid Being in Line With Ruling Values.

The spacious dwelling of 44 Sierra Drive, Lake Forest, was sold last week by Adele Garthoeffner to Wm. H. Frank, the deal being negotiated by the Breitt & Naumer Realty Co., representing the purchaser, and the Glick Realty Co., as representative of the seller. The deal was carried to completion with but slight delay. It was stated that the consideration was closely in line with the price level that property in Lake Forest has consistently commanded.

The residence, built by Walter Jones, on a beautiful landscaped site 100x150 feet, is a splendid example of the type of homes which are heavily dotting that exclusive and highly restricted subdivision at Hanley and Clayton roads. There are three floors, covered with slate roof, adapted to sites well adapted to modern tastes, designed in impressive architectural style. Construction is practically fireproof. The first floor is terrazza, with stone and brick walls, cut stone trimmed windows. Woodwork downstairs is of black walnut trim, and that upstairs gum trimmed. It has a coal heating system with gas-fired boiler. There is a garage with quarters for chauffeur.

Entrance is into an expansive center reception hall, from which a winding terraza stairway leads to the second floor. There is a large living room, studio sun parlor, dining room and breakfast room, connected, guest room, maid's room and bath and kitchen. On the second floor are four master bedrooms with connecting sleeping porch and two baths, also dressing room. The third floor is floored but otherwise unfinished, having ample space for a large billiard room. The first floor sun parlor has an oval ceiling, with tile fountain. There is an adequate array of closets, pantries, cabinets and other features to give the premises a distinctive air of completion in every detail.

FOUR BUSINESS LEASES NEGOTIATED LAST WEEK

The Dubinsky Realty Co. closed leases as follows last week, according to report given out yesterday:

Building at 2910-12 Washington avenue, to the Grant Storage Battery Co. of Minneapolis, for occupancy as an office and warehouse; to the North Grand Motor Car Co., building at 4231 North Grand boulevard, for use as a sales and service building, the lease also including 50 feet of vacant ground adjoining for a used car sale and service lot; to the Stone Electric Co., store room at 713 Pine street, for retail electrical supply and radio business, this being a renewed lease; store room at 5516 South Kingshighway, to Minnie Nollett, to be used, after alterations, for saloon and restaurant.

LEASES CORNER BUILDING AT FLORISSANT AND LINTON

Nat Margolous, for many years at Taylor and Easton aves., has leased the building at the southeast corner of Florissant and Linton, to use as a men's and women's wearing apparel shop. The owner was represented by the Andrean Leasing Co., and the lessee by the Rudy Kohn Realty Co.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

THE MAJORITY OF MEN WHO READ THIS ADVERTISEMENT HAVE NO DOUBT SCANNED NUMEROUS ADVERTISEMENTS HUNDREDS OF TIMES, SEEKING SOMETHING IN THEIR PARTICULAR LINE OR PERHAPS HOPING THAT THEY WILL GET "SOMETHING FOR NOTHING."

Men, there is no such thing as "something for nothing" these days, and if we continue to center our thoughts on doing nothing but the things we are accustomed to, isn't it the truth that we get very little out of life? This is no time for a man to want to do the same old thing when there is no chance for him to progress. If you are not making $40.00, $50.00, $75.00 or more per week, and you have been in that business any length of time, and have diligently and honestly applied yourself, ask yourself whether that job affords you any opportunity. Then I suggest that you come in and talk with me. It costs you nothing to do this.

I have had the pleasure in the last few months of employing dozens of men all through the middle west who today are making real money every week.

We are in the finest business in the world, doing business with the finest people. Our company is the largest of its kind in the world. This company has been established here a number of years, and when this unique product of ours was introduced, these men welcomed it with overwhelming joy and enthusiasm, and they are today making more money than ever before in St. Louis and St. Louis County.

These men are happy and contented, not because they have to work hard, but because, while they have to work and do work hard, they get well paid—also a number of men in our organizations in nearby cities, in Springfield, Ill., Des Moines, Davenport, Kansas City, Omaha, etc.

We have something that is unique in construction, marvelous in performance and was never heard of until recently manufactured and introduced by our company. Our men are making $40.00 to as high as $125.00 per week and up, and I want 12 good men, who can furnish good references, to come and talk with me, also talk with our men. Let them tell you about our business—if you have the qualifications they have, meet them; watch them do their work. See them make money every day, and the kind of money you would be happy to make. Go to their homes and meet their families, if you care to, and find out for yourself the real truth and opportunity of our business. It costs you nothing.

If you are sincere of purpose, interested in permanent success, willing to work hard, can furnish good references, I welcome you to call between the hours of 9:15 and 1:15, Monday, at 512 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th & Olive Sts.

SUBURBAN PROPERTY FOR SALE

THERE'S HAPPINESS FOR YOU ON THE BLUFFS OF THE MISSOURI!

An almost unbelievable bargain in happiness awaits the family that discovers this beautiful country home on 12½ tree studded acres overlooking the Missouri River. It's a 7-room house with two baths and has more modern features than can be listed here. We'd rather dwell upon the soul-satisfying rock fireplace, the private swimming pool, the cozy Rathskeller with its built-in bar and fireplace, the spring-fed lake! Of course, there are such practical features as vitrolite baths with showers, a 3-car garage, oil burner, storm sash, and many other features of a perfect home . . . but you just have to see it to appreciate it!

Alabama

FARMERS in Baldwin County, Alabama, are fortunately located; desirable climate, productive soils, good home conditions, abundant rainfall, several thousand carloads of early produce are shipped to Northern markets annually, growers receiving cash at shipping points. The early crops are followed by second crop on the same land. Baldwin County is a proved, good, prosperous general farming, livestock, poultry and trucking region; about 80 per cent of the farmers on lower Baldwin are from the North. Good land still available at reasonable prices. For illustrated literature, write E. J. Hoddy, General Development Agent, Dept. B-94, Louisville & Nashville R. R. Co., Louisville, Ky.

California

IN CALIFORNIA, SMALL FARM HOMES beat the depression. Such homes are the solution of many of our economic and social problems. Less working hours per week make it possible to derive a good part of the living for the average family from a small tract. California offers this opportunity, where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown the year round. The Small Farm Home is a proven success in many localities in California. The Santa Fe Railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Write for illustrated Southern California folder and our farm paper, "The Earth," free for six months. Agricultural Development Department, Santa Fe Railway, 934 Railway Exchange, Chicago.

SENATE GROUP CHARTS COURSE OF NRA INQUIRY

Committee Seeks to Find if Those Who Drafted Codes Were Connected With Big Business.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Without waiting for funds, a Senate judiciary subcommittee outlined today the course of an inquiry into whether the National Recovery Administration "has created and encouraged monopolistic tendencies."

The committee announced it would seek to find out who drafted the codes, whether they were connected with "big business," who set up the machinery for enforcement and whether the Administrator or those who drafted the codes were "antagonistic to the spirit and the letter of the antitrust laws."

This outline forecast the calling of Hugh S. Johnson, organizer and Administrator of the Recovery Administration. There also were intimations the committee would call Donald Richberg, former general counsel of the NRA and now head of the National Emergency Council.

The subcommittee, composed of Senators King (Dem.), Utah; Borah (Rep.), Idaho, and McGill (Dem.), Kansas, mapped its plans in an executive session today with Lowell Mason, whom it has chosen for counsel. Mason was formerly counsel for the Darrow review board.

After the meeting, King, in a formal statement, said that in view of the "complaints which have been made as to the evil effects of the NRA, particularly upon smaller business," there should be a "searching investigation" before Congress extends the life of the recovery unit.

"The committee will bring before it persons who drafted and who are enforcing some of the most important codes. Within a few days the committee will proceed formally with the investigation, hearings being public, and from then on rapid progress is anticipated."

Gertrude Stein in St. Louis

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

AUTHOR of "Tender Buttons" and "Four Saints in Three Acts," who addressed an audience at the Wednesday Club last night.

America Lacks Daily Life Declares Gertrude Stein

Author Neglects to Explain but Says There's too Much Explaining in Modern English Literature Anyway.

"This could be told in a couple of sentences," said Gertrude Stein in beginning her lecture on "English Literature" at the Wednesday Club last night. "But," she added, "it is necessary to make it a great deal longer."

She made it last an hour and a half, to the entertainment of more than 600 listeners, many of them teachers and persons of literary and art interests. She had much to say about the "daily life" of England and America. England, she was quite certain, has its daily life, its completely daily island life, while America has almost no daily life. This fact was so clear to her that, though she reiterated it, she did not explain it. There is too much explaining in modern English literature anyway, she explained.

Miss Stein, author of "Tender Buttons" and of the opera, "Four Saints in Three Acts," wore a brown dress which resembled a monk's habit, without the cowl. Her short-cut gray hair gave her a masculine appearance. Her manner was one of hearty comradeship, and her voice and gestures had all th persuasiveness of a political spaker, or of a curio merchant.

Time for Her Own Prose.

Her description of English literature, from Chaucer on, was given with only the barest mention of the names of representative authors, and with not a single line of quotation from the writings of any of them. This left more time, at the end, for Miss Stein to read samples of her own prose, which is written and printed without punctuation marks, and which she poured together in somewhat the same fashion in her reading.

"We are going to talk about English literature and what I think of it," she began, "in connection with American literature and in connection with my own literature. We will begin with the beginning and end up with the ending.

"Knowledge is what one knows. Knowledge is the thing you know, and how can you know more than you do know? Reporters never know the difference between what they know and what they don't know.

"The pleasant, delightful thing about literature is that there is so much. It is a pleasure to know there is so much English literature, and it is all inside you, anyway, it's all inside me. During all that time, it has had a great deal to do. How to know what it has had to do from what it has had not to do.

"Can one serve God and Mammon, and what is God, and what is Mammon, as to English literature?" Miss Stein did not answer her own question at this point. Later she said she was not talking about religion, but that writing "directly" was serving God, and writing "indirectly" was serving Mammon.

Concerning Island Life.

She then told, with more sequence and less iteration, how she early decided that she would not take all knowledge as her province. She got back to English literature, with:

"How English literature was made inside me and made inside itself. How does English literature describe what it sees and what it knows, and what is the difference between what it sees and what it knows?

"The glory of English literature is the description, the simple, concise description of the island life, the daily island life. What could interest an island so much as the daily, the completely daily island life? Others are not so interested in the island life, because they are, in short, they are not so interested.

"English literature concentrates on the existence of that island life. They lived on the island, nobody lived on the island except themselves; they led the island life, led the island life every day, as you do on an island. The daily island life has always been completely what it is, their poetry is the things which are shut up in their daily, completely daily island life. It makes beautiful poetry, because anything shut in, you can sing.

"Life in America is too big, the daily flower of the East is not the same as the daily flower of the South or the West. In England the daily flower is completely the flower of the whole country." Further sentences brought out that the violet was the English flower referred to.

No Daily Life in America.

"There is practically no daily life in America—the feeling of daily life does not exist. The Americans have less daily life than the French, the Germans or the Italians, none have it so completely as the English. Instead of daily life, America has movement. What Americans do with language is to make it move, make it describe movement. In America, there being no daily life, and you must all agree there is singularly little daily life, events do not constitute the daily life as they do in England."

Miss Stein said Chaucer found "words in themselves exciting," and that he and later English writers, to and through the Elizabethan era, got excitement by "putting words next to each other."

"They put long words next to each other, they put short words next to each other," and Miss Stein assured her audience that the early authors found this work of verbal juxtaposition very exciting. But after the Elizabethan period, this excitement grew less intense, and in Milton's time writers were "interested for the first time in what they were talking about." She called this the period of intent. It was followed, she said, in the eighteenth century, by an era of sentence-building. Nineteenth century English literature was described as "one long period of explanation—and explanation can never be logical or clear, because if you explain a thing you justify it."

The Boer War changed all this, the speaker said, and she named Browning, Swinburne and George Meredith as having "bolstered up" the literature of the period after the Boer War, though Browning died 10 years before that war began, and the others did most of their work before that time.

Where She Got Her Style.

Henry James was the American author whom Miss Stein discussed at most length, with the claim that she was his literary heir. He showed how to make paragraphs, she said, and she has developed his teaching further by taking out things that impair the unity of paragraphs, such as punctuation marks. Emerson, Poe, Hawthorne and Mark Twain won casual mention, with the reminder that they, particularly Poe, did not write of the "daily life," and that Mark Twain got his humor by disconnection with the said, and much resaid, "daily life."

"It doesn't make sense," a man protested, as the audience was leaving the club building or going backstage for a reception.

"But," said his wife vibrantly, "you must admit it has movement."

ENLISTING EX-SCOUTS TO SPONSOR TROOPS

Movement at Washington University to Interest Students in the Work.

A movement is under way at Washington University to interest former Boy Scouts of the student body in sponsoring one or more scout troops, to be established in areas where the chances of obtaining sponsorship are now smallest.

Arno Haack, executive secretary of the university branch of the Y. M. C. A., has made a list of several hundred former scouts from which he hopes to form a group to furnish leadership to scouts. The work of organization will be under the direction of Edward Niehaus, center on last year's football team, and Frank Davis Jr. This is part of Haack's program for constructive activity for students, under which groups have taken an interest in social service.

The community good turn performed by scouts of the St. Louis Council recently resulted in the collection of 4501 bags of clothing and other materials to be distributed to the needy, Ross W. Adair, secretary of Goodwill Industries, reports. The good turn was undertaken as the first observance of the silver jubilee of scouting, the celebration of which will continue throughout 1935.

St. Louis scouts have completed in two years the work they were expected to do in five, according to reports from the National Council received by L. W. Baldwin, chairman of the Industrial Division of the scout financial campaign to be conducted April 2 to 12. The accomplishments, he said, were under the 10-year program, begun in 1932. Baldwin is chairman of Region Eight of the National Council, comprising Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming.

Organization of seven new cub packs since Jan. 1 in the St. Louis Council has been announced, bringing the total to 55, with an enrollment of about 1800. The new packs are: Pack 56, Notre Dame De Lourdes Catholic Church, Ferdie Verplanke, cubmaster; Pack 46, Lindenwood School Parent-Teacher Association, E. W. Hoener, cubmaster; Pack 36, Mount Pleasant School, Andrew J. Cella, cubmaster; Pack 32, Bel Nor School, Arthur Weigelt, cubmaster; Pack 25, Flynn Park Parent-Teacher Association, George A. Clipner, cubmaster; Pack 7, Mason School, Oscar W. Schowalter, cubmaster, and Pack 2, St. Charles Exchange Club, Saul Wolff, cubmaster.

A proposal to visit troops to explain the campers' saving system, whereby scouts may pay for their summer outings in advance at a small saving, was discussed by scouters of West District at a meeting at Grace M. E. Church Tuesday night. Bruce Evans, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 2, was chosen to organize and direct the work.

The Central District Boards of Review have passed 21 more second class and 24 more first class advancements so far this year than in a similar period of 1934.

TROOP NOTES.

Lester Brundage, former assistant scoutmaster of Troop 117, has been appointed scoutmaster of Troop 37, Hodgen School.

Troop 87, United Hebrew Temple, held a court of honor last week at which an eagle badge was awarded to John Bothman.

Fielding W. Chandler, scoutmaster of Troop 35, Cabanne M. E. Church, has applied for the fifteenth annual charter for the troop.

Troop 13, St. John's M. E. Church, observed Washington's Birthday at it annual banquet, followed by an entertainment.

Second Class pins were presented to nine scouts of Troop 55, Cote Brilliante Church, at a court of honor last week. H. M. Nusser, North District field executive, talked on scouting and Charles Kelso, scoutmaster, showed camp movies.

Troop 58, Holy Name Catholic Church, has been reorganized with Jule Kuenen as scoutmaster.

SOCIALIST MASS MEETING

The Socialist party of St. Louis will hold a mass meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at Jeffla Hall, Lafayette and Jefferson avenues.

Maynard C. Krueger, associate professor of economics at Northwestern University, and Clarence Senior, national secretary of the party, will be the principal speakers.

Horses and Mules.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Feb. 23.—Horses and mules of good ages encountered support during the past week, but common classes, particularly mules, found the going somewhat more difficult. Receipts showed an increase and commission arrivals totaled slightly under 1200 head. Clearance was good.

Southern and eastern interests provided a good outlet for young mares, and there likewise appeared an active call for unbroke good aged mares and fillies. Mules that suited were taken at firm prices, but there were more common kinds here than in many months and prices on this kind eased.

*NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS.

Good to choice draft, $120@150; medium to good draft $90@110; good to choice chunks, $95@125; smooth-mouthed chunks, $70@90; young farm mares, $90@115; Southern mares, $50@85; small cheap horses, $30@50.

WHEAT AND CORN CLOSE LOWER ON LOCAL MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 23.—Both wheat and corn sold substantially lower at the closing session of the week, corn grain being down along with other domestic markets. The Argentine corn situation was stressed, according to Chicago dispatch.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady. Supplies were somewhat larger, but a clearance was effected. Mills and order buyers took the offerings, most of which were of good quality. Hard wheat was nominally ½c lower. There were no offerings. Inquiry was light. Corn closed 2c lower. Earlier sales were at declines of 1@1½c. Demand was slow and bulk of the offerings was carried over. Industries were the main purchasers. Feeders took a couple cars. Oats were ½c lower. Demand was fair and a fair clearance was made. Shippers, elevators and feeders were the buyers.

Local wheat receipts (two days), which were 34,500 bushels, compared with 21,000 a week ago and 61,500 a year ago (two days), included 8 cars local and 15 through. Corn receipts (two days), which were 72,000 bushels, compared with 34,500 a week ago and 60,000 a year ago (two days), included 48 cars local. Oats receipts (two days), which were 60,000 bushels, compared with 28,000 a wee kago and 60,000 a year ago (two days), included 24 cars local and 6 through. Hay receipts (two days) were 1 car local and 4 through.

WEAKNESS OF CORN FEATURE OF WEEK-END GRAIN TRADE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Acute weakness developed in corn prices today, largely as a result of prospects the new corn crop in Argentina would turn out to be huge.

Cables to Chicago houses were received from Rosario, Argentina, that the first pickings showed new crop corn of good quality and yield excellent. Adding impetus to the downward trend of the corn market in Chicago was a slump in demand for corn to be used by industries.

Corn closed unsteady at almost the day's bottom level, 1 cent to 1¾ under Thursday's finish, May 84¼@⅜, wheat ⅛ off to ⅜ up, May 96⅞@97, oats ¼@⅜ down, and provisions at 2 cents to 7 cents decline.

Announcement that the Argentine Government would buy corn at a price slightly below the prevailing quotations in Buenos Aires had little if any stabilizing effect in Chicago. The Buenos Aires market was reported as 47 cents lower than Chicago May contracts, and general selling of corn future deliveries here was witnessed, including much that appeared to be of a stop-loss character.

Water-logged action of the corn market served to a considerable extent as a handicap for friends of higher prices on wheat and made wheat values irregular. Supporting orders were apparent in wheat however, at 96½ for May, and new crop months met with a good deal of buying on Southwest account. News of dust storms Southwest attracted persistent notice. It was pointed out that owing to crop scares wheat prices in 1933 and again last year were swept upward, although virtual assurance existed that big domestic surpluses would offset any deficiency of production, whereas this season no such assurance could be given.

Provisions tended to sag, influenced mainly by weakness of corn values.

MRS. KATHERINE FELLMAR, GEORGE AND EDNA CORDELAIR.

IN MEMORIAM

DAUB, WINIFRED LACY—In loving remembrance of our dear mother, who died Feb. 28, 1934:

Sad and sudden was the call
For our dear mother, loved by all;
We little thought that on that day
She would be called so far away.

Sadly missed by
ALL WHO KNEW HER.

Requiem mass Thursday morning, 8 a. m., St. Vincent's Church.

GEITZ, THERESA—In memory of our darling mother, who passed away Feb. 25, 1932:
MRS. ARTHUR FLINN.
MRS. MAMIE MAHER.

GRAFEMAN, MYRTLE—In loving memory of our darling, Myrtle, who was called home Feb. 26, 1923:

Thinking, darling, thinking,
Thinking of the past,
Picturing you in memory
Just as I saw you last.
You left behind two broken hearts
That loved you so sincere,
That never did or never will Forget you, Myrtle, dear.
Accept, my angel child above,
This tribute of your mother's love.

MOTHER AND DAD.

HOLSTE, WILLIAM R.—In loving memory of our only child who passed away Feb. 23, 1934:

Surrounded by friends we are lonesome,
In the midst of joy we are blue;
With a smile on our face,
In our heart there's an ache,
Longing, dear Willie, for you.

Sadly missed by YOUR PARENTS.

JANISH, BERNARD—In memory of Bernard Janish, died Feb. 25, two years ago.
Sadly missed by his DAUGHTER AND SON-IN-LAW.

KELLER, FRED J.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, who departed this life two years ago, Feb. 26, 1933.

The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there.

MOTHER, BROTHER AND SISTERS.

LANEMANN, HENRIETTA—In memory of our dear mother, who departed this life Feb. 23, 1930.

Five years have passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away;
God took her home, it was His will
But in our hearts she liveth still.

Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

LORANCE, OSMOND JR.—In loving memory of my precious little pal and our darling brother, who went away one year ago Feb. 25, 1934:

God needed a new star in heaven,
Someone to shine on above,
So He called on our darling son

Sadly missed by
MOTHER, DAD AND SISTERS.

NIETMANN, MARY—In memory of our dear mother, died Feb. 21, 1934.
Sadly missed by DAUGHTERS.

PAULY, FRANK—In loving memory of my beloved husband who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 25, 1934.

Time rolls on, it will not stay,
What grief I've felt since that sad day;
With one so loving, kind and true,
How hard it was to part with you.

Sadly missed by WIFE.

RICHARD, MARGARET—In loving remembrance of my darling mother, who departed this life Feb. 20, 1932:

One who was so loving, kind and true.

Sadly missed by DAUGHTER VIOLET, son-in-law, husband and grandchildren.

SCHROEDER, KATE—In loving memory of my dear mother, who passed away Feb. 21, 1934:

Rest in peace, my dearest mother,
Years may go, but memories stay.
You are gone but not forgotten,
For I shall meet you some sweet day.

Sadly missed by her daughter,
EDNA WATERSON AND FAMILY.

SPIEKERMANN, ALOYS J.—In loving memory of our dear daddy, Aloys J. Spiekermann, who departed this life Feb. 25, 1932:

The world-weary troubles and trials are passed,
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
'Til God called him home to suffer no more.

Remembered forever by
WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

TICHACEK-NIEHAUS, MILDRED—In loving memory of our darling daughter and wife, who passed away one year ago today, Feb. 21, 1934.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
'Till God called her home to suffer no more.

MR. AND MRS. E. NIEHAUS, MOTHER AND FATHER, FRANK J. TICHACEK, HUSBAND.

IN MEMORY—In loving memory of our dear mother.

We miss thy voice,
No more we see thy face, for thou hast found a home above
Before the throne of grace.
Where we'll join in joy and love
And never part again.

Daughters, MINETTE AND DORIS.

IN MEMORIAM

WALSH, HATTIE—In loving memory of Mother, who passed away Feb. 22, 1932.
Gone but never forgotten by CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

WEIBERT, MARY—In loving memory of my dear wife, who departed this life Feb. 26, 1934:

We often sit and think of her
When we are all alone;
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak,
When all others things decay
Our love for her will still keep green
And never fade away.

Sadly missed by husband, relatives and all who loved her.

Life of Car Figured as Seven Years

So Automobile Manufacturers' Association Estimates From Study of Annual Registrations and Sales Statistics.

Because of improved manufacturing facilities, finer workmanship, better quality of materials and good roads, the life of the average automobile has been increasing steadily year by year. Today, the life of the average car used is in excess of seven years, according to statistics, based on annual registration and sales, compiled by the Automobile Manufacturers' Association.

Thousands of cars built in 1928-29 are today giving excellent service to their owners. There cars are now more than seven years old.

With rare exceptions the mechanical troubles which formerly were the bane of the used car buyer relatively seldom annoy him. Defects in such vital parts as the rear axle, the clutch, the motor, and the cooling system, have long ceased to be frequent problems. Possibly one of the greatest improvements has been in the finishes and top materials. No longer is it common to see cars with ragged tops, with the paint finish cracked and flaked, as was common in cars two and three years old some years ago.

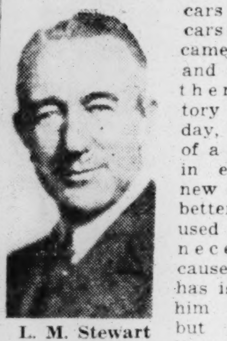
Whereas a few years ago the life of the average auto engine was 25,000 miles, and this possible only with frequent trips to the repair shop, today it is not uncommon to find motors that have given service in excess of 100,000 miles and still are going strong. The same thing applies to tires.

Depreciation Cost Largely Paid for by Original Owner of Car

By L. M. STEWART,

Treasurer of the National Automobile Dealers' Association.

In the early days of the automobile business, people traded used cars because the cars they had became unreliable and failed to give them satisfactory service. Today, the owner of a car trades it in either for a new one or for a better or bigger used one, not necessarily because the car he has is not giving him satisfaction, but because he has the desire and the means to satisfy the desire to drive a more modern or larger or different type of car.



L. M. Stewart

The motor car built within the last six years has been so wonderfully engineered, that while it has been used, it does not necessarily follow that it has been used up. The well organized dealer with facilities at his disposal by the installation of standard parts, can to a large extent remedy the wear that has resulted from usage. Consequently the buyer can enjoy many thousands of miles of satisfactory transportation through a modest investment of money, because the original owner paid the premium of depreciation to satisfy his desire for something bigger, something better, something more modern or more fashionable and these factors prove conclusively that the purchase of a used car, under certain circumstances, can undoubtedly prove to be a good investment.

A used car of standard make that was built by a manufacturer who is still in business, that is not over six years old and is reconditioned and sold by a merchant who has the financial ability and the disposition to equip himself with the necessary facilities properly to recondition it before turning it over to the public, is a sound purchase.

Used Car Buyers Benefited By Dealer Code, Vesper Says

Protection Given by Standardization of Values and Stabilization of Prices, With Material Benefit to the Public, President of N. A. D. A. Asserts.

Direct benefits to used car buyers have come through adoption and enforcement of the automobile dealers' code, according to F. W. A. Vesper, president of the National Automobile Dealers' Association.

Standardization of used car values, Vesper says, is one of the outstanding things resulting from the code and activities under it of the dealers and of their associations.

"In this the buying public has been materially benefited," he says. "By the stabilization of used car prices literally hundreds of thousands of actual individual retail sales are affected favorably.

"The stabilization has permitted the dealer to establish trade-in allowances upon reliable data, whereas before the operation of the dealers' code, not knowing those values, there was no authentic yard-stick to determine proper prices.

"An automobile owner today is assured of a more nearly accurate valuation of his car when he wishes to trade it. So, too, is the buyer of a used car. The establishing of a definite standard of value of best grade cars has brought about a condition that never existed in the trade prior to the code.

"The former lack of group knowledge of values of the more than 5000 models and body styles in use and offered for trade, more often operated to the detriment of the purchaser than in his favor.

"The used cars of today do not require the expensive repairing of former days, so long as gas, water and oil are properly applied. They were made better, in the first place. They are of better material, from the tires to the steering gear. What perhaps is just as important, the general public is better educated in the treatment of an automobile. In all this general progress, the owner has benefited in pocketbook to an inestimable extent, and the buyer of a used car is assured of getting his money's worth."

Wide Range of Prices Of Today's Used Cars

Buyers with fixed incomes will find in the used car market today good transportation in the whole price range from less than $100 up. With the coming of the new 1935 cars, there has been a scaling down of prices of older models. Now prices are fixed according to sales reports from all over the country.

The continual improving of automobiles means more comfort, convenience and speed, as well as longer car life. All this has a definite bearing on the usefulness of the used car available today.

Business in Used Cars Reported as Improving

Improved business conditions in the used car field are reported by dealers and finance companies. One of the larger Locust street dealers in the low priced car group recently enlarged his used car quarters to include a large showroom. Another dealer on the South Side has created a new division and opened used car quarters in Carondelet.

A leading North Side auto financing firm now is building an addition to its present quarters.

TIRE RETREADING FACTORY PROCESS USED IN ST. LOUIS

TIRE retreading—a relatively new development—is being offered to motorists. Tire factories have perfected retreading plants which are operated in various localities. Original factory rubber is used. Complete sectional repairing is easily performed, and equipment has even been developed to retread and repair high pressure truck tires.

Several of these retreading plants are in operation in St. Louis. Car owners report considerable savings in tire upkeep due to this new method of prolonging tire life.

Improved Auto Service Equipment Available

The old time "guesswork" method of analyzing motor ailments 's a thing of the past. Modern engineering is responsible for scientific equipment which gives an almost instant check of every part of the car's mechanism. Brake testing devices, which show the pressure on each brake drum, motor knock analyzers working on the principle of a physician's stethascope, and electrical spark-plug and ignition testers are found in up-to-date service stations. Scientifically devised gauges now check headlight beams, showing the exact amount of light cast by each one and the relative angle of the beams.

Automobile Radio Set Installing Made Easy

An increased demand for auto radio sets is reported. Many of the later model cars come equipped with built-in aerials, making the installation of radios comparatively easy. Companies specializing in this type of auto equipment now offer auto radios on time payment purchase plans, enabling motorists to obtain them as they do radios for their homes.

Much Mileage Remains In Many Used Autos

By GUY W. OLIVER,

Retiring President, Greater St. Louis Automotive Association.

One of the most interesting things about the used car market is the fact that the so-called "show cars" of a few years ago are now available at approximately a third of their original cost. Yet, despite their low price, these cars truly represent unusual bargains for they are little more than broken in.

Guy W. Oliver

Long, sleek limousines and sporty, fast roadsters of a year or so ago now are finding new owners—owners who could not possibly afford to buy them when new. Yet these new owners will get far more out of these cars than did their original buyers. Thousands of dependable miles still remain in them. Day in and day out these recent models will continue to deliver trouble-free transportation.

Much of this is due to improvements in motor car manufacture. In the past 10 years we have seen the development of roomy, solidly constructed bodies; new alloys having greater strength have been created for the chassis and engine; improved cooling and oiling systems have been devised; bearings last longer and vibration has been reduced to a minimum. Even accessories and extra parts have been improved. Tires now last approximately 25,000 miles. Brakes are more positive and powerful. New methods of springing have been developed, giving a more comfortable ride.

All of these improvements have meant two things to motorists: First, he has a more comfortable, more dependable and faster car; second, his car lasts longer.

The used car buyer is now getting much more for his money than ever before.

St. Louis Dealers Hold Used Car Sale Week

Combine to Insure Wide Variety of Models With Exhibit in Every Show Room—Specific Prices and Information as to Year of Manufacture.

A special Used Car Sale week is being held by the dealers of St. Louis, beginning today. Used car show rooms have been decorated for the occasion. An especially wide selection of models is on display, with specific information as to the year of manufacture and a definite price on each car shown.

Numerous automobile service companies, and tire and accessory dealers, have made plans for a pre-spring merchandising campaign to be conducted simultaneously with Used Car Week, beginning today and extending through March 3. Such timely accessories as auto radio sets, batteries, tires and other motor car equipment, appealing to all motorists, will be featured.

A tour of inspection of the displays will serve the same end as a visit to a definite used car show under one roof, but the variety of models and the number of cars in each class make and year, are far larger than could be assembled in one building.

Demonstrations and complete information about every used car displayed may be had from the dealers, the committee in charge of Used Car Sales Week states.

One's present car may be the down payment. The opportunity afforded to make a selection of a second car for business or family use is exceptional, and the cost will be relatively small, the committee says.

Tires on Time Payment Basis Now Available

Many tire companies make it advantageous to equip a car with new tires on a time payment basis. Tires of any size in any price field are included.

Used Cars on More Definite Price Basis

By D. E. CASTLES,

Chairman of the Automotive Code Committee.

With 1935 cars making the appeal that they do to motorists, there are coming into the market a fine offering of used cars. These cars are now more definitely classified as to price, thanks to the Motor Vehicle Retailing Code.

D. E. Castles

With the price classification comes the necessity for better reconditioning than has been the custom in the past. No dealer can hope to attract buyers to his used car department in today's highly competitive market with anything less than genuine bargains in cars that are really "right," both in condition and appearance, and cars that are priced in their proper relation to the current market.

These changes in the used car business are definitely favorable to the used car buyers.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE

History Beginnings

"Loosen up!"

IN DAYS BEFORE LETTERS OF CREDIT AND MONEY ORDERS ENABLED TRAVELERS TO CARRY FUNDS WITHOUT FEAR OF LOSS, BILLS AND COINS WERE CARRIED IN MONEY-BELTS. THE HIGHWAYMAN'S COMMAND TO "LOOSEN UP" ADDED THIS PHRASE TO GENERAL USE

Highway travel today is a real joy . . . especially in one of our fine looking dependable USED CARS! Each car is guaranteed to give you MILES of SATISFACTION . . . and is priced within your means. See them today.

St. Louisans Give Parties in Miami Beach

Mr. and Mrs. Marion L. J. Lambert Host and Hostess at Dinner Dance at Bath and Tennis Club.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23.

AS the season nears its peak St. Louisans here for the winter are among those giving parties that fill a gay social calendar.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion L. J. Lambert of St. Louis, who have a house here for the winter, were host and hostess at a dinner dance at the Bath and Tennis Club Thursday night. Twenty-four guests were present, among them the following St. Louisans: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Werner, who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lambert, Mr. Lambert's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Sharp Ezzell; his mother, Mrs. Florence Parker Busch and her daughter, Miss Marie Eleanor Busch, Mrs. Peggy Murphy Shelton, Thomas M. Pierce Jr., and Herbert D. Condie Jr.

Mr and Mrs. Frank O. Watts of St. Louis were guests at a party given the same night by Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Lindback of Ventnor, N. J. Mrs. Watts was hostess at a luncheon given Thursday at the Bath and Tennis Club for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fisher of Detroit, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stephenson of South Bend, Ind.; and Mrs. Jesse Jones of Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen T. West of St. Louis entertained at luncheon at the Bath and Tennis Club Saturday for Mr. and Mrs. J. E. West of Asheville, N. C.

Mrs. Florence Parker Busch, her son, Stafford L. Lambert, and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Sharp Ezzell, and Mrs. Arthur Hilmer, all of St. Louis, were among the guests at a cocktail party given Monday afternoon at the Hollywood Country Club by Mrs. Jane Johnson of New York. The party was given in honor of Mrs. Johnson's guests, Sir John and Lady Mullens of London, who are on a world cruise and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knowlton of Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Strauch of St. Louis entertained at luncheon at the Bath Club Wednesday for a group of their friends. The guests included Mrs. Paul Brown, Mrs. Charles Wiegand, Mrs. Albert M. Keller, Mrs. James M. Westlake, Mrs. George Bullock and Mrs. Paul B. Jamison of St. Louis and Mrs. C. Maxwell Dering of New York, formerly of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Dering, Mrs. Katherine Highleyman, also a former St. Louisan, and her son, Daly Highleyman, were among the guests of Mrs. Samuel J. Masters at a tea dance given Sunday afternoon at the Surf Club, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Karl I. Corby and Mr. Corby's mother, Mrs. Charles I. Corby, of Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Westlake and Mr. and Mrs. Dering were among guests entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Spaulding of Greenwich, Conn., on board their yacht "Content," tied up at the Flamingo docks, at a cocktail party and dance Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Maxwell of St. Louis have joined the winter colony at the Nautulus Hotel here.

University Club Squash Racquets A Social Event

GALLERIES of the squash courts at the University Club were opened yesterday afternoon to members, their families and friends — spectators at the matches between the squash racquets teams of the Cincinnati and St. Louis University clubs.

In this annual intercity meet the Cincinnati club was represented by Roland Nord, a former St. Louisan; Joseph Field, Raymond Kunkel, John Herron More, Robert Mulhauser, Richard Crisler, William and Edmund Kittredge and James de Camp.

The St. Louis players included: Jack Gorden, Presley Edwards, Edward Everett Haverstick Jr., Charles Smith Fox, Edward Hawes Miller, Isaac C. Orr, Thruston Pettus, Harry H. Langenberg Jr. and Oliver Evans, with Paul Goessling, Louis Dennig and Robert Sample serving as alternates.

Following the matches, Miss Mary Bolland Taussig, 50 Westmoreland place, gave a cocktail party for the visitors and for her house guest, Miss Catherine Elmer More, sister of Mr. More of the Cincinnati team. A formal dinner dance followed at the University Club.

This noon Miss Caroline Kennard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Scruggs Kennard, 10 North Kingshighway, will entertain at a cocktail party for the Cincinnati players preceding a late luncheon which the entertainment committee of the University Club will give at Deer Creek Club.

Several of the players expect to stay over for the cocktail party which Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Platt Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bakewell III are giving this afternoon at the Smith apartment, 10 North Kingshighway, for Miss Barbara Brodhead, a recent debutante. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Bakewell formerly were Miss Virginia and Miss Marjorie Wright, respectively, of Cincinnati.

St. Louisans in Eastern Wedding.

G. Vietor Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lionberger Davis of Brentmoor, and E. Lansing Ray Jr., were ushers yesterday at the fashionable wedding in Baltimore of Miss Kathleen Staige Davis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John S. Staige, and Charles E. Scarlett Jr., also of Baltimore. Miss Virginia McIntosh, Baltimore, and Miss Betty Ballantine, Newark, N. J., were maids of honor. William D. G. Scarlett was his brother's best man. The ushers included Lawrence F. Rockefeller of New York.

Lenten Program At Woman's Club

A VARIED Lenten program has been planned by the St. Louis Woman's Club. Morning lectures have been arranged and several afternoons will be devoted to duplicate contract bridge play.

The program will begin Wednesday evening, March 6, with duplicate contract under the auspices of the card committee. A similar affair will be given March 20. Thursday, March 7, the Rev. Dr. George M. Gibson will give the first morning lecture, "The Passing Pageant." Guest restrictions have been waived for each lecture in the series, and lunchens will follow. The special program committee is in charge.

Thursday, March 14, is the regular luncheon and card day. The following Thursday, March 21, McCune Gill will address the members on "Women Prominent in the Early History of St. Louis," the second lecture in the series.

Members and their escorts will be the only guests at a dinner and dance Tuesday night, March 26. Dinner will be served at 7:15 o'clock.

Entertainment for next month will be concluded with an illustrated lecture on Greece by Dr. Anne Walter Fearn of Shanghai, China, Thursday morning, March 28. Dr. Fearn, a sister of Mrs. Oscar Johnson, president of the club, is a guest at the Johnson home.

A dinner dance to be given Tuesday night will be the last February event on the Woman's Club calendar. The party, to be given in the ball room, preceded by a dinner at 7:15 o'clock, will be for members of the club and their escorts only. The final meeting of the junior bridge tournament will be held Tuesday afternoon.

LUNCHEON FOR THOMAS CRAVEN

MISS ALITA DAVIS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Davis, 13 Westmoreland place, will entertain at luncheon tomorrow in the Junior League clubrooms in honor of Thomas Craven, art critic and writer. Among the luncheon guests will be Mrs. Festus J. Wade, Miss Martha Love and Miss Martha Pettus.

Mr. Craven, who will speak in the Galleria building tomorrow at 11 a. m., on "Modern Art," is the author of a book by that title, published last spring, and also of "Men of Art." He is a contributor to Forum, The New Republic and the American Mercury, which in 1927 published his controversial article, "Have Painters Minds?"

MISS JACQUELINE BUSCH JONES, who, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Drummond Jones, are at the King Cole Hotel, Miami Beach, photographed at the Andrew W. Johnson cabana at the Bath Club.

Nassau Visitors

NASSAU, Bahamas, Feb. 19.

AMONG the recent arrivals from St. Louis, Mo., at the British Colonial are Miss Marie Uppenbaum and Mr. and Mrs. Elzey G. Burkham and their daughter, Miss Lois, who expect to do considerable golfing and fishing in Bahaman waters.

Mrs. James Roosevelt, daughter-in-law of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, arrived in Nassau yesterday

MR. AND MRS. W. ASHLEY GRAY riding in a bicycle-propelled wheel chair, a popular mode of transportation in Palm Beach.

English Actress To Visit St. Louis

MRS. BEATRICE FORBES-ROBERTSON HALE, English actress, author and lecturer, and niece of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, will arrive in St. Louis Thursday to be the guest of Mrs. Ernest W. Stix, 6470 Forsythe boulevard. Mrs. Hale and Mrs. Stix are old friends. On trips to St. Louis, the English visitor is a guest at the Stix home, and on occasions Mrs. Stix has visited Mrs. Hale at her country home in Petersfield, Hampshire, England. Several seasons ago the house was occupied by Joseph W. Lewis of St. Louis, who leased it for the season.

Thursday night Mrs. Hale will be a guest of honor at a reception to be given by the Artists' Guild in connection with its annual sculpture and oil painting exhibit. The following morning at 11 o'clock Mrs. Hale will appear in a recital sponsored by Mrs. George C. Smith, in the banquet room of the Park Plaza. Instead of a lecture, Mrs. Hale will give her interpretation of "Miracle Plays to Modern Drama," from material gathered during research and study in Europe over a period of several years.

After the recital Mrs. Stix will entertain the visitor at luncheon, also at the Park Plaza.

Mrs. Hale is the mother of three daughters, Sanchia, who appears on the London stage, and twins, Rosemary, who is studying medicine in Vienna, and Clemency, who is an art student. On the stage Mrs. Hale has appeared not only with her titled uncle, but with Sir Henry Irving, Sir Herbert Tree and Ellen Terry.

Olive Dietz Is Bride Of Albert Hanser

THE wedding of Miss Olive Adele Dietz, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dietz, and S. Albert Hanser, son of Dr. and Mrs. Otto C. Hanser, 3109 Allen avenue, took place Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph M. Dietz, 3424 Longfellow boulevard. The marriage service was read by Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, in the presence of more than 100 guests.

Mr. Dietz gave his granddaughter in marriage. She wore a gown of white lace made on princesse lines with a high neckline, long sleeves of the lace and a skirt that fell in a train. Her white tulle veil was arranged simply and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies. Miss Marcia Grocock was maid of honor and Miss Margaret Boles and Miss Marietta Muckerman were bridesmaids. They wore frocks of lace in pastel shades. Miss Grocock was in pink lace; Miss Boles wore flesh-tinted lace over yellow satin and Miss Muckerman was in pale blue lace. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of mixed spring flowers and the bridesmaids carried bouquets of yellow spring blossoms. Mrs. Dietz wore a flowered satin gown in pastel shades and a shoulder corsage of orchids.

Otto C. Hanser Jr. was best man for his brother. James Troll and Arthur Kiel were groomsmen. The bridal party stood in the living-room, where an improvised altar was arranged about the fireplace. Clusters of Easter lilies and white snapdragon were arranged against greenery and the room was illuminated by white tapers in candelabra. The staircase, the doors and windows of the lower floor were garlanded with huckleberry foliage and bouquets and baskets of spring flowers further decorated the rooms. The reception table had as its centerpiece a large bouquet of white spring flowers and was lighted by white candles.

The bride was graduated from The Principia and until a few weeks ago was a sophomore at Lindenwood College. Mr. Hanser is a student at St. Louis University School of Medicine. After the honeymoon he and his bride will make their home with her grandparents, with whom she has lived since a child.

Brides and Brides-to-Be in the Social News of the Week

THIS NEW YORK

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NOT since the Rue Fontaine in Montmartre was bright with Joe Zelli's and the other night life resorts of Paris in the spendthrift '20s has there been such a street of after dark as Fifty-second, between Fifth and Sixth avenues. There are more sin spots per front foot there than anywhere else in the world, and what goes on there nightly would, if chronicled, make a complete catalogue of the less ingenuous forms of human amusement.

Quiet enough by day, Fifty-second street blooms into gaudy florescence after the theater. The lights go on above the marquees of The Town Casino, Leon and Eddie's, the Onyx and 20 or 30 less celebrated resorts. Tony's back room begins to fill with literati and youths in suede shoes. The top hats and ermine wraps cascade in a continuous flow through the wrought iron portals of Jack and Charlie's. The town cars are double parked the length of the block.

Fifty-second street passes into a sort of happy solution after midnight. Youths awash with champagne festoon themselves around the lamp posts. Befuddled elderly men are carried feet up to their cars and syphoned home. Sometimes a fearful fist fight starts, the participants winding up for lethal haymakers and each falling on his face in the gutter. There are more sinister pastimes which seldom make the public prints. Bouncers manhandle insolvent collegians with patent delight. It's all sinful and opulent and done in the best red plush setting, a microcosmic synthesis of the imagined wickedness of great cities.

There never was a first-nighter around New York like Harry Seton. He has given up his title as aisle-seat champion to whoever may want it, because of his health, but from the middle '90's on for a quarter of a century he never missed a first-class opening. Today he lives in retirement, appropriately enough on the slope of Murray Hill, and he has the greatest and most compresensive collection of celebrity photographs in the world.

The autograph fiends who boast of contemporary signatures extracted from victims on first nights along Forty-fifth street would grow pale with jealousy at the 10,000 pictures of stage stars, social arbiters and notables in the news in times Victorian and Edwardian, which Mr. Seton keeps all properly indexed and allocated, in his files. For many years, now, Mr. Seton has been going to Newport, and in that summer capital of formality and tradition he has unearthed many treasures of an era when Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Harry Lehr and the Bradley Martins were cutting stagecoach didos and giving fetes champetres on the Rhode Island countryside.

Folk in upper-class society, like Edith Wetmore, Mrs. Hamilton Fish or Mrs. Schuyler Warren and other headliners, whenever they discover old bundles of photographs showing persons they can't recall or identify, call on Mr. Seton to help them out. He knows 'em all. Show him a group from the Delmonico ball, the W. K. Vanderbilt fancy-dress levee of 1883, the Centennial Tableaux or the classic Bradley Martin flag raising, and he can pick out the Jays and Iselins, Rensens, Belmonts, Astors and Schermerhorns without batting an eye. He is a complete walking register of the New York that really mattered in a day when powdered footmen were taken for granted and terrapin was inevitable.

Cynthia White, who has, for a good many years, been the archetypal Greenwich Villager, is back in town, and Manhattan's midtown Bohemia is having a revival of night life. Miss White, who is gypsy in both the racial and nomadic senses of the word, is an entrepreneur of parties so fabulous that in any other city of the world they would be considered catastrophes. Webster Hall, the Village casino, is inseparably associated with her name and some of the flag raisings she has sponsored there in the last 15 years have been epics of nose-pasting gayety and generally rambunctious and washroom doings.

She has organized a party for the night of March 8 and all leaves have been canceled at the local precinct station. Alice Hughes, Christopher Morley, Cleon Throckmorton, Otto Soglow, Margaret Bourke-White, Jeff Machamer, Reginald Marsh and a lot of other cut-up celebrities and screamers are associated with her and it will be the more wonder if Webster Hall has a roof the next a. m. It's called the Artists' Ball and there will be an artist on the premises even if Miss White has to get him from a casting agency. Calling all police cars!

JEFFERSON BARRACKS

Social Items From the Army Post

MR. AND MRS. W. C. DEAN who spent several days last week as house guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Col. and Mrs. W. C. Short, departed Monday for their home in Oklahoma City. Mrs. J. Frank Dingee and Mrs. Thomas Stewart, who were also guests of Col. and Mrs. Short, left for Oklahoma City with Mr. and Mrs. Dean.

The outstanding social event of the week was the annual George Washington's birthday ball given by the Army, Navy and Marine Corps Council last evening in the Gold Room of Hotel Jefferson, St. Louis. The receiving line was composed of the commanders of the units represented, Maj. W. A. Smith representing Col. Walter C. Short. At the completion of dinner, guests were called to attention by a bugler, and the mass colors of all regiments present were brought into the hall, escorted by the Sixth Infantry, while the band played the Sixth Infantry march. The colors were placed on the stage, and the escort presented arms to a picture of Washington.

Among those from Jefferson Barracks who attended were Maj. and Mrs. W. A. Smith, Maj. and Mrs. C. H. Glascock, Capt. and Mrs. W. C. Phillips, Capt. and Mrs. Edwin T. Wheatley, Capt. and Mrs. Nels L. Soderholm, Capt. J. H. Cochran, Capt. and Mrs. R. S. Henderson, Capt. and Mrs. James C. Reed, Capt. and Mrs. Harry Kirsner, Lieut. and Mrs. Wayne C. Smith and Lieut. and Mrs. A. J. Regnier.

Capt. and Mrs. Edwin T. Wheatley, who have been stationed here for three years, have received orders transferring them to the Hawaiian Department. They will sail from New York May 14.

Lieut. and Mrs. A. J. Regnier, who rejoined the regiment recently after Lieut. Regnier had been on duty with the Civilian Conservation Corps for several months, have taken quarters 176-B in the woods.

Capt. George Read Jr. who has been on duty with the 102d Division of the Organized Reserves in St. Louis has been ordered to duty with the Sixth Infantry. He will come to the post about June 1.

Mrs. Walden B. Coffey entertained Mrs. John D. O'Connell, Mrs. Carvel C. Ellison and Mrs. C. L. Weston informally at bridge and tea at her quarters Wednesday.

Lieut. and Mrs. Daniel H. Hundley, who have been stationed here for two years and are now on temporary duty with the CCC at Springfield, Ill., have received orders sending them to Puerto Rico for duty with the Sixty-fifth Infantry. They will sail from New York April 4.

Lieut. and Mrs. Walden B. Coffey entertained Lieut. Oren E. Hurlbut, Miss Marjorie Skinner of Webster Groves, Lieut. George Beehler, Miss Stella King, Watson Skinner and Miss Norma Patterson at a riding breakfast last Sunday.

Lieut. and Mrs. C. L. Weston and their small son, Donald, arrived last week for service with the CCC for six months. They are occupying quarters 194-B in the woods.

WEDDINGS and ENGAGEMENTS

Decker-Dunstedter

The marriage of Miss Georgia E. Dunstedter of Minneapolis and J. Emerson Decker, Mason City, Ia., Thursday, Feb. 14, at Hotel Mayfair, has been announced by Mrs. Eddie Dunstedter, a sister-in-law of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. Oscar Johnson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dunstedter, Excelsior, Minn., and a sister of Eddie Dunstedter, musician and entertainer. The pair left last week for Chicago and New York on a two weeks' honeymoon, after which they will be at home in Mason City.

J. M. Chilton of Minneapolis, a friend of the family, gave the bride away. Mrs. Dunstedter was matron of honor, and Dudley Decker, a brother of the bridegroom, best man.

The bride wore a cream satin gown trimmed in sequins and a tiara of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was white orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Dunstedter was gowned in chartreuse crepe and carried tea roses.

The wedding, which took place at 8 p. m., in an elaborately decorated parlor of the Mayfair, was followed by a supper for 25 guests.

Worman-Murty

Miss Virginia Murty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis G. Murty, 4048 Cleveland avenue, became the bride of J. Russell Worman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Worman, Clinton, Mo., Wednesday morning. The ceremony was performed at St. John's Episcopal Church by the Rev. Leighton H. Nugent. The bride was attended by Miss Burmah Cottam and Arlie F. Worman served his brother as best man. Following a wedding breakfast at the Murty home, Mr. Worman and his bride left for the South. They will make their home in Chicago.

Syron-Mueller

Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Mueller, 4338 Laclede avenue, have announced the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Eugenia Mueller, to Thomas J. Syron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Syron, 4319A Laclede avenue. The announcement was made yesterday at a bridge luncheon at the home of the prospective bride. Miss Mueller is a graduate of Beaumont High School and Mr. Syron is an alumnus of Christian Brothers' College. No date for the wedding has been announced.

Burman-Cohen

Miss Henrietta Cohen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob L. Cohen, 1324A North Euclid avenue, and Philip Burman, son of Julius Burman, 5836 Page boulevard, were married Sunday at 8 p. m. at the United Hebrew Temple, in a ceremony performed by Rabbi Samuel Thurman.

The bride was gowned in white satin and wore a finger-tip veil of tulle. She carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies. Six bridesmaids, dressed in white and carrying red roses, attended the bride.

Miss Bernice Cohen of Los Angeles, Cal., a cousin of the bride, came to St. Louis for the wedding.

Diamond-Corn

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Corn, sister of Mrs. Louis Kaskowitz, 1804 South Broadway, and Myer Diamond of Portsmouth, Va., took place Sunday, Feb. 10, in Norfolk, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Diamond are spending their honeymoon in St. Louis with Mrs. Kaskowitz.

Cohn-Leser

Mrs. Arthur Leser of Chicago, formerly of St. Louis, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Evelyn Leser, and Himan J. Cohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Cohn of Kane, Pa. The ceremony took place Feb. 9 in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Cohn have gone to New York and Atlantic City on their wedding trip. Mrs. Leser is visiting in St. Louis.

Wise-Becker

The engagement of Miss Zellah Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Becker, Houston, Tex, and Jack J. Wise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isador Wise, 5070A Cates avenue, was announced at a dinner at Hotel Chase Wednesday night. Miss Becker and Mr. Wise met while students at Washington University, where he was a member of Phi Beta Delta fraternity. The wedding will take place early in the summer.

Steinhauer-Holland

Miss Florence Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Holland, Sioux City, Ia., will become the bride of Sam Steinhauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Steinhauer, 559 Stratford avenue, today at 6 p. m., at the home of the bridegroom. Rabbi A. E. Halpern will officiate. A reception at the Steinhauer home will follow the ceremony.

Copanas-Childress

The marriage of Miss Nancy Childress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Childress, 7755 Carondelet avenue, Clayton, and Franklin W. Copanas, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Copanas, 5941 Greer avenue, will take place tomorrow at the home of the bride. Mr. Copanas and his bride will reside in the Lowell Apartments.

Children to Give Playlet.

Children of St. Joseph's Institute for the Deaf will present "The Discontented Daughter," a playlet in pantomime, at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday in St. Louis University Auditorium. The performance will be repeated Sunday, March 3, at the same hour.

Black and White Ball at Legation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.

THE black and white ball given last week at the Netherlands legation in Washington given by the Minister and Mme. Van Haersma De With was one of the brilliant affairs of the season. Guests had been asked to wear black or white. Black gowns were topped off with white wigs, white gowns with black tresses. The party was given for the Minister's daughter, Nora Von Haersma De With, who made her debut earlier in the season.

The dining room, which is hung with wine colored brocade, with curtains of the same rich material, was used for the dancing. The long buffet was in the library and except in the ballroom, were small tables set for two or four. These were covered with thin gold tissue edged with gold braid and blossomed with sevilla carnations—a brilliant red.

Miss Elinor Halstead Castendyk, daughter of Mrs. Christian H. Castendyk, of Honolulu, and the Third Secretary of the German Embassy, Gustave Struve, were married this afternoon at 4 o'clock in Palo Alto, Cal. The Rev. Charles Gardner, assisted by the German Lutheran pastor, the Rev. Dr. Raun, performed the ceremony. After a wedding trip to Arizona, Mr. Struve and his bride, will come to Washington to make their home.

PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES

THE fortieth anniversary of the St. Louis Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be celebrated at 2 p. m. Friday, at Jefferson Memorial, with the regent, Mrs. Nathaniel L. Moffitt, presiding.

In January, 1895, several Missouri women, members-at-large of the national society, Daughters of the American Revolution, met at the home of the State regent, Mrs. James J. O'Fallon, in St. Louis, and organized the St. Louis chapter. The charter, number 113, was granted March 2, 1895, and there were 12 charter members. Mrs. Randolph Hutchinson was elected its first regent, followed by Mrs. George H. Shields, Mrs. Western Bascome, Mrs. Wallace Delafield and Mrs. John N. Booth, as regents. Mrs. Booth joined the chapter in 1897, served as regent from 1901 to 1904, and in 1905 was elected honorary regent of the chapter for life. At the anniversary meeting, Mrs. Verner White, program chairman, will present Mrs. Booth, who will tell how the St. Louis chapter originated 40 years ago.

A musical program will consist of a group of songs by Josef Kalafapich, baritone, with Julie Stevens Bacon at the piano. "Historical States and Their Flags" will be discussed by the following members: Vermont and Rhode Island, Mrs. Henry H. Denison; New Jersey and Delaware, Mrs. William J. Armistead; North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, Mrs. Arthur A. Bonsack.

Pioneer chapter, National Society United States Daughters of 1812, will meet at the home of Mrs. Dudley W. Southward, 6043 Clemens avenue, Thursday at 2 p. m.

Final arrangements will be made for the placing of a bronze marker honoring Brigadier-General Benjamin Howard of the United States Army in the War of 1812; one-time Governor of the Missouri Territory. A decision will also be made by the chapter on the selection of one of several applicants for a course in the School of the Ozarks.

A social hour will follow the business meeting.

The annual Associate Council of the National Society United States Daughters of 1812 will be held in Washington April 21 to 24. The state president, Mrs. A. Lee Smiser, will attend.

She has appointed Mrs. H. R. Kreitz, past-president of the St. Louis Chapter, as a member of the Credentials Committee.

Miss Mary Alice Bailey, a member of Pioneer Chapter Junior Society, and granddaughter of Mrs. Homer E. Bailey, was appointed a page to represent the Missouri State Society.

SOCIAL and CIVIC ACTIVITIES of WOMEN'S CLUBS

THE American Citizenship and American Homes Committees of the Eighth District Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs will meet Wednesday morning, at 10:30 o'clock, at Vandervoort's Auditorium. The meeting will be under the direction of Mrs. Foster H. Brown, chairman of American Citizenship, who will report on the selections made by the public high school for the patriotic pilgrimage to Jefferson City. George L. Hawkins, assistant superintendent of the St. Louis Public Schools will address the meeting on "Modern Youth and Its Responsibility to America."

The members of the Junior Council of the eighth district and Mrs. Edward J. Heiligers, junior advisor will be hostesses at a tea at the Delmar Baptist Church, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Mrs. De Witt C. Chastain, State federation president, will be the guest of honor. Other guests will include the other State officers, who reside in St. Louis, members of the eighth district board, the president of the local senior clubs and all the members of junior clubs. The junior club president will have charge of the tea table.

In addition to an address by Mrs. Chastain the program will consist of a group of solos by Miss Marie Meyer. Mrs. John Wilkinson will play two piano numbers.

Preceeding the tea Mrs. Heiligers will entertain Mrs. Chastain, Mrs. Joseph T. Davis, eighth district president, and the Junior Council at a luncheon at her home, 522 Bellerive boulevard.

The poetics section of the Wednesday Club which will meet at 10:30 Wednesday morning, will have as its speaker, Prof. E. E. Seubert, who will discuss "Present Day Imagists of the Southwest." This lecture will close the study of the year on "Four Cultures of the American Southwest." The Program Committee will submit three programs, one of which the members of the section will choose for study for next year. Officers will be elected. Mrs. Sherwood Moore will give the review of current poetry news.

The music section will hold its meeting at 1:30 p. m., with Mrs. Samuel P. Goddard as leader, the subject being "Russian Grand Opera and the Nationalist Group," with the following guest artists: Miss Alma Wibbing, soprano; Luther Taylor, tenor; Mrs. Josephine Pipkin Gottschalk, piano; and Alexander Dobrohotoff of Chicago, who will play the slavic, a rarely heard instrument particularly well adapted to folk music. Mrs. Gottschalk will serve as accompanist.

The Creative Work Class will meet Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Mrs. Bessie Bown Ricker and Mrs. Pauline Jones Burns will be leaders for the month of March. Mrs. Lillian Craig Coffman will present her own compositions arranged for piano, violin and voice, assisted by Mrs. Hazel Etling Heiligers, soprano; and Mrs. Earl Ellis and Mrs. J. William Howe, violinists. Mrs. Burns will give original readings.

COMMITTEES FOR DOG SHOW

TWO new committees—an advisory council and a trophy committee—have been appointed by the board of governors of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club, which is preparing for its twenty-third annual dog show to be held at the Arena, March 23 and 24.

The former embraces Mrs. Gerard McMahon, Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., Mrs. Edward K. Love, Samuel C. Davis Jr., Delbert L. Findley and Sylvester I. Pautler, who is serving his tenth consecutive year as secretary-treasurer of the club. The latter committee is composed of Alfred C. Carr Jr., George D. Dodd, Paul R. Grace, M. J. Connor and Gerald B. O'Reilly, president of the club, and donor of the trophy for the best dog in the show. The board also appointed Mr. Wallace as delegate to the meetings of the American Kennel Club, with which the local organization is affiliated.

This year's show will precede the Chicago exhibition and follow the Cincinnati show. Entries have been received from almost every state in the Union and from many of the Canadian provinces.

Business Man Explains American Business System and Defends It Against a "Barrage of Attack"

R. L. Lund Declares, If Free Play of Individual Enterprise Is Unhampered, Future Advance Will Surpass That of Past.

By ROBERT L. LUND,
Chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers.
(Copyright, 1935.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.

FROM many platforms we hear the declaration that the American business system has failed, that it must be discarded and that something better must be found to replace it. Such talk is not based upon fact-finding, sound analysis or solid thinking, but it persists.

In the face of a barrage of attack, business management, consisting almost wholly of salaried employes, has made almost no attempt to "present a case" for the business system which it is management's duty to direct.

It is because of these facts that I shall, in a series of articles

Answer criticisms of the American business system;

Present as true an analysis as possible of that system;

Consider how it is aided, and how impeded by Government action; and, finally

Present an outline of what business leadership believes it is necessary to do to bring about accelerated recovery and greater stability and prosperity for the future.

'Facile Theorists.'

Since much criticism comes from facile theorists who have "easy solutions" for everything, let this discussion start with some hard facts which critics commonly ignore, as follows:

1. The American business system is a machine having millions of parts, geared together by all the complexities which arise out of the activities of 130 million persons —about half of them gainfully employed, and each a part of the great mechanism and affecting it in greater or lesser degree by every action.

2. That machine, which includes all who work, has built up in the last hundred years the highest and most luxurious standard of living the world ever has known.

3. As a part of it, even the few among us who are poorest are better off than large percentages of the peoples of other countries. It is well worth the time to study all the facts and see if our business machine is obsolete and whether a better one should be found. In fact, we should go further and try to be certain that a better one can be found.

Changes in Working Day.

First, let us get the record of what our business system has accomplished in one hundred years.

We have evidence, and a graphic picture, in a statement by James Bartlett, machine-shop employe in 1842, as follows: "The wages of a machinist in our shop were $1 to $1.25 a day; one nabob of a patternmaker received the great sum of $1.50. We went to work at 5 o'clock in the morning and worked until 7:30 at night."

This is the working standard —12 3-4 hours a day, no Saturday half holiday, 76 hours a week.

By 1860 the working week had been reduced to 68 hours; in 1900 it was 58 hours; in 1930 it was under 48 hours; today—partly due to the depression—it is less than 40 hours.

These changes have come, not because of legislation, not because of labor agitation, but because the advance of our business and industrial system, multiplying man's ability to make things he wants, has made it possible. Were it not for this improved efficiency, the standard of living would have been lowered as working hours were reduced, but how far from this are the facts today?

Contrast in Comforts.

One hundred years ago the average family, though working from dawn to dark, lived in a poorly constructed house, heated by an open fire, which served also for cooking. The home was lighted by candles; it had none of the conveniences of the present day dwelling.

People traveled by wagon or stage coach, without springs, over roads on which 20 miles was a good day's journey. Fabrics were handspun and handwoven, and clothes handmade. A good cobbler required three days to make a a pair of shoes and they were shoes no one would wear today.

It is reasonable to estimate that the comforts and conveniences we now enjoy represent more than 10 times the productive effort which would be required today to provide merely a James Bartlett standard of living. Yet man produces the present standard of living in half the hours James Bartlett labored.

Record of 'Real Wages.'

Second, let us examine progress under the American business system, as stated in terms of "real wages." Not in terms of money, but measured by what money will buy.

"Real wages" have more than quadrupled since 1790.

In measuring "real wages," of course, it is necessary to arrive at an index figure, based on the purchase price of a variety of food and supply items necessary to the average family. Between 1790 and 1800 that index ranged from 28 to 33; in 1820 it was 43. Since then the advance has been constant and rapid—interrupted only by war years—until in 1933 the index figure was 136. In 1934, after four years of depression, the index still was 132.

These things are the result of improved machines and production methods made possible by our American system.

Production Up, Hours Down.

We have led the world in invention and in scientific discovery, with the result that since 1870 our production per man has more than trebled, in the face of almost one-third reduction in working hours. But this did not mean only one-third as much employment. On the contrary, development of new and improved products continuously has called for the employment of more and more industrial workers.

Thus, in 1870 there were 106 industrial workers to the 1000 of population, while in 1930 there were 228; industrial employment had more than doubled.

The harvesting machine, which does the work of 120 men; spinning and weaving machinery which enables one man to do the work of 35,000 hand-workers, and the multitude of other such labor-saving devices and methods, have the effect only of releasing men and women to make other things we want and need.

The railroads displaced, perhaps, 100,000 workers; but employ almost 2,000,000. The automobile displaced, in large degree, wagons, carriages and draft animals; but the industry now employs more than 4,000,000 workers.

'Need Restored Perspective.'

In the face of criticism and alarms, we need restored perspective. Pessimists have always existed.

Almost half of our people today are engaged in industries which did not exist—in fact, were hardly dreamed of half a century ago. These advances have come because we have had under our American system the free play of individual enterprise.

There have always been those who have thought we had reached the limit of industrial progress—though it is only lately that such lack of vision has been accompa-

Supreme Court Soon to Rule on "New Deal" Housing Scheme

The Question Is Whether Proposed Tenements Are for "Public" or Private Use—If Private, Government Cannot Condemn Land on Which to Build Them.

By SAMUEL J. SHELTON
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

THE opinion of United States District Judge Charles I. Dawson at Lousville, Ky., that the Government has no power to take private property by condemnation for its low-cost housing program has put another major New Deal issue before the Supreme Court.

Expressing the fear that ordinary appeal procedure would be so slow as to create a "chaotic condition" in the entire public works program, the Government took a short cut to carry the case up for review without waiting for the Circuit Court of Appeals to pass on it.

Judge Dawson, in his opinion, held that the construction of homes, to be leased or sold to private individuals, was not a "public use" in the constitutional sense that would justify the condemnation of private property; that to so hold would be to say that any private property—farms, factories, businesses—might be taken at the will of Government officials who proposed to use them for the "general welfare." Judge Dawson discussed at length the power of eminent domain and told why he thought this doctrine did not apply to the taking of property for the purposes of housing private individuals.

"If the property of the citizen can be condemned and taken, upon the payment of just compensation," Judge Dawson said, "simply because the legislative department of the Government may determine that the use to which this property is to be put is for the general welfare, the property of every citizen in this country would be subject to the whims and theories of any temporary majority represented in the legislative branch of the Government."

Facts and Circumstances Of the Case at Issue

The case arose from an attempt by the Government to acquire four city blocks in Louisville for the erection of low-cost housing projects under provisions of the public works section of the National Industrial Recovery Act. To circumvent the difficulties and delay of trying to reach purchase agreements with the numerous individual owners, the Government filed a condemnation suit under the theory of eminent domain. One of the property owners, Edward J. Gernert, objected, and Judge Dawson, after sustaining Gernert's demurrer, dismissed the Government's suit.

The Government took the case to the Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati, but without waiting for a hearing there, it petitioned the Supreme Court to take jurisdiction on a writ of certiorari. The writ of certiorari is an order issued by a superior court to an inferior one to send up the entire record of a case for ascertainment of the legal correctness of the proceedings.

In the petition for the writ, United States Solicitor-General J. Crawford Biggs told the Supreme Court that slum clearance and low-cost housing projects, for which $160,000,000 had been allotted by the Government, would be seriously retarded until final decision on the Government's power to condemn property for these purposes. The Government was planning, he said, to file condemnation suits to acquire the land for many of the 50 building projects it had in mind and had already filed such suits in Cleveland and Chicago.

"It has been estimated," the petition said, "that such projects will provide housing accommodations for approximately 160,000 persons and employment for many thousands of men. One of the declared policies of Congress in enacting the National Industrial Recovery Act was to reduce and relieve unemployment quickly. Because of the emergency now existing, it is imperative that there be no delay in the large volume of employment that would be given by the construction of such projects."

Judge Dawson's Statement Of Issue and Discussion

The sole question to be decided, it seemed to Judge Dawson, was that of the "constitutional power of the United States to acquire, through condemnation, property of citizens for the purposes and uses for which the property here involved is designed."

Discussing the power of eminent domain, Judge Dawson said it was an acknowledged attribute of sovereignty, and undoubtedly existed in the Federal Government, although not expressly conferred by the Constitution. It was clear, he thought, from the language of the fifth amendment, which prohibits the taking of private property for public use without just compensation, that the power was limited to "public use."

The question of condemnation of property for such use as proposed in this case is a new one, he said, and "calls for an examination of the inherent nature of the power of eminent domain."

FEDERAL JUDGE CHARLES I. DAWSON

"The universal rule in this country," he said, "is that the states can condemn private property only for a public use, and the language of the fifth amendment shows that the framers of the Federal Constitution intended that the National Government should be similarly restricted. The prohibition in that amendment against the taking of private property for public use, except upon the payment of just compensation, clearly implies that it cannot be taken for private use at all."

There are some, he continued, who would interpret the term "public use" to include anything that may be said to be of "public benefit" or for the "general welfare." Judge Dawson did not agree with this theory, he said, and he quoted the definition from Lewis on Eminent Domain: "Public use means the same as use by the public."

"I am of the opinion," Judge Dawson continued, "that the power of eminent domain can be exercised only for a public use, and that such public use means a use by the Government for legitimate governmental purposes, or a use open to all the public, even though practically available to only a part of the public, whether the property condemned is held by the Government or by some private agency; and this public right to use must result from the law itself, rather than from the will of the governmental agency upon which the power of condemnation is conferred.

Is Slum Clearance Use 'Public' as Defined?—No

"Measured by these principles, is the proposed use of the property here sought to be condemned a public use?"

Judge Dawson reviewed the provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act, which provided, among other things, for "construction, reconstruction, alteration or repair under public regulation or control of low-cost housing and slum clearance projects," and for acquisition through the power of eminent domain of property needed for such projects.

Admitting that an emergency existed, as set forth in the act, the Court said that the exercise of the power of eminent domain could not be expanded by reason of a national emergency.

Inquiring into the nature of the use to be made of the property, the opinion continued:

"Certainly it is not a public use, in the sense that the property is proposed to be used by the Government for performing any of the legitimate functions of the Government itself. It is not proposed to use the property for the purpose of erecting buildings thereon to be occupied by any agency of the Government in performing its statutory or constitutional functions.

"Surely it is not a governmental function to construct buildings in a state for the purpose of selling or leasing them to private citizens for occupancy as homes. If such an activity is a governmental function, then the Government is likewise possessed of the power to acquire by condemnation farm lands, improve them and sell or lease them to citizens. Such a power would likewise include the right to acquire by condemnation livestock and machinery with which to stock such farms so acquired. It would include the power to acquire by condemnation mills, factories, mines and every conceivable kind of industrial plant, for the purpose of operating them in competition with private industry, or for the purpose of selling or leasing them to whomsoever the Government might wish.

"The very suggestion of the extent to which such power might be carried, it seems to me, compels its rejection. The language of the statute (National Industrial Recovery Act) forces one to the conclusion that the proposed buildings are to be constructed for the use of those private individuals who may be selected by the agencies of the Government for their enjoyment. The right to purchase the buildings or to lease them is not a right made available by statute to all of the public upon equal terms, free from the will of Power vs. Policy

TWO of the legislative measures that are fundamental to the "New Deal" already have been passed on by the Supreme Court and two remain before that tribunal for determination.

In all these cases the basic question is whether Congress has exceeded its constitutional powers in enacting the statutes under question which were designed to enable President Roosevelt to carry out his conception of a national economy.

The court is not concerned, as it has frequently said, and said with emphasis in the gold cases, with the policy of the Congress or the consequences of its acts. The function of the court is to determine whether the legislative branch has authority under the Constitution to do the things sought to be done.

In the oil regulation case the court's decision was that Section 9C of the National Industrial Recovery Act which gave broad powers to the President to control the production and shipment of oil was an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power to the executive. The Congress cannot "abdicate," the majority opinion (8 to 1) said.

In the gold cases the Court decided that the resolution of Congress declaring invalid clauses calling for the payment in gold or its equivalent in bonds or other obligations was constitutional as to private, State and municipal obligations, but unconstitutional in its attempts to cancel the promise of gold in Government obligations.

As to private obligations, the court divided 5 to 4, but it was 8 to 1 against the effort to repudiate the gold obligation in the Government's own bonds. And while the court did not find it necessary to pass upon the constitutionality of the resolution as it affected gold certificates the majority (5 to 4) held in effect that there was no way for holders of either United States bonds or gold certificates to compel fulfillment of the promise, despite the passing observation that the gold clause was still binding on the "conscience of the sovereign."

The case growing out of the housing program of the Administration, which is described at length in adjoining columns, turns on a different point of congressional power from either of the two just discussed.

Nor do the two cases decided throw any light on the second undecided one, that of the lumber code, which went to the court from Birmingham, Alabama. The Supreme Court's ruling here will have great significance and widespread effect. It is expected to establish definite limitations beyond which "codes" under the National Industrial Recovery Act may not go. Federal Judge W. I. Grubb, in the lower court, held that the lumber and timber code was unconstitutional in attempting to fix wages and hours, thus depriving employers of property "without due process" in violation of the Fifth Amendment.

THE Frazier-Lemke law, providing for postponements in the execution of farm mortgages, is also before the court on appeal. This statute is scarcely one of the New Deal's essentials. Here the question is whether deferment in execution of mortgages operates to deprive the mortgage holder of property "without due process."

The Minnesota moratorium law, identic in purpose with the Frazier-Lemke law, and the New York milk law, which includes price-fixing, are, of course, State statutes and are not part of the Roosevelt program.

Entire Private Debt Structure At Mercy of Congress Under Gold Decisions, Professor Corwin Says

Princeton Man Declares Rulings Are Step Toward Completely New Statement of Constitutional Theory.

Prof. Corwin's recent book, "The Twilight of the Supreme Court," published by the Yale University Press, attracted wide interest among jurists, lawyers and students of jurisprudence and government. In this article his theme of the necessity for adaptation of the Constitution to present-day conditions is developed in the light of the recent gold clause decision. As McCormick Professor of Jurisprudence at Princeton since 1918, and the author of numerous works on political science and on the history and functioning of the Supreme Court, Prof. Corwin has long been recognized as an authority on the court and the Constitution.

By EDWARD S. CORWIN.

THE gold clause cases bring to a close a remarkable chapter in American constitutional history.

When people talk about the way in which the powers of the national Government have been "expanded" by interpretation they usually refer to the "commerce" clause in confirmation. A far better example is that afforded by the clause giving Congress power "to coin money, (and) regulate the value thereof." In point of fact, judicial interpretation of the "commerce" clause has contracted rather than enlarged it. The distinction between "interstate" and "local" commerce was unknown to Chief Justice John Marshall as late as 1821; and his definition of the power to "regulate" as the power to govern commerce was softened after the Civil War to the power to foster and promote it—a construction reflective of laissez faire concepts, though it has still to be reckoned with.

Down to 1862 the power to coin money and regulate the value thereof had a very humdrum history. Then suddenly it was subjected to the weight of a great war emergency. When this happens to a constitutional clause, it is never quite the same again.

Original Intent.

This clause was obviously the work of people who believed that the value of money varies with its metallic content. The power to regulate the value of money was, therefore, the power to alter its metallic content—a power which had been enormously abused throughout history, yet one which is bestowed upon Congress without qualification. The Civil War expanded this power into the power to issue a paper currency, to secure the circulation of such currency by striking down all competing media, and finally to endow it with the quality of legal tender in the discharge of private debts, both past and future.

All of these results were duly ratified by the court in the famous Legal Tender cases (12 Wall 457, 1870). Then in 1884, by the decision in the last Legal Tender case (Juilliard vs. Greenman, 110 U. S. 42) these powers were recognized as belonging to the national Government in peace time as well as in war time, in consequence of the Government's sovereignty in this enormously important field of power and in the matter of borrowing.

One point, however, the Legal Tender cases left undecided, and the omission might well have proved a disastrous Achilles heel to national power. That is the point at issue in the first of the Gold Clause cases (Norman vs. B. & O. R. R.) It is whether private creditors may put themselves out of the reach of Congress' power to regulate the value of money by stipulating for payment in some particularly designated kind of dollar, for instance, gold dollars of the same weight and fineness as those in circulation at the time of drawing of the contract.

Both in Bronson vs. Rodes (7 Wall 224) decided prior to the Legal Tender cases, and in Trebilock vs. Wilson (12 Wall 687), decided after them, the court ruled that it had not been the intention of Congress to make its notes legal tender for such debts.

But this holding was based solely on the court's construction of the act of Congress and in the Trebilock case, in which he dissented, Justice Bradley remarked that he did "not understand the majority of the court to decide that an act so drawn as to embrace, in terms, contracts payable in specie, would not be constitutional."

Relying in part on this statement of Justice Bradley, the majority of the court holds in the Norman case that the gold clause device, when it occurs in private contracts, is an invasion of Congress' power to provide the country with a uniform currency, and that Congress was therefore within its powers in passing the joint resolution of June 5, 1933, pronouncing all such devices void.

Decision and Interpretation.

Does this holding add anything to the powers previously ascribed to Congress by virtue of its power to coin money and regulate the value thereof?

It is open to serious doubt whether the court's reliance on Justice Bradley's words was altogether warranted, apparently Justice Bradley regarded the gold clause and similar devices as stipulating a mode of payment, from which it followed that if such devices were generally resorted to they would interfere seriously with the easy circulability of the Government's paper notes. And to secure such circulability was, by the theory of the legal tender cases, the very reason for conferring on those notes the legal tender quality.

Congress, however, in enacting the resolution of June 5, 1933, had no such purpose in mind. The object, in the language of the resolution, was to "assure uniform value to the coins and currencies of the United States." This it did by invalidating the gold clause not merely as a mode of payments of debts, but also as a measure of value thereof. And in the Norman case the court sustains this invalidation.

But does the gold clause, interpreted simply as the measure of the value of a debt, interfere with the uniformity of the currency? It is certainly difficult to see just how it does or can, and the court's holding that the joint resolution was valid because calculated to establish "a uniform currency" seems decidedly strained.

The Real Reason.

The real grounds of the court's decision were of a much broader nature. In this connection, Justice McReynolds' blunt assertion that the "real purpose (of the joint resolution) was not 'to assure uniform value to the coins and currencies of the United States,' but to destroy certain valuable contract rights" becomes very arresting.

That one important purpose of the administration's monetary policy has been to cut down the debt burden of the country is incontrovertible, and was, indeed, frankly avowed by the Government's counsel in support of the joint resolution. Now, bemoans Justice McReynolds, the court underwrites this purpose: "The Constitution is gone."

Is it? the answer depends, naturally, on what one means by "the Constitution." If we are to take seriously the court's decision in Juilliard vs. Greenman that the national Government is as sovereign as any Government on earth in

On the Gold Decision.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SINCE the august Supreme Court has finally eked out a 5-to-4 decision, we may rest assured that Mr. Roosevelt's "resilient" Constitution is upheld. At least the "stretch" is certain, however doubtful the possible recovery to "original position" may be.

The foreigners who owe us like the decision; those who hold our bonds do not like it. How human they are! The court tells foreigners that our Congress was illegal in its action, but it goes on to say that it is sorry that nothing is likely to be done about it.

The precedent has been set; a technicality has opened the way. The semblance of a Constitution we once had is now mocked and laughed at by those sworn to uphold it!

All that I can say is this: President Roosevelt certainly should thank his lucky star that a conservative Republican President saw fit to appoint a "liberal" to succeed the inimitable Holmes; but for Cardozo, rather than a conservative that Mr. Hoover might have appointed, Mr. Roosevelt would now be literally up Salt Creek!

In a manner of speaking, Mr. Hoover is responsible for saving the Roosevelt smile and face. ELMER WONDERS.

Would Restore the Name of Yeatman.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I READ with interest of the resolution passed by the assembled 1910 alumni of Yeatman High School, for the restoration to the name Yeatman to the school building. As a graduate of Yeatman High, returning to St. Louis after a number of years' residence elsewhere, I have deplored the disappearance of this worthy and distinctive name from the old school where four years of my early youth were passed. I take this opportunity to subscribe to the spirit of the resolution of the class of 1910 and to urge that the interest of the rest of the alumni be aroused.

As Col. House Puts It.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IS our Government courting war with Japan? As this country is supposed to be a democracy, we surely have the right to an honest explanation of our Government's baffling attitude toward Japan, its assertions of friendliness and actions of hostility.

Connie Mack says, "Forget about that talk of war with Japan. There's nothing to it. Japan has the friendliest of feelings toward us." We know there's no rational reason for enmity between the peoples of the two countries, but in this day and age governments and economic policies cause wars, not people, so let's look to the Government for responsibility for existing rumors. The struggle for oil in Asia, Japan's invasion of world markets and our Government's determination to keep the present so-called balance of power are some of the more obvious trouble breeders between the two countries. Perhaps cupidity still rules nations, but it least becomes the most fortunate nation in the world.

Let's take a tip from Col. E. M. House, who says, "The people of Great Britain are insistent on peace. The Government knows this and is conducting foreign affairs accordingly." We should press our Government to dispel the war clouds over the Pacific. MRS. O. M. WILSON.

A Reply to Mr. Clausen.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SPEAKING for the United States Chamber of Commerce against the 30-hour week, F. H. Clausen is quoted as follows: "The process of maintaining employment depends on the consumer, not the maker of goods."

Of course, Mr. Clausen forgot to say that the great majority of consumers are wage earners and their ability to function as consumers is limited only by the size and number of their pay checks.

The intelligent manufacturer knows that being a "maker of goods" is only half of his business, and that the other half is the making of cash customers.

Asks Mr. Ferrero's Meaning.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

GUGLIELMO FERRERO writes: "The great Powers, including the United States and Japan, do not want war anywhere . . . for they are too much afraid of the consequences. But to have true peace everywhere they would have to make so many renunciations and sacrifices of all kinds that they prefer not to make any."

Ferrero talks in a maze that certainly is not understood by the common man. What is the meaning to the bulk of citizens in the United States of the "consequences" that the great Powers are afraid of?

Will Mr. Ferrero please tell us what "renunciations and sacrifices" the people must make in terms of goods and services in order that they may have peace? And, after all, is it not goods and services that the common man must have to secure prosperity and peace?

MISSOURI'S BLACK RECORD.

The State of Missouri's failure to improve its criminal code is "a black record, with almost no ray of light." Thus Dean Wiley B. Rutledge of the Washington University School of Law, in an address Thursday, summed up the unsuccessful efforts over the last 15 years to revise the State's antiquated criminal procedure in the light of modern needs and developments.

It is drastic language, and all too true. Program after program has been submitted to the Legislature by the forward-looking elements of bar and public, only to fail. Occasional measures of reform have been written into the statutes, but the most important—abolition of the "shotgun" motion for new trial—is sabotaged by a bill perfected a few days ago in the Senate.

The Missouri Association for Criminal Justice, formed in 1925 by a representative group of lawyers, appeared before the Legislature in 1925, 1927 and 1929 with comprehensive programs for code reform, but its efforts were fruitless each time. The association sponsored an extensive survey of conditions in the State, published in a 600-page volume as the Missouri Crime Survey. Its recommendations went unheeded. The St. Louis and State bar associations have advocated specific reforms at the current session, and Gov. Park made numerous sound recommendations, but the previous sorry history of reform efforts seems scheduled for repetition.

Why these failures to modernize an archaic system? Why must Missouri continue to operate with a 100-year-old code which gives the criminal many advantages and handicaps the efforts of the prosecutor? Dean Rutledge gave the explanation for any who may not be informed: the presence of criminal lawyers in the Legislature, who are likely to benefit by technicalities of the law, and the failure of rural lawyer-legislators to understand the defects of the criminal system under urban conditions.

Meanwhile, the menace of the underworld remains ever-present. The most strenuous efforts of orderly society are needed to put it down. The public is becoming aware of the situation. Voters, aroused by the Legislature's flagrant neglect of this important cause, may be counted on to retire to private life those members responsible for it.

If the present Legislature adjourns without doing anything about this vital matter, the people of Missouri should move in their own defense by resorting to the initiative. It is perfectly practicable for the bar associations to take the lead in such a movement, which would merit and win the support of the people. Missouri is not insensible to the social necessities of reform in criminal proceedure. She has seen crime flourish until it has all but gained the upper hand. She has seen gangs and gunmen prosper. She has seen the people terrorized by kidnapers. She has seen the underworld challenge the authority of law, the temple of justice profaned by perversion.

Who keeps the Legislature from doing its duty? The rank and file in the House and Senate, the men sent to Jefferson City by their constituents to guard the defenses of life and property? No, it is not they. The opponents of reform are the criminal lawyers in the Assembly. They constitute a powerful minority. They control the key committees, dominate legislative proceedure. They are the bosses, the Ishmaels of representative government, whose hands are against every concept of public decency.

If the Legislature will not break away from this vicious control and assert its right to serve and protect society, the people of the State must thrust the Assembly aside and move as the people have so many times moved—as they did when Magna Carta was born, as they did when the Declaration of Independence rolled its challenge across the Atlantic.

Imagine one of the populous states of the Union, with great cities in it, with universities, churches, arts, sciences, beautiful buildings, modern highways, flying fields, music, radio, laboratories, hospitals, libraries—and an outmoded and unmodern criminal code by means of which crime plays ducks and drakes with the courts, and Justice is dragged through every day's news at the tail of yesterday's ox cart!

Only courage deserves to be free. How long will we sit silent, watching every move to save us fail, seeing every thrust from the underworld succeed? Arise, Missouri!

JUDGE POUND.

The New York Court of Appeals, which is the highest court of that State and as such is perhaps the most important State court in the country, has been extremely fortunate in its presiding Judges in recent years. From 1927 to 1932, the head of this court was Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo, whose brilliant mind now adorns the United States Supreme Court. From Justice Cardozo's elevation until the first of this year, the presiding jurist was Judge Cuthbert W. Pound, who died recently at the age of 71.

A member of the New York high court for 17 years before he became its presiding Judge, Judge Pound's grasp of the law, his ability to go to the heart of legal questions and his lucid opinions soon won him a high place among the expounders of the law. He stood shoulder to shoulder with such jurists as Holmes and Brandeis and his own colleague, Cardozo, in interpreting the law as a living thing, not fixed irrevocably by the "black letter" of the past. It is sufficient tribute to say that he was a worthy successor to the white-haired scholar in the law who in turn now sits in the seat of Holmes.

HEATING BY ELECTRICITY.

The Tennessee Valley experiment centering around the Norris Dam gets more publicity, but occasionally items are published relating to the Grand Coulee power project, in the Pacific Northwest. A recent dispatch refers to the matter of heating homes by electricity. Records are being kept of what it costs to do this in the 200 homes of dam workmen and engineers, at Mason City, Wash. For the coldest month of the year, figures show, the cost will be $8, and the yearly bill will be around $54. The cost of installing heating units for every room of a five-room house is announced as $150.

Nor can the charge of subsidy or juggled accounting be raised against this "yardstick." The power in this instance is bought by the private contractor from a commercial firm, and sold to the consumer at about 3 mills per kilowatt hour. Rates will be still lower, it is said, when the Grand Coulee Dam begins operation.

Figures on these 200 households' fuel bills are being compiled for use by the Government in connection with its power program. More will be heard about them as the country advances toward rates so low that all households will be able to enjoy the convenience, cleanliness and efficiency of heating by electricity, now kept from popular domestic use by its cost.

BANKER CONTROL OF RAILROADS.

In a speech before the Traffic Club of New York, Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, said Government money would no longer be lent to railroads on an emergency basis, and that railroads desiring loans must be "prepared to prove their cases in point of management, competitive conditions and general policy." He asserted that railroad management has not been as "far-sighted and as energetic as it might have been" in meeting competition, and ascribed the trouble to banker control.

The seeds of railroad decline were sown when authority over them was transferred from those who were experts in transportation to men whose interest was primarily a financial one. Great banking groups, of course, could not be expected to lend tens of millions of dollars to railroads without demanding a share in the direction and management. But this process finally reached the point where practically every major line in the country fell into the hands of banking groups.

Shoemakers should stick to the last. The business of transportation should be conducted by men who give their lives to it. As it is, according to Mr. Jones, "many of our railroad executives and operating heads are required to spend entirely too much of their time traveling to and from New York to get orders from their bankers." They are the puppets of bankers. If railroad managers had been left to their own devices and had shown the initiative displayed in so many other lines of American business, it is inconceivable that the railroads would be in their present plight or that the investing public would be holding the sack as it is.

In the early days, banker control caused the railroads to relinquish the sleeping car business to Pullman and the express business to other corporations. Both of these enterprises, which made many millions for their owners, belong properly and logically to the railroad business itself. Only after the express business had been a bonanza for many years did the banker-controlled railroads see the light and purchase it. In later years, the railroads watched the revolution in transportation caused by the motor car without turning a hand to meet the competition. It was not until their passenger business had practically disappeared and great inroads had been made upon their freight business that the railroads were stirred into belated action.

Alert management long ago would have modernized and improved railroad transportation. Up until recently, it has remained almost static as the motor car and truck manufacturers forged ahead. As a matter of fact, a decade or more ago the railroads themselves should have entered the business of hauling freight and passengers by automobile and thus assured for their own treasuries the vast amounts of revenue now going elsewhere. Some of them have belatedly started doing so.

Among the managers of railroads are many highly capable and progressive men, who find themselves balked at every turn by short-sighted banker control. If these men are freed of restrictions and permitted to give single-minded devotion to the transportation business, there is no reason why the railroads cannot make a magnificent comeback.

The depression has at least served to reveal the true nature of their malady, and Mr. Jones knows only too well what it is. No man could sit where he sits and not see it clearly.

HELP REACH THIS GOAL!

The latest report in the Salvation Army's campaign for funds to carry on its work in St. Louis and the county shows that 40 per cent of the amount needed has been subscribed. The difference between this and the goal sought should be made up as soon as possible. Everyone is familiar with the place which the Salvation Army fills in the permanent welfare work of the community. It ought not be necessary to point out that the entry of other relief organizations in the social service field has not supplanted the work of the men and women who wear the colors of the "army." They still have their many character-building activities to carry on; there are convicts' families to look out for and ex-convicts to help fit back into society, to mention only one type of service which is largely the Salvation Army's own. The goal set is not large nor will it long remain unreached if everyone who can spare a contribution does what conscience tells him to do.

A PLAGUE O' BOTH.

This Farley-Long affair is an engaging row. Everybody, figuratively speaking, is enjoying it—everybody excepting Mr. Farley. And it is a good bet that nobody else is getting so much fun out of it as Huey Long is. Packed galleries rock with laughter as Huey "pours it on." Senators who usually retire to cloak rooms when a colleague is speaking, pay Huey the compliment of listening attentively to his torrents of invective. The vast clientele of the front page is "eating it up."

From all we know of Mr. Farley, he is not a reflective person. He is, one infers, the complete pragmatist who seeks his objective by the shortest route, indifferent to, or oblivious, perhaps, of such an intangible as public opinion. Yet here is an experience which seemingly must give him pause. It must occur to him, we should think, that he is the only occupant of high public station to whom the vindictiveness of Huey Long would not be an asset. The enmity of the Kingfish, his ranting vulgarity, had been, in any other instance, a considerable tribute—had evoked a genuine public sympathy for the object of the venom. Not so in the case of Mr. Farley.

The reason does not have to be labored. Mr. Farley is a political practitioner of a repudiated school. A member of the Cabinet, he has affronted the popular sense of propriety by retaining political office along with public office. He is Postmaster-General, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of New York, and the general impression is that he does not permit his public duties to interfere with his party duties. In the public mind, he is primarily the politician, incidentally the Postmaster-General. He has flagrantly flouted the people's notion of fair play on several occasions.

If Huey Long drives Mr. Farley out of official life, public sentiment will applaud. And if Mr. Farley could contrive to rid the country of Huey Long's senatorial presence, bury the Louisiana dictator-demagogue in a metaphorical bayou, whoops of joy would roll across the continent.

Miss Ferber Scores Again

COME AND GET IT. By Edna Ferber. (Doubleday Doran & Co., Garden City, N. Y.)

IT is probable that relatively few of Edna Ferber's multitude of readers have realized, in the enjoyment of her novels as they have appeared, how remarkable a literary structure she has been building during the past 14 years. She now has to her credit six novels of American life, each of extraordinary power; and the cumulative effect of these, when regarded as a related group, is considerably more than a matter of addition. There is an emergent value in the group, now seen to be organic, that, when fully realized, should place the author higher than ever in the esteem of her more discerning readers; for she has been producing no less than a social history of our country.

"The Girls," which appeared in 1921, dealt with Chicago during three generations. "So Big," published three years later, pictured life on a Middle Western farm. In 1926 came "Show Boat," dealing with life along the Mississippi River in the great days of the steamboat. "Cimarron" (1930) pictured unforgettably the Oklahoma land rush. "American Beauty" (1931) dealt with the Polish invasion of the Connecticut Valley and the displacement of the old New England population. In "Come and Get It," equal in power to any of the others, we have the life of the logging country of the North from the days of Theodore Roosevelt to the days of Franklin D.

Thus it is seen that Edna Ferber, while still in her prime, has dealt in an illuminating way with significant phases of American life in the various sections east of the Rockies. May we not expect her to cross the Continental Divide in her next? And what material is waiting for her there!

The latest novel is concerned with the career of Barney Glasgow who, beginning as a "shanty boy" in the logging camps of Wisconsin, fights his way up out of poverty, marries the cold, spinsterial daughter of old Jed Hewitt, "the timber king," and becomes "the wood pulp and paper king" of the North.

The tale opens when Barney Glasgow, affectionately called "Gusto," has attained the pinnacle of his power at the age of 53 and is already beginning to experience the "fed-up" feeling of a man who, too long and too strenuously on the make, suspects that he has somehow missed something. In other words, he has reached the dangerous age; and the plain, vinegary daughter of old Jed Hewitt is hardly the woman to understand.

The tale shifts back to Gusto's youthful friendship with the giant Swede, Swan Bostrom, and their mutual love for Lotta Morgan, an unfortunate girl with no enviable reputation. Swan marries the girl, who is murdered after bearing him a daughter. The old friendship between the men continues and grows until even at the height of his power, it is the finest thing in Gusto's increasingly restless life.

But old Swan now has a granddaughter, Lotta Lindbeck—a veritable Helen; and thereby hangs the tragic tale of Gusto's undoing. Vaguely aware that he is "acting like an old fool," he falls desperately in love with the exquisitely beautiful Lotta, who is younger than his daughter; but, quite naturally, he proceeds to rationalize his interest in the girl under the guise of a fatherly desire to further her education and prepare her for her rightful place in the world.

The rationalization works well enough until the day when the father learns that Lotta, scorning him as an old man, is in love with his own son. Out of this situation, the author develops one of the most powerful scenes in recent fiction. (On second thought, this writer is tempted to omit the word "recent".) Truly, the pity and terror of a Greek tragedy are to be felt in this tremendous scene between the broken father, the son and the girl. A final touch of almost terrifying beauty is given to the episode when the plain, hard, cold, jealous wife of Gusto learns of his defeat and flares with a pathetic flame of autumnal love for her husband. It would be hard to say just what novelist has done a finer thing than this.

The tale continues after the passing of Gusto, falling like a weight released from the height of that climactic scene, and ends with the disillusionment of what we still bravely persist in calling the depression.

WHY WARS MUST CEASE. A Symposium Edited by Rose Young. (The Macmillan Co., New York City.)

TEN years ago, we read, some of the more important women's organizations of the country "united in a National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War." Ten conferences have been held since then, and "many of the best-informed men" of the world have "explained" at the conferences "the cause of continuous wars and the possible cure of this ruinous custom."

And why, then, must wars cease?

"Because," says Carrie Chapman Catt, "if we don't destroy war now, war will destroy us."

"Because," says Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, "the war idea is obsolete."

"Because," Mary E. Woolley has noted, "wars waste human life."

Mrs. Meloney thinks "they cost too much."

Mrs. Boeckel observes that "they cause economic chaos." Mrs. Emily Newell Blair is opposed to wars because, among other reasons, "you never know what you're fighting for." Judge Florence Allen finds that wars "unleash demoralizing instincts," while Dr. Alice Hamilton notes that "war breeds war." Jane Addams sees that wars "interfere with the normal growth of civilization."

Ten years of cogitation thus result in affirmations of the obvious, and it seems barely possible that those "best-informed men" may have been less than completely successful in explaining the fundamental cause of war. Nevertheless, here indeed are "ringing and eloquent appeals." After enjoying them, the reader would do well to spend a week of nights with Beard's "The Open Door at Home."

Wars must cease because we perceive that they are very bad for us?

Well, hardly! We shall have to perceive something rather more fundamental than that before they can cease for us.

OUTWARD BOUND FROM LIVERPOOL. By Edward Peisson. (Frederick A. Stokes Co., New York City.)

HERE is a novel that can be read not only without disgust but with increasing admiration by those who may have attained a level of awareness somewhat above that of petty gossip or of erotomania. The story has no "heroine," and in view of the function of the heroine in nearly every novel one opens nowadays, the lack here seems something to be grateful for.

The story is simply that of the building and wrecking of a great trans-Atlantic liner, the Star of the Seas. One might as well say the Titanic, considering the fact that the circumstances surrounding the tragic fate of the latter are all a part of the overwhelming tale, although the publishers are at pains to disclaim for themselves and for the author any intention of reflecting on "any steamship line or maritime company," insisting, what is obvious, that "the characters and the names of all vessels are purely fiction."

The central character is Capt. Davis, who, with an enviable record of many years at sea without an accident, is about to retire when he is persuaded, against his better judgment, to take the Star, largest, fastest and most luxurious ship afloat, on her maiden voyage. Detail by detail, the whole story of the building of the ship develops as the Star races westward in a mad effort to break the record at all costs. Also, each of the officers grows in the reader's consciousness until all seem intimately known. Blind in a dense fog, the Star runs into ice, and the tragedy culminates as in the case of the Titanic.

BACKWOODS AMERICA. By Charles Morrow Wilson. (The University of North Carolina Press, Chapel Hill, [illegible])

VARIOUS stories, generally highly sentimentalized, have been written about the natives of the Ozarks in Missouri and Arkansas, and a few of them, notably those of Vance Randolph, have presented strikingly true pictures of certain phases of character and life in the hills country. But no reader of "Backwoods America" who is acquainted with both the people and the literature of the Ozarks is likely to question the statement that Charles Morrow Wilson has created the most comprehensive and sympathetically realistic picture of this people up to date.

The book is evidently a labor of love, for the author writes of his homeland and of his friends and neighbors. This should go far to explain the excellence of the work, but in addition he has the remarkable ability to achieve and steadily maintain the objective view without loss of the warm sympathy that he feels; and the very rare power of restraint is his.

Every phase of hill life is adequately and entertainingly discussed, yet the volume contains only 200 pages. The quiet simplicity and directness of the author's style will delight the lover of good English honestly and skillfully handled with a deep sincerity of purpose.

STATE OF TEXAS OFFERS NATURAL GAS TO ST. LOUIS

Attorney Representing Gov. Allred Tells Aldermen of Proposal to Build Two Pipe Lines.

PWA FUNDS SOUGHT FOR THIS PURPOSE

Top Cost Figured at 25c for 1000 Feet, Opening Possibility of Cutting Retail Rate Here.

The State of Texas is prepared to go into the wholesale distribution of natural gas, vast quantities of which are going to waste in that State, and would like to have the City of St. Louis for a customer, the Gas Committee of the Board of Aldermen was told yesterday.

The informant, Everett L. Looney, Austin attorney, representing Gov. James V. Allred of Texas, said the price of the gas delivered at the city limits would be between 20 and 25 cents a thousand cubic feet, never exceeding the latter figure, and that Texas proposed to borrow Federal work relief funds to build one or more pipe lines. Looney is chairman of an unofficial State Public Works Committee appointed by Gov. Allred.

The project has been submitted to Public Works Administrator Ickes, who mentioned it recently as possibly a desirable measure for the employment of $50,000,000 of the new work relief fund of $4,000,000,000 that President Roosevelt has asked Congress to appropriate.

As the cost of natural gas to the consumer would be the wholesale rate plus the distribution and overhead cost, the Texas proposal presents the possibility of a substantially lower retail rate than now prevails in St. Louis, depending, of course, on the method of distribution.

Seeking Market for Waste Gas.

"We have the gas and more than a billion cubic feet a day is being blown into the air and wasted," Looney said. "We need markets for this gas, and we would like to be able to tell the PWA officials that St. Louis is a good prospective market. Our committee has taken options on sufficient acreage in the Panhandle gas field, the largest in the world, to make sure that we could supply 200,000,000 cubic feet a day or 25 billion feet a year, to St. Louis.

"Our interest is in eliminating the waste of a great natural resource of our State and enabling Texas owners of gas lands to sell their product. At the same time the construction of the pipe lines would provide a great amount of employment and would stimulate industry. For instance, one 24-inch pipe line to St. Louis would require [illegible] tons of steel."

State Authority Proposed.

Looney explained that Texas officials proposed to create a State natural gas authority which would have power to build and operate the pipe lines and to buy gas from producers and sell it to distributers. The authority would borrow the funds for construction and Looney said the project would be self-liquidating at the wholesale rates for gas that he had suggested.

Tentative plans are to build two 24-inch pipe lines to St. Louis, one of which would be carried on to Detroit, with the possibility that the second line also might be extended to Detroit. Estimates of cost run from $24,200,000 for a single line to St. Louis to $58,000,000 for two lines carried to Detroit.

Following the recent announcement by Public Works Administrator Ickes, Looney said, two representatives of the Detroit gas company went to Texas to inform the Governor's committee that the company was interested in getting a contract to buy the Texas gas.

Looney said his committee had an engagement to discuss the project with Public Works officials at Washington the first week in March. He asked the Aldermanic committee to send representatives to that conference.

Estimates 25-Year Supply.

On the basis of studies made by Dr. E. H. Sellards, professor of geology at the University of Texas, Looney said that at a greater rate of withdrawal of gas than is now going on, the Panhandle field would give an assured supply for 25 to 30 years. The present withdrawal is about 500 billion cubic feet a year, with more than one billion cubic feet a day blowing into the air.

One 24-inch pipe line could supply St. Louis with about 25 billion cubic feet of gas a year, or about six times the present annual consumption, it was said. The prevailing price of the gas at the Texas wells is 4 cents a thousand cubic feet.

Other Hearings This Week.

The hearing yesterday was the [illegible] the Aldermanic Gas Committee has held since it set out recently to explore the possibilities of getting straight natural gas at low rates for St. Louis.

Another hearing is set for 2 p. m. tomorrow, at which City Counselor [illegible] said a representative of the Panhandle-Eastern Pipe Line Corporation would be heard. This company has a 20-inch pipe line extending from the Texas Panhandle to the Illinois-Indiana state line, crossing Missouri 65 miles north of St. Louis.

At a hearing set for 2 p. m. Friday officials of the Laclede Gas Light Co. will be invited to give testimony. Following his testimony before the committee yesterday, Looney conferred with E. P. Gosling, president of the Laclede company.

Protest From East St. Louis Based on Possible Loss to Miners.

A protest against construction of a new natural gas pipe line from Texas to St. Louis was sent to Public Works Administrator Ickes yesterday by the East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, based on the argument that it would cause additional unemployment among coal miners in Southern Illinois.

It was said that for every 25,000 cubic feet of natural gas sold, a ton of coal would be displaced, with loss of $1.50 in mine wages and 80 cents in railroad wages.

"Building a new pipe line into and through this area," the protest stated, "would perhaps furnish employment to a comparatively small body of men for a short time, but would put hundreds of other men permanently out of employment and tend to wreck the greatest single industry of Illinois. For the Federal Government to aid in making the business of our Illinois coal fields still more precarious is unthinkable."

To Speak on Pure Foods.

A. E. Lowe, chief of the St. Louis station of the United States Food and Drug Administration, will speak on "Howy Pure Are Our Foods and Drugs?" at a meeting of the Electrical Board of Trade at Hotel Statler at 12:15 p. m. Tuesday.

Supreme Court to Rule Soon on Housing Scheme

Law Does Not Fix Use; Officials May Decide It

"The matter of whether the property will be sold or leased, and to whom sold or leased and upon what terms, is entirely within the discretion of the administrative branch of the Government, with no rule laid down in the statute which that department is compelled to respect or follow. Therefore, the buildings proposed to be constructed are not to be devoted to a public use, in the sense that they are to be used to house legitimate governmental activities, nor are they to be devoted to a public use in the sense that the statute makes them available as a matter of right and upon equal terms to all the public or any part thereof."

Ruling on Taxing Power; General, But Not Unlimited

Next Judge Dawson took up a contention of Government counsel that the power of condemnation could be exercised under that section of the Constitution giving Congress power "to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare."

"It is contended," he said, "that as this section empowers Congress to levy taxes for the general welfare of the United States, it (Congress), of course, possesses the power to appropriate these taxes to the general welfare, and that therefore the Government possesses the power to condemn property to be paid for out of the money thus appropriated and to be devoted to the purposes deemed by Congress to be for the general welfare. Just how far, under this provision of the Constitution, Congress may go in levying taxes and appropriating public money for the general welfare is an open question; and in view of the holding of the Supreme Court in the case of Massachusetts vs. Mellon, 262 U. S., 447, that a taxpayer cannot question such appropriations, the limits of the power of Congress in this respect may never be authoritatively determined.

"It may be conceded, however, that congressional appropriations under this provision of the Constitution are not necessarily limited to those matters expressly committed to the control of Congress by other provisions of the Constitution. On the other hand, it cannot be conceded that this provision is a grant of general authority to Congress to legislate, other than by making appropriations, on any subject deemed by it to be for the general welfare.

"This clause, by its very terms, restricts Congress to providing for the general welfare through appropriations only, because it relates only to taxation and to the use of funds raised by taxation. It does not authorize the exercise by Congress of a power not committed to it merely that there may be brought into existence something for which appropriations may be made in the furtherance of general welfare. The power granted is that of laying taxes—not that of providing for the general welfare. The latter is only one of the purposes for which taxes may be levied."

No U. S. Police Power in States.

Nor could the condemnation be justified on the ground that the properties were a menace to public health, the Judge said.

"No support can be found," Judge Dawson said, "for the power here sought to be exercised in the well-recognized power of the States to condemn and destroy property found to be a menace to public health or safety. This is an exercise of the police power—not of the power of eminent domain; and the National Government is not clothed with any such police power within the States."

The so-called rent cases in which the Supreme Court had upheld legislation fixing rents in the District of Columbia and in New York State, did not throw light on the problem under discussion, as contended by Government counsel, Judge Dawson said. In those cases the power exercised was a police power; in the District of Columbia that power belonged to Congress, and in New York it belonged to, and had been exercised by, the State Legislature.

"In each of these cases," the Judge continued, "it is clear that the power to legislate for the general welfare exists as an independent substantive power. Here it is clear such a power does not exist.

"For the reasons stated, I am forced to conclude that no power resides in the National Government to condemn the property herein involved for the purpose for which it is intended."

CHICAGO BUYERS COMING

Representatives of 35 Stores Will Inspect St. Louis Market.

Approximately 35 buyers, representing the Chicago Department Stores Council, composed of most of the outlying department stores of Chicago, will arrive in St. Louis tomorrow for a two-day study of the possibilities of the St. Louis market.

A reception committee of St. Louis business men, headed by Thomas N. Dysart, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, will escort the delegation to the Lennox Hotel.

Business Man Explains U. S. Business System

nied by this, "therefore-our-system-has failed" line of criticism.

A Pessimist of 1886.

Carroll D. Wright, distinguished economist, and our first Commissioner of Commerce and Labor, in 1886, officially reported: "The United States has gone on perfecting machinery, duplicating plants, crowding the markets with products, until today this country is in the exact position of England, with productive capacity far in excess of the demand upon it, and her industries stagnated, the wages of labor reduced, prices lowered, and the manufacturers and merchants trying to secure an outlet for surplus goods.

"It is true that the discovery of new processes of manufacture will undoubtedly continue, but this will not leave room for a marked extension such as has been witnessed during the last 50 years nor afford a remunerative employment of the vast amount of capital which has been created during that period. The market price of products will continue low, no matter what the cost of production may be. The days of large profits is probably past. There may be room for further intensive but not extensive development of industry in the present era of civilization."

Sixty years ago we were "stopped." Some believe the same thing now! So they would discard the American business system, based upon free play of individual enterprise.

But if we will retain that system, it is certain that the advance will continue. In fact, those best qualified, believe that the advance will be even more rapid in the future than in the past.

This is the first of three articles on American business by Robert L. Lund, chairman of the American Association of Manufacturers.

ST. LOUIS CHRISTIAN YOUTH CONFERENCE TO OPEN FRIDAY

Three-Day Gathering at Union Avenue Christian and Pilgrim Congregational Churches.

The second annual St. Louis Christian Youth Conference will be held next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, at Union Avenue Christian Church and Pilgrim Congregational Church, dealing with the theme "Christian Youth Building a New World."

In 16 other cities similar conferences will be held at the same time on the same theme, which was chosen last summer at the Christian Youth Council of North America at Lake Geneva, Wis. Dr. William F. Klein, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, will come to St. Louis for the conference.

There will be nine discussion groups, devoted to subjects such as personal religious life, world peace, economic justice, marriage, citizenship and the liquor problem.

The conference has been indorsed by the International Society of Christian Endeavor, but the St. Louis Christian Endeavor Union has decided not to participate.

LECTURES ON WOMEN'S HEALTH

Series Will Be Given at Y. W. C. A. This Week.

A series of lectures on women's health problems will be given this week at Y. W. C. A., 1411 Locust street, under the joint auspices of the Y. W. C. A. and the Missouri Social Hygiene Association. The lectures will be tomorrow, Tuesday and Thursday nights, and Friday at noon.

Speakers will be Dr. Francis Stewart, assistant in clinical obstetrics and gynecology, Washington University; Miss Anna Heisler, instructor in public health nursing, Washington University School of Nursing, and Dr. Harriet S. Cory, executive secretary of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association.

CATHOLIC INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE TO OPEN

Regional Meeting to Be Held at Hotel Statler Tomorrow and Tuesday.

A regional meeting of the Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems will be held tomorrow and Tuesday at Hotel Statler with clergymen, educators, lawyers, representatives of capital and labor, and officials of Government agencies in attendance.

The meeting will be the forty-fifth held by the conference since they were begun in 1928, and the second here. Their purpose is "to promote a better understanding of industrial and economic problems in the light of Christian teachings." Part of the discussion at each session will be based on the encyclical of Pope Pius XI of May 15, 1931, on reconstructing the social order.

It is emphasized that the meeting is educational only, and no action will be taken on any issue. The speakers will represent varying points of view, and discussions will close each of the six sessions. Several hundred persons are expected to attend.

The meeting was called by Archbishop Glennon, who will make the closing address at the dinner, which concludes the conference at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Other Speakers.

Other speakers and their subjects will be:

At 10 a. m. Monday: Frank Sullivan, attorney, "An Appraisal of the NRA;" Judge Harold T. Garvey, regional director, the National Labor Relations Board, "Section 7A, Its Interpretation and Application;" August Brockland, associate director, the Central Bureau of the Central Verein, "The Encyclical's Criticism of the Present Economic Order."

At 2 p. m. at a joint meeting with the Catholic Rural Life Conference of the Archdiocese of St. Louis: The Rev. Luigi Ligutti of Granger, Ia., "Home Subsistence Farming;" Fred Offenbacher, secretary-treasurer of the Rehabilitation Corporation of Missouri, "Rural Rehabilitation."

At 8 p. m.: Eva J. Ross, instructor in economics and sociology at Fontbonne and Maryville Colleges, "Some Aspects of Economic Insecurity;" George Curran, legal adviser for the code authority for the rural retail fuel industry, "Self Government in Industry and the NRA;" the Rev. George M. Nell of Effingham, Ill., "Economic Organization of Society and the Encyclical."

At 10 a. m. Tuesday: The Rev. William F. Mullally, vice-chairman of the Consumers' Council of St. Louis, "The Consumer and the New Deal;" Mrs. Roscoe Anderson, chairman of the council, "Price Fixing and the NRA."

Labor Union Speakers.

At 2 p. m.: William Fitzmaurice, president of the Central Trades and Labor Union, "Hours, Wages and Industrial Recovery"; Dr. Arthur Murphy, president of the St. Mary College, Leavenworth, Kan., the same subjetc in the light of the encyclical.

At 6:30 p. m.: Bishop Le Blond of St. Joseph, Mo., "Social Justice and Charity"; Otto Spaeth, investment broker, "A Layman's Viewpoint of the Social Order"; the Rev. R. A. McGowan, assistant director, the Department of Social Action, the National Catholic Welfare Conference, "Reconstructing the Social Order"; Archbishop Glennon.

Auxiliary Bishop Winkelmann of St. Louis will preside at the first two sessions, William L. Igoe at the third, and John S. Leahy at the last session.

SUGGESTION FROM AMHERST ON EUGENE FIELD MUSEUM

Residents of Massachusetts City Might Contribute, Librarian Writes to Dr. Bostwick.

A suggestion that residents of Amherst, Mass., might contribute to the museum being planned for the recently restored childhood home of Eugene Field, at 634 South Broadway, has been received by Dr. Arthur E. Bostwick, public librarian here, from Charles R. Green, librarian of Jones Library, Amherst. Green commented on the contributions of pennies, nickels and dimes by St. Louis school children to aid in restoring the old house, and continued:

"It is quite likely some of us here in Amherst might be able to contribute something for this work, because of the fact that Eugene Field and Roswell Field (the poet's brother) both came to Amherst from St. Louis and spent the next eight or 10 years here before going to a preparatory school and college."

Jones Library has a collection of material about Field. At the request of Green, Dr. Bostwick sent a picture of the Broadway house.

OPTIMIST CONVENTION IN JUNE

International Will Hold Meeting at Hotel Statler.

The seventeenth annual convention of the Optimist International will be held at Hotel Statler June 17 to 19. Delegates from the various clubs in the United States and Canada are expected.

To promote interest in the convention among members of the eight Optimist clubs in the St. Louis area, a minstrel show and a dance will be held at Municipal Auditorium March 5. Participants in the show have been selected from members of the clubs.

Mission Study Program.

A mission study program dealing with the life of the Chinese, Japanese and Filipinos in the United States will be conducted at 1:15 p. m. Tuesday, at the University Methodist Church, 6901 Washington avenue, University City.

Former Communist Colony Thrives Since It Has Adopted Use of Money

Restricted Private Ownership Permitted at Amana, Ia., But Members Still Have Free Medical Benefits and Old Age Protection.

By the Associated Press.

AMANA, Ia., Feb. 23.—The Amanas, formerly a Communistic colony, today are harvesting the fruits of a curious blend of individualism and Communism. For 90 years the Amanas maintained Communism. There was no money for any single person. It was handled by the colony administrators. Each got only bare necessities.

Now the Amanas, having abandoned the original plan, have money to spend as they like. They have private homes to furnish as they choose. They have stock in the $1,500,000 Amana Corporation. This gives them a vote in the corporation's management. They have restricted private ownership of minor commercial enterprises.

But woven into these threads of individualism in the new Amanas are fibers of Communism which run back to their origin in Germany in 1714. Members still adhere to the religion of the "true inspirationalists" brought from old Germany. And, as under the old Communist regime, there is no want. The new Amanas still provide ailing members with free dental, medical and burial benefits, and assures them of protection against want in old age or prolonged illness.

In June, 1932, the colony gave up its old form of administration. William F. Moershel, one of the colony administrators, said at that time: "We have not lost any money. But every last one of our members has been working tremendously hard for the last six or seven years, and we have just been able to make ends meet even then."

The woolen mills were running only one shift then. There were no other profitable sources of income except from surplus agricultural products which in 1932 were a drug on the market.

Now, despite a drop of 11 per cent under 1933 in 1934 sales, the woolen mills are running at full capacity and employing two shifts in a 40-hour week. Numerous small commercial enterprises are thriving under the present managed capitalism. Furniture sales of the cabinet shop, in which the most skilled workers of the colony turn out copies of the hand-made beds, tables, chests and chairs brought to the colonies more than 80 years ago, increased more than 80 per cent over those of 1933.

The sale of meat products increased 22 per cent. Sales from the general stores gained 16 per cent. Three gasoline stations showed a 20 per cent increase in business.

Although the drouth reduced the yield of the colony's 26,000 acres to 50 per cent of the normal crop, farm department sales increased 31 per cent.

Total corporation sales amounted to $772,700, an increase of $43,924 over those of the previous year. The business at the end of the year showed a net profit of $14,305.

Private Debts Structure at Mercy of Congress

the field of monetary legislation, then the administration was constitutionally free to develop a monetary policy for the purpose of which to ease the debt burdens of the country. And it was also free to prevent private contractants from frustrating that policy by the gold clause device.

To be sure, Chief Justice Hughes' opinion deals with this phase of the subject somewhat sketchily; the dissenting opinion is franker—it always is. Another ground of the decision is, however, more clearly revealed. "The devaluation of the dollar," says the Chief Justice, "placed the domestic economy upon a new basis. In the currency as thus provided, States and municipalities must receive their taxes; railroads, their rates and fares; public utilities, their charges for services. The income out of which they must meet their obligations is determined by the new standard.

"It requires no acute analysis or profound economic inquiry to disclose the dislocation of the domestic economy which would be caused by such a disparity of conditions in which, it is insisted, those debtors under gold clauses should be required to pay $1.69 in currency while respectively receiving their taxes, rates, charges and prices on the basis of $1 of that currency."

He then produces this otiose rubric from the court's formulary: "We are not concerned with consequences, in the sense that consequences, however serious, may excuse an invasion of constitutional right."

"At Mercy of Congress."

But he has just shown that the Government, in excess of its undoubted power to devalue the dollar, had created a situation in which it was practically impossible without inviting disaster to hold the joint resolution void. The decision in the Norman case, therefore, really boils down to this:

The powers which previous decisions had ascribed to Congress in virtue of its power to coin money and regulate the value thereof were already so vast that it had become impracticable to deny it the power exercised in the joint resolution. And the total result is that the private debt structure of the country is at all times very much at the mercy of Congress' power.

Government's Obligations.

We turn now to the cases involving the Government's own obligations—bonds and gold certificates.

The Chief Justice, for himself and three others, holds that the Government was without power to alter its own obligations and hence was without power to strike the gold clause from its bonds. From this it would seem to follow that the clause must be considered as being still in the bonds. But not so—the joint resolution is treated as effective to the extent of producing a breach of contract, giving rise to a right of action for "actual damages," which are explained to mean such damages as result from the lower purchasing power of the devalued dollar.

In other words, what the creditor is permitted to sue for is the damage resulting to him from the devaluation of the dollar—action which is conceded to have been well within Congress's power—not the damage resulting from the excision of the gold clause from the bonds.

Finally, the Court rules that, such damages being but "nominal" at this date, the Government is not liable to suit for them in the Court of Claims—the only tribunal in which it would be so liable in any case.

The Chief Justice is able to cite plenty of cases in which the Court has asserted that the Government is without power to alter directly its own contractual obligations; but it is equally true that the Government could not be sued without its own consent if it decided to repudiate every bond afloat.

In his talk about sovereignty the Chief Justice is on very uncertain ground, to say the least. He implies that the people of the United States have endowed Congress with their sovereignty when it comes to binding itself, but not when it comes to unbinding itself. As a matter of theory it would seem clear that neither the one right nor the other can be denied the sovereign.

Justice Stone is on firmer ground in his separate opinion, in contending that all powers of Congress are on an equality, and that therefore an exercise of the borrowing power can not diminish the power to coin money and regulate the value thereof.

Possibly a better way out of the difficulty would have been for the Court to recognize the joint resolution as validly applicable to the obligations of the United States, but as effecting with respect to them a "taking" of property. It could then very logically have laid down the rule with respect to "actual damages" which the decision adopts.

As to the gold certificates—these are rightly held to be currency and not "warehouse receipts," as a certain holder had contended. For one thing, gold is no longer a ware.

Court's New Tendency.

One other aspect of these decisions must be pointed out, and it is perhaps their most interesting aspect. Like certain other recent decisions, that in the Minnesota moratorium case, for instance, and that in the New York milk case—they show judicial review as exercised by the court in process of evolution. It is changing from a negative and obstructive agency, into an emollient, rationalizing and harmonizing agency.

A whole new system of constitutional law has got to be worked out, involving a restatement of the relations of national power to state power and of private rights to public power, from the point of view of the achieved unity of the country and the democratic disposition of its population.

Fortunately, as the cases just mentioned show, rich materials exist in earlier decisions of the court which may be wrought into the new structure. Fortunately, too, several of the present Justices are able to bring to this important task practical experience, broad information respecting modern conditions, and a realistic appreciation of the nature of the judicial function.

All the more regrettable is it that the minority should have so gratuitously advertised their intransigeance of the present occasion by selecting so rash and passionate a spokesman as Justice McReynolds.

ARRAIGNMENT MARCH 4 IN MOVIE TRUST CASE

Date to Be Fixed Then for Trial of Nine Firms and Six Executives.

Arraignment of defendants in the Sherman anti-trust law case against motion picture firms and their executives was set for March 4 by Federal Judge Davis yesterday at the request of District Attorney Blanton. A date for the trial will be fixed then.

The indictment, returned by a grand jury Jan. 11, charges nine companies and six of their executives with conspiracy to violate the anti-trust law by refusing to furnish films for exhibition at the Ambassador, Missouri and Grand Central theaters.

Former United States Senator James A. Reed represented the defendants at the time the grand jury made its inquiry. He has been joined by former Congressman L. C. Dyer and Dyer's nephew, former Assistant United States District Attorney George C. Dyer.

SCHOOL FOR WOMEN DRIVERS TO OPEN FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Course Will Conclude With Examination; Those Who Pass May Enter Forest Park Contest.

A driving school for women, under auspices of the Safety Council, will be held on four consecutive Fridays, beginning at 1:30 o'clock next Friday afternoon, in the auditorium of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney department store.

Freshman attendants will be Miss Evalyn Eberle, Fort Collins, Colo., and Miss Jeannette Campbell, Norfolk, Neb.

Dr. Kate L. Gregg, professor in the department of English at Lindenwood College, is to speak at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night at a meeting of the Missouri Historical Society at the Jefferson Memorial, on "Bellefontaine, the First Fort West of the Mississippi." An informal reception will follow.

The St. Louis University French Club will give a dance in the lounge of the School of Commerce and Finance building on Thursday evening at 9 o'clock, for the benefit of the Library Fund of the French Club. Paul Barrette, instructor in French at St. Louis University and moderator of the French Club, is in charge of the entertainment and will be assisted by the officers of the club: John Hynes, president; Miss Jane Champlin, vice-president; Bernard Lutz, secretary-treasurer.

St. Louis University School of Social Service will entertain at a tea this afternoon at the Hotel Melbourne in honor of the field guides and the executives of the agencies that do student training. The faculty of the St. Louis University School of Social Service and the students in training there will receive from 4 until 6 o'clock. Miss Weltha Kelly, instructor in social case work at St. Louis University, is chairman of the committee on arrangements. The Rev. Robert S. Johnston, S. J., president of the St. Louis University, and the Rev. Joseph Husslein, dean of the School of Social Service, will be the guests of honor. Miss Dorothy and Miss Charlotte Ring will serve.

The students in training who will act as hostesses are: Miss Bernadine Held, Miss Virginia Ziegler, Miss Frances Mitchell, Miss Lucy LaMonte, Miss Mary Norton, Miss Reba Muirs, Miss Emily Franklin, Miss Dorothy Foley, Miss Margaret Cumberworth, Miss Margaret Arand, Miss Elinor McAuley and Miss Christine Ryan.

The St. Louis Alumnae Association of William Woods College will give a benefit bridge Saturday afternoon at Vandervoort's Tea Room. Miss Ilogene Wood, president of the organization, is in charge.

Mrs. Francis N. Barnes, 1227 Waldon avenue, University City, has been appointed alumnae representative in Missouri for Pennsylvania College for Women.

The Stephens College Club will meet at 1 p. m., Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. A. P. Truex, 117 South Gore avenue, Webster Groves. Mrs. Charles W. Herald and Mrs. Carleton B. Fox will assist as hostesses.

Mrs. W. P. Maddux will read a paper on the home training of the pre-school child.

Miss Marian Tyner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hodge, 404 North Hills drive, was electeed Queen of Hearts at the annual Valentine dance held at Normandy High School, Saturday, Feb. 16. Miss Tyner, a member of the sophomore class at Normandy High School was presented a bouquet of red carnations at the coronation ceremonies.

The Hosmer Hall Parent and Teacher Association will hold a book review tea Monday, at 2 p. m., at the home of Mrs. C. G. Schroeter, 1115 Hampton park. Dr. Robert Porter, pastor of the First Congregational Church, will review Thornton Wilder's "Heaven's My Destination."

At the Hosmer Hall mid-year alumnae reunion Wednesday afternoon these officers for the ensuing two years were elected: President, Mrs. J. W. Howe; vice-president, Mrs. James H. Hetzel; secretary, Miss Mildred La Barr; treasurer, Mrs. Roger Conant Smith.

Miss Marie Pfeffle, president of the junior class of Fontbonne College, will lead the promenade at a dinner dance in the Gold Room of the Hotel Jefferson Friday night. She will be followed by Miss Leontone Meyer, president of the Senior Class. The chaperones will be: Mr. and Mrs. William E. Gauvin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Guyol, Miss Ruth Mary Higgins, social secretary of Fontbonne, and Paul W. Davis.

Miss Harriett Wolf, 519 Tuxedo boulevard, and Miss Helen Ross, 5736 Westminster avenue, have returned from the South-Central Conference of the National Amateur Federation of College Women's Athletic Associations, held recently at Emporia, Kan. Miss Wolf is president and Miss Ross is swimming manager of the Women's Athletic Association of Washington University, which they represented at the conference.

True American Heroes—of History and Mythology

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

THE pictures on this page are reproductions of part of a series of relief panels carved in plaster and enameled in eight colors. They are by Julian Lee Rayford, a young sculptor whose ambition it is to portray the spirit of American history and folklore, and were done while he was working on a Public Works of Art Project stipend in Washington. It was Rayford's intention to see them reproduced in heroic size on the facade of a public building in the national capital. Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, to whose attention they were directed by Undersecretary Rexford Tugwell, saw the finished models here reproduced and immediately made every effort to have the panels used to decorate the new Department of Agriculture Building. But because the Federal Art Commission found Rayford's work not sufficiently in the classical tradition they demand in District of Columbia architecture, the plans were rejected recently and the models are now on the walls of the John Eaton School in Washington.

Julian Lee Rayford.

Rayford came to St. Louis recently in the hope that the plastic epic he has conceived would be accepted for a new building in this, or some other western city. He explains that he wishes to symbolize the pioneer vitality of America in his work by depicting folk heroes of song and legend, historical characters and the symbols which form a part of the continent's prehistoric past.

Rayford's subjects are naturally those he believes most typical of the nation's growth. The most dominating figure of the group is Paul Bunyan, mythical giant of the lumber country, man of prodigious strength. Davie Crockett represents the pioneer movement. Mark Twain (aside from the artistic connotation) symbolizes river transportation, while Casey Jones, hero of the famous ballad of the locomotive engineer, symbolizes railroad transportation. John Henry, the Negro stevedore and roustabout, is the Defending Socialite—the Man Who Invented the Red Tuxedo Vest—Declared That the Plaintiff Had Arranged the Whole Affair.

M. S. Huntington Watts and Mrs. Margaret Dorner Connelly at a fancy dress ball.

By JACK ALEXANDER

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

ONE of the most amazing replies ever given to an alienation suit—that the plaintiff (and supposedly irate) husband maneuvered the intruding bachelor into undue friendliness with the wife—was advanced recently by one of Park avenue's most "eligible" bachelors, M. S. Huntington Watts, 24-year-old boulevardier de luxe, whose distinguished ancestry goes all the way back to William the Conqueror without stumbling.

Watts asserted that John H. Connelly, 192 East Seventy-second street, the allegedly aggrieved husband, encouraged his companionship with Mrs. Margaret Dorner Connelly because he had been living beyond his means and wanted to shed his legal responsibilities to his wife.

Stating that he was only a naive Columbia University undergraduate when the acquaintanceship began three years ago, Watts asserted: "Mr. Connelly forced his wife's attentions upon me. He tried to enmesh me in a compromising position. Because of my youth and inexperience he sought to use me as a means of escaping from his marital obligations."

Connelly, who is suing for $100,000, replied scornfully: "Watts says I deliberately foisted the attentions of my wife on him and that I was forcing him to pay attention to my wife.

"He does not state by what means I forced him to continually send her flowers.

"He does not venture to inform the Court by what means I forced him to rent a separate apartment to keep as a rendezvous for himself and my wife."

To Watts' charge that Connelly had forced his attractive young wife to work as a model, Connelly replied with a sarcastic shaft at the affluence and ease in which Watts basks as a member of a wealthy and socially prominent family.

"There is," Connelly said, "no disgrace in working, strange as it may be to the defendant, who, I know, has never put in a day's work in his life."

As a matter of fact, Connelly said, Watts agreed before the suit was instituted that he would marry Mrs. Connelly if her husband would consent to a divorce. The idea appealed to him, Connelly said, because it would provide a suitable home for his small daughter, Joanne.

As evidence of the alleged affair, Connelly filed with his affidavit the following letter he asserted Watts wrote to Mrs. Connelly: "Peggy, Dearest: While I am alone I will write a few lines to you as I do want you to know that I care tremendously. I am grieved to think that we should have quarreled over finances. You know full well that whatever I could do for you I would, which means at all times. Perhaps you do not realize, dear girl, what you mean to me. I love you terribly and your friendship means much to me. I only wish I might give you what you deserve and that is happiness. Remember that you can depend on me always.—M. H.

"P. S. Destroy this letter."

"And," said Connelly, "if that doesn't hold him, I have another letter which is so sensational that it will not be submitted until the case is called for trial.

"Until I obtained this letter, I believed that my differences could be settled."

At this point Watts' counsel withdrew his previous answer and submitted a new one, in which all allegations were sweepingly denied.

The lawyer, Emmet M. King, demanded that Connelly furnish a bill of particulars. He accused Connelly of twisting the meaning of the first answer.

"We have denied everything," King said. "We have not admitted anything in any manner. If they want to misconstrue our defense, that is another thing."

Watts, inventor of many bizarre sartorial effects, among them the red tuxedo vest, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin S. Watts and the inheritor of rivers of blue blood on both sides — as well as money. His twenty-first birthday party in December, 1931, was one of the most spectacular gatherings of celebrities and aristocrats in years. "It is such parties as this that Mayfair adores," swooned one society writer.

Doris Duke, the world's richest girl, headed the guest list, which included: the season's debutantes, Countess de Beaumont, Princess de Braganza, the "usual" young men and a regiment of dignified society elders. Adding sparkle to the occasion were: Alexander Woollcott, Rudy Vallee, Frank Morgan, Beatrice Lillie, Norman Bel Geddes, Everett Marshall, Jeanne Aubert and Mayor James J. Walker, among others. More than 500 guests reveled in a Colonial Christmas celebration, with food and drink in the Revolutionary mood.

Another view of M. S. Huntington Watts.

Since then, Hunty, as the jodhpurs set knows him, has electrified his friends by going in for acting. For a week last March he did imitations of famous actors at Loew's State, on Broadway. This debut was neither a flat failure nor a howling success, but Hunty confided to intimates that he got over in good style. He told a newspaper interviewer that he was set for "a serious career on the stage." The takeoffs on "famous stars with whom I am personally acquainted" were but a start, Hunty said.

"A great many of the important people of the city, who attended my opening, liked my work," he added. He rattled off the names of former Governor and Mrs. Charles Whitman, Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken, Mr. and Mrs. James Bartholomew, Mrs. George Washington Cavanaugh. His barber, manicurist, tailor, electrician and his butler, all invited to the affair, contributed notes to the swelling chorus of praise, the democratic Hunty declared.

"You know," he continued, "I am often told that I resemble four different Hollywood stars — Ronald Colman, William Powell, Warren William and Warner Baxter. And I guess there is a dash of John Gilbert in my make-up, too.

"But my desire to go into the theater has been prompted by the fact that I feel I have something for the public. I have been an observer of plays in Europe and America for the last 10 years, and I know many of the leading stars personally, among them Basil Rathbone, Leslie Howard, Rudy Vallee, Tallulah Bankhead, Jack Buchanan, Herbert Marshall, Edna Best, his wife; and Maurice Chevalier.

"These are people I really know. They are not just people I have met once. Why, Leslie Howard once helped me pack my trunk in my London lodgings when I was coming to America one time."

Hunty made it plain that he didn't want to seem like "Park avenue going Broadway," but he admitted that he got a kick out of the fact that a Broadway florist had named a flower after him—the Huntington Watts bachelor button.

The reporter tried to ask a question, but Hunty objected.

"I'll just talk," he said, "and you can use what you want. Then after that you can ask me questions. Will that be better? Yes.

"Well, then, I think we'll group it under five heads. I attended Choate School, Harvard University and Columbia. I studied music and voice and made a special study of Wagnerian opera, attending the Bayreuth Festivals. That is spelled B-a-y"——

"You don't need to spell it," the reporter said.

——"r-e-u-t-h," Hunty continued. "That is the shrine of Richard Wagner. I have studied at the Salzburg festivals, too. Now, I want to make one point very clear. I am not essentially a singer. I am an actor. I'm doing some singing in my impersonations, but that is incidental."

The Watts voice is rich and sonorous. He said that he considered a person's voice and his ability to talk well "important attributes of personality." His own study of Latin he believes accounts for his ability to "phrase well, even extemporaneously." He remembered that this talent served him well when called upon suddenly to address a convention in Chicago.

"I got through splendidly," he said. "And it was my Latin that helped me most."

He collects books, too.

"I have some very fine sets in my library—all leather bound, of course," he said. "I inherited my mother's musical library, too." She was Miss Elizabeth Jackson, daughter of General Joseph Jackson of Civil War fame. This collection is bound in leather, too.

"YOU will want to know a few of my interests and hobbies. I'm interested in horseback riding, tennis, dislike swimming, like travel, the cinema, music and backgammon. I am considered an authority on male attire. You see, I've traveled around a lot and met several members of royalty in Europe, and that has given me an opportunity to observe people in that way."

Then he branched off into sociology, economics and kindred matters, revealing that he does not confine his social research to his own sphere.

"I go down into the East Side and mingle with the humble," he said. "I make a point of knowing and ascertaining the philosophy of all types of people—newspaper men, gangsters, barbers, street car conductors.

"This is an age of specialization and the Darwinian theory holds true; only the fit survive.

"Do you know, I believe birth control will eventually solve the unemployment problem?"

Without waiting for an answer, Hunty capped his all-inclusive discourse with an illuminating remark to wit: "I'm afraid the plight of many of the jobless is due to their failure to keep up an attractive appearance."

JIM FARLEY—the LATEST GRIEF in the STAMP COLLECTOR'S LIFE

By ELLWOOD DOUGLASS
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

AS MR. FARLEY breathes easily again—the Democratic Congress voted February 5 not to investigate his special stamp issues—St. Louis stamp collectors are talking things over. Some of them agree that there's plenty of precedent for his friendly gifts of special issues, and probably a great future for it, no matter who is Postmaster-General. A good many of them feel that any private favoritism in this country is quite outclassed by the official trading of other Governments on the collectors' most vulnerable weaknesses. And many are driven to some such remark as—with, obviously, no intention of heeding their own words and getting out of it—"Oh, it's just a racket, anyway; nothing but a racket."

Take, for the most notorious example, the air mail stamps issued by principalities which haven't a spot to land a plane. Or the six or eight typefonts which may appear on one Central American surcharge, each a red flag to the collector with the real fever. Or the phonies that—but that's ahead of the story.

Postmaster-General Farley, as all stamp collectors know, was taken to task recently by 27 philatelic societies. They didn't like his gifts of special stamps to President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary Ickes and other personal friends. It struck them as discrimination. But what gave them an opportunity to make a real howl was that one of the gifts of the last Mother's Day issue was to "a friend of a friend" who offered it for sale. This friend once removed had paid the face value, $6, for a sheet of 200. They had been taken from the press before gumming or perforation, and so they were worth much more than 100 times that to collectors. In fact, a dealer says 10 such stamps were offered here for $2000.

Postmaster-General Farley conceded that particular gift was probably a mistake. Republican Congressman Millard of New York said a lot more than that. With references to "a favored few," Millard said it was pretty serious when a Federal official could make "unlimited" gifts; not purchasable on the open market, "but which have a value in that market of $20,000."

Millard wanted an investigation. The House Postoffice Committee was against it. So was the House, by a vote of 275 to 101. The House is largely Democratic. Mr. Farley is a very important Democrat.

Just for that reason, some St. Louis philatelists (Greek for stamp collector—literally, "friend of freedom from taxation") consider Mr. Farley was picked on by a complaint which might have been made at any time since the Government began printing its own stamps in 1894. Somehow, they say, imperforates, or inverts, or stamps made rare and expensive by some imperfection, leak out to the collector's market from time to time, and once in a while they turn up in the hands of someone who happens to have political connections.

There is a story in St. Louis, for instance, of an Ohio postal clerk who happened to buy 50 of the recent National Parks stamps at the face value, $1. They happened to be imperforates, so that, when a block of four of them happened to be offered here, the price happened to be $700.

As indicated, stamp collectors have come to pay great prices for small differences. That began, of course, with the collection of historic rarities. A good many collectors feel, with some self-recrimination, that it should have rested there. But it hasn't. It extends to current typographical errors, inversions of part of a design and so on—even when they are suspected to be deliberate, or, less politely, phonies.

"I've got some of them," says the collector with a look of desperation. "And, when I have the chance, I'll have more of them."

In this country collectors have only one factor to reckon with in the production of current issues—the Government, which does its own printing. But for many other countries there are two factors—a private stamp engraving concern, frequently American, and the Government, which frequently has some aspects of a private enterprise.

Very often something happens to a sheet of stamps—a one centavo on red, or two centavo on green—and, somewhere between the engraver and the contracting officials, it gets out to the trade, at several or many times the face value of a well-printed issue.

Rather than go to the expense of printing new stamps, sometimes small countries print new figures over the statement of value on the old. In some re-issues, these figures may be in several different styles of type—and the collector wants every one. The usual explanation is that the printer ran out of the original font—but he seems to have an elaborate range of other fonts to select from. And each one costs the collectors money.

THE United States Philately Agency turns in hundreds of thousands of dollars a year to the Government from sales to collectors. Many other Governments cater to the trade with special issues aimed pointblank at the collector's most vulnerable fancies. San Marino, a little Republic in Northern Italy, has air mail stamps, but no air mail. So has Andorra, a dot in the Pyrenees, with hardly a flat acre for a landing field.

Madeira issued stamps to pay for a museum; Peru and Argentina, to recuperate from revolutions; St. Kitt's, in the West Indies, to finance a public park and cricket grounds; Norway, to finance Amundsen's 1925 Arctic expedition; Uruguay, to send a football team to the 1928 Olympic games—which themselves were financed by Holland with a special stamp issue.

But, to listen to the wail of the hard-driven collector, the main difference between the little countries or colonies and some of the big ones is solely due to the physical difficulties of putting out enough new issues to finance the larger concerns. In this field Italy and Russia are among the most versatile, and Spain was, before the abdication of Alfonso XIII.

These issues may be fine examples of engraving and interesting reminders of history. But each set is likely to include one stamp of high denomination, with a different design from the others of the set and probably the best looking of the lot. So the collectors must have it, even if it never carries mail.

In the last few years the British Colonies have begun to issue beautiful sets, engraved with native scenes which, so widespread are the colonies, touch most parts of the globe. The Falkan Islands issued such a set in 1932. It included a stamp for £1, traditionally $5, although there is only one town of any size in the islands. But the collectors say the British never put out phonies. They explain that these stamps are issued for both postage and revenue, so that $5 stamps have a legitimate use, even if they never carry mail.

Italy puts out a new issue every few weeks. To celebrate the birthday of Victor Emmanuel II, Italy and its five colonial possessions each issued a commemorative set. The collector who insisted on having each stamp of the issue had to spend more than $100. The world over, 3000 new stamps may come out in one year. Last year there were only 1700—but that was enough to cost the collector more than $500.

This began with the World War and the birth, under the League of Nations, of numerous "stamp collector countries." Before that, collections were essentially perfectible, in modern issues at least. But now, with many new sources, the old sources getting into the trade with both feet, and with the introduction and constant extension of air mail, it's next to impossible even for a millionaire to keep up.

The result is specialization. One collector goes in for early United States, another for British Colonials, another for air mail "covers," another for old cancellations, practically all of them for commemoratives.

Men who "collect everything," like Henry Nouss, St. Louis attorney, are uncommon. Some of them are famous, like President Roosevelt and King George of England, a former president of the Royal Philatelic Society. Things have changed since the earliest collectors used to be chased from their trading rendzvous in Birchin lane about 1860—only 20 years after wide use of stamps began—by the London police.

King George has some of the rarest, but the most valuable stamp in the world belongs to Mrs. Arthur Hind of Utica, New York. It is "a dirty scrap of magenta," a one-cent stamp of British Guiana, issued in 1851, and valued at $50,000.

The late Arthur Hind bought it for $36,000, including tax, at the auction of the greatest collection ever formed, that of Baron Philippe la Renotiere von Ferrari, who, after spending most of his life in Paris, died in war time and left the collection to the Berlin Postal Museum. The French Government seized it and sold it.

HIND'S foreign stamps are being cleared out in London for hundreds of thousands of dollars, following the auction of his United States stamps in New York for a total of $244,809. A British syndicate paid the appraised value, $480,000, for the foreign issues, and is said to have realized that amount in the first five London sales, with prospects of obtaining an additional $200,000 or more.

Hind spent a lifetime building up his collection, with, for many years, the aid of a "philatelic secretary," who recently opened a stamp shop for himself in Tampa. One St. Louisan, busy from eight to five in his office, still contrives to spend five hours a day with his stamps, rising early and working late at night—and yet, he says, he hasn't "much" of a collection.

And, considering its inordinate ramifications, one sees readily that it's less a hobby than a career. It's not unknown for collectors to lament the distractions of everyday business. Perhaps they drive themselves to work with the thought that, after all, the job provides the means to buy more stamps.

It's not only a matter of studying stamps and finding rare ones. Sometimes it's a matter of making interesting specimens for one's own collection. Best known in this philatelic career is the collection of "first-flight covers." When a new air mail line is inaugurated, each city marks its mail with a special cachet, and the planes carry pounds of envelopes sent to the postmasters by collectors and addressed to themselves. When a mail plane crashed in Missouri, St. Louis collectors rushed to the scene to get bits of the wreck, and now they're looking for salvaged envelopes—"crash covers."

It is, the addicts say, an intellectual pastime. Many of its devotees are professional men.

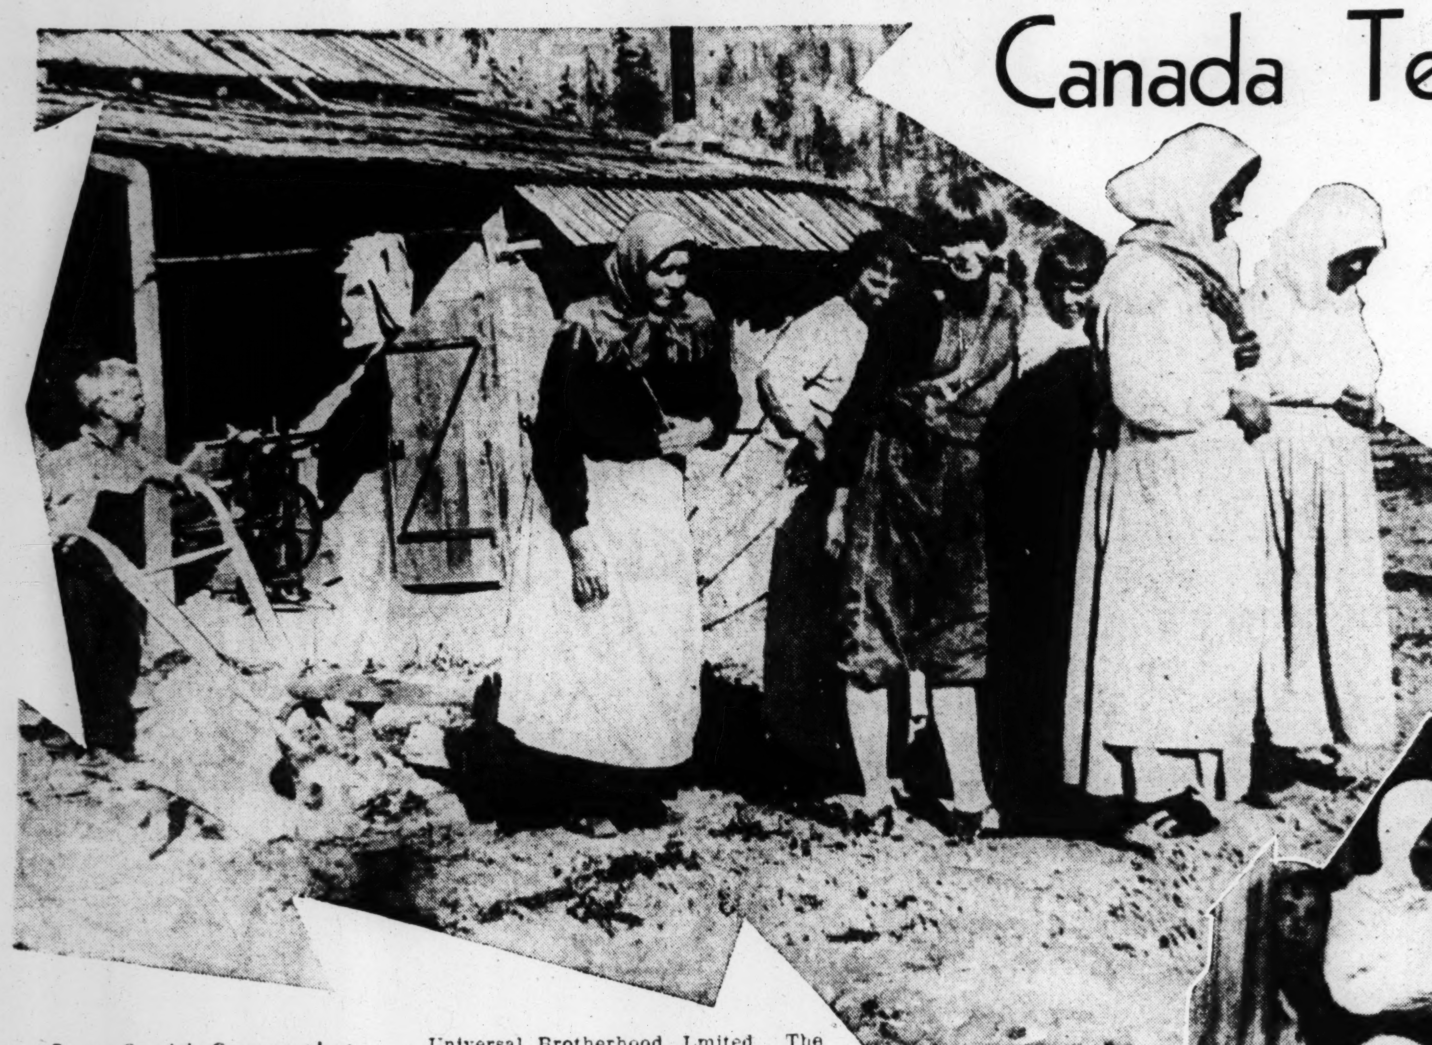
Canada Teaches the Doukhobors to KEEP THEIR CLOTHES ON

When the Russian Religious Sect Protested Against Certain Laws by Repeatedly Parading in the Nude, the Government Imprisoned Them—and Now, With Most of Them Released, Complete Attire Is the Vogue.



Doukhobor women hitched to a plow.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

VICTORIA, B. C.

CANADIAN governmental authorities are pretty well persuaded that the fanatics of the Doukhobor sect have learned their lesson at last. They think that prison terms may have done the trick, after pleas, warnings, lectures, blows, hosings, jail sentences, tear gas and itch powder failed.

Some time ago the Government of British Columbia began releasing, a few at a time, the group of more than 550 Doukhobors imprisoned on Piers Island, near here, and the absence of further disturbances of the kind which brought them into conflict with the law encourages the opinion that they and others like them have decided to keep their peculiar practices within legal limits.

The lesson which imprisonment was designed to teach is, primarily, that people, even when annoyed, should keep some clothes on in public. The Piers Island prisoners, members of the fanatic fringe of a Russian religious sect which had established several communities in Canada, were sentenced for holding mass demonstrations in the nude. They had resented being required to conform to certain laws of the land, such as paying taxes and sending children to school, and had expressed their feelings by parading unclothed. Men, women and children took part in these displays of irritation and epidermis.

It has cost the Government a good deal to give its lesson. The prison on Piers Island was established in 1932 especially for the Doukhobor religious radicals. The maintenance has cost about $170,000 a year. One estimate places the total cost at more than $2,000,000. But the authorities do not regret the expenditure if it has resulted in ending the public exhibitions of nakedness.

Most of those imprisoned were members of the Sons of Freedom, an element in the Doukhobor communities which is not in good standing with the main body of the colonists. Peter Veregin, leader of the Doukhobors, several years ago declared that the Sons of Freedom no longer were connected with his organization, and on several occasions since there has been trouble between his "regulars" and the extremists. Virtually all the violent resistance to law in the Doukhobor settlements in recent years has been attributed to these extremists. They still, however, despite Veregin's attitude, are regarded by the rest of the world as Doukhobors.

The Doukhobors came to Canada in 1899 to escape the persecution to which they had been subjected in Russia as dissenters from the orthodox religion and governmental system of that country. There were about 8000 of them and they were settled by the Canadian Government in Saskatchewan, forming agricultural communities. Today they have settlements in British Columbia and Alberta, as well, and there are about 20,000.

With the late Peter Veregin, father of the present leader, as their chieftain, a group of 5000 of the colonists moved to British Columbia 25 years ago and settled on 15,000 acres in the Rootenay Valley. It was wild, unimproved country, but they were industrious people and they have developed the region into a flourishing colony of farms, mills, canneries and so on, operating as the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, Lmited. The towns of Brilliant and Thrums became two of their principal centers in British Columbia. The Kamsack neighborhood was the chief colonization center in Saskatchewan.

In the main, the Doukhobors are peaceable—in fact, opposed to violence as a religious principle. They believe in simple living, plain dressing and abstinence from liquor and tobacco. Their religion is of an informal, emotional kind. Many are strict vegetarians. The name of the sect means "Spirit Wrestler." There is nothing sinful or shameful to them about nakedness; rather, it has the virtue of naturalness.

Communists of a sort, the Doukhobors own their property in common and their earnings go into a common treasury. Work and play are carried on as community enterprises.

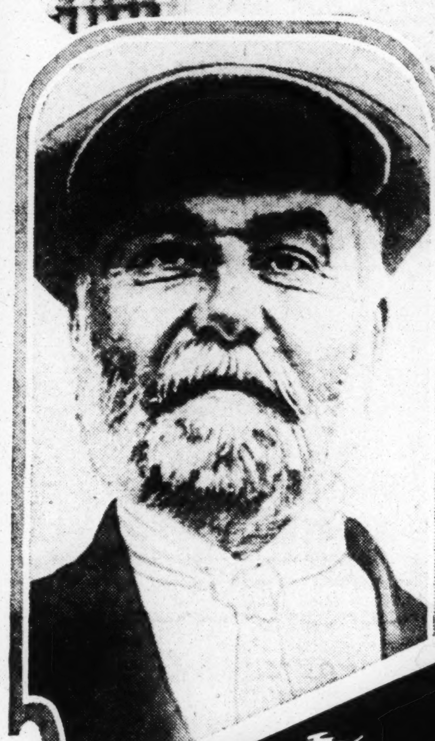
IN SEVERAL particulars the Doukhobors' beliefs have set them at odds with the customs and laws of the country of their adoption. One of the principal sources of trouble has been their aversion to sending their children to school. They feared their youngsters would be weaned away from the communal way of life by the Canadian schools and grow up as adherents of the capitalistic system; also that such contact with outside ideas would weaken the religion of the children. Some, too, objected to subjecting their offspring to the influence of woman teachers who sinfully bobbed their hair, wore modish clothes and stayed out after 9 o'clock at night on dates. Objections were so strong in some instances that school houses were set on fire.

They didn't want to pay taxes because money raised by taxation was used for war and other purposes on which their religion frowned. They were disinclined to be naturalized as Canadians because they were subjects of God, not of any government. They objected to registering births, deaths and marriages.

Such recalcitrance brought down upon the Doukhobors officers to enforce the law. And in protest against having to conform, a good many of the more temperamental colonists undressed and went walking. That brought more officers, sterner restrictive measures, eventually prison.

The first of the nude parades occurred a quarter of a century ago. Five hundred of the Saskatchewan Doukhobors took off their clothes and started a march in search of a prophet in the winter cold. The police interfered and sent them back indoors.

The Government started jailing Doukhobors for mass resistance in 1929. In January of that year two constables were sent to Brilliant by the Provincial Government to arrest ringleaders in a movement to keep children out of school. When they reached the town they were rushed by 100 men, women and children armed for battle with snowballs and stark nudity. The officers, unused to such horrors of war, fled.



Peter Veregin, the elder.

A short time later 25 officers descended on Brilliant, to find their adversaries waiting in large numbers and no clothes. The constables fired tear gas into the community hall where the crowd had assembled, and, as the defenders stumbled from the building, captured the two men they sought as leaders of the revolt. The captives went to jail for six months.

This failed utterly to end the trouble. Many of the Doukhobors still refused to pay taxes or patronize the schools, and emphasized their stand by going in groups to nearby towns, disrobing and parading through the streets. On one of these occasions, the police attempted to stop the marchers but without success. Firemen then were summoned, and they broke up the procession with streams of water. The pacifistic nudists did not scorn to exchange blows with the officers that day—and in other clashes. Before the year was out, scores of Doukhobors, mostly Sons of Freedom, had been sent to jail.

In court at Nelson the paraders were quickly disposed of, most of them pleading guilty. Almost all of them drew the maximum sentence of three years in prison.

The prison to which they were transported was one especially constructed for them on Piers Island, which is off Vancouver Island and about 27 miles from Victoria. It is in the nature of a penal colony, but men and women are kept separated by high barbed wire fences 50 yards apart. Children of prisoners were cared for in selected homes in Dukhobor communities or in Government institutions.

The next year—in 1933—a group of strippers from a Doukhobor colony in Saskatchewan was added to the prison population, so that at one time there were about 575 Doukhobors on Piers Island. Authorities said that only 15 per cent of them were classified as members of regular Doukhobor communities before their arrest, the remainder being members of the Sons of Freedom.

One of the aims of prison officials was to induce the captives to be more hospitable to modern ways. A notable effort along this line was made with the young women. It was felt that if they could observe the attractive appearance achieved by girls wearing the modes of today, they might decide to try something of the kind themselves—change their long, dark, shapeless dresses into garb somewhat less unlovely, do something with their hair and things like that. So movie magazines and combs were left in their quarters. For a few days these hints were ignored. Then one of the girls appeared with her hair done in imitation of a Hollywood style. Others followed her lead, and by the first of this year many of the young women were looking as much like the beauties of the films as they could manage. The authorities regarded that as a hopeful sign.

While the militant disrobers were enduring the supposedly chastening influence of prison, the Doukhobor leader, Peter Veregin, despite his disapproval of their tactics, was having his troubles. He was sued for $1,000,000 over a land deal—the outgrowth of a project for moving some of the Doukhobors to Mexico. The Canadian Government, in 1933, sought to deport him to Russia, but he escaped deportation at the last minute through a writ of habeas corpus. He got into a row in a beer parlor and was fined in police court for intoxication in a public place. Not long ago he was again in police court charged with assaulting another man; he was sentenced to two months in jail, but announced he would appeal.

Veregin, a man of considerable education, was chosen leader of the Doukhobors after the death of his father in 1924. The elder Veregin was killed by an explosion on a train near Vancouver—an explosion which police attributed to members of his sect who resented his encouragement of the use of modern appliances by the colonists.

VEREGIN was buried on a cliff above the town of Brilliant, and shortly afterward 10,000 Doukhobors gathered at his tomb and prayed throughout a December night. When a young man, Peter Veregin the elder, was exiled to Siberia for leading members of his religious group in resistance to Russian military service. He was released to go to Canada as leader of the Doukhobor colonists. An investigating commission of the Government of British Columbia once reported of him: "The figure of Peter Veregin stands majestic and all-powerful. He is a father to his people, teaching, guiding and encouraging them."

Last year the Government began releasing the Piers Island prisoners, freeing them a few at a time and sending them back to their homes. It was considered better policy to do it that way than to liberate all at once; the return of the whole group at one time might arouse some mass emotion which would set them peeling off their clothes again. About 200 had been freed by the first of this year, and it is expected that all will have been returned to their homes by July 1. Since no nude parades have been reported since the liberation began, the Government, and especially those sturdy officers of the law who have felt the weight of Doukhobor fists and been shocked by displays of Doukhobor skin, are encouraged to believe that these religious radicals have been taught at last to keep their clothes on.

Broadcasting Stations Now Guides for Aviators

How the Radio Compass, Developed by the U. S. Army, Enables a Flyer to Tune in on a Crooner or a Torch Singer and Find His Way to His Destination.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Staff

RADIO STATION KSD, or any of the other hundreds of commercial radio stations in the world, broadcasting the saccharine tunes of Yale's crooner or the lugubrious tones of a torch singer, has become, without meaning to, a guiding beacon for the wayfaring aviator.

The Kruesi radio compass, developed by the United States Army and used by it as a standard unit for the air corps, has been made available as an aerial navigation aid to private and commercial flyers. The compass was found by the army to be especially effective in blind flying.

Ever since the advent of human flight, aerial navigation has presented problems peculiar to itself. Even today it is not uncommon for a flyer, inexperienced in cross-country operation, to start confidently for Wichita, Kansas and find he has landed in Oklahoma City. Marine navigation devices, especially the magnetic compass, were depended on in navigating the earlier planes. On long flights, such as Admiral Byrd's hop over the North Pole, even the sextant was used. It was obvious, however, that marine instruments were not completely satisfactory for flying. But with the development of radio many of the aerial navigator's problems were solved.

The United States has taken the lead in perfecting guides for the travelers of the upper air lanes. A most important development was the establishment by the Government of a widespread system of radio range beacon broadcasting stations, which send out signals along the beaten airways and provide invisible paths which a pilot can follow blind. There have been other aids, too, such as the directional gyro, the earth inductor compass and two-way radio communication, each helpful in its way.

But what of the flyer whose way leads away from established routes, or who, because of wind and weather, is driven off the air lane? The radio range beam, useful as it is, is limited in its effectiveness because it serves only the Federal airways system, and because its range even there is limited to pilots trained in its use. But the radio compass supplements the other aids to aerial navigation and has the advantage that it can be used in connection with any commercial broadcasting station, as well as the radio range stations and other Federal airways radio stations.

The radio compass is a "homing" device. By merely tuning in on any radio station the pilot can fly a direct course to that station by keeping a position on the dial at zero. Even the fellow who went to Oklahoma City instead of Wichita can do that. With a radio compass the pilot is free to leave the established air lanes, to fly around bad weather, for instance. When out of range of the established airways beam the flyer may tune in on any commercial station and have the advantage of a direct course. Also, the radio compass has a greater range, 300 miles over land, 700 miles over water, than the beam receivers and is so designed that it will operate in static which would interfere with other radio aids.

Besides being a direction finder, the radio compass is a position finder, useful on the ground as well as in the air. To use the radio compass as a position finder, the pilot flying alone, or who has only a fixed loop antenna, swings his plane first to one side of the course and then to the other to secure bearings on two broadcasting stations other than the one at his destination. Comparison of these bearings with the indicators of the magnetic compass, or the directional gyro, enables him to plot his position on the map. Having done this, the pilot again picks up his directional station and swings back on his course.

If the compass is used as a position finder on the ground the flyer may establish his position by taking bearings on two or more radio stations. By consulting his map he can locate the nearest community, or broadcast directions to rescuers. Recently a transport plane landed safely in the Adirondacks in New York State. The ordinary radio communication set carried enabled the crew to report landing, but not position.

LOOKING for the plane was like hunting for the proverbial needle in the haystack. It was only by good luck that the stranded flyers were found before they froze or starved to death. A prompt rescue could have been effected had the flyers been able to state their position. The incident proves that even a professional transport pilot can bring his ship down, not knowing whether he is in Oklahoma City or Wichita.

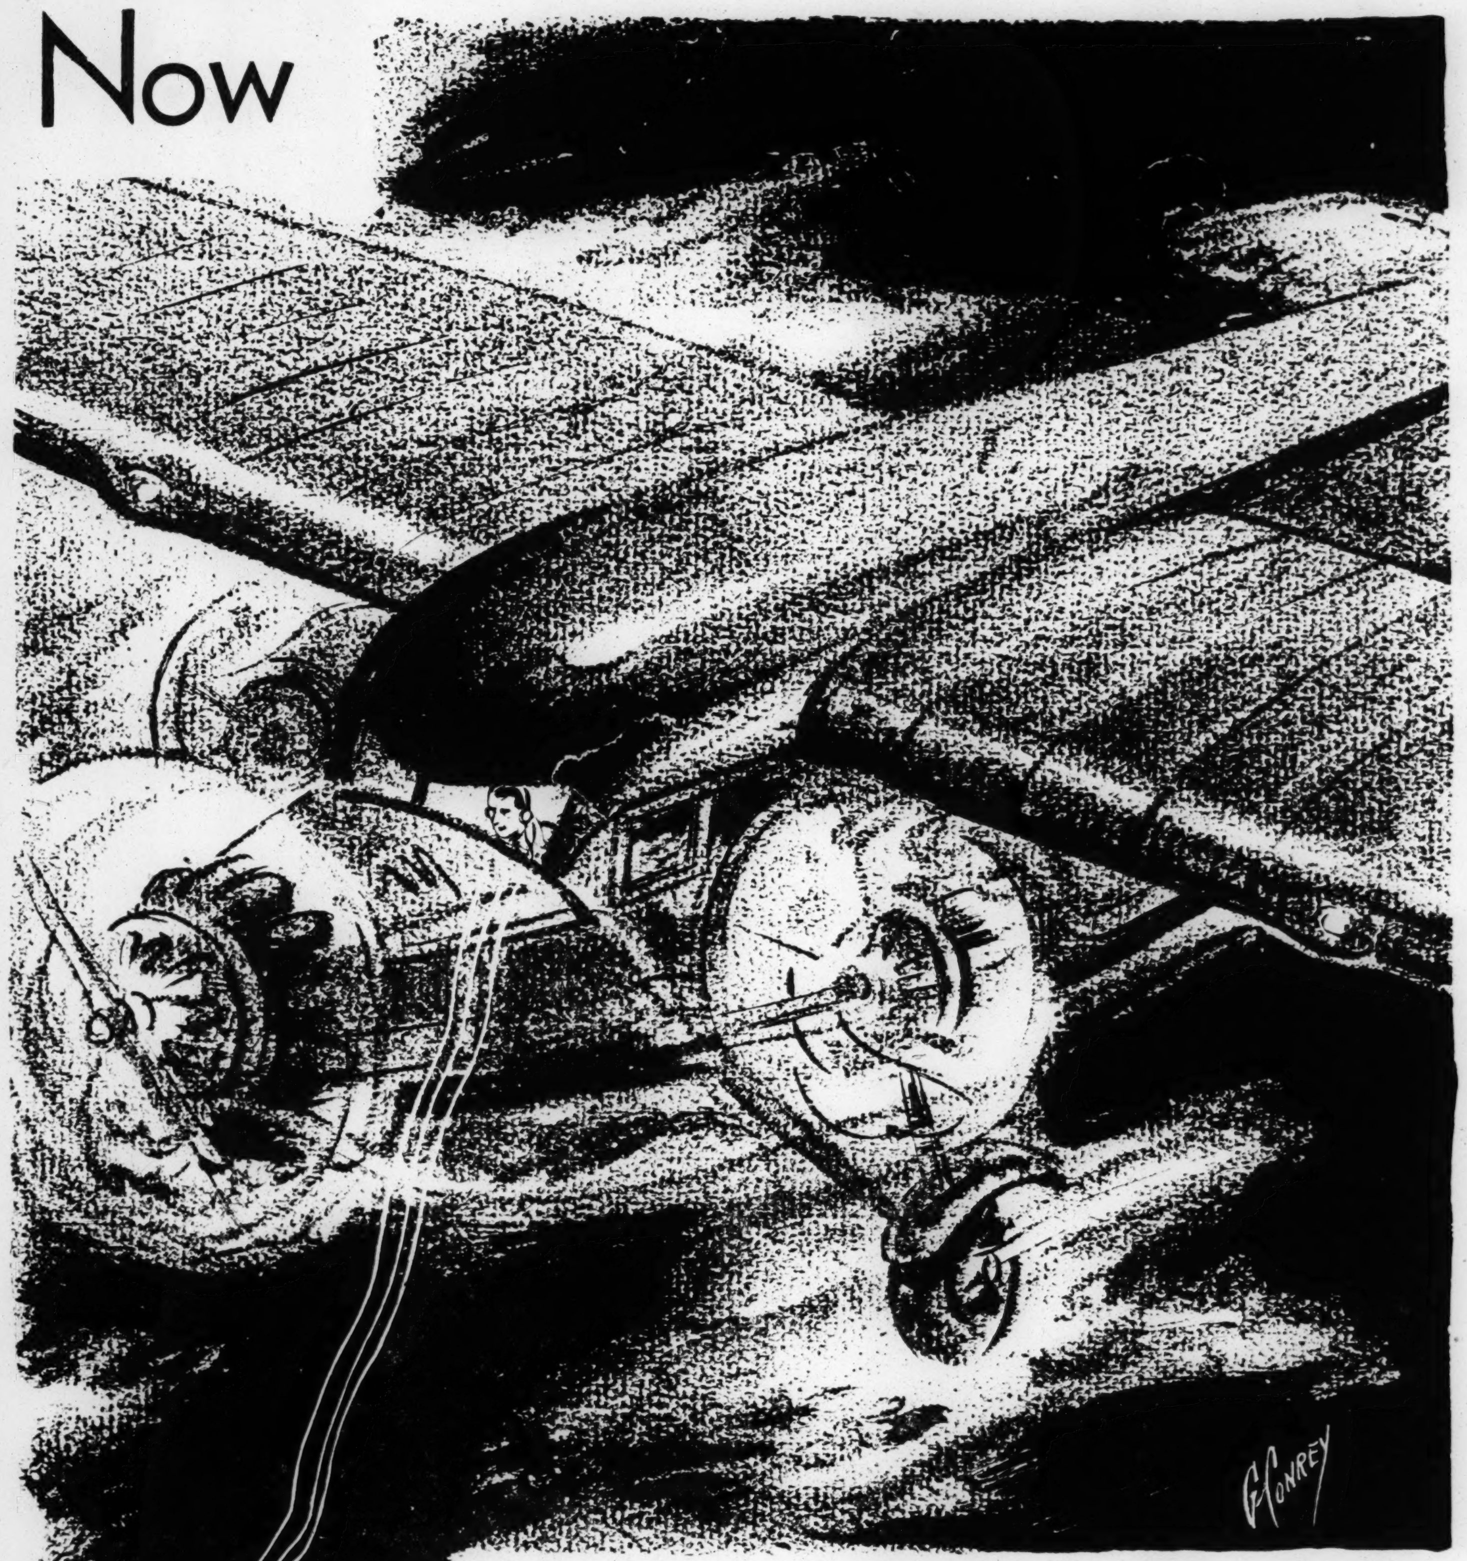
The ability to fly straight to an objective gives the pilot equipped with a radio compass a great advantage over his rivals. The compass is especially valuable in locating ships in distress, in news assignments and other flying jobs involving time.

When using the radio compass as a "homing" device the pilot plugs in his headphone and tunes in a station. He switches then to the compass indicator mounted on the instrument board. As long as the plane heads toward the radio station the pointer on the indicator remains at zero. In case of a drift to the right, the pointer swings in that direction. A deviation toward the left and the pointer follows. In either event a little rudder pushing will get the ship back on the course. As the plane nears the radio station the volume of the signals increases, informing the flyer that he is nearing the end of his trip.

The Kruesi radio compass consists of four compact units, weighing a total of 45 pounds and linked by flexible cable and wires. The direction indicator is a large dial, with pointer and scale, painted with luminous material to facilitate reading at night. The remote control box, occupying only 100 cubic inches of space, may be mounted wherever convenient in the cockpit. It includes the tuning dial, the switch for changing from headphone to bearing indicator, the switch for changing frequency bands, the tuning handle, key for automatic or manual volume control and the jack for the head set.

The other units are the compass receiver units, located in any convenient place inside the fuselage, and the streamlined circular loop, hung outside. The loop is 21 inches in diameter. Where desired, a rotating mechanism may be attached to the loop, making it unnecessary for the pilot to change the position of the plane when "fishing" for different stations.

The radio compass was developed by Geoffrey Kruesi of Dayton, Ohio.



A Little Known Sherlock Holmes Story Rediscovered

'The Field Bazar' Never Included in Any Published Collection of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's Works.

Here is an authentic Sherlock Holmes story by the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, which is not included in any published collection of his works. It was a friendly contribution to the Student, a publication issued by the undergraduates of Edinburgh University, Doyle's alma mater. While its strictly local application is apparent, it is in the true Sherlockian manner. A copy was discovered recently by G. J. R. Carruthers and presented by him to the Sherlock Holmes Society of London. There A. O. Macdonell of Godalming, Surrey, obtained it and had copies printed for distribution at the December dinner of the Baker Street Irregulars in New York. Through the courtesy of Mr. Macdonell and of Dr. Gray C. Briggs of St. Louis, who lent his copy, the story is here reproduced. It is classified as part of the "Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes" and entitled "The Field Bazar".

"I SHOULD certainly do it," said Sherlock Holmes.

I started at the interruption, for my companion had been eating his breakfast with his attention entirely centered upon the paper which was propped up by the coffee pot. Now I looked across at him to find his eyes fastened upon me with the half-amused, half-questioning expression which he usually assumed when he felt that he had made an intellectual point.

"Do what?" I asked.

He smiled as he took his slipper from the mantelpiece and drew from it enough shag tobacco to fill the old clay pipe with which he invariably rounded off his breakfast.

"A most characteristic question of yours, Watson," said he. "You will not, I am sure, be offended if I say that any reputation for sharpness which I may possess, has been entirely gained by the admirable foil which you have made for me. Have I not heard of debutantes who have insisted upon plainness in their chaperones? There is a certain analogy."

Our long companionship in the Baker Street rooms had left us on those easy terms of intimacy when much may be said without offense. And yet I acknowledge that I was nettled at his remark.

"I may be very obtuse," said I, "but I confess that I am unable to see how you have managed to know that I was —I was"——

"Asked to help in the Edinburgh University bazar?"

"Precisely. The letter has only just come to hand, and I have not spoken to you since."

"In spite of that," said Holmes, leaning back in his chair and putting his finger tips together, "I would even venture to suggest that the object of the bazar is to enlarge the university cricket field."

I looked at him in such bewilderment that he vibrated with silent laughter.

"The fact is, my dear Watson, that you are an excellent subject," said he. "You are never blase. You respond instantly to any external stimulus. Your mental processes may be slow, but they are never obscure, and I found during breakfast that you were easier reading than the leader in the Times in front of me."

"I should be glad to know how you arrived at your conclusions," said I.

"I fear that my good nature in giving explanations has seriously compromised my reputation," said Holmes. "But in this case the train of reasoning is based upon such obvious facts that no credit can be claimed for it. You entered the room with a thoughtful expression—the expression of a man who is debating some point in his mind. In your hand you held a solitary letter. Now, last night you had retired in the best of spirits, so it was clear that it was this letter in your hand which had caused the change in you."

"This is obvious."

"IT IS all obvious when it is explained to you. I naturally asked myself what the letter could contain which might have this effect upon you. As you walked you held the flap side of the envelope toward me, and I saw upon it the same shield-shaped device which I have observed upon your old college cricket cap. It was clear, then, that the request came from Edinburgh University—or from some club connected with the university. When you reached the stable you laid the letter down beside your plate, with the address uppermost, and you walked over to look at the framed photograph upon the left of the mantelpiece."

It amazed me to see the accuracy with which he had observed my movements.

"What next?" I asked.

"I began by glancing at the address, and I could tell, even at the distance of six feet, that it was an unofficial communication. This I gathered from the use of the word 'Doctor' upon the address, to which, as a Bachelor of Medicine, you have no legal claim. I knew that university officials are pedantic in their correct use of titles, and I was thus enabled to say with certainty that your letter was unofficial. When, on your return to the table, you turned over your letter and allowed me to perceive that the enclosure was a printed one, the idea of a bazar first occurred to me. I had already weighed the possibility of its being a political communication, but this seemed improbable in the present stagnant condition of politics.

"When you returned to the table, your face still retained its expression, and it was evident that your examination of the photograph had not changed the current of your thoughts. In that case it must itself bear upon the subject in question. I turned my attention to the photograph, therefore, and saw at once that it consisted of yourself as a member of the Edinburgh University eleven, with the pavilion and cricket field in the background. My small experience of cricket clubs has taught me that next to churches and cavalry ensigns, they are the most debt-laden things upon earth. When upon your return to the table I saw you take out your pencil and draw lines upon the envelope, I was convinced that you were endeavoring to realize some projected improvement which was to be brought about by the bazar. Your face still showed some indecision, so that I was able to break in upon you with my advice that you should assist in so good an object."

I could not help smiling at the extreme simplicity of his explanation.

"Of course, it was as easy as possible," said I.

My remark appeared to nettle him.

"I may add," said he, "that the particular help which you have been asked to give was that you write in their album, and that you have already made up your mind that the present incident will be the subject of your article."

"But how . . .!" I cried.

"It is as easy as possible," said he, "and I leave its solution to your own ingenuity. In the meantime," he added, raising his paper, "you will excuse me if I return to this very interesting article upon the trees of Cremona, and the exact reasons for their pre-eminence in the manufacture of violins. It is one of those small outlying problems to which I am sometimes tempted to direct my attention."

The VOGUE for TAILORED EFFECTS in EVENING GOWNS and STREET CLOTHES

THERE may be "nothing new under the sun" as far as the rest of the world is concerned, but certainly Dame Fashion does her best to contradict the age-old truism. And now her defi takes the form of tailored evening gowns.

Raised eyebrows met the first efforts of the more daring couturiers when they sought to introduce the tailleur to the ballroom, figuratively speaking. But the vogue "caught on," and now, with the season at its height, the definiteness of the trend is obvious.

Georgette Renal's dinner gown of prune wool georgette is an interesting example of the new vogue, with its long, tight sleeves, tailored collar and mannish pockets. Only its long and beautifully draped skirt distinguishes it from a smart frock for daytime wear.

Positively quaint is Schiaparelli's tailored ensemble for informal evening wear. It has al the touches of the days of lavender and old lace—balloon sleeves, frilled collar, sequin trimming and, quaintest touch of all, a bonnet which ties under the chin.

The balloon sleeves usel in this ensemble present an interesting paradox, for while they so closely resemble the "leg o' mutton" sleeves of grandmother's day, they are really based upon a modern science. Schiaparelli's collections for several seasons past have been inspired by the science of aviation and her creations have taken their keynote from aeroplanes, balloons, parachutes and other aeronautical features.

SKETCHES FROM LIFE

High Lights on Unusual Personalities

ROBERT EMMET SHERWOOD
ERNEST JOHN RUSSELL

ST. LOUIS' CITY PLANNER—and the SITUATION HE HADN'T PLANNED

"THE justification of city planning lies on the economic side, but if you don't have back of it a sense of the fitness of things, you will fail."

His keen blue eyes gazing across the city and up the Mississippi from his top-story office in the Chemical Building, Ernest John Russell—chairman of the City Plan Commission, chairman of the St. Louis Regional Planning Association and president of the American Institute of Architects—was discussing what skilled community planning has accomplished and may mean in St. Louis.

He spoke with authority, for he has been the leader and spokesman for planning since 1917. A few weeks ago the City Commission went through the annual formality of re-electing him chairman, for the nineteenth term.

"There isn't anything like the unanimity of public spirit in this town that there is in some others," he said. "In Chicago and Dallas, for instance, the people get together readily and go after a thing for the benefit of the city. But I have hopes for St. Louis, most decidedly. I never thought we would get as far as we have with the major street plan so soon."

The system of wide boulevards here, sponsored by the commission, is more extensive than in any other American city of relative size.

What, in Planner Russell's opinion, was needed most in St. Louis?

"A consolidation of minds," he said, "to make this a great city. I don't look at it as a big city, but it can be great. One of the things we need most, of course, is to get rid of the smoke."

CROOKING his left elbow in a characteristic gesture, he puffed a fresh cigarette, held between nicotine-stained fingers. The quick smile with which he has disarmed many an adversary passed across his strong, ruddy face. His shock of silver hair, forelock tipped with yellow, caught the gleam of an architect's north light.

"Next to the smoke problem," he continued, "I think we need to make the eastern portion of town accessible. If we don't, the depreciation of property there is going to continue to extend westwardly to the detriment of the city in every way. When I came here, downtown Broadway was the main retail street. I was told business had left Fourth street because property owners there would not fix the buildings to meet the changing demands. Broadway went the same way. Now Sixth and Seventh are probably the busiest retail streets."

It would help trade, Russell observed, if banks would not insist on corner locations and would be better yet if they would take second-floor quarters. A bank, closing at 2 p. m., attracts no throngs of pedestrians.

"I would put an outer park system as the third big thing we need," Russell went on.

"We have accomplished more in the street plan than in other fields, but have done something with parks and playgrounds. Public consciousness of planning has been built up only to a limited extent. I don't think the bulk of the people realize its value; that doesn't apply to St. Louis exclusively, but generally. The current interest in planning by the national Government is going to kindle a desire for planning on economic ground. Architects used to strive for the city beautiful, but it wasn't until we got down to brass tacks on economic grounds that planning got under way. Our commission studied as its first work the River des Peres—drainage, not esthetics. Of course, appearances must be considered. Everyone who comes to town wants to see the Mississippi, but you can't show our river front and retain your self-respect, unless, perhaps, you go down to the bluffs at Bellerive Park.

"I think we are going to have in St. Louis, around Memorial Plaza, the best grouping of public buildings in this country, next to Washington."

It was 35 years ago when the president of the old Civic League called on Russell to assume the chairmanship of a committee. That was the start of his public career. The league initiated the talk of a civic center now finding expression in Memorial Plaza.

Russell was in the group of pioneers who started the first playground here—the Mullanphy. He was on the succeeding Public Recreation Commission and left it to go on the Board of Appeals, a technical body in the administration of the building code. He was a member of the old Citizens' City Plan Committee, and not long after the City Plan Commission was set up officially he was called on to succeed Dwight F. Davis as its head in 1917.

Representing the old Seventeenth Ward, he served a term in the House of Delegates in 1909-11. A group of Republicans, who later made an unsuccessful effort to get him to run for Congress, drafted him for the place. Among his colleagues in the House were such men as Edgar Rombauer, Speaker; John H. Holliday, recently Vice-Governor of the Philippines; William L. Igoe, now head of the Police Board; Clarence Taussig, lawyer; "Boots" Brennan and the late "Jiggers" Gallagher, river ward Democratic politicians. Russell voted unavailingly against the first appropriation for Municipal Bridge because he considered it insufficient.

Russell was born in London, 64 years ago. His family moved to Colorado Springs, Colorado, when he was a boy. Left fatherless at 10, he had only a grade schooling. His career would satisfy an Alger. His first job was office boy for the company that owned much of the town site. An architect with an office on the same floor took an interest in him, taught him the rudiments of architecture and fitted him, in about three years, for a job with a Boston architectural firm in Denver. He went to night school and to the atelier of the Architectural Club, "just picking up" the profession.

For the last three years he has been the head of the American Institute of Architects, the first man in a quarter of a century to serve that long in the leadership of the profession.

He was not primarily a designer, but a superintendent, seeing that blueprints and specifications were followed. He is now senior partner in Mauran, Russell & Crowell, architects who carried out such structures as the Telephone Building, new Federal Building, Railway Exchange Building, Federal Reserve Bank Building and Second Baptist Church.

One of his earliest assignments when he came here in 1896 was to boss the erection of the garden wall around the home of the late Henry Potter at 5814 Cabanne avenue. The house, notable for its walls of hand-split cypress shingles which have remained intact, was built in 1886, with southern exposure for every room. Henry Hobson Richardson of Boston designed it. In 1920 Russell bought it. Under the old zoning law, antedated only by the New York code, it was in a residential district. After that law was knocked out apartments sprang up on three sides. Russell was able to speak with conviction in his ardent efforts in behalf of the present zoning law. He continues to live in the shingle house.

TO MOST St. Louisans he is "E. J. Russell." To intimates he is "Jack." He is courteous, diplomatic and witty. A genuine love of the city motivates him. A keen sense of humor has carried him through trying times in the City Plan Commission and the more recent work of regional planning. His eye is always on the object to be achieved, rather than the details of attaining it. He doesn't care who gets the credit for achievement. He can say "no" with a smile or draw assent from the reluctant. "Make no little plans" might be his motto, for essentially the real planner is a man of broad vision. In architectural design he looks for a sincere renaissance.

Russell was chairman of the Transportation Survey Commission which attemped to solve the transit problem in 1928-30. In 1923 he was a member of the General Council on Civic Needs, which planned the $87,372,500 bond issue. During the World War he was deputy chief of production in the housing division of the Shipping Board. For a time he was chairman of the National Board of Awards for Jurisdictional Disputes in the Building Industry.

Mrs. Russell was Miss Elizabeth Dunlap of Springfield, Ohio. They have two daughters.

When, as a gesture of good will, at an architects' dinner in Washington a year or two ago, the Swedish Ambassador bestowed the order of an officer of the first class of the House of Vasa on him, Russell was unable to respond for a time. He hadn't planned that.

True American Heroes

included for the part his type played in river and rail development. Uncle Remus, story teller, is the mouthpiece of mythology. A circuit rider represents the religious elements in mythology.

Robert Winslow Gordon, the well-known American ballad scholar, has played an important part in Rayford's education in American folk history; it was he who suggested that "Springfield Mounting," the first truly American folksong, should be the subject of one panel.

Leaving a construction gang in Pittsburgh, Rayford had started his PWAP work as a special protege of Duncan Phillips, the Washington critic and modern art collector, who became head of the Regional Committee for the District of Columbia. Phillips has this to say of the 26-year-old artist: "I believe this young sculptor has the imagination, the ambition and the ability to contribute something important to American art, something primitive, without pretense, and resembling folk art and the minds of the simplest people, because there is in him a genuine capacity for credulity and hero worship and a passion for America as a young giant among the nations."

Rayford, the seventh son of a railroad engineer in Mobile, Alabama, has run a wide gamut of experience in his short life. He spent his early childhood, truant and undisciplined, running with tough boy gangs, then suddenly undertook to become a leader of young Baptist aspirations—mainly, he admits, to satisfy a need for self-expression and public attention. At an early age he left home to become a football player and "the lousiest janitor on record." He went to Duke University and took a graduate course in Middle English during his first (and last) year there, spending his spare time painting scenery for 30 hours at a stretch. His education, he says, was like an inflation; he exploded it all when he left school and started on a career of "thumb-touring," which he pursued for five years. But between stages in his wanderings he has been a pupil of Gutzon Borglum and Rauol Josset; protege of the Frank G. Logan family in Chicago Art Institute; portrait artist, foreman of a garbage crew at the Hotel New Yorker in New York, radio recitalist. His work as a sculptor has won the approval of George Grey Barnard, the New York sculptor. He has wanted to be an artist since the age of three; since then he has found out a great deal about the America he intends to continue depicting in his work.

NEW YORK

A WOUNDED war hero at 22, a widely-known critic at 25, editor of Life at 30, Robert Emmet Sherwood now faces his fortieth year with half a dozen outstanding plays behind him, the latest of which is in the front rank of the 1935 procession of dramatic hits in New York.

What the future holds for the almost alarmingly tall, smilingly serious, versatile author of "The Petrified Forest" no one can say. More plays, perhaps—or novels, a book of poems, a philosophical tome. He sailed for London the other day, saying he needs its quiet for two plays he is writing, but they may be something else by the time they are finished. Already he has burst publicly into verse, and one novel stands to his credit.

SUCCESS has had little appreciable effect on him, except that of causing him to enlarge his name from Robert E. Sherwood to the more impressive Robert Emmet Sherwood, when he first became a dramatist. The description of him as "just a great, big, overgrown boy, reaching for the moon," fits as well today as when a critic wrote it six or seven years ago. Humorous, with the gift of startling guffaws as well as chuckles, he is always a little wistful. By no means hurly-burly, he is keenly sensitive to the slaps of critics, possibly because his having been one makes him take them more seriously.

"To be able to write a play, for performance in a theater," he once wrote in a curiously revealing papagraph, "a man must be sensitive, imaginative, naive, gullible, passionate; he must be something of an imbecile, something of a poet, something of a liar, something of a damn fool. He must be a chaser of wild geese, as well as of wild ducks. He must be prepared to make a public spectacle of himself. He must be independent and brave, and sure of himself and of the importance of his work, because if he isn't, he will never survive the scorching blasts of derision that will probably greet his first efforts. He must not shrink from the old hokum; he must actually love it. The theater is no place for consciously superior persons. It is a place for those incurable sophomores who have not been blessed by God with the power to rise above their emotions."

He was born in New Rochelle, New York, in the year William Jennings Bryan nearly nosed out William McKinley for the presidency. Twenty-one years later he left Harvard in his junior year to enlist with the Canadian Army, seeing active service at Vimy Ridge, and being wounded twice. In 1919 he was invalided home, and when recovered broke into print as dramatic editor of Vanity Fair. It was then he began almost a decade of movie criticism, soon hailed as the most penetrating comment yet written on the new art. Able to take the movies seriously while laughing at their producers, his influence became felt even in Hollywood. In 1920 he became moving picture critic of Life and associate editor; from 1924 to 1928 he was editor, still keeping his post as critic. During all this time he was writing humorous articles and contributing short stories to magazines, one of which was included in O'Brien's "Best Short Stories" of 1926.

Apparently feeling time hang heavily on his hands, in 1926 he used spare moments to write his first play, "The Road to Rome," which became a hit early in 1927. To the confusion of many, his name now included the full Emmet, persuading large portions of the public that a new literary figure had arisen. The play struck a new note, and was an instant success. It was strongly reminiscent of Bernard Shaw, using an atmosphere similar to "Caesar and Cleopatra," and a plot suggestive of "Captain Brassbound's Conversion." But it lacked the distressing quality of Shaw's plays of making the audience think, and so was wholly delightful to its hearers. His latest play, "The Petrified Forest," is amusing, melodramatic and underneath it all, pessimistic.

IN THE midst of writing his second play Sherwood paused to toss off a third, "The Queen's Husband," for Roland Young, making something of a record by having it in actual rehearsal 17 days after he started it, and this while he prepared movie reviews, edited Life and corrected the other play.

Now a Sherwood play is no unusual event. "Reunion in Vienna," in which Lynn Fontanne and her husband, Alfred Lunt, starred, caused the greatest comment of all. An odd feature of his plays is their constantly changing locale: Rome in the days of Hannibal, Vienna, New York—and now, in "The Petrified Forest," Arizona.

He now has a place outside of London, where he spends much of his time; is still thrilled by each success; looks forward to greater accomplishments. He was divorced last year from his wife, to whom he had dedicated the published versions of all his plays.

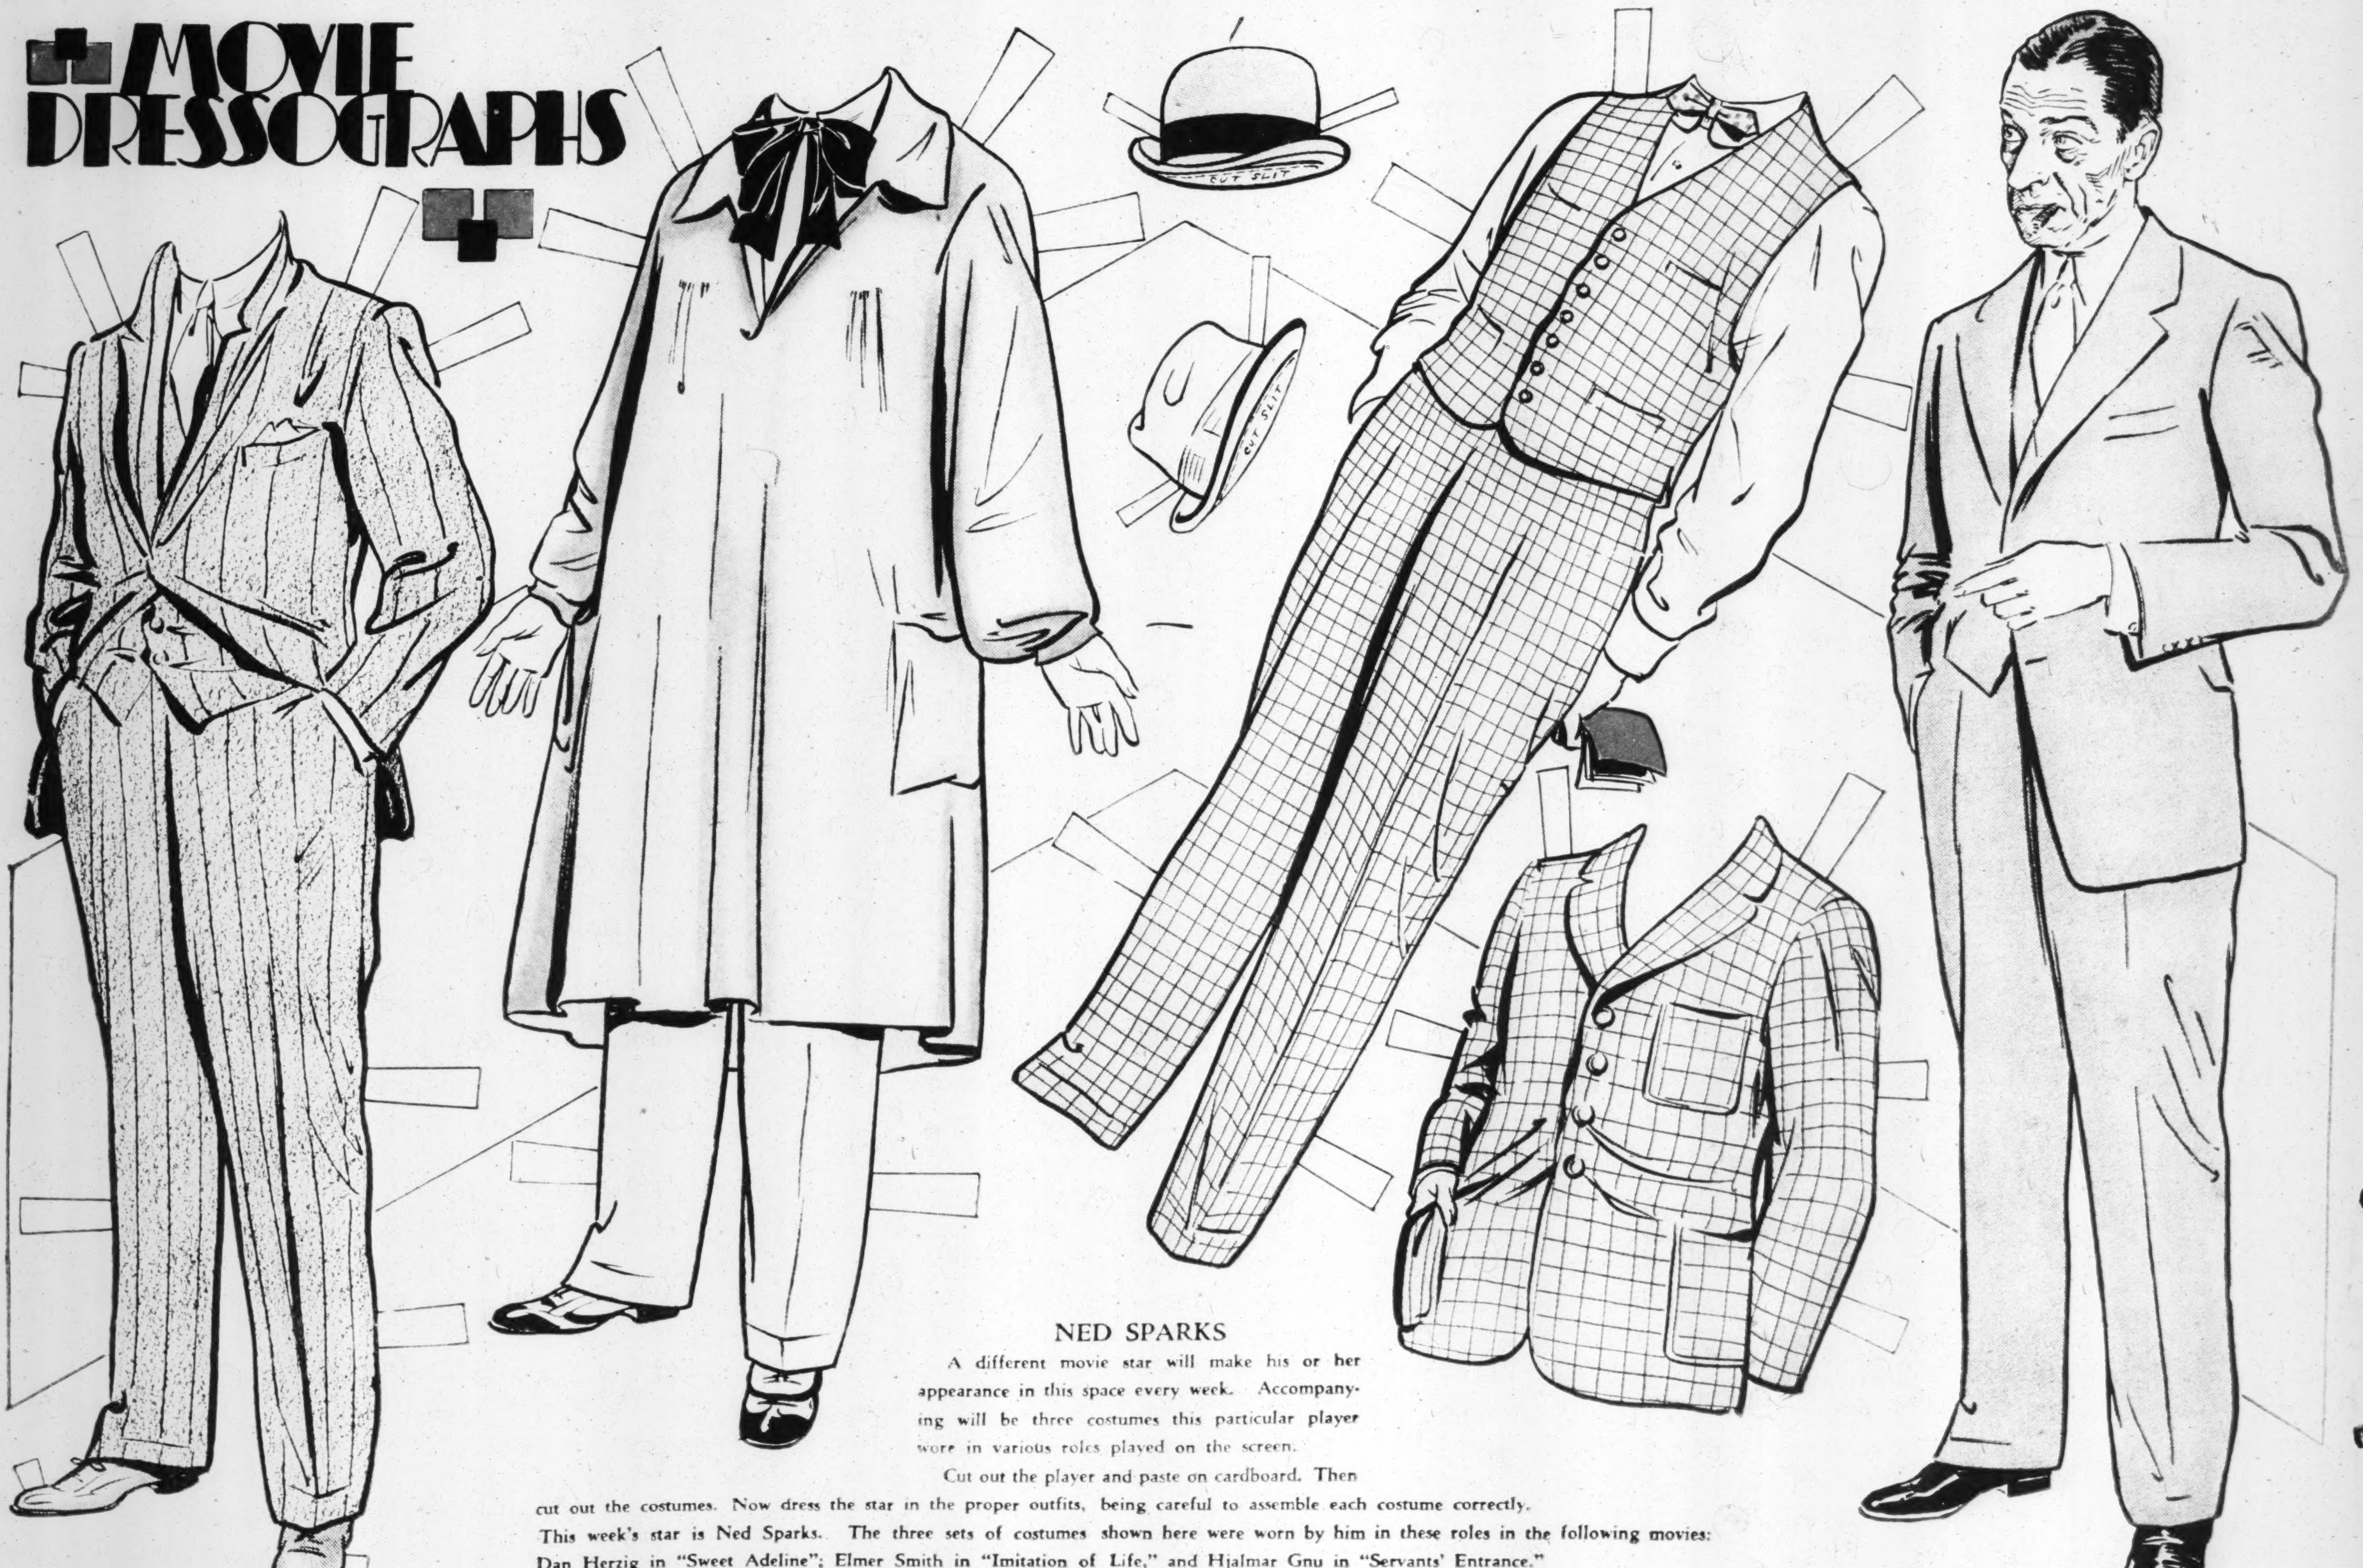
MOVIE DRESSOGRAPHS



NED SPARKS

A different movie star will make his or her appearance in this space every week. Accompanying will be three costumes this particular player wore in various roles played on the screen.

Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in the proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correctly. This week's star is Ned Sparks. The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by him in these roles in the following movies: Dan Herzig in "Sweet Adeline"; Elmer Smith in "Imitation of Life," and Hjalmar Gnu in "Servants' Entrance."

Next week: May Robson.

THE GREAT POLAR PUZZLE

THE CHARACTERS

FROST BITE—An Arctic fox.
BILLY SEAL—A seal who lives in the Land of Snow.
AURORA—A polar bear.
CHAW CHAW—An Arctic wolf.
TING LING—A snow owl.
BUDDY AND BOB BUNNY—Two little rabbits who wish they had never left their nice warm home in Hickory Hollow.
HARRY HOPALONG—A snowshoe rabbit who befriended Buddy and Bob.
AUNT ARCTIC—Harry's aunt.

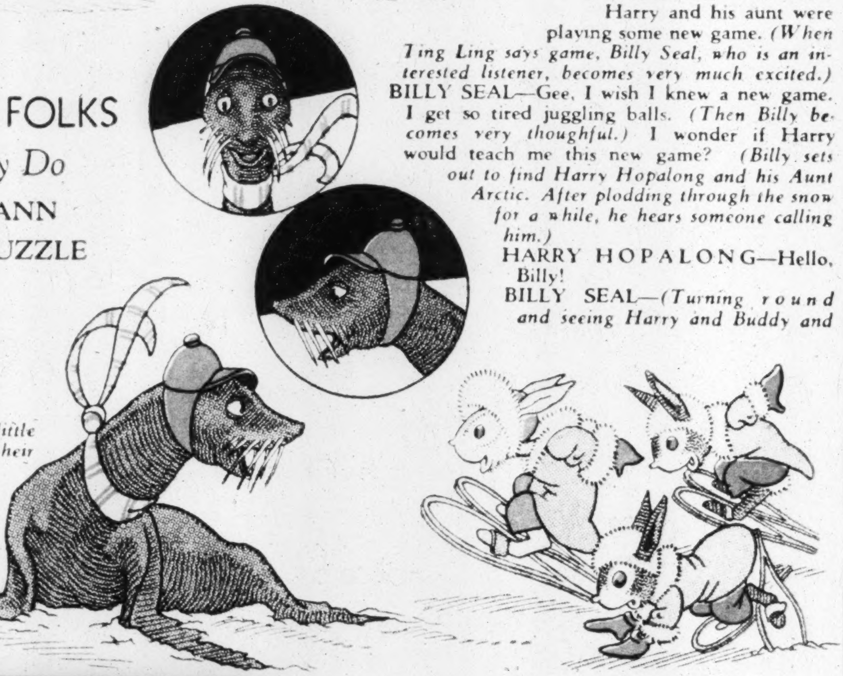
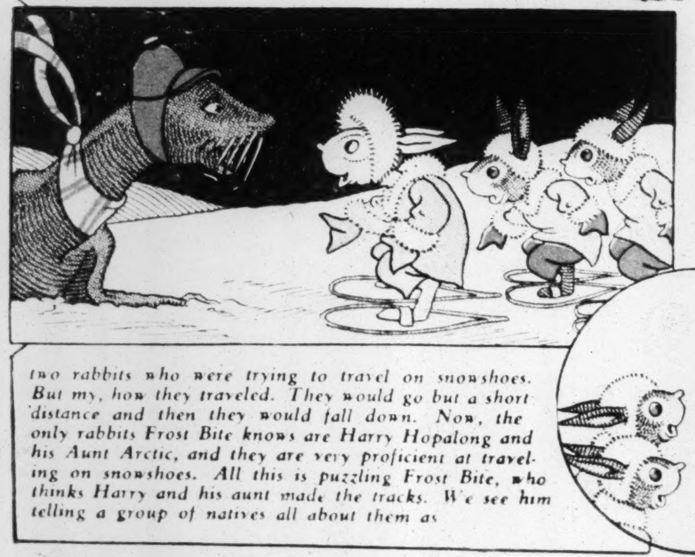
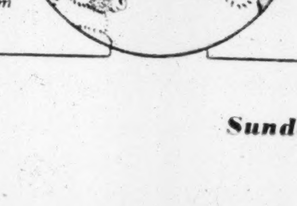
Frost Bite saw some tracks in the snow today that have him puzzled. They were the tracks of two rabbits who were trying to travel on snowshoes. But my, how they traveled. They would go but a short distance and then they would fall down. Now, the only rabbits Frost Bite knows are Harry Hopalong and his Aunt Arctic, and they are very proficient at traveling on snowshoes. All this is puzzling Frost Bite, who thinks Harry and his aunt made the tracks. We see him telling a group of natives all about them as







THE PLAY BEGINS

FROST BITE—I tell you I never saw Harry or his aunt make tracks like that before.

AURORA — Poor Harry and Aunt Arctic. I always said that that everlasting hopping jarred the brain.

CHAW CHAW — Maybe their shoes are too big for them.

TING LING — I'll bet Harry and his aunt were playing some new game. (When Ting Ling says game, Billy Seal, who is an interested listener, becomes very much excited.)

BILLY SEAL—Gee, I wish I knew a new game. I get so tired juggling balls. (Then Billy becomes very thoughtful.) I wonder if Harry would teach me this new game? (Billy sets out to find Harry Hopalong and his Aunt Arctic. After plodding through the snow for a while, he hears someone calling him.)

HARRY HOPALONG—Hello, Billy!

BILLY SEAL—(Turning round and seeing Harry and Buddy and Bob.) Hello, Harry. I was just coming over to see you. Frost Bite saw your tracks in the snow. He said you hopped for a while and then fell down. Ting Ling said he thought you and your aunt were playing some new game. I wonder if you will teach me how to play it? (Harry laughs and tells Billy the tracks were made by Buddy and Bob, who are just learning how to get about on snowshoes. Buddy and Bob stare at Billy in silence. They've never seen a seal before. But when they get back to Aunt Arctic's home they tell her all about Billy and the tracks in the snow.)

AUNT ARCTIC—They were puzzled because they don't know about you? I'm going to ask King Winter to have a big party and have everyone who lives in the Land of Snow attend. You'll meet some fine folks and maybe we'll have some nice frosted ice cakes.

ITALY'S BELLIGERENT NEIGHBORS

An Ethiopian tribal lord and members of his retinue of desert sharp-shooters photographed some time ago during coronation ceremonies for their Emperor. Warriors of this type have been engaged in the disturbances on the borders of Italian Somaliland and Abyssinia.

GREENWICH VILLAGE IDYLL

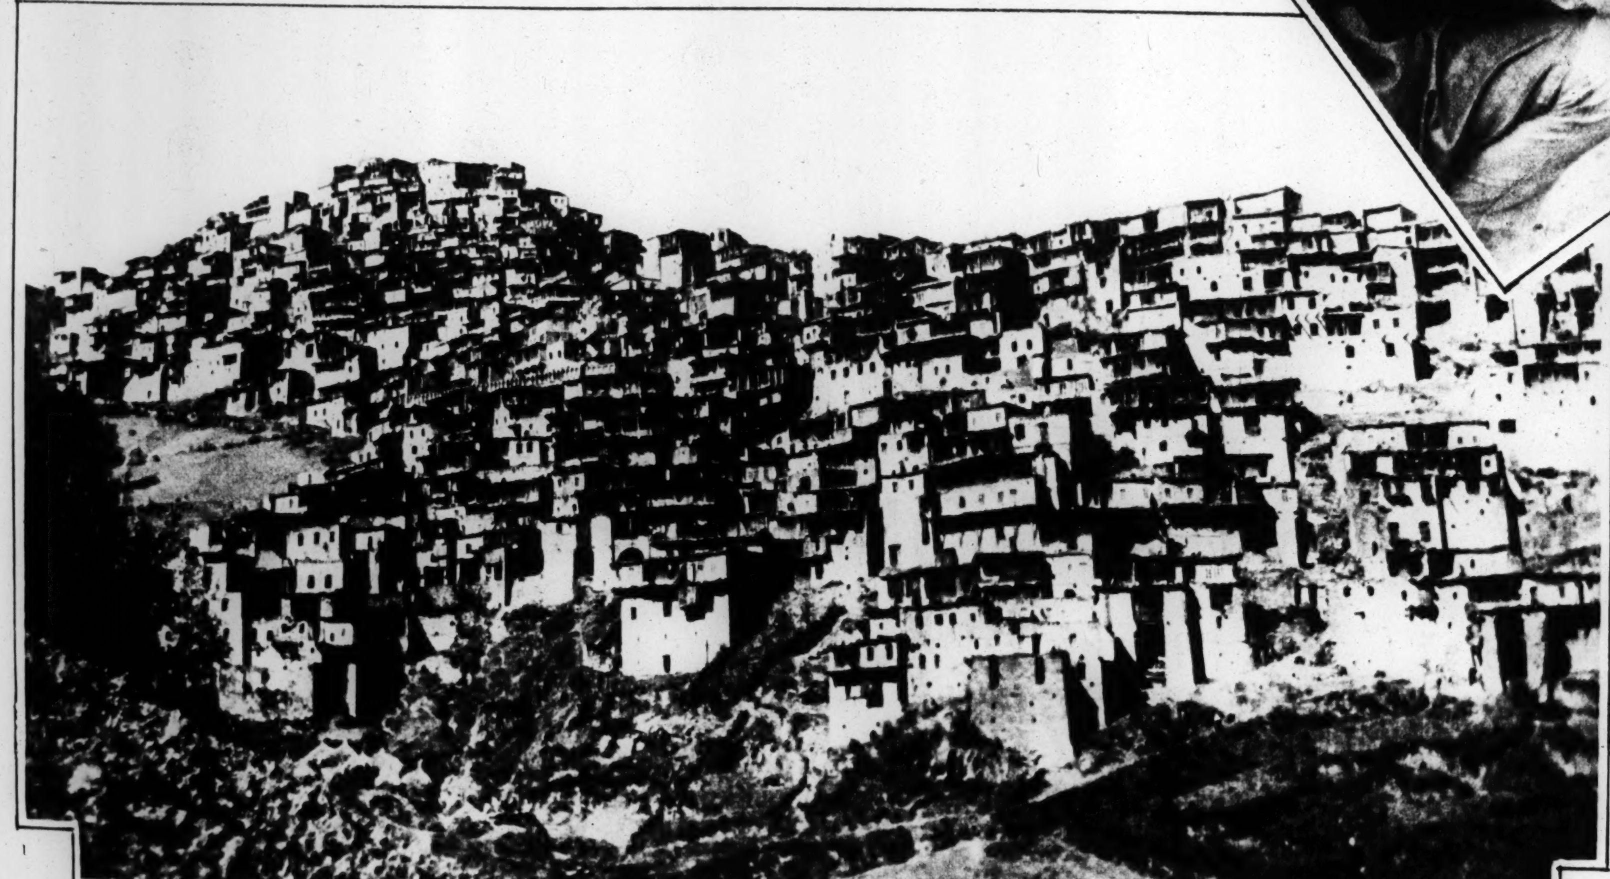
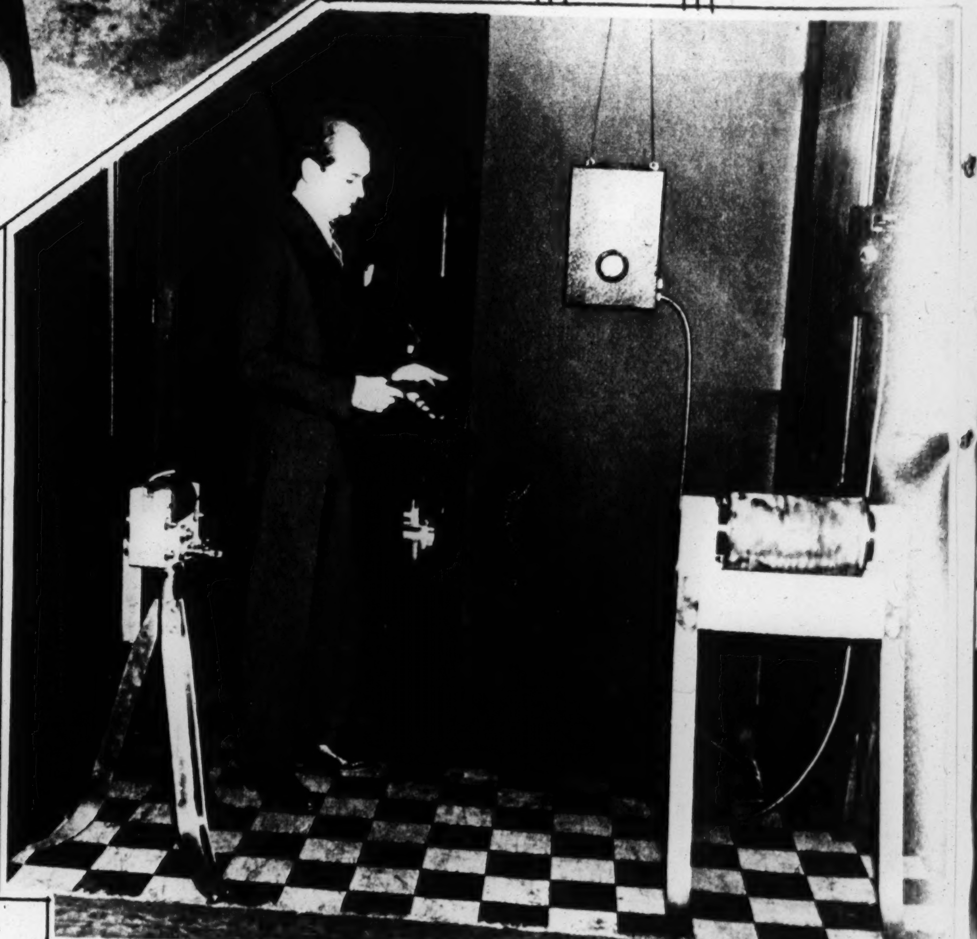
ANOTHER RUSSIAN EXPERIMENT—Askania Nova, an animal breeding farm in the Ukraine, has undertaken a variety of zoological problems. It breeds ostriches for use on the nearby collective farms, using incubators like that shown at right. And it creates new hybrid species, using such outlandish creatures as the saiga antelope above.



LOOKING DOWN ON TEN CENTURIES—The village of Kubachi, famous for its jewelry and weapons, occupies a hill in the Soviet Republic of Daghesten in the Northern Caucasus region. The republic's population is much smaller than St. Louis. Eighty languages are spoken in the republic.



MECHANICAL "FRISK"—A device which is expected to be of incalculable ser to prison wardens, this arrangement of two magnets causes a red light to flash w anyone enters the door carrying a gun.

TROPICAL NIGHT-BLOOMING WATER LILY

LILY POND—A study of placidly floating blossoms and foliage in a rock garden, made by Miss Ta Adler of Evansville, Indiana.

SPRING BLOSSOMS—A vase filled with fresh, blooming sprays photographed against a wrought iron baluster which harmonizes remarkably well with the design of the twigs. It is by Arthur W. Proetz of St. Louis.

GOING TO SEED—A dandelion plant in a background of sun-lighted grass spears. The photographer is George A. Patterson of St. Louis.

"No Foolin Kids—

NOW IT'S FUN TO BRUSH YOUR TEETH!"

"AS HEAD SALESMAN for this NEW Pebeco, I've really got a cinch job... It's so easy because this NEW Pebeco tastes so good it makes tooth-brushing a pleasure.

"Many years ago, when I was going to public school, I once whispered across the aisle to a kid, 'Hey, how do you spell mule?'... He slipped me a piece of paper on which he had written 'M-L-E'... I said, 'That isn't right, you left something out.'... And he replied, 'Yes, I left U out.'

"But the Pebeco people did not leave U out in planning their new tooth paste... They added three new ingredients for U... Now, grown-ups and kids are both going for its top-of-the-mornin' taste.

"Of course, you clean your teeth for the good it does them, but the NEW Pebeco does good and tastes good, too. What a break for kids!"

Contains 3 Important New Ingredients

1. A NEW WHITENING AGENT
...which whitens teeth faster.
2. A NEW ANTISEPTIC
...to purify and deodorize the breath.
3. MILK OF MAGNESIA
...to increase Pebeco's famous action in counteracting "Acid Mouth."

TO THE LOVERS OF THE ORIGINAL PEBECO:

When news of the NEW Pebeco first went out, there were prompt protests from many who prefer the concentrated strength and delightful extra tang of the original Pebeco. So, we hasten to announce that we are NOT discontinuing the familiar Pebeco. You will find it on sale at toilet goods counters as always, in 50c, 25c and 10c sizes. Just ask for Regular Pebeco, instead of NEW Pebeco.

NEW Pebeco has unique triple-action. Three new ingredients do three things no one tooth paste ever did before—one whitens the teeth; another deodorizes the breath and cuts down the number of germs in the mouth; and the third counteracts "Acid Mouth", by combating the acids which are an important factor in tooth decay. And NEW Pebeco has a TASTE that is truly delightful. It's so bland... and "biteless"—that children, especially, love it. NEW Pebeco comes in two sizes—a big, economical 25c tube and a 10c junior tube.

TONITE!

WHAT WAS THAT, BLACKIE?
SOME GUY HUNTING RABBITS ON OUR PLACE AGAIN, I BET!
BANG!
BANG!
THEY DON'T CARE WHERE THEY SHOOT, EITHER!
I'LL SCARE THEM OFF THE PLACE! LEAVE 'EM TO ME!
WHICH ONE OF YOU FELLOWS SHOT THIS DUCK OUT OF SEASON?
IT MUSTA BEEN YOU, ORVILLE! YOU SHOT TWICE!
WELL, IF YOU'LL GET OFF THE PLACE, I WON'T TELL THE GAME WARDEN!
OKAY, KID--- WE'LL SCRAM!
BANG!
WELL THERE ARE SOME MORE RABBIT HUNTERS! I'LL CHASE THEM, TOO!
WELL, IT WORKED ON THE OTHER GUYS! THEY JUST LEFT!
WELL, WE AIN'T GOING TO!
BANG!
I MISSED HIM!
AND SOMEBODY IS SHOOTING BACK AT US! DID YOU HEAR THAT SHOT? GIVE 'EM BOTH BARRELS, WILBUR!
BANG!
GOSH, THEY FIRED THREE SHOTS BACK AT US!
BANG! BANG! BANG!
THERE WON'T BE ANY MORE REPORTS COMING FROM THAT DIRECTION, I BET!
THERE WERE FOUR DISTINCT REPORTS! WHAT MAKES YOU THINK THERE WON'T BE MORE?
BECAUSE I COULD SEE WHAT YOU WERE SHOOTING AT--- AND FOUR TIRES WERE ALL THAT YOU HAD ON YOUR CAR!

I PLAYED A GOOD TRICK ON THAT GUY LAST NIGHT! HE NEVER MOWS HIS LAWN UNTIL THE GRASS IS A FOOT DEEP!
WHO IS HE?
HE'S MY BARBER! AND LAST NIGHT I BORROWED A LAWN MOWER AND CUT ONE LONG PATH IN HIS LAWN!
HE HAS TO MOW THE WHOLE THING--- AND IT'S A BIG LAWN TOO!
DOES HE SUSPECT WHO DID IT?
NO--- HE CUT MY HAIR JUST TEN MINUTES AGO. DIDN'T SAY A WORD TO ME ABOUT IT!
IN FACT I DIDN'T SAY TWO WORDS TO HIM. I EVEN FELL ASLEEP WHILE HE WAS CUTTING MY HAIR!

OH IT'S YOU SCRATCHING ON THIS DOOR?
SH-H! NOT SO LOUD, OLD MAN. I HAPPENED TO GET HOME LATE AND CAN'T FIND MY KEY AND HATE TO DISTURB THE LITTLE WOMAN, WHO'S ALL NERVES WHEN SHE'S AWAKENED LATE AT NIGHT. TOUGH, EH?
I'LL SAY SO, HOMER. BUT IF YOU HAVEN'T GOT A KEY THERE'S ONLY ONE THING YOU CAN DO.
YES, AND THAT IS TO HAVE ONE OF US CLIMB OVER MY TRANSOM; EH? THAT'S A SWELL IDEA. I'M GLAD YOU THOUGHT OF IT. I'LL GIVE YOU A BOOST AND....
NOT ME, HOMER. I'D LOVE TO HELP YOU BUT I'VE POURED MYSELF OVER STRANGE TRANSOMS BEFORE AND....
WELL ALL RIGHT, THEN I'LL DO IT MYSELF. KINDLY GIVE ME A LEG UP.
EASY! EASY! YOU'RE KICKING ME IN THE FACE AGAIN!
SH-H! HIGHER, OLD MAN. LIFT ME....
OH OH! I HEAR... LET ME DOWN! QUICK!
OOSH!
LISTEN, WHAT WAS THE IDEA OF..?
QUICK! NO TIME TO LOSE! I HEAR HER UNLOCKING THE DOOR.
HEY! WAIT! DON'T RUN INTO MY HOUSE OR...
HE DID!
SLAM
HEY! OPEN UP! WHAT'S THE IDEA OF SLAMMING MY OWN DOOR RIGHT IN MY FACE? OPEN UP OR... OH OH!
WHY MR. BUNGLE! YOU? YOU?
YES I... AH, THAT IS..
YOU LOW CAD! THE VERY IDEA OF YOU SNOOPING AROUND THIS DOOR SO LATE AT NIGHT. OH DON'T LOOK AS THOUGH YOU'D DENY IT. I HEARD YOU.
IMAGINE SUCH NERVE! PROWLING THROUGH THE HALLS WITH ONLY PAJAMAS AND A COAT ON. BAREFOOTED. YOU SNAKE!
SLAM
SORRY TO LEAVE YOU OUT THERE, BUT I HAD TO ACT IMPULSIVELY. AH WHAT A FIX WE'RE IN NOW. LET ME THINK..?
WHERE DO YOU GET THAT WE STUFF? YOU'RE THE ONE WHO'S....WAIT A MINUTE.
LISTEN, NOW THAT I THINK OF IT, I'M THE ONE WHO GOT THE WORST OF IT. YOUR WIFE THINKING I WAS SNOOPING AROUND YOUR DOOR AND...
OH ALL RIGHT. WHY ARGUE? I'VE GOT TO GET INTO MY HOUSE AND MIGHT AS WELL BE SHOT FOR A SHEEP AS A LAMB. COME WITH ME AND I'LL JUST BLURT OUT THE TRUTH TO THE LITTLE WOMAN.
REALLY, HOMER, I DON'T WANT YOU TO GO TOO FAR IN TAKING ALL THE BLAME. WHY DON'T YOU JUST TELL HER..?
PLEASE GEORGE, LET ME HANDLE THIS IN MY OWN WAY OR...
HERE SHE IS NOW.
AH HA! YOU HOME AT THIS TIME OF THE...
SUGAR, I'VE BEEN HOME FOR TWO HOURS....STANDING AT THE END OF THE HALL.... KEEPING MY EYE ON A PARTY WHO'S BEEN PROWLING THROUGH THESE HALLS TONIGHT.
AS FOR YOU, BUNGLE, I WARN YOU FOR THE THIRD TIME TO GO INTO YOUR OWN FLAT WHERE YOU BELONG AND STAY THERE!
ALSO, I'LL SEE YOU IN THE MORNING.
SLAM
WASN'T THAT THE MAN NEXTDOOR YOU WERE TALKING TO IN THE HALL JUST NOW? FOR ONCE HE GOT HOME LATE WITHOUT HAVING HIS WIFE ARGUE WITH HIM. THERE'S NOT A SOUND OUT OF THEM NOW.
LISTEN JO, GET ME UP REAL EARLY IN THE MORNING. I'VE GOT AN APPOINTMENT WITH THAT PHONY AND I DON'T WANT HIM TO MISS IT.

DID YOU EVER HEAR A DREAM TALKING?

SINCE EVIE GAVE ME THE AIR, I DO NOTHING MUCH BUT SIT HOME HERE AND TRY TO READ

THESE "B.O." ADS GIVE ME A BIG LAUGH. SO, I'M STILL A BACHELOR BECAUSE I MAY HAVE "B.O."? ROT!

YET EVIE ONCE SAID SHE COULDN'T STAND PEOPLE WITH "B.O." HO, HO, HUM.... I'M.. SLEEPY....ZZ...ZZ...

AND THIS IS WHAT HE DREAMED

FOOLISH, STUPID MAN LAUGHING AT "B.O." WHEN IT'S YOU WHO OFFEND

ALL A CRAZY DREAM! I COULDN'T OFFEND, STILL.....

GLAD I DECIDED TO TRY LIFEBUOY. SUCH RICH, REFRESHING LATHER—I'LL NEVER USE ANYTHING ELSE

NO "B.O." TO KILL EVIE'S INTEREST NOW

HOW LUCKY I AM TO MEET YOU HERE, EVIE! YOU REALLY OUGHT TO LET ME SEE YOU AGAIN—I'M NO GOOD AT ALL SINCE YOU THREW ME DOWN

ON THE CONTRARY, YOU'VE IMPROVED! HOW ABOUT LUNCH TOMORROW?

FLATTERER! YOU KNOW I'M NOT THE "PRETTIEST GIRL AT THIS PARTY"

WELL, YOU CERTAINLY HAVE THE PRETTIEST COMPLEXION. YOU CAN'T DENY THAT

HOW lovely her complexion! How simple its secret! Yes, she uses Lifebuoy, too—for face and hands as well as bath. Lifebuoy lather, oh, so gently deep-cleanses pores of hidden impurities. Keeps the skin fresh and sparkling.

"B.O." here in all weather

Even on cold days we perspire a quart—need Lifebuoy's extra protection against "B.O." (body odor). Lifebuoy lathers freely in hard or soft water—its fresh, clean scent quickly rinses away.

THE TWINS HELP MOTHER GET WHITER WASHES

WHAT ARE YOU TWO LAUGHING AT?

HA! HA!

WE PLAYED A TRICK ON MOTHER TODAY

SHE HAD A TOOTHACHE AND PUT OFF SCRUBBING THE CLOTHES 'TIL TOMORROW. AND SHE'S STILL AT THE DENTIST'S

SO WE DID THE WASH OURSELVES—WITH THIS NEW NO-WORK SOAP, RINSO. IT'S ON THE LINE NOW

THE CLOTHES ARE WHITE AS SNOW—COME AND SEE

YOU TWINS COULDN'T SCRUB A BIG WASH

THOSE TWINS WERE SMART LAST WEEK—I USED RINSO TODAY. IT'S WONDERFUL. I'M NOT AT ALL TIRED. THE CLOTHES ARE WHITER THAN EVER WITHOUT ANY SCRUBBING OR BOILING. AND FOR DISHES AND CLEANING, RINSO'S SUDS CAN'T BE BEATEN

DON'T wear out yourself and your clothes with washboard scrubbing. They'll last two or three times longer when soaked clean the gentle Rinso way. Try Rinso! You'll save money. Even in hardest water, Rinso gives rich, lasting, lively suds. Clothes come 4 or 5 shades whiter. Recommended by the makers of 34 leading washing machines. Safe for colors. Grand for dishes, all cleaning. Won't blacken aluminum. Easy on the hands. Approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

DID YOU GET THE JOB, BERT?

NOT YET. DON'T THINK I MADE MUCH OF A HIT. I'M TO DROP IN NEXT WEEK

TRY LIFEBUOY SHAVING CREAM. ITS EXTRA MOIST LATHER WILL GIVE YOU CLEAN, SMOOTH SHAVES AND NO SORE FACE EITHER

O.K. I'LL TRY ANYTHING

GOSH, WHAT LATHER! NEVER HAD SO CLEAN A SHAVE. SOOTHING, TOO. I'LL LOOK LIKE READY MONEY NEXT TIME I GO AFTER THAT JOB

Try it—it will give you the smoothest, easiest shave you ever had

Lifebuoy Shaving Cream lather holds 52% more moisture. It soaks tough beards soft—makes clear sailing for the razor. You get the quickest, cleanest, gentlest shave that ever crossed your face. Try it..

PLAY NUMBER ONE: A "bucket play" used in the delayed offense. 4 passes to 1, who may pass to either 4 or 5, who have headed for the basket. Or, 1 may pivot and dribble in for a shot at basket. Opponents of 4 and 5 are screened by 2 and 3, which leaves them open to cut for the basket, take a pass and shoot. Timing is all important his play.

PLAY NUMBER TWO: A "double pivot play." Again, the delayed offense. 2, 4 and 5 control passing of the ball until 1 roams beneath basket, giving 3 full control over center foul court. The ball is passed to 3, who makes overhead, side of pivot pass to 1. 1 has a chance for either a right or lefthand pivot shot at basket. A good center who can shoot with either hand should be used in the 1 post.

DO YOU THINK THE CAPTAIN'S IN A GOOD HUMOR-?
I NEVER SAW HIM IN A GOOD HUMOR IN MY LIFE - HE'S IN THERE AND HE WANTS TO SEE YOU-
NOW, YOUNG MAN! WHEN YOU HEARD THE MATE SHOUTING "ALL ASHORE THAT'S GOING ASHORE", WHY DIDN'T YOU GET OFF THE BOAT? IF IT WASN'T FOR THE YOUNG LADY WITH YOU, I'D PUT YOU IN IRONS-
YES, SIR-
HOW TO KEEP FROM GETTING OLD
I WONDER WHATS IN THIS BOTTLE- MAYBE IT'S COUGH MEDICINE- I'LL DRINK SOME AND FIND OUT-
BUT FOR HER SAKE, I'M SENDING YOU ASHORE WITH THE PILOT- YOU FAT-HEAD- GO TO THE SECOND OFFICER- HE'LL LET YOU KNOW WHEN THE PILOT LEAVES-
NOW GET OUT OF MY SIGHT-
YES, SIR-
HUH! HE TRIED TO ARGUE WITH ME. BUT I INSISTED ON LETTING US GO ASHORE WITH THE PILOT.
ARCHIE- YOU ARE THE MOST WONDERFUL MAN IN THE WORLD-

I THINK I HAD BETTER GIT ME MONEY OUT OF THAT VASE I HID IT IN- I DON'T WANT ANYONE TO SEE ME TAKIN' IT OUT-
MISS LOTTA PEPP WANTS ME TO JOIN HER AT BRIDGE TO-DAY- IT'S LUCKY I SAVED SOME MONEY AND HID IT IN A VASE- I'LL NEED IT- I'LL GO AND GET IT NOW-
I THINK I'LL GO SHOPPING TO-DAY. SO I'LL GO GET THAT MONEY I HID IN THE VASE IN THE LIBRARY-
OH, PSHAW! HERE COMES SOMEONE I'LL HAVE TO PRETEND I'M CLEANIN' IN HERE UNTIL THEY LEAVE-
OH! YOURE IN HERE! WHY, I THOUGHT YOU CLEANED UP IN HERE TWO DAYS AGO!
OH! BUT I DIDN'T FINISH THEN-
HUH! SORRY! I DIDN'T KNOW ANYONE WAS IN HERE-
I'M WAITING FOR LOUISA TO FINISH CLEANING- I'M GOING TO DO SOME READING-
I'M AFRAID IT'S GONNA TAKE A LONG TIME TO FINISH MRS. JIGGS
MOTHER! I THOUGHT YOU WERE GOING TO SHOP TO-DAY!
FOR GOODNESS SAKE- CAN'T I CHANGE MY MIND IF I WANT TO? LOUISA- THE PHONE IS RINGING- GO SEE WHO IT IS-
I CANT HEAR A WORD OVER THE 'PHONE- I'VE GOT A COLD-
MAYBE IT'S FOR YOU, MOTHER- BETTER GO ANSWER IT. I DON'T WANT TO TALK TO ANYONE IF IT'S FOR ME-
NEITHER DO I. YOU BETTER GO AND FIX UP YOUR ROOM IF YOU HAVE NOTHIN' TO DO-YOU KNOW, I COULD DO ME WORK BETTER IF YOU'D BOTH GET OUT OF HERE-
BY GOLLY! THEY'RE ALL WATCHIN' THAT VASE NOW I KNOW. THEY'VE ALL HID MONEY IN IT- WAIT UNTIL THEY FIND OUT. THAT IT'S EMPTY-
MR. WILLIE KICKBACK TO SEE YOU, MISS JIGGS, AND MRS. HEDDA HUNCH ON THE PHONE FOR MRS. JIGGS. THE GROCER IS AT THE DOOR TO SEE LOUISA-
TELL HIM I'M ILL-
AND I'M NOT IN TO ANY-ONE-
YOU TELL THE GROCER I CAN'T STOP ME WORK RIGHT NOW
WELL! I'M GOIN TO TAKE THIS VASE OUT TO THE KITCHEN AN' CLEAN IT-
BUT THIS VASE NEEDS CLEANIN-
NEVER MIND CLEANING IT- PUT IT BACK ON THE MANTEL-
DONT YOU DARE WASH THAT VASE- I'LL TAKE CHARGE OF THAT VASE- PUT IT BACK AND BE QUICK ABOUT IT-
BY GOLLY! THIS IS GONNA BE GOOD WHEN THEY FIND OUT ALL THAT MONEY IS GONE- WOW- WOW!

MUTT AND JEFF

By BUD FISHER

THERE'S A MOOSE! SHOOT, MUTT!
NO, NO! THOSE EYES AND THAT NOSE!
GO ON, SHOOT, MUTT! DON'T TELL ME YOU'RE GETTING SOFT-HEARTED!
NO, NO, I CAN'T DO IT! I CAN'T DO IT!
THAT MOOSE LOOKS TOO MUCH LIKE MY WIFE'S AUNT SOPHIE!
SH - NOT SO LOUD, MUTT! THE MOOSE MIGHT HEAR YOU!
YOU KNOW I BAGGED A MOOSE ONCE AND I DIDN'T CARE WHO IT LOOKED LIKE!
GO ON, YOU COULDN'T HIT THE SIDE OF A BARN!
OH, YEAH? WELL, WHEN I SHOT THAT MOOSE I MADE A DOUBLE HIT WITH ONLY ONE SHOT!
I SHOT THAT MOOSE THROUGH HIS LEFT HIND FOOT AND HIS HEAD, WITH ONLY ONE SHOT!
WHAT?
SURE! THE MOOSE HAD FLEAS AND WAS SCRATCHING HIS HEAD WITH HIS HIND FOOT!
GO ON NOW! I WANNA SEE IF IT'S POSSIBLE! SCRATCH YOUR HEAD WITH YOUR FOOT!
NIX, MUTT! I AIN'T GOT FLEAS!

WHEN YOUR GELATIN IS HOT .. SMELL IT!

Seven pure fruit flavors: Pineapple, Orange, Lemon, Lime, Strawberry, Raspberry and Cherry. Also the new Royal Gelatin Aspic (unsweetened) for jellied meats and salads. Try Royal Pudding, too. Two flavors: Chocolate and Vanilla.
